OFFICIAL MANUAL
STATE of MISSOURI
2015–2016

JASON KANDER
SECRETARY of STATE

Dear Fellow Missourians,

I am pleased to present the 2015–2016 Official Manual of the State of Missouri, more commonly known to most Missourians as the "Blue Book." For more than 130 years, the Blue Book has stood alone as the most comprehensive source of history and information about our state, and I am honored to continue this great tradition with the publication of the second and final volume from my administration.

Missouri's history and the work of countless public servants, including state employees and elected officials, have been collected in this book every other year since 1878. Within these pages you'll find extensive information on state government, as well as the names and faces of many folks who work day after day, year after year, to make sure our state government runs smoothly and efficiently.

What better way to honor the history of our state and the hard work of so many than by featuring photos from Missouri's many parks. No matter if you live in a small town, big city or can't see a neighbor for miles, you've probably enjoyed an afternoon in one of our 87 state parks, or countless municipal and county parks. Parks, in any incarnation, are part of all Missourians' common heritage and experience.

I'm pleased to dedicate the 2015–2016 "Blue Book" to the many parks that highlight our state's natural beauty or offer a quiet respite on a busy street. I hope you'll enjoy the many photographs of Missouri's parks displayed throughout the following pages, and that they inspire you to visit your favorite park or discover a new one.

Finally, this book represents the work of many talented and dedicated employees in the secretary of state's office. It takes nearly a year to produce the Blue Book, and this edition would not have been possible without the hard work of Julie Stegeman, Michael Douglas-Llyr, Jamie Crockett, Laura Swinford, Daniel Klote and Stephanie Fleming—thank you for this latest edition of Missouri's history.

Sincerely,

Jason Kander

Jason Kander

A Day at the Park

by Bill Bryan, Director of Missouri State Parks

Missourians love parks. We are blessed to have awesome state parks and historic sites, city parks, ballparks, dog parks, water parks, theme parks and skate parks. Our parks help us live happier and healthier lives, make our communities more beautiful and livable, preserve our cultural and natural heritage, provide opportunities for fun and learning and contribute to our economy. Who among us doesn't enjoy a day at the park?

A day at the park means different things to different people, but despite those differences, there is much common ground when it comes to parks. A park belongs to all of us and each of us. It is a place for friends and families to gather. A park is a place for fun. It is a place like no other.

Missourians have always been leaders when it comes to parks. In 1876, St. Louisans opened their beloved Forest Park, and Kansas Citians followed soon after with the ever-popular Swope Park. After more than 125 years, these Missouri masterpieces are still two of the nation's most outstanding urban parks. Each is nearly twice the size of New York City's famed Central Park and offers many different opportunities for city residents and visitors to enjoy their leisure time. It wasn't until later that Missourians looked outside of cities and saw the potential and need for state parks. When they did, they again helped lead the nascent state park movement in America.

Public interest in a state park system first began to blossom in Missouri in 1907. After years of public conversation, state legislators introduced a bill to create a state park system. Although the bill did not pass, interest continued to grow, and seven years later, a committee of six senators travelled four days by train, automobile, wagon and on foot, evaluating proposed sites for parks. One of those special places was the site of what is now Ha Ha Tonka State Park, which was established 60 years later. In 2015, Ha Ha Tonka State Park was recognized as one of the five best state parks in America.

In 1916, U.S. Congress established the National Park Service. On April 9, 1917, the Missouri General Assembly passed legislation creating the state park fund and Missouri had a state park system. In 1924, Missouri established Big Spring State Park, the state's very first. Over the next several years, the park system grew rapidly and Missourians were excited about the movement. When Meramec State Park opened in 1928, the park's dedication drew 10,000 visitors.

In 1924, Missouri established Big Spring State Park, the state's very first.

In the 1930s, the Missouri state park system went through its most significant period of change and development. Beginning in 1933, under the direction of President Franklin Roosevelt, Congress authorized many federal public works programs to help alleviate the unemployment problem associated with the Great Depression.

The program that meant the most to Missouri's state park system was the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), an organization providing jobs for young men between the ages of 18 and 25. By 1934, some 4,000 men were employed in Missouri to complete both conservation and construction work in national and state forests and state parks. Projects ranged from construction of dining lodges, picnic shelters, cabins and campgrounds, to installation of sewer lines. Today, the legacy of the CCC lives on thanks to State Parks Youth Corps (SPYC), a nationally recognized jobs initiative created by Governor Jay Nixon in 2010 to enhance Missouri's 87 state parks and historical sites. The program challenges young people to "think outside" by working at parks and historic sites throughout the state.

The state park system has continued to grow and represent the major natural and cultural heritage themes of Missouri. As Missouri entered the 1980s, the state's economy declined as the entire nation experienced a recession. This recession led to reduced state revenues and mandatory cuts in the budget for the state park system. At this same time, federal revenue sharing and Land and Water Conservation Funds important to state and local parks also were being greatly reduced. A solution was needed to meet the impending fiscal crisis.

In 1984, Missouri voters again showed their support by approving a sales tax to be used for state parks and soil and water conservation efforts in Missouri. Funds from the one-tenth-of-one-percent sales tax are divided equally between the two programs, both of which are administered by the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. The tax has been renewed three times and will expire in 2016 if not re-authorized by voters. The sales tax has made our state park system the envy of the nation.

Today, Missouri's state park system contains 87 state parks and has been repeatedly ranked as one of the top four systems in the nation. With more than 145,000 acres available to the public, the state park system has something to fit everyone's needs. A total of 1,000 miles of trail provide opportunities for hikers, backpackers, bicyclists, equestrians and even kayakers. There are campgrounds, picnic areas, beaches and boat ramps for water access for fishing and boating. Lodging facilities, restaurants, stores and visitor centers make visits more convenient and memorable, and are located in some of Missouri's most spectacular landscapes of deep forests, sunny prairies and refreshing lakes and streams.

Missouri's state park system contains 87 state parks and has been repeatedly ranked as one of the top four systems in the nation.

In 2015, Governor Nixon announced that Missouri State Parks had record attendance, with more than 18.5 million guests, representing a nearly 25 percent increase since 2008. Parks also noted a 5.1 percent increase in camping occupancy at the 40 state parks and historic sites that offer almost 3,600 campsites. The park system noted an important increase in youth camping. A total of 26 percent of campers who stayed the night in a state park were under 18. This strong growth trend is evidence that people love our parks and that we are doing a good job taking care of these treasures, thanks to innovative programs, a dedicated and talented staff and Governor Nixon's unparalleled support for state parks.

Even with outstanding programs and beautiful facilities, not everyone has the "outdoor bug." Fortunately, our state and local parks also preserve our rich cultural heritage as well as natural landscapes. Historic sites allow people to experience history—not just read about it. There is no better way to understand our culture than to see it firsthand. Visitors learn about prehistory at places like Mastodon State Historic Site, experience the American Indian Cultural Center at Van Meter State Park, better understand the Civil War at places like Battle of Island Mound State Historic Site, explore the Negro Leagues Baseball Museum and learn about a favorite son of Missouri at Thomas Hart Benton Home and Studio State Historic Site. Our culture is diverse, and so is the history interpreted in our state, private and local parks.

Parks aren't just limited to those who enjoy time on land. Many formative memories are created drifting down a river on a canoe or raft. From the Ozark's pristine floating streams, to large, man-made lakes, water recreation is an important part of spending time outdoors in Missouri. Our crystal-clear waterways provide opportunities for visitors of all ages to paddle, boat, fish and swim.

Missouri's park legacy goes far beyond state parks, and includes nearly every city and town in the Show-Me State. Whether you live in a big city, small town or the country, chances are you've been to the ballpark. If not to see the Royals or the Cardinals, then to enjoy watching a son, daughter, niece, nephew or grandchild play ball. There's not a bad seat in the house at the local ball diamond.

Long before taking the field, for many of us, the playground at a local park provided opportunities to grow stronger, acquire socialization skills and simply enjoy the day. Parks are more than just a place to play: They are important community elements that help make us better people. No matter your age, a day at the park will make you happier and healthier.

In fact, there is medical evidence that is well-established and convincing–a park a day can help keep the doctor away. Spending time outdoors relieves symptoms of anxiety and depression, improves mood and elevates a person's psychological well-being. A walk in the park increases strength, endurance and agility, reducing problems associated with obesity, such as high blood pressure and diabetes. Parks are essential to a healthy Missouri.

In addition to local and state parks, there are also private parks operated by non-profit foundations and some maintained by businesses. Six Flags, Worlds of Fun and Silver Dollar City provide opportunities for family fun that can't be found anywhere else. While adventure can always be found in a park, it doesn't have to be a roller coaster. If you're looking for excitement, it can be found in parks all over the state. Zip-lines, high ropes courses, archery tag, paintball, skateboarding and mountain biking opportunities are increasingly easy to find in Missouri. City, state and county parks, as well as places like the Two Rivers Mountain Bike Park near Ozark, provide many choices for mountain biking for different skill levels. Zip- lines also can be found around the state in local and private parks. The Internet is a great way to find relevant recreation alternatives that may help someone you know enjoy a day in the park, regardless of their interest. One of the challenges for parks is to remain relevant as our society evolves: Providing new recreation choices is critical to the future of parks.

Another challenge is to develop more parks to provide additional opportunities for all Missourians to enjoy the benefits of spending time outdoors. Unlike most states, Missouri does not charge an admission fee to enjoy a state park. This means that our park system is far more accessible to all Missourians than most states. In fact, a park is democracy at its finest. No matter who you are or where you live or work, you are always welcome in Missouri state parks.

One of the challenges for parks is to remain relevant as our society evolves: Providing new recreation choices is critical to the future of parks.

There still are obstacles for some, however, and solutions are needed to better ensure social equity and provide access to everyone, regardless of their ability. Building the park estate is one way to provide greater access to these critical public services and the inherent benefits. Programs that provide transportation to a park, teach people how to enjoy parks and encourage visits by people who haven't used parks before are also important strategies to ensure that parks serve all Missourians.

Since taking office in 2009, Governor Nixon has made increasing access to state parks for Missouri families a priority. This means expanding the state park system. Examples of these efforts range from developing the property formerly known as Camp Zoe into a new state park, to efforts that are on pace to complete the extension of the Katy Trail from Windsor to Pleasant Hill through Rock Island Trail State Park in 2016.

Parks are critical to the future of our state. Parks are a public service, every bit as vital as livable roads and streets, effective wastewater treatment and safe drinking water. Parks add immeasurably to the quality of life we enjoy. Instead of thinking of parks as a luxury or amenity, we need to value them for the multitude of vital public service benefits they provide to us. As our population continues to grow and become increasingly urban, parks become even more important to our general welfare. Most of us do not have the resources to build and maintain our own park system, but collectively, we own the nation's very best system of state and local parks. The benefits we enjoy from parks far outweigh the cost of having parks in our communities. Indeed, we cannot afford life without a day at the park.

No matter where you live in Missouri, you've likely visited one of our many state and local parks, explored state historical sites or spent a fun afternoon at a sports or theme park. Some of my favorite memories growing up were spent at local sports parks playing Little League.

In celebration of Missouri's fantastic state and local parks, this year's statewide photo contest asked amateur and professional photographers alike to capture the beauty and tranquility offered at our many parks. A committee from the secretary of state's office narrowed down hundreds of outstanding entries from all over the state to three photos in each category:

State and Local Parks

Sports and Theme Parks

State Historical Sites

Thousands of Missourians weighed in to choose the final winners. You'll find in the following pages, that this year's strong entries show the amazing diversity and beauty of our state and its residents. Thank you to all the Missourians who submitted photos, and congratulations to those whose entries were selected for printing in this historic volume.

Sincerely,

Jason Kander

State Symbols of Missouri

The Great Seal of Missouri

The Great Seal was designed by Judge Robert William Wells and adopted by the Missouri General Assembly on January 11, 1822. The center of the state seal is composed of two parts. On the right is the United States coat-of-arms containing the bald eagle. In its claws are arrows and olive branches, signifying that the power of war and peace lies with the U.S. federal government. On the left side of the shield, the state side, are a grizzly bear and a silver crescent moon. The crescent symbolizes Missouri at the time of the state seal's creation, a state of small population and wealth which would increase like the new or crescent moon; it also symbolizes the "second son," meaning Missouri was the second state formed out of the Louisiana Territory.

This shield is encircled by a belt inscribed with the motto, "United we stand, divided we fall," which indicates Missouri's advantage as a member of the United States. The two grizzlies on either side of the shield symbolize the state's strength and its citizens' bravery. The bears stand atop a scroll bearing the state motto, "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto," which means, "The welfare of the people shall be the supreme law." Below this scroll are the Roman numerals for 1820, the year Missouri began its functions as a state.

The helmet above the shield represents state sovereignty, and the large star atop the helmet surrounded by 23 smaller stars signifies Missouri's status as the 24th state. The cloud around the large star indicates the problems Missouri had in becoming a state. The whole state seal is enclosed by a scroll bearing the words, "The Great Seal of the State of Missouri." (RSMo 10.060)

Missouri Day

On March 22, 1915, the 48th General Assembly set aside the first Monday in October each year as "Missouri Day," due to the efforts of Mrs. Anna Brosius Korn, a native Missourian. In 1969, the 75th General Assembly changed the date to the third Wednesday in October. Missouri Day is a time for schools to honor the state and for the people of the state to celebrate the achievements of all Missourians. (RSMo 9.040)

The State Flag

Nearly 100 years after achieving statehood, Missouri adopted an official flag on March 22, 1913. The flag was designed by the late Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Watkins Oliver, wife of former State Senator R.B. Oliver. The flag consists of three horizontal stripes of red, white and blue. These represent valor, purity, vigilance and justice. In the center white stripe is the Missouri coat-of-arms, circled by a blue band containing 24 stars, denoting that Missouri was the 24th state. The Oliver flag embraced national pride, and at the same time expressed characteristics of Missouri and Missourians.

The three large stripes were symbolic of the people of the state—the blue stripe represented vigilance, permanency and justice, the red represented valor, and the white stripe symbolized purity. The Missouri coat-of-arms appeared in the center of the flag, signifying both Missouri's independence as a state, and its place as a part of the whole United States. Having the coat-of-arms in the center of the national colors represents Missouri, as it is—the geographical center of the nation. By mingling the state coat-of-arms with the national colors of red, white and blue, the flag signified the harmony existing between the two. Twenty-four stars surrounded the coat-of-arms, representative of Missouri's position as the 24th state admitted to the Union. (RSMo 10.020)

The State Floral Emblem

On March 16, 1923, a bill was signed naming the white hawthorn blossom the official state floral emblem of Missouri. Known as the "red haw" or "white haw," the hawthorn (Crataegus) is a member of the great rose family, which resembles the apple group. The hawthorn blossoms have greenish-yellow centers and form in white clusters. More than 75 species of the hawthorn grow in Missouri, particularly in the Ozarks. (RSMo 10.030)

The State Bird

On March 30, 1927, the native bluebird (Sialia Sialis) became the official state bird of Missouri. The bluebird, considered a symbol of happiness, is usually 6½ to 7 inches long. While its upper parts are covered with light blue plumage, its breast is cinnamon red, turning rust-colored in the fall. The bluebird is common in Missouri from early spring until late November. (RSMo 10.010)

The State Tree

On June 20, 1955, the flowering dogwood (Cornus Florida L.) became Missouri's official tree. The tree is small in size, rarely growing over 40 feet in height or 18 inches in diameter. The dogwood sprouts tiny greenish-yellow flowers in clusters, with each flower surrounded by four white petals. The paried, oval leaves are olive green above and covered with silvery hairs underneath. In the fall, the upper part of the leaves turn scarlet or orange and bright red fruits grow on the tree. (RSMo 10.040)

The State Song

The "Missouri Waltz" became the state song under an act adopted by the General Assembly on June 30, 1949. The song came from a melody by John V. Eppel and was arranged by Frederic Knight Logan, using lyrics written by J.R. Shannon. First published in 1914, the song did not sell well and was considered a failure. By 1939, the song had gained popularity and six million copies had been sold. Sales increased substantially after Missourian Harry S Truman became president. (RSMo 10.050)

The State Mineral

On July 21, 1967, the mineral galena was adopted as the official mineral of Missouri. Galena is the major source of lead ore, and the recognition of this mineral by the state legislature was to emphasize Missouri's status as the nation's top producer of lead. Galena is dark gray in color and breaks into small cubes. Mining of galena has flourished in the Joplin-Granby area of southwest Missouri, and rich deposits have been located in such places as Crawford, Washington, Iron and Reynolds counties. (RSMo 10.047)

The State Rock

Mozarkite was adopted as the official state rock on July 21, 1967, by the 74th General Assembly. An attractive rock, mozarkite appears in a variety of colors, most predominantly green, red or purple. The rock's beauty is enhanced by cutting and polishing into ornamental shapes for jewelry. Mozarkite is most commonly found in Benton County. (RSMo 10.045)

The State Insect

On July 3, 1985, the honeybee was designated as Missouri's state insect. The honeybee, (Apis Mellifera) yellow or orange and black in color, is a social insect which collects nectar and pollen from flower blossoms in order to produce honey. The honeybee is common to Missouri and is cultivated by beekeepers for honey production. (RSMo 10.070)

The State Musical Instrument

The fiddle became the state's official musical instrument on July 17, 1987. Brought to Missouri in the late 1700s by fur traders and settlers, the fiddle quickly became popular. The instrument was adaptable to many forms of music, could be played without extensive formal training and was light and easy to carry. For generations, the local fiddle player was the sole source of entertainment in many communities and held a position of great respect in the region. (RSMo 10.080)

The State Fossil

The crinoid became the state's official fossil on June 16, 1989, after a group of Lee's Summit school students worked through the legislative process to promote it as a state symbol. The crinoid (Delocrinus missouriensis) is a mineralization of an animal which, because of its plant-like appearance, was called the "sea lily." Related to the starfish, the crinoid which covered Missouri lived in the ocean more than 250 million years ago. (RSMo 10.090)

The State Tree Nut

The nut produced by the black walnut tree (Juglans Nigra), known as the eastern black walnut, became the state tree nut on July 9, 1990. The nut has a variety of uses. The meat is used in ice cream, baked goods and candies. The shell provides the soft grit abrasive used in metal cleaning and polishing, and oil well drilling. It is also used in paint products and as a filler in dynamite. (RSMo 10.100)

The State Animal

On May 31, 1995, the Missouri mule was designated as the official state animal. The mule is a hybrid, the offspring of a mare (female horse) and a jack (male donkey). After its introduction to the state in the 1820s, the mule quickly became popular with farmers and settlers because of its hardy nature. Missouri mules pulled pioneer wagons to the Wild West during the 19th century and played a crucial role in moving troops and supplies in World Wars I and II. For decades, Missouri was the nation's premier mule producer. (RSMo 10.110)

The State American Folk Dance

The square dance was adopted as Missouri's official American folk dance on May 31, 1995. Square dances are derived from folk and courtship dances brought to the United States by European immigrants. Lively music and callers are hallmarks of square dancing. The caller directs the dancers by singing the names of figures and steps to be performed. (RSMo 10.120)

The State Aquatic Animal

The paddlefish (Polyodon Spathula) became Missouri's official aquatic animal on May 23, 1997. Only three rivers in Missouri support substantial populations of the paddlefish: the Mississippi, Missouri and the Osage. They are also present in some of the state's larger lakes. The paddlefish is primitive, with a cartilage skeleton, rather than bone. They commonly exceed five feet in length and weights of 60 pounds; 20-year olds are common, and some live 30 years or more. (RSMo 10.130)

The State Fish

On May 23, 1997, the channel catfish became the official fish of Missouri. The channel catfish (Ictalurus Punctatus) is slender, with a deeply forked tail. Young have spots that disappear with age. The catfish does not rely on sight to find its food; instead, it uses cat-like whiskers to assist in the hunt. The channel cat is the most abundant large catfish in Missouri streams. Its diet includes animal and plant material. Adults are normally 12 to 32 inches long and weigh from a half-pound to 15 pounds. (RSMo 10.135)

The State Horse

On June 4, 2002, the Missouri fox trotting horse became Missouri's official state horse. Missouri fox trotters were developed in the rugged Ozark hills of Missouri during the early 19th century. Bloodlines can be traced from early settlers to Missouri from the neighboring states of Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee and Arkansas. The distinguishing characteristic of the fox trotter is its rhythmic gait, in which the horse walks with the front feet and trots with the hind feet. This gait gives the rider a smooth gentle ride. (RSMo 10.140)

The State Grape

On July 11, 2003, the Norton/Cynthiana grape (Vitis Aestivalis) was adopted as the official state grape. This adaptable, self-pollinating variety has been cultivated since the 1830s and is likely North America's oldest grape variety still commercially grown. Norton/Cynthiana has long been prized by Missouri vintners for its hardy growth habit and intense flavor characteristics, which produce lush, dry premium red wines of world-class quality and distinction. (RSMo 10.160)

The State Dinosaur

Hypsibema missouriense is a type of dinosaur called a Hadrosaur or "duck billed" dinosaur. It was an herbivore with jaws that contained more than 1,000 teeth. Hypsibema had evolved specialized teeth to handle the tough, fibrous vegetation of the time. Hypsibema lived in Missouri during the Late Cretaceous Period. Hypsibema was first discovered in 1942 by Dan Stewart, near the town of Glen Allen, Mo., and became the state's offical dinosaur on July 9, 2004. (RSMo 10.095)

The State Amphibian

On June 5, 2005, the American Bullfrog (Rana catesbeiana) became the official state amphibian. The bullfrog is the largest frog native to Missouri and is found in every county. Most Missourians are familiar with the deep, resonant "jug-of-rum" call, which is typically heard on warm, rainy nights between mid-May and early July. The idea for the bullfrog designation came from a fourth grade class at Chinn Elementary School in Kansas City. (RSMo 10.170)

The State Game Bird

The bobwhite quail (Colinus virginianus), also known as the northern bobwhite, became the official state game bird on July 13, 2007. The northern bobwhite is found throughout Missouri in a variety of habitats. In the fall and winter, northern bobwhites form loose social groups better known as a covey. A covey will generally contain 10 to 12 quail, but can have as many as 20 or 30 birds. The familiar two- or three-note "bobwhite" whistle is made by males in the spring and summer to attract females. (RSMo 10.012).

The State Invertebrate

On June 21, 2007, the crayfish (also known as crawfish and crawdad) became the official state invertebrate. Crayfish are an important food source for Missouri fishes. Missouri supports more than 30 species of crayfish (including seven species that occur nowhere else in the world). Crayfish are found in every county of the state and contribute to our unique biodiversity and conservation heritage. The nomination of crayfish for state invertebrate came from Mrs. Janna Elfrink's elementary school class in Reeds Spring, Missouri. (RSMo 10.125)

The State Reptile

On June 21, 2007, the three-toed box turtle (Terrapene carolina triunguis) became the official state reptile. Most Missourians are familiar with this land-dwelling turtle. Three-toed box turtles, as their name implies, typically have three hind toes. The hinged bottom shell allows the turtle to retreat inside as if enclosed in a box. Males have red eyes and females have brown eyes. (RSMo 10.175).

The State Grass

Big bluestem (Andropogon gerardii) was designated as Missouri's stategrass on June 11, 2007, as a result of efforts by the fourth-grade class at Truman Elementary School in Rolla. Big bluestem is native to Missouri and occurs throughout the state, with the exception of a few southeastern-most counties. It is a major component of Missouri's tallgrass prairies where it impressed the first explorers by sometimes growing tall enough to hide a person on horseback. The name bluestem comes from the bluish-green color of the leaves and stems that turn an attractive reddish-copper color in autumn. (RSMo 10.150).

The State Dessert

The ice cream cone became the state of Missouri's official dessert on August 28, 2008. The 1904 World's Fair in St Louis was the birthplace of the treat and has become a staple at many community events across the state, such as the State Fair. The University of Missouri–Columbia has played a large role in the development of ice cream products for over a century. Missouri presently ranks tenth in ice cream production. (RSMo 10.180).

The State Symbol for Child Abuse Prevention

The blue ribbon became the state of Missouri's official symbol for child abuse prevention on August 28, 2012. It is a symbol of efforts to increase awareness of the prevalence and warning signs of child abuse and the prevention methods and measures available to reduce the incidence of child abuse in Missouri. (RSMo 10.185).

The State Exercise

The jumping jack exercise was invented by Missouri-born Army General John J. "Black Jack" Pershing as a training drill for cadets when he taught at West Point in the late 1800s. The idea for the jumping jack designation came from students at Pershing Elementary School in St. Joseph. (RSMo 10.115)

Jeremiah W. (Jay) Nixon

Governor

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2017

JAY NIXON (Democrat) is serving his second term as governor of Missouri. After garnering the highest margin of victory for a non-incumbent governor in 44 years when first elected in 2008, Nixon was re-elected by Missourians as their 55th governor in 2012 to continue creating jobs and moving the state forward.

As governor, Jay Nixon has worked to make government more efficient, effective and responsive to the needs of Missouri families. He is committed to maintaining fiscal discipline, creating jobs, growing the economy and investing in public education.

As he did in the state Senate and during four terms as attorney general, Governor Nixon is reaching across the aisle to put Missouri families first. He successfully worked with the legislature to pass several jobs initiatives, including a bill credited with saving Missouri's auto industry and creating thousands of good manufacturing jobs. As a result, Ford, General Motors and automotive suppliers around the state have invested billions of dollars and created thousands of jobs to build next-generation vehicles and parts in the Show-Me State.

Just as Missouri families have to do at home, Governor Nixon has made the tough choices necessary to balance the budget every year without raising taxes. The governor's commitment to fiscal discipline has helped protect Missouri's AAA credit rating, while enabling smart investments to improve education, expand access to mental health services and help communities struck by disasters rebuild and recover.

Governor Nixon has made a strong public education system one of his chief priorities. Under his leadership, Missouri's public elementary and secondary schools have received record funding, and test scores and graduation rates have gone up. Similarly, even as other states were raising tuition by double digits, Missouri has led the nation in holding down tuition increases at public universities.

He has been a strong supporter of the Missouri National Guard and Missourians serving in the military, creating the Show-Me Heroes program to help returning veterans find jobs here at home and enacting a dedicated source of funding for veterans homes. A member of the President's Council of Governors, Governor Nixon has made multiple trips to Iraq and Afghanistan to visit with troops and be briefed on military operations.

Nixon has visited each of Missouri's 87 state parks and historic sites to help promote them as recreational destinations, with a goal of reaching 20 million visitors by 2020. He also began the State Parks Youth Corps to beautify the parks and put young people to work. Governor Nixon is an avid hunter and fisherman, and after Missouri was named the "Best Trails State" in America in 2013, both he and the first lady led the 100 Missouri Miles Challenge to encourage Missourians to spend more time getting active outdoors.

Prior to becoming governor, Jay Nixon was elected to a record four terms as Missouri's attorney general. His settlements with the insurance industry and hospitals led to the formation of two of the largest health care foundations in state history. One of Nixon's most successful programs, Missouri's popular No-Call List, has become a model for states across the nation to stop unwanted telemarketing calls.

A native of De Soto, Nixon was raised in a family of public servants. His mother, the late Betty Nixon, was a teacher and served as president of the local school board. His father, Jerry Nixon, was mayor of De Soto and a municipal judge.

Growing up in a home with these strong examples, Nixon learned at a young age that faith and family come first—and giving back to the community comes next. That philosophy has guided him throughout his career in public service.

After earning his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Missouri, Nixon returned to De Soto to practice as an attorney. In 1986, he was elected to the Missouri Senate, where he would represent the people of Jefferson County for six years.

Governor Nixon and his wife, Georganne Wheeler Nixon, have two sons, Jeremiah and Willson. They belong to the First United Methodist Church in Jefferson City.

Qualifications

The chief executive officer of the state of Missouri must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for at least 15 years and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected governor.

The governor is elected to a four-year term during the same year as a presidential election and may seek re-election to a second four-year term. No person may hold the office for more than two terms.

Responsibilities

The governor appoints the members of all boards and commissions, all department heads in state government and fills all vacancies in public offices unless otherwise provided by law. The board members of Missouri's state universities and colleges are appointed by the governor. The governor also selects the members of the Supreme and Appellate Courts of Missouri from names submitted by the Appellate Judicial Commission. The governor appoints members to certain election boards, the Kansas City police board and the Board of Probation and Parole. Most appointments require the advice and consent of the Senate.

The governor addresses the General Assembly on the state of the State and recommends changes or other actions to be taken. A budget is submitted by the governor to the General Assembly within 30 days after the General Assembly convenes. The budget contains the governor's estimates of available state revenues and an itemized plan for proposed expenditures.

All bills passed by both houses of the legislature are submitted to the governor for consideration. The governor must return the legislation to the house of its inception within 15 days after receiving it. The governor may either approve a bill, making it law, or return it to the legislature with objections. When the legislature is adjourned, the governor has 45 days in which to consider a bill.

The governor may object to one or more items or portions of items of an appropriations bill while approving other items or portions of the appropriations bill. Upon signing the appropriations bill, appended to it is a statement of the items or portions of items to which there are objections and such items or portions will not take effect. The governor may control the rate of expenditure in other areas whenever the actual revenues are less than the revenue estimates upon which the appropriations were based.

In addition to other duties, the governor is a member of a number of boards and commissions, such as the Board of Public Buildings and the State Board of Fund Commissioners.

Moreover, the governor is the conservator of peace throughout Missouri and is commander-in-chief of the state's militia. The militia may be called out to execute laws, suppress threats of danger to the state and prevent and repel invasion.

Missouri's First Lady

Like the governor, First Lady Georganne Wheeler Nixon earned her undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Missouri–Columbia. Her support of Governor Nixon's call for strong public education in Missouri comes naturally: her father, the late Hubert Wheeler, served as Missouri's first commissioner of education; her mother and grandmother were both teachers; and Mrs. Nixon herself has taught in public schools.

Mrs. Nixon is an outdoor enthusiast who has helped lead the Governor's 100 Missouri Miles Challenge, an initiative launched by the governor and the first lady to encourage families to enjoy Missouri's outdoors as part of an active lifestyle. Mrs. Nixon also has actively promoted the state's 85 parks and historic sites as vacation destinations and as a way to learn more about Missouri. She also gardens, and has planted a vegetable and herb garden on the mansion grounds.

An avid supporter of the arts and literature, the first lady often goes to schools and libraries to read to children as a way of encouraging literacy for both children and adults. Mrs. Nixon also serves as honorary chair for Missouri Citizens for the Arts and presents the Missouri Art Education Association awards to young artists whose artworks are selected to be on display at the Capitol and in the Missouri Governor's Mansion.

Missouri Governor's Mansion

The Missouri Governor's Mansion serves as the official residence of Governor Jay Nixon and First Lady Georganne Nixon. The first family extends an invitation to all Missourians to tour "the people's house," which in 2014 hosted more than 37,000 visitors.

First occupied by Governor G. Gratz Brown and his family in 1872, this stately three-story brick building is one of the oldest and most beautifully restored governors' homes in the United States. Built and finished in the Renaissance Revival style, the entry consists of an imposing portico with four dignified pink granite columns. A Victorian atmosphere greets visitors as they enter the great hall with its 17-foot ceilings, a rare free-flowing staircase of solid walnut and one of the best collections of period furnishings in the country. Missouri first ladies' portraits are featured throughout the mansion, along with loaned works of art created by the world-famous Missouri artist George Caleb Bingham. Designed by George Ingham Barnett of St. Louis, the mansion is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Since moving to the mansion, the Nixons have added a vegetable and herb garden. Baker Creek Heirloom Seed Company, of Mansfield, Mo., has provided heirloom seeds for the garden. Food grown in the garden is used in meals served at the mansion, and Mrs. Nixon enjoys encouraging schoolchildren to start their own gardens. The Missouri Botanical Gardens and Powell Gardens provided assistance in planning the garden at the mansion. The mansion grounds also contain apple trees, cherry trees and berry bushes planted in 2014 by Stark Bro's Nurseries in honor of former Gov. Lloyd Stark

[1]At the time of the elections of McNair, Bates and Williams, and of the first election of Miller in 1825, there were no organized political parties in Missouri. Individual popularity prevailed. All called themselves Jeffersonian Republicans, or what now are called Democrats.
[2]Marmaduke was elected Lt. Governor in 1840. Upon the death of Governor Thomas Reynolds in February 1844, Marmaduke became governor. He served the remainder of that year, because John Cummins Edwards was elected.
[3]Soon after Polk was inaugurated, the Legislature convened and elected him by 101 votes to be a U.S. Senator. He resigned to take that office in February 1857. His occupancy of the governor's office was shorter than any other governor of Missouri.
[4]Jackson was Lt. Governor under Polk and became acting governor after Polk resigned in February 1857. He served until October of that year when Robert Stewart took office. Stewart was elected at a special election in August 1857.
[5]Gamble was elected provisional governor by the Missouri State Convention on July 31, 1861. The office had been declared vacated after Governor Claiborne Fox Jackson joined the Confederacy.
[6]Unionist. [7]Radical. [8]Liberal.
[9]Gov. Stephens is credited with creating the State Fair in Sedalia.

[11]Wilson became Missouri's 52nd governor on October 17, 2000, upon the death of Governor Mel Carnahan.

Peter D. Kinder

Lieutenant Governor

Elected November 2, 2004

Term expires January 2017

PETER D. KINDER (Republican) was elected Missouri's 46th lieutenant governor on November 2, 2004. On November 4, 2008, he was re-elected to a second term and on November 6, 2012, he became only the second Missourian in state history to win the office three times, carrying 108 of Missouri's 114 counties.

Prior to his election as lieutenant governor, Kinder served for 12 years in the Missouri Senate, representing the counties of Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Madison, Mississippi, Perry and Scott. In 2001, Republicans gained a majority in the Senate. As a result, Kinder's colleagues elected him president pro tem, the Senate's top elected official. He was the first Republican to hold that position in 53 years.

As lieutenant governor, Kinder is the official senior advocate for Missouri, and during his Senate service he was known for his work on behalf of the state's senior residents. He sponsored and passed the Elderly Protection Act of 2003, which increased the penalties for elder abuse crimes. With his leadership, Missouri crafted the Missouri Senior Rx plan, providing prescription drug coverage for the poorest seniors. In 2006, Lt. Gov. Kinder was instrumental in passing the Assisted Living Bill, a top priority for many senior advocacy groups. This legislation gives seniors more options and choice in the type of long-term care facility they want to call home.

Kinder has led the fight on issues affecting Missouri's veterans. In 2005, he proposed and helped to pass the Missouri Military Family Relief Fund, which benefits family members of the Missouri National Guard and Reserve personnel who have been called to active duty.

Kinder coordinated the Missouri Mentor Initiative, a program that encourages state employees to mentor children by receiving up to 40 hours a year in paid time off to volunteer. He also ensured funding for the Amachi Program that assists Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Missouri to mentor children whose parents are incarcerated in Missouri prisons.

The lieutenant governor is a member of several boards and commissions including the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Housing Development Commission, the Board of Public Buildings and the Missouri Tourism Commission.

Born and raised in Cape Girardeau, Kinder attended Cape Girardeau Public Schools and continued his education at Southeast Missouri State University and the University of Missouri–Columbia. He graduated from St. Mary's University School of Law in San Antonio, Texas, in 1979, and was admitted to the Missouri Bar in 1980.

From 1981 to 1983, Kinder was a member of U.S. Rep. Bill Emerson's Washington, D.C. staff and then worked as an attorney and real estate representative for Drury Industries. In 1987, he became associate publisher of the Southeast Missourian newspaper in Cape Girardeau.

Kinder is a member of the United Methodist Church, Beta Theta Pi social fraternity, Missouri Farm Bureau, Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club. He is active in many civic causes, including extensive work with United Way, the Nature Conservancy, the American Cancer Society and Boy Scouts of America.

Kinder has been honored by various groups including: Missouri Right to Life, Defender of Life; National Rifle Association; University of Missouri, Presidential Citation Award; National Scouting Association Distinguished Eagle Scout Award; St. Louis Children's Hospital, SSM Cardinal Glennon Hosdpital, and Children's Mercy of K.C.; March of Dimes; Southeast Missouri State University Alumni Association Distinguished Service Award; St. Louis Business Journal Legislative Award; Support Your Troops Committee Award; Missouri Farm Bureau Outstanding Service to Agriculture; St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association Lewis and Clark Statesman Award for Outstanding Leadership; Missouri Restaurant Association Distinguished Service; Associated Industries of Missouri Voice of Missouri Business; Southeast Missouri Alliance for Disability Independence; SSM Cardinal Glennon Hospital Child Advocate Award; National Federation of Independent Businesses, Guardian of Small Business; Missouri State Medical Association; and Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry Spirit of Enterprise.

Qualifications

Missouri's lieutenant governor must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for at least 15 years and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected to the office. The lieutenant governor is elected for a four-year term and is subject to re-election.

Duties

The lieutenant governor is the only statewide elected official that is part of both the executive and legislative branches of state government. Under the constitution, the lieutenant governor is ex officio president of the Missouri Senate. The lieutenant governor is elected independently from the governor, and each can be members of different political parties. Upon the governor's death, conviction, impeachment, resignation, absence from the state or other disabilities, the lieutenant governor shall act as governor. By law, the lieutenant governor is a member of the Board of Public Buildings, Board of Fund Commissioners, Missouri Development Finance Board, Missouri Community Service Commission, Missouri Housing Development Commission and the Tourism Commission. The lieutenant governor is an adviser to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education on early childhood education and the Parents-as-Teachers program and the state's official advocate for senior citizens.

Roles of the Office

In recent years, the lieutenant governor has embraced more responsibilities, especially relating to seniors, veterans, tourism and service. These modern developments have made the lieutenant governor more visible and accessible to Missourians. The many boards and commissions on which the lieutenant governor serves provide numerous opportunities to help Missouri citizens. These boards and commissions cover a wide variety of functions for Missouri's diverse population.

By statute, the lieutenant governor is the official senior advocate for the State of Missouri. This office investigates problems and issues on behalf of senior citizens. The lieutenant governor's office works very closely with the Department of Health and Senior Services to ensure the safety and well-being of Missouri's senior citizens. The lieutenant governor helps manage the Missouri Rx Prescription Drug Program. More information may be found at www.morx.mo.gov.

Military veterans exemplify the meaning of service. They have answered the call of duty, boldly facing death, injury and uncertainty. Their sacrifice should never be forgotten. The lieutenant governor is proud to advocate for issues vital to our Missouri veterans.

Lt. Gov. Kinder actively promotes the Missouri Military Family Relief Fund, a state-administered fund assisting families of the Missouri National Guard and reservists who have been deployed for the global war on terrorism. Those interested in donating should contact the Missouri Veterans Commission at (573) 522-4220 or make an income tax check-off donation when filing a state income tax return.

As a member of the Missouri Tourism Commission, the lieutenant governor helps market Missouri to the rest of the world. Out-of-state visitors bring new revenue to Missouri businesses and new tax dollars to Missouri. Centrally located in the United States and bordering eight other states, Missouri hosts tens of millions of visitors each year. The Tourism Commission plans campaigns to show visitors all Missouri has to offer.

Lt. Gov. Kinder led the effort to bring the Tour of Missouri, an international professional bicycle race, to Missouri in 2007. Before funding was pulled in 2010, the competition was one of the top five professional cycling events outside of Europe, drawing spectators from across the U.S. and the globe.

As part of the Missouri Community Service Commission, the lieutenant governor is honored to continue a legacy of service to citizens across Missouri. This commission nurtures volunteerism by encouraging an atmosphere that enables citizen service to prosper. By partnering with national service programs, the commission promotes volunteer opportunities to interested citizens. Each year, the Community Service Commission recognizes award winners who have demonstrated exemplary service.

Lt. Gov. Kinder also sponsors the Senior Service Award to promote and highlight the positive accomplishments senior citizens selflessly provide their communities. Bi-annual winners are recognized from every region of the state. More information may be found at www.ltgov.mo.gov. The lieutenant governor also serves on the Missouri Housing Development Commission. As such, the lieutenant governor has the opportunity to help ensure quality, affordable housing for Missourians, regardless of income. Other boards and commissions on which the lieutenant governor serves include: Board of Fund Commissioners; Board of Public Buildings; Missouri Development Finance Board; Second State Capitol Commission; and the Special Health, Psychological and Social Needs of Minority Older Individuals Commission. He is also an adviser to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education on early childhood education.

This compilation of the lieutenant governor's responsibilities demonstrates how the office can assist all Missourians. Citizens are urged to contact the lieutenant governor's office regarding issues that affect seniors by calling (800) 699-2377, or through the website at www.ltgov.mo.gov.

Missouri State Capitol

State government in Missouri is centered in the state's beautiful, domed Capitol, dominating the bluffs of the Missouri River in Jefferson City.

The dome, rising 238 feet above ground level and topped by a bronze statue of Ceres, goddess of agriculture, is the first view of Jefferson City for travelers arriving from the north. The structure is Jefferson City's leading tourist attraction and is a mecca for school groups who arrive by busloads, particularly during General Assembly sessions when they fill the galleries to watch the Senate and House of Representatives in action.

In addition to housing the two legislative bodies, the Capitol provides office space for the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, state auditor and some administrative agencies. The structure is also notable for its architectural features, including its eight 48-foot columns on the south portico and six 48-foot columns on the north side; its 30-foot-wide grand stairway and its bronze front doors, each 13-by-18 feet, among the largest cast since the Roman era.

The Capitol's first floor features the State Museum. Outstanding paintings, pediments and friezes decorate the Capitol interior. Of historical significance is a series of Thomas Hart Benton murals in the House Lounge.

Statuary is a prominent feature of the Capitol grounds. Heroic bronze figures depicting Missouri's two great rivers, the Mississippi and Missouri, and a 13-foot statue of Thomas Jefferson dominate the south entrance. A bronze relief depicting the signing of the Louisiana Purchase by Livingston, Monroe and Marbois and the Fountain of the Centaurs are the most outstanding features on the north grounds.

The present Capitol, completed in 1917 and dedicated in 1924, is the fourth Capitol in Jefferson City. Before the seat of government was moved to Jefferson City, the functions of Missouri territorial government were based in the Mansion House, a hotel in St. Louis, and later at the Missouri Hotel, also in St. Louis. The upper story of a mercantile store in St. Charles was designated as temporary capital of the state in 1821 and remained the seat of government until 1826 when Jefferson City became the permanent capital city. The first Capitol in Jefferson City was located on land now occupied by the Governor's Mansion. It burned in 1837, apparently after some hot coals fell out of one of its fireplaces. A second structure, completed in 1840 and expanded in 1887–88 burned when the dome was struck by lightning on February 5, 1911. A temporary Capitol made of lathe and stucco was erected in an area to the east of the present building and was used from 1912 to 1917.

The present Capitol was constructed for $4,215,000, including site and furnishings. It is five stories high, 437 feet long, 300 feet wide in the center and 200 feet wide in the wings. The dome is 238 feet high and the height of the wings is 88 feet. It includes over 650,000 square feet of floor space.

Jason Kander
Secretary of State
Elected November 6, 2012
Term expires January 2017

JASON KANDER (Democrat), 34, was sworn in as Missouri's 39th Secretary of State in January 2013. A former U.S. Army Captain, Kander is a veteran of the war in Afghanistan. Prior to his election as secretary of state, he practiced law, represented Kansas City in the Missouri General Assembly and served on the Missouri Veterans Commission. He is a graduate of American University and Georgetown Law School and is married to his high school sweetheart, Diana. Their son True was born in September 2013.

A fifth generation Missourian, Kander learned early in life about the importance of community service. His mother was a juvenile probation officer and his father was a police officer who later ran a small business.

On September 11, 2001, Kander was a student at American University. Moved by what he saw that day, Kander later enlisted in the Army National Guard and served in an infantry unit. While a law student at Georgetown University, he successfully pursued his commission as a military intelligence officer in the Army Reserve. He volunteered to deploy to Afghanistan in 2006. As an intelligence officer in Afghanistan, he investigated groups and individuals suspected of corruption, espionage, drug trafficking and facilitating Al Qaeda and the Taliban.

In an unclassified evaluation, Kander's commanders praised his willingness to volunteer for dangerous duty, describing him as an "outstanding leader" whose work saved lives. The U.S. director of intelligence in Afghanistan advised the Army to "track this officer's career closely; he is one of the best." After his deployment, Kander was assigned as a combat leadership instructor in the Missouri Army National Guard's Officer Candidate School at Fort Leonard Wood. In 2010, he earned national recognition and was selected as one of 10 finalists for the Army Reserve Junior Officer of the Year Award by the Reserve Officer Association.

In 2008, Kander knocked on 20,000 doors in Kansas City during his first successful campaign for state representative. As a state legislator, Kander worked with both parties to pass ethics reform legislation. As a member of the House Budget Committee, he exposed a no-bid contract and helped balance the budget without raising taxes. He passed legislation to take Missouri's human trafficking laws from some of the weakest to some of the strongest in the nation. He also authored and passed Sam and Lindsey's Law to help authorities prevent kidnapping during custody battles.

In 2009, Kander was appointed to the Missouri Veterans Commission, a nine-member board that oversees all services for our state's veterans. He was also an attorney in private practice representing clients in state and federal courts before assuming statewide office.

As secretary of state, Kander has fought for access to the ballot for eligible voters, protected Missourians from fraud and helped small business owners succeed. He created the Elections Integrity Unit to increase transparency and encourage Missourians to report their concerns regarding elections and voting. Kander was also proud to launch the Military and Overseas Voting Access Portal that allows Missourians serving away from home to receive and return absentee ballots more efficiently. Throughout his tenure in the Missouri General Assembly and now as Secretary of State, Kander continues to fight for campaign finance and ethics reform.

The secretary of state's office serves Missourians in a number of diverse and important ways. The major divisions within the secretary of state's office are: Business Services, Elections, Securities, State Library, Records Services and Administrative Rules.

At Secretary of State Jason Kander's direction, the office has focused on making state government more accessible and transparent to all Missourians. These efforts include the creation of a 30-day public comment period for initiative petitions, an online voter registration form and the creation of the Elections Integrity Unit. Additionally, Kander launched the www.TheMissouriChannel.com, a site dedicated to archiving legislative debate and other proceedings in state government. Kander has also made the adoption of early or no-excuse absentee voting a top legislative priority, and he has consistently advocated for stronger ethics and campaign finance laws.

In the Business Services Division, Kander opened the Business Outreach Office to assist entrepreneurs and small business in navigating the requirements to do business in Missouri. Additionally, Kander launched a new online system that allows nearly every business form that must be filed with his office to be filed on an easy-to-use website. Through the Securities Division, he has protected consumers by cracking down on firms that defraud investors and educated Missourians about responsible investing. As Missouri's chief elections official, Kander has worked to ensure fair, accessible and transparent elections for Missouri voters.

In addition, the office is responsible for compiling, storing and publishing a variety of documents, including many historic records available on www.MissouriDigitalHeritage.com. As the keeper of the Great Seal of the State of Missouri, Kander is also responsible for authenticating official acts of the governor. The office also includes the following divisions: Information Technology, Communications and Publications, Fiscal and Facilities and Human Resources.

Notaries and Commissions

The Notaries and Commissions Unit commissions notaries public, maintains the official bonds of over 81,000 Missouri notaries, and is responsible for certifying notaries for foreign documents, elected officials and the State Registrar of Vital Statistics.

The unit also authenticates official acts of the governor. The Great Seal of the State of Missouri is affixed to more than 35,000 documents annually, including all commissions of state and county elected officials; appointments made by the governor; and proclamations, executive orders, extraditions, commutations of sentence and restoration of citizenship issued by the governor. The unit maintains bonds and oaths of office for state officials as required by law and is responsible for the official signature, facsimile signature filings, resident agent filings and trademark and service mark filings.

Corporations

The secretary of state is responsible for the registration of all Missouri and out-of-state businesses operating in Missouri. Businesses file various documents required by law: creation documents, annual reports, amendments, mergers, consolidations, dissolutions, terminations, withdrawals and conversions. There are approximately 600,000 active businesses registered in Missouri. Nearly every registration and filing may be easily filed online at www.sos.mo.gov/fileonline, saving businesses time and money.

The Business Outreach Office (www.sos.mo.gov/business/outreach) and the Missouri Business Portal (www.business.mo.gov) continue to help Missouri businesses navigate state government and help their businesses grow.

Uniform Commercial Code

The secretary of state's office is the centralized office for perfecting personal property liens and other creditor interests under the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). These liens are perfected by filing a financing statement in the accepted national format indicating the debtor name and address and the secured party name and address along with a description of the collateral. Once a lien or other interest is filed and perfected, the public is considered "on notice" regarding those liens. These financing statements are effective for five years; they may be continued for an additional five-year term by filing a continuation statement within six months preceding expiration. Ninety percent of the UCC filings with the secretary of state are now completed online. UCC online filings, forms and the fee schedule for filing are available at www.sos.mo.gov/ucc.

Safe at Home Address Confidentiality Program

The Safe at Home address confidentiality program was created in 2007 to help protect survivors of domestic violence, rape, sexual assault or stalking through the use of a designated address. Through the Safe at Home program, survivors and their minor children may use the substitute mailing address through the secretary of state's office for all their first class, legal and certified mail. The program also allows survivors to use a substitute address on their government records and public filings to keep their address confidential and out of the hands of potential abusers.

For more than 80 years, the secretary of state has been responsible for ensuring compliance with state securities laws through activities of the Securities Division. This responsibility includes enforcement of the law when violations occur and the registration of securities, broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers and investment-adviser representatives. State securities laws are intended to protect investors from unsuitable investment recommendations, dishonest or unethical practices and fraudulent investment schemes. The secretary of state appoints the commissioner of securities, who administers these laws and oversees the Securities Division.

The enforcement section of the Securities Division receives and investigates complaints from Missouri investors. The division maintains a toll-free Investor Protection Hotline, (800) 721-7996, so investors can report complaints or make inquiries about firms or professionals in the securities business. Each year the office fields hundreds of investor complaints that result in the initiation of hundreds of investigations, many of which result in cease and desist orders, licensing revocations, investor restitution, civil penalties or criminal prosecutions. The attorneys and investigators in the enforcement section typically collect millions of dollars in penalties, payments and restitution each year and are leaders in national enforcement actions and task forces.

The examination section regulates the registration of individuals and firms and performs routine and for-cause inspections and pre-registration exams of the offices of broker-dealers and investment advisers to ensure compliance with Missouri securities laws.

As of summer 2015, there were 144,358 agents, 1,658 broker-dealers, 10,395 investment-adviser representatives and 1,720 investment advisers registered in Missouri. Prior to granting each registration, an application review process is conducted to determine if applicants are sufficiently qualified to participate in the securities business.

The registration section reviews proposed securities offerings to ensure Missouri-approved registrations are "fair, just and equitable." The staff receives filings of federally covered securities and reviews requests for exemption from the registration requirements, provides interpretative opinions of the securities laws and assists Missouri issuers seeking to raise funds with securities law compliance. In the 2015 fiscal year, the registration section staff received filings or exemption notices for almost 2,800 securities offerings and collected over $15.9 million in revenues for the State of Missouri.

The Securities Division also oversees the Missouri Investor Protection Center, which creates and promotes investor education initiatives designed to educate and assist both current and future investors. The center also includes a website, accessible at www.MissouriSafeSavings.com, and a Senior Investor Protection Unit to help educate and protect Missouri's older investors.

The secretary of state's office oversees all state elections for candidates, various judges and issues. Candidates for the six constitutional state offices, U.S. Congress, the General Assembly and certain judges file for election with the secretary of state. Statewide ballots for primary, general and certain special elections are also prepared by the secretary of state, and certified copies of those ballots are sent to local election officials. It is the responsibility of the office to canvass, certify and publish state election results.

Missouri has more than 4 million registered voters. In the November 2014 general election, 1.4 million voters went to the polls. Elections are run by Missouri's 116 local election authorities (county clerks or election boards) and the secretary of state provides assistance to the authorities in several ways. This includes maintaining annual election deadline calendars, the secretary of state's website and various training materials and workshops. The secretary of state also promulgates rules governing elections and publishes the Missouri Election Laws for use by the local election authorities. The secretary of state works together with state and local officials, schools and civic organizations to provide materials to support voter registration, civic responsibility and education. This collaboration also extends to oversight of the statewide poll worker recruitment initiative.

The secretary of state's office also assists military and overseas voters by facilitating their voter registration and absentee ballot request process. The Missouri Military and Overseas Portal, created and maintained by the secretary of state's office, is available online for these eligible voters.

The secretary of state also certifies statewide ballot measures proposed by the General Assembly or through the initiative and referendum petition process, including the oversight of signature verification. Before an initiative petition can be circulated, the petition and its summary statement must be approved by the secretary of state and the state attorney general. The secretary of state must certify the summary statement along with the state auditor's fiscal note statement. Those wishing to place an initiative changing state law on the ballot must obtain signatures from registered voters equal to five (5) percent of the total votes cast in the last gubernatorial election in six of Missouri's eight congressional districts. In order to place an initiative changing the state constitution on the ballot, signatures must be obtained from registered voters equal to eight (8) percent of the votes cast in the last gubernatorial election in six of the state's eight congressional districts. The secretary of state is responsible for verifying the number of signatures for each initiative. A ballot issue's full text is published in newspapers around the state, printed for display at polling places and is also available on the secretary of state's website. The secretary of state also oversees the signature verification process for the formation of new political parties and the nomination of independent candidates for offices that file with the secretary of state. In 2014, 67 initiative petitions were approved for circulation. One initiative petition was certified for the November 2014 ballot.

The secretary of state is also responsible for coordinating Missouri's compliance with federal election law, including the Help America Vote Act of 2002, which requires increased training for election officials, poll workers and voters, at least one accessible voting system per polling place for voters with disabilities and the creation of a statewide voter registration list. This interactive, statewide voter registration list has improved the ability of local election officials to manage their voter registration records and keep Missouri's voter list up-to-date and accurate.

Finally, the secretary of state's office upholds the fairness and security of the elections process by investigating concerns received by voters and local election authorities. The Elections Integrity Unit resolves these complaints and publishes their reviews on the secretary of state's website.

The responsibilities of the Missouri State Library are to provide library and reference services to Missouri state government, provide library services to the blind and visually impaired and promote the development and improvement of library services throughout the state.

Library Development

The library development section supports libraries through consulting, administration of grant programs, continuing education and statewide programs. The consultant staff works with librarians and library governing boards to improve the quality of library service for all Missouri citizens. Through research, publications and personal contacts, consultants provide assistance on general library issues and needs, promote the organization and development of library services, manage statewide projects and maintain statistics on public library services in the state.

The state library administers several programs to provide funds and services for libraries. State-funded programs include state aid for public libraries to meet a wide variety of local needs. Public library costs for materials are supported through funds appropriated from the income tax on earnings of out-of-state athletes and entertainers. State funds also support summer reading programs in public libraries. The State Library coordinates the funding for the Remote Electronic Access to Libraries (REAL) Program, which provides Internet access for public libraries through MOREnet and database content for public, K–12 and academic libraries. The federal Library Services and Technology Act provides approximately $3 million in funding for grants to libraries and for statewide projects, including training for library staff and trustees, technology infrastructure, summer reading and early literacy programs, and development of library service for underserved populations, such as seniors and persons with disabilities.

Ongoing projects include digitization of primary resource material for www.MissouriDigitalHeritage.com, resource-sharing initiatives including Show Me The World database access and courier delivery service for materials, and providing a resource collection for use by library staff.

The state library also serves as the lead agency for the State Census Data Center program, a cooperative venture with the U.S. Census Bureau.

Secretary's Council on Library Development

www.sos.mo.gov/library/council/sosc.asp.

The Secretary's Council on Library Development advises the secretary of state and the state librarian on matters that relate to the state's libraries and library service to Missouri citizens.

The Reference Services Division supports the research needs of Missouri state government employees with its collections of books, journals, newspapers, and government documents in print and digital formats. It is also a member of MOBIUS, the statewide library consortium of academic and public libraries in Missouri, which provides access to many additional resources.

In-person and online training is offered for Missouri state government employees around the state on topics such as Census statistics, Internet searching, and specific databases.

Reference Services produces Keeping Up, a daily news clipping service that provides current, focused information about Missouri state government from a selection of Missouri digital news sources. It is distributed electronically to the legislature and Missouri state government employees.

Documents from federal and Missouri state agencies are also available through the library. Many Missouri state government documents are available in print onsite and in a digital library at the Internet Archive www.archive.org/details/missouristatepublications. The division has participated in the Federal Depository Library Program since 1963 and has an assortment of print federal government documents, some of which focus on Missouri.

Reference Services hosts the Missouri Department of Transportation library collection as part of a joint agreement between the MoDOT and the State Library. Other special collections in the library include Missouri history, library science, and historical documents about Missouri libraries.

Wolfner Talking Book and Braille Library serves as the public library for Missourians unable to use standard print because of a visual or physical disability. The library loans a half million books and magazines in Braille, recorded audio and large print from its collection of more than 300,000 volumes. The library also provides access to locally recorded Missouri titles and to over 60,000 titles via the national Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD) site. Audio players are also loaned to users of the recorded materials. More than 12,500 individuals and 2,000 institutions, including nursing homes, schools, hospitals and hospices, use the library. Wolfner also provides reference and information services, children's programming, interlibrary loans, a newsletter, catalogs and bibliographies and descriptive DVDs and videos. Access to the collection is available online.

Wolfner services are available to qualified Missourians at no charge. Applications for service are available directly from Wolfner, local Missouri public libraries or on the secretary of state's website. Wolfner is Missouri's regional library in the national network of libraries serving individuals who are blind and disabled, in cooperation with the National Library Service of the Library of Congress.

The Wolfner Talking Book and Braille Library has a rich history of library service, predating the Missouri State Library and the Library of Congress network. Loaning Braille books to a multi-state region in 1924, Wolfner became one of the first 18 regional libraries for the blind designated by the Library of Congress. Named in memory of noted ophthalmologist Henry L. Wolfner and originally administered by the St. Louis Public Library, Wolfner became part of the Missouri State Library in 1977 and physically moved to Jefferson City in 1985.

Established as a separate department in 1965, Records and Archives now includes three divisions: the Missouri State Archives, Records Management and Local Records. These divisions are collectively responsible for managing both the current and historical records of the state, ensuring they are preserved and making them accessible to Missouri citizens.

Missouri State Archives

The Missouri State Archives is the official repository for government records of enduring value. Its mission is to foster an appreciation of Missouri history by preserving and making available the state's permanent records to its citizens and their government.

Records in the Archives date from 1770 to the present. They include executive, legislative and judicial records; records of state departments and agencies; early French and Spanish colonial and U.S. territorial records; military records from the War of 1812 through World War II; records detailing the region's role in the 19th century fur trade and America's westward expansion; trademarks and business records; and records documenting women's and African-American history.

Holdings currently total more than 338 million pages of paper records, 770,000 photographs, 199,000 reels of microfilm and 270,000 microfiche. The Missouri State Archives is one of the most accessed state repositories in the nation and has been formally acknowledged by historical and genealogical organizations for its service to researchers. While thousands visit or write to the Archives each year, the majority turn to the Internet as their preferred research method. In 2014, the Archives website logged 91.6 million hits from 8.3 million visitors.

Over the past few years, the Missouri State Archives has become involved in a number of important initiatives. The African-American History Initiative is designed to stimulate interest in African-American history through educational projects and the promotion of the Archives holdings. The Missouri State Archives also played a leading role in the activities of the Civil War Sesquicentennial Commission and the development of the Missouri Digital Heritage website, an online portal through which the public can access digital collections from institutions across the state.

The Archives is devoted to educating the public about materials in its holdings. Programs are provided for school and civic groups, as are traveling exhibits, tours and monthly educational programs. Archives Alive!, a history based theatrical performance, brings history to life each spring for thousands of Missouri fourth- and fifth-grade students. The Friends of the Missouri State Archives, Inc., promote and support the Archives by underwriting many of the costs associated with these outreach activities. The Archives also hosts student interns and practicum students from Missouri colleges and universities, and sponsors the central Missouri National History Day competition.

Volunteers are an important resource of the Missouri State Archives. They provide invaluable support to staff, helping with records processing across the state as well as assisting with reference and tours in Jefferson City. More novel is the Archives' innovative e-Volunteer program in which volunteers provide indexing and transcription services from their home computers. Completed projects are posted online, providing greater access to collections. In-person access to the Archives is provided through the Alex M. Petrovic Reading Room. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday. Saturday hours are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board

The Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board was created by statute in 1989 to be the central advisory body for historical records planning within the state. The board also serves as the state affiliate of the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, the grant-awarding arm of the National Archives and Records Administration and is responsible for reviewing grant proposals submitted to that program from Missouri applicants, as well as applications to the Local Records Preservation Grant Program.

Missouri Board on Geographic Names

The Missouri Board on Geographic Names was created by state statute in 1995 to coordinate place-naming activity among local, state and federal agencies. Additionally, the board provides uniformity in geographic nomenclature throughout the state, while retaining the significance, history and culture associated with the names of Missouri's geographic features. Proposed changes or additions to names of geographic features and places are received and evaluated, and recommendations are made to the U.S. Board on Geographic Names for approval. Members include both interested citizens and professionals.

Records Management

The mission of Records Management is to provide state agencies with the necessary instruments to effectively manage information and records, in order to promote the efficiency and continuity of government, document the rights of Missouri citizens and preserve the state's heritage. To achieve this mission, the division is divided into three sections: Records Management Services, Imaging Services and the State Records Center.

Sound records management programs consist of a planned and coordinated set of policies, procedures and activities to manage recorded information in all media. Records Management Services assists state government agencies in identifying and effectively managing their official records. Section records analysts consult with agency officials to develop retention schedules that list the agency's records, specify their retention periods and determine the ultimate disposition of inactive records (those with limited use that do not warrant retention in expensive agency office space). They also advise agencies on cost and technical matters related to microfilm, digital imaging and low-cost storage of inactive and semi-active records.

Imaging Services provides micrographic and digital imaging services to state agencies and local governments. Agencies can reduce the volume of, improve access to, and ensure archival preservation for their long-term and significant records by utilizing these services. Micrographics services include microfilming, processing, quality control and duplication. Digital imaging includes image production from microfilm or original documents. The section also provides ideal storage for original microfilm within a climate-controlled vault.

The State Records Center provides state agencies with an economical storage solution for inactive records. Services provided by the section include pick-up; delivery; reference pulls and re-filing; and destruction of agency records. All records remain in the legal custody of the transferring agency, and access to stored documents is restricted to authorized personnel. The transfer of inactive files to the records center allows agencies to free up office space and equipment, saving Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars over the life of the records. As of October 2015, the State Records Center's two facilities stored 396,871 cubic feet of records.

State Records Commission

The State Records Commission was established by statute in 1965 to guide records management in the determination of retention periods for all records in the executive branch of state government. Currently, more than 800 state agencies, commissions, bureaus and boards operate under approved record retention schedules. Additionally, the commission reviews, approves and recommends guidelines for the management of both paper and electronic records generated by the state of Missouri.

Local Records

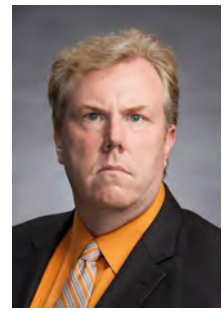
The Local Records Division works to improve long-term management of local government records by advising, educating and encouraging records custodians in the use of sound records management and archival practices. Local Records archivists provide expertise to local government officials on the retention of records and conducting records preservation projects.

A part-time local records program was started in 1986 with legislation funding the creation of a separate division in 1989. Through Local Records, documents of great historical value have been identified and preserved, revealing long-lost local histories and enhancing the collection of the Missouri State Archives. Consultations, records inventories and preservation projects conducted by division staff make local public records more accessible. Records are properly organized, identified and, in many instances, space in public buildings is freed up for purposes other than storage.

More than 3,500 governmental entities, including all offices in county, municipal and local district government offices, rely on Local Records for assistance in managing records. Field archivists are located around the state to assist this effort. Local officials in every county have received assistance from Local Records.



Local Records also houses the state document conservation lab, where staff provide advice to local government offices on all aspects of record care, preservation and disaster recovery. Conservation treatment is provided on the most historically significant and fragile documents as well.

Local Records Board

The Local Records Board was created by statute in 1972. The Local Records Board, comprised of representatives from all local government classifications, reviews and establishes retention schedules for local governments records.

Administrative Rules Division

James C. Kirkpatrick State Information Center
600 W. Main, PO Box 1767, Jefferson City 65102
Telephone: (573) 751-4015 / FAX: (573) 751-3032

Since 1976, the Administrative Rules Division has been charged by state law with setting uniform standards, procedures and guidelines for the preparation and publishing of rules in the Missouri Register and the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The Administrative Rules Division initially publishes rulemakings proposed by state agencies in the Missouri Register. The rulemakings are published to provide public notice and allow agencies to receive comments and revise the proposed rulemakings based on comments. Agencies then file final versions of orders of rulemaking with the division for final publication in the Missouri Register and subsequently in the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The division provides a user's guide for the proper preparation and filing of agency rules entitled Rulemaking 1-2-3, Drafting and Style Manual, which is available at www.sos.mo.gov/adrules/manual/manual or in hard copy.

The Administrative Rules Division also publishes emergency rules in the Missouri Register. An agency may file an emergency rule if the agency finds an immediate danger to public health, safety or welfare or if the emergency rule is necessary to preserve a compelling governmental interest that requires an early effective date, prior to that allowed by the traditional rulemaking process. An emergency rule is only in effect for a limited period of time and normally has a corresponding proposed rulemaking that allows for public notice and comment. Once an emergency rule is approved and processed, it may be viewed on the secretary of state's website at www.sos.mo.gov/adrules/EmergenciesforInternet/emergency under the Emergency Rules section until it is published in the Missouri Register.

The Missouri Register is published twice a month, and updates to the 15-volume Missouri Code of State Regulations are published once a month. Both the Missouri Register and Missouri Code of State Regulations are available on the secretary of state's website. Additionally, Missourians who are interested in particular rules may sign up on the secretary of state's website at www.sos.mo.gov/adrules/notifications for email notification of rule filings by rule number or subject matter.

Nicole R. Galloway, CPA

State Auditor

Appointed April 27, 2015
Term expires 2019

NICOLE R. GALLOWAY (Democrat) is the 38th State Auditor of Missouri. She is a certified public accountant and certified fraud examiner. She took the oath of office on April 27, 2015.

Auditor Galloway believes government's purpose is to serve the citizens it represents. In her role as state auditor, she serves as the citizen's advocate, making sure government at all levels is efficient, effective and transparent. She brings her expertise to work for Missourians each day to be a strong, independent watchdog, holding government accountable.

Auditor Galloway's office is focused on bringing private-sector best practices to state government, including a focus on cybersecurity. As a mother of two young boys, she understands the benefits and risks of changing technology, and the responsibility governments at all levels owe their citizens to protect private data. As an experienced professional private-sector auditor, she will always shine a light when government fails to safeguard the information families expect to be kept safe and secure.

Prior to becoming state auditor, Galloway was Treasurer of Boone County for four years. She ran for election in 2012, winning unopposed. Galloway put her experience to use as treasurer to manage a $100 million investment portfolio and nearly $200 million in annual cash flows. She was responsible for debt issuance, and protected the county's top-tier bond rating, putting that financial strength to use to consolidate debt and save taxpayers more than $4.6 million. Galloway launched the first online unclaimed property database for any county in the state, allowing citizens to claim their money faster and through a streamlined process. The initiative won the County Excellence Award from the Missouri Association of Counties. Galloway has worked tirelessly to ensure citizens know how their tax dollars are managed. She led the implementation of investment and debt management policies to protect taxpayers and make critical community investments. The debt management policy has become a model for other local governments in the state, providing transparency for the issuance process and the administration of the debt portfolio.

Prior to entering public service, Galloway was a corporate auditor at Shelter Insurance's national headquarters in Columbia. She began her career in public accounting at Brown Smith Wallace, a public accounting firm, headquartered in Creve Coeur. As an auditor in the private sector, Galloway audited Fortune 500 companies domestically and internationally by evaluating business risk, operational processes and internal controls surrounding asset management and revenue recognition. She performed financial statement, compliance and internal control audits of insurance and reinsurance companies throughout the country. She also worked as an actuarial analyst with Allstate Insurance.

A lifelong Missourian, Auditor Galloway is committed to improving the state. Galloway served as Secretary/Treasurer of the Missouri Technology Corporation, a public-private partnership that invests in entrepreneurs and small businesses to help create jobs and expand innovation in Missouri. She also served as Secretary/Treasurer of the Missouri County Employees' Retirement Fund, protecting the retirement benefits of nearly 16,000 participants in 111 counties. While on the retirement fund's board, she led the effort to ensure equal protection for the retirement benefits of county employees in same-sex marriages.

An active member of her local community, Auditor Galloway has served on the board of the Heart of Missouri United Way and on the Columbia Interfaith Resource Center's Finance Committee. She has been involved in Rotary Club and served as a youth mentor for Discovering Options in St. Louis.

Auditor Galloway received a Master of Business Administration from the University of Missouri and degrees in Applied Mathematics and Economics from Missouri University of Science and Technology.

Auditor Galloway was raised in the St. Louis region. She now lives in Columbia with her husband, Jon, and sons, William and Benjamin.

Duties

The Missouri state auditor's office is Missouri's independent watchdog agency, charged with auditing approximately 200 state agencies and programs, including departments, boards, commissions, statewide offices and the General Assembly. The state auditor conducts audits of the state's expenditure of state funds and federal awards, the court system, counties that do not have an elected county auditor and may also audit school districts. Upon receipt of a petition signed by local voters, the state auditor conducts audits of other political subdivisions in the state.

In addition to fulfilling the primary auditing duties of the office, the state auditor reviews all property tax rates set by local political subdivisions and drafts fiscal notes and fiscal note summaries for initiative petitions. The state auditor also examines and registers general obligation bonds issued by political subdivisions of the state to ensure each bond complies with state law.

The powers of the state auditor are derived from Article IV, Section 13 of the Missouri Constitution. Statutory authority and duties are outlined in Chapter 29 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri.

Audits

Audits are performed to determine how well governmental agencies and elected officials are protecting taxpayers' dollars from fraud, waste and abuse, and whether tax dollars are being spent efficiently, economically and legally. All audits are conducted in an impartial, nonpartisan manner and in accordance with government auditing standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

The state auditor's office performs financial and performance audits, which also include review of management practices. Financial records of auditees are examined to determine how the auditee accounted for funds under its control. The state auditor's office reviews the auditee's systems and controls to ensure taxpayer dollars are protected. The state auditor's office also reviews the auditee's compliance with constitutional provisions, laws, legislative appropriation levels and administrative rules and the efficiency and accountability of management practices.

Completed financial audits contain a formal opinion from the state auditor regarding the fair presentation of financial statements. A management advisory report listing any management weaknesses discovered during the audit is also included. Findings and recommendations in the management advisory report are reviewed with the auditee at an exit conference prior to the release of the audit so responses from the auditee may be included in the final report.

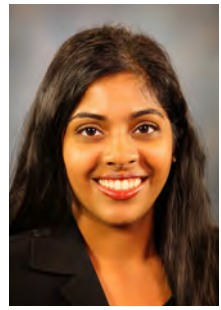
Follow-Up Reports

Audit follow-up reviews are conducted to increase accountability in government for the taxpayers of Missouri. Audit follow-up reports document whether audit recommendations have been implemented as recommended by the auditor. The state auditor's office works with audited entities to establish a reasonable timeline for the implementation of audit recommendations, with a particular focus on findings requiring immediate action.

Fraud Hotline

The state auditor may take immediate action when there is evidence of fraud; violation of state or federal law, rule or regulation; significant mismanagement or waste of public resources; or significant risk of loss of confidence by the public due to government fiscal abuse or mismanagement. Audit staff, under the guidance of general counsel and chief litigation counsel, may take immediate action, up to and including immediate referral to appropriate authorities, in order to preserve relevant evidence and/or prevent continued harm.

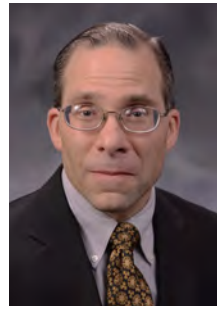


Missouri residents may contact the Auditor's Fraud Hotline with concerns related to fraud or waste in government operations by calling (800) 347-8597, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cybersecurity Initiative

Advances in technology have led to an increased need for data protection. Auditor Galloway's Cybersecurity Initiative places an emphasis on government data protection practices when interacting with citizens and handling or storing personal or financial data. When information and records can be accessed from anywhere in the world, increased precautions must be taken to ensure criminals are not able to access data within schools or other government bodies. Government must be held accountalbe to keep sensitive information secure and protected for all Missourians.

Public Engagement



Auditor Galloway is dedicated to helping government officials identify best practices and make lasting improvements for the taxpayers of Missouri. The state auditor and her representative staff regularly speak to groups and organizations on matters related to audit processes, financial controls and procedures and the importance of compliance and transparency in state government.

The state auditor also publicly announces the start of each new audit and requests information from citizens, legislators and government employees to assist in completing the audit process and identifying problems. Citizens are urged to contact the auditor's office if they have information they believe could be useful to audit staff.

Citizens may contact the auditor's office to provide information for an audit, request information on audit practices and priorities or schedule a speaker for an upcoming event by calling (800) 347-8597 or by emailing moaudit@auditor.mo.gov.

Commitment to Transparency

All audit reports issued by the state auditor are public documents. Reports are available on the state auditor's website and distributed electronically to the public and members of the media. Citizens may sign up to recieve email alerts when audit reports are issued by visiting the state auditor's website at www.auditor.mo.gov.

Clint Zweifel

State Treasurer

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2017

CLINT ZWEIFEL (ZWY-ful) (Democrat) was elected Missouri's 45th State Treasurer on Nov. 4, 2008, the youngest in more than a century. He was re-elected to his second and final term as Treasurer on Nov. 6, 2012.

Throughout his administration, Treasurer Zweifel has focused on fiscal accountability, economic growth, and making government work better.

As the state's chief investment officer, Treasurer Zweifel has consistently sought simple yet meaningful reforms to ensure the government remains accountable to the public. He manages Missouri's $3.5 billion portfolio, and through smart, conservative investing, he has protected Missouri's AAA credit rating through the worst economic downturn since the Great Depression.

The Treasurer uses his position as a board member for the Missouri State Employees' Retirement System (MOSERS) to advocate for Missouri taxpayers. In 2014, he successfully fought to make Missouri the first state to ban pension advances, which severely jeopardize public employees' retirement security. He has also worked to create a more transparent state pension fund, pushing for a more complete fee reporting system for taxpayers and retirees. While serving as chair of the pension committee within the National Association of State Treasurers (NAST), he brought awareness of responsible fee disclosures and the danger of pension advances to the national level.

Finally, the Treasurer has overseen several innovations to his Unclaimed Property division, improving Missourians' experience with one of his most popular services. He has returned more than half of all Unclaimed Property in state history, setting return records each year.

In addition to keeping government accountable to Missourians, Treasurer Zweifel has used the scope of his office to enhance economic growth in Missouri from the ground up. Immediately upon taking office, he developed a legislative package that improved and streamlined the Missouri Linked Deposit Program, a low-interest lending program which helps farms and small businesses access low-interest capital, resulting in the approval of nearly $2 billion in loans.

In 2014, Treasurer Zweifel accepted an appointment by Governor Nixon to lead the Missouri Military Partnership's effort to retain and strengthen the military presence in Missouri, which currently contributes $40 billion in economic activity and 275,000 jobs in the state.

As a proponent of good government, the Treasurer has regularly sought creative ways to serve more Missourians. In 2010, as a board member of the Missouri Housing Development Commission, he successfully pushed the board to adopt a policy to provide quality, affordable housing for populations with special needs including individuals who are chronically homeless, mentally ill, veterans, children aging out of foster care, and most recently, survivors of domestic violence. Thanks to his efforts more than 1,000 special needs housing units have been built at no additional cost to taxpayers.

Treasurer Zweifel has also strived to make a college education more affordable for Missouri families. He launched a matching grant program in 2012 for low- and moderate-income families using MOST—Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan, which he chairs. Since then he has partnered with private and nonprofit organizations across the state to implement similar programs which have reached more than 1,000 students in Missouri.

Finally, in recognition of Missouri veterans' service to our state and nation, he championed legislation which forbids the sale of military medals and insignia held in Unclaimed Property. The measures also allow him to work with the public to return those medals. Through this effort he has returned more than 100 medals to the heroes who earned them or their families.

In two terms as State Treasurer, Clint Zweifel has maintained solid fiscal health, overseen economic growth and created more efficient and responsive government for Missourians.

Prior to serving as State Treasurer, Zweifel severed in the Missouri House of Representatives for six years.

Born Nov. 3, 1973, in St. Louis, Treasurer Zweifel grew up in nearby Florissant. He graduated from Hazelwood West High School in 1992 and became the first member of his family to attend college. He graduated from the University of Missouri-St. Louis with a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science in 1996 and a Master of Business Administration in 2001. Treasurer Zweifel resides in Columbia with his wife, Janice, and their daughters, Selma and Ellie.

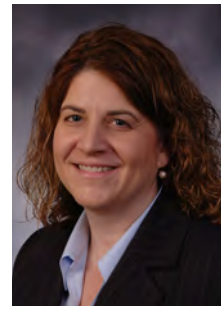
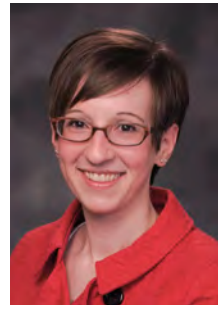
Duties

State Treasurer Clint Zweifel is Missouri's chief financial officer, making all investments for the State of Missouri. He oversees state banking services and its $3.5 billion investment portfolio. Treasurer Zweifel safeguards more than $874 million in unclaimed property, manages a $720 million low-interest loan program and leads the state's 529 College Savings Plan. He also serves on a number of public boards. He is one of six statewide elected officials and serves a term of four years. A person may only serve as state treasurer for two terms.



Protecting Missouri Taxpayers: Banking and Investments

As Missouri's chief financial officer, Treasurer Zweifel provides management of state revenue and investments that is critical to maintaining the state's AAA bond rating. Operating similarly to an official bank, he must authorize payments and balance accounts. To protect taxpayer money, Treasurer Zweifel maintains a separate accounting system to provide a check and balance on the state accounting system and distributes investment earnings to the proper funds. Treasurer Zweifel contracts with Missouri banks to process state receipts and disbursements; handles money and security transfers; reports on the state's accounts, balances and payment activities; and provides related banking services. Bidding for state banking services contracts is open to all qualifying Missouri banks.



Treasurer Zweifel determines the amount of state funds not needed for current operating expenses and invests those funds in interest-bearing time deposits in Missouri banks, U.S. Treasury and federal agency securities, repurchase agreements, banker's acceptances and top-rated commercial paper. Safety is Treasurer Zweifel's top priority in the investment of public funds. Treasurer Zweifel has an average of $3.5 billion invested daily.

Helping Missouri Farmers and Entrepreneurs: Missouri Linked Deposit Program

The Missouri Linked Deposit Program provides low-interest loans to small businesses and farms through partnerships with qualified Missouri lenders. Loan savings are usually 30 percent to the borrower. The loans can be used by small businesses with fewer than 100 employees, agricultural operations, beginning farmers, businesses adding jobs, entities making alternative energy investments, multi-family housing developments and local governments making community improvements.

Treasurer Zweifel expanded this program through his 2009 jobs and economic development legislative package, which has a $720 million statutory cap. The legislation enhanced program eligibility to incentivize job creation, job retention and community reinvestment. Since taking office in 2009, Treasurer Zweifel has approved nearly $2 billion in loans impacting 34,000 jobs and farmers. Of that, $444 million in loans were approved that would not have been allowed before Treasurer Zweifel developed and worked to pass his 2009 jobs and economic development package that allows more farmers and businesses to qualify for loans.

In May 2011, Treasurer Zweifel implemented the Harmed-Area Emergency Loan Priority system, or HELP. HELP provides 24-hour loan approval for counties dealing with disasters. Since its inception, more than $80 million in loans have been approved.

Financial institutions and borrowers should visit www.treasurer.mo.gov to learn more about the program. Borrowers can find a list with more than 130 participating lenders and 350 branches throughout Missouri. The application process has been streamlined and takes about one week to complete.

Returning Missourians' Money: Unclaimed Property

Treasurer Zweifel is responsible for Unclaimed Property: Missouri's Largest Lost and Found. State law requires financial institutions, insurance companies, public agencies and other business entities to turn over assets that belong to a customer, client, employee or other owner if there have been no documented transactions or contact with the owner for five or more years. Treasurer Zweifel operates an aggressive program to return unclaimed assets to the original owners or their legal heirs. He set another unclaimed property record during fiscal year 2015 by returning nearly $42 million to account owners.

Most unclaimed property consists of cash from bank accounts, stocks, bonds and contents of safe deposit boxes that have been abandoned. It also can include uncollected insurance policy proceeds, government refunds, utility deposits and wages from past jobs. Unclaimed property does not include real property such as land or houses, or personal property such as cars or boats.

Treasurer Zweifel is dedicated to protecting the military medals and honors turned over to his office in safe deposit boxes. When Treasurer Zweifel took office, he found unclaimed military medals were being sold as part of the statutorily required unclaimed property auctions. He immediately put a stop to this practice and set to work on legislation that would ensure no future treasurer could sell medals either. In June of 2010, the Veterans Medal Bill was signed into law after passing through the House and Senate unanimously.

In June 2011, Treasurer Zweifel placed the first Unclaimed Property military medals on display as part of a partnership with the Missouri State Museum made possible by the Veterans Medal Bill. The Distinguished Service Cross and French Cross of War earned by a World War I doctor represent the hundreds of servicemen and women who have sacrificed for the State of Missouri and the country. Treasurer Zweifel continues to work with veterans' organizations and museums to locate and preserve the medals and to honor those that remain in his care.

Building off of his initial efforts, Treasurer Zweifel worked with the legislature in 2013 to pass the Military Medal Return Act. Passed with strong bipartisan support, this bill allows him to share further information about the owners of the medals on his website and with veterans' organizations.

Treasurer Zweifel currently holds more than $874 million in unclaimed property in nearly five million owner accounts. All unclaimed property is held in trust forever and may be claimed at any time. To recover unclaimed property, claimants must be either the original owner of the property or a legal heir. Treasurer Zweifel provides all services free of charge. Individuals can check to see if Treasurer Zweifel is holding unclaimed property that may belong to them, sign up for email notifications and file paperless claims at www.showmemoney.com.

Building Access to an Affordable College Education: MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan

Treasurer Zweifel chairs the Missouri Higher Education Savings Program Board, which oversees MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan. Developed in 1999, MOST 529 encourages Missouri families to save for higher education while taking advantage of significant federal and state tax benefits. Accounts can be opened through the do-it-yourself, direct-sold MOST 529 Plan or through the advisor-sold MOST 529 Plan with as little as $25 or $15 through payroll deduction. Contributions of up to $8,000 ($16,000 for married couples) annually can be deducted from Missouri income taxes, and all earnings are free of federal and state income taxes for qualified withdrawals. Funds from MOST 529 accounts can be used to pay for all eligible educational expenses at virtually any two-year or four-year college or university, vocational, technical or professional school anywhere in the country. As of July 2013, MOST 529 had more than $2.2 billion in assets, with more than 150,000 account owners.

To open a direct-sold MOST 529, call toll free at (888) 414-MOST or (800) 414-6678), or visit www.missourimost.org. To open a MOST 529 advisor-sold account, contact your financial advisor, call 1-800-617-5097 or visit www.most529advisor.com.

Representing Taxpayers: Boards and Commissions

Treasurer Zweifel serves on the governing boards of four large public entities: the Missouri Housing Development Commission, which assists in the creation of affordable housing for Missourians; the Missouri State Employees' Retirement System, which manages retirement funds for more than 111,000 state employees and retirees; the Board of Fund Commissioners, which issues, redeems and cancels state general obligation bonds and other debt; and the Missouri Higher Education Savings Program Board, which oversees MOST–Missouri's 529 College Savings Plan. Treasurer Zweifel also serves on the Missouri Cultural Trust Board.

Staying Accountable to Missouri Tax Payers

Treasurer Zweifel is committed to a transparent and accountable administration. He maintains an open government portal at www.treasurer.mo.gov/content/about-the-office/open-government. Citizens may access investment returns, office policies, meeting minutes and other public information through this portal. Sunshine requests may also be filed electronically through the site.

Chris Koster

Attorney General

Elected November 4, 2008

Term expires January 2017

CHRIS KOSTER (Democrat) was sworn in as the 41st attorney general for Missouri on Jan. 12, 2009, and was subsequently re-elected in 2012. Since becoming attorney general, Koster has focused efforts on detecting and prosecuting Medicaid fraud, cracking down on fraudulent auto service contract businesses, using Missouri's legal authority to protect the state's water resources, educating young people about Internet safety and making local public officials aware of their obligations under Missouri's open records laws.

Through the office's Consumer Protection Division, Koster is working to focus efforts on the biggest threats to consumers. Early in his term, as the state and nation were deep in a housing-foreclosure crisis, the attorney general demanded a "zero tolerance" campaign against businesses that promised foreclosure relief without delivering services, as well as against businesses that used deceptive practices to entice consumers to refinance. The attorney general also is aggressively targeting businesses that violate Missouri's no-call list, pursuing substantial penalties against them.

As attorney general, Koster argued before the United States Supreme Court and personally prosecuted two murder cases. Koster has conducted statewide conferences on the issues of domestic violence, public safety and representative policing

Before his election as attorney general, Koster represented the 31st district in the Missouri Senate from 2004 to 2008, which covers Cass, Johnson, Bates and Vernon counties.

During his time in the General Assembly, Koster played key roles in the debates over stem cell research, tort reform and the elimination of Medicaid fraud. Additionally, in 2006, Koster successfully carried legislation in the Senate to dramatically overhaul Missouri's eminent domain laws.

Prior to his election to the Missouri Senate in 2004, Koster served as prosecuting attorney of Cass County for 10 years. He was first elected prosecutor in 1994 and was subsequently re-elected in 1998 and 2002 by wide margins. As prosecutor, Koster supervised a staff of 20 individuals dedicated to enforcing Missouri's criminal laws in Cass County. His office also served as the civil counsel for all non-criminal matters before the county government.

During his tenure, Koster supervised litigation in approximately 20,000 cases. He led investigations into many of Kansas City's most notorious criminal cases, including the investigation and prosecution of serial killer John E. Robinson. He has developed extensive trial experience and has argued and won cases before the Missouri Supreme Court. He played a leading role in the construction of the Cass County Justice Center, which opened in 2002 in Harrisonville.

Koster is active in his community. He has served on the Missouri Sentencing Advisory Commission and the state's Bioterrorism Task Force. Additionally, Koster has served as a director of the Missouri Association of Prosecuting Attorneys, a member of the U.S. Attorney's Anti-Terrorism Task Force and director of the Hope Haven Women's Shelter. In 2002, Ingram's magazine named Koster "one of Kansas City's most influential citizens under 40 years old." In 2004, the Kansas City Business Journal named Koster to its list of Kansas City's best attorneys. On multiple occasions, he has been included among Missouri's most influential lawyers by Missouri Lawyers Weekly.

Prior to becoming prosecuting attorney, Koster practiced law with the Kansas City law firm of Blackwell Sanders from 1993 to 1994. He also served as a Missouri Assistant Attorney General from 1991 to 1993.

Koster was born and raised in St. Louis. After graduating from St. Louis University High School in 1982, he received a liberal arts degree from the University of Missouri–Columbia in 1987 and his law degree from University of Missouri–Columbia School of Law in 1991. Additionally, Koster earned a Master in Business Administration from Washington University in St. Louis in 2002.

The attorney general is the attorney for the state, representing the legal interests of Missouri and its state agencies.

As the state's chief legal officer, the attorney general must prosecute or defend all appeals to which the state is a party, including every felony criminal case appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal. The attorney general also is required to institute, in the name and on behalf of the state, all civil suits and other proceedings that are necessary to protect the state's rights, interests or claims. The attorney general may appear, interplead, answer or defend any proceedings that involve the state's interests or appear on behalf of the state in declaratory judgment proceedings when the constitutionality of a statute is challenged.

The attorney general also renders official opinions to the executive and legislative branches and county prosecuting attorneys on questions of law relating to their duties. The attorney general may institute quo warranto proceedings against anyone unlawfully holding office or move to oust any public official for malfeasance in office.

The attorney general's office was created in 1806 when Missouri was part of the Louisiana Territory. The first Missouri Constitution in 1820 provided for an appointed attorney general, but since the 1865 Constitution, the attorney general has been elected.

By law, the attorney general is a member of the Board of Fund Commissioners, the Board of Public Buildings, the Governor's Committee on Interstate Cooperation, the Missouri Highway Reciprocity Commission and the Missouri Housing Development Commission.

To fulfill these and other responsibilities, the attorney general's office is organized into nine divisions.

Agriculture and Environment Division

The Agriculture and Environment Division aggressively protects Missouri's natural resources and agricultural productivity. The division's attorneys take legal action to stop pollution, seek monetary fines and penalties and, in the most serious cases, to criminally prosecute those who violate Missouri's environmental laws.

The division works to protect and enhance agriculture and the quality of life for rural Missourians by enforcing Missouri's agricultural laws and advocating responsible public policy. The attorney general protects the state's interests in the Missouri River and other valuable resources, including state parks and waterways such as the Meramec River and White River basin.

Division attorneys represent the Department of Natural Resources and its constituent boards and commissions, as well as the Department of Agriculture, in hundreds of active enforcement cases and administrative appeals. The division also cooperates with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Attorney's Office to enforce state and federal environmental laws.

Consumer Protection Division

The attorney general is responsibile for protecting the public's interests in an open and honest marketplace. The Consumer Protection Division enforces Missouri's Consumer Protection Act and antitrust laws, and has the responsibility of representing the commissioner of securities of the secretary of state's office. Missouri's consumer protection statutes prohibit deception, fraud, unfair practices and misrepresentation or concealment of material facts in the sale or advertisement of goods or services. These laws authorize the attorney general to take action against such fraud and ensure consumers' rights are protected.

The division also has an active consumer education program. Consumers can file complaints or obtain information by calling the Attorney General's Consumer Hotline at (800) 392-8222 or online at www.ago.mo.gov. The division receives more than 90,000 consumer complaints and inquiries each year.

Under Missouri antitrust laws, the attorney general has the authority to represent the state or any of its political subdivisions, public agencies, school districts or municipalities in actions to prohibit monopolies and trade restraints. The attorney general also may act under federal antitrust statutes to bring civil actions in the name of the state and on behalf of Missouri residents to recover damages for injuries caused by certain antitrust violations.

The attorney general is the state's chief prosecutor for securities fraud, and may initiate legal actions for civil injunctive relief, penalties and restitution under the Missouri Merchandising Practices Law. Attorneys in this division also protect Missourians by enforcing compliance with state laws by trusts, foundations and nonprofit corporations.

The No Call program to reduce unwanted telemarketing calls also is under the Consumer Protection Division. Missourians may register for No Call by calling (866) 662-2551 or online at www.ago.mo.gov.

Criminal Division

Criminal Division

The attorney general represents the state in every felony case appealed to the Supreme Court of Missouri and Missouri Court of Appeals. Each year, attorneys in the Criminal Division brief and argue more than 700 cases in the Missouri Court of Appeals and the Missouri Supreme Court. Division attorneys also assist local and state authorities with extraditions to and from Missouri of those charged in criminal cases.

Financial Services Division

The Financial Services Division protects Missourians by recouping money owed to the state or state agencies, including providing collection services to several divisions of the attorney general's office and more than 40 other state agencies. Division attorneys also take legal action to establish, maintain and modify child support obligations and work to recover money owed by inmates to reimburse the state for the cost of their care.

Governmental Affairs Division

The Governmental Affairs Division protects the safety and well-being of Missourians by ensuring regulated professionals adhere to state laws and disciplinary rules by enforcing state ethics and campaign finance laws and enforcing penalties against nursing homes for violating standards of care and removing caregivers who abuse or neglect vulnerable citizens. They also help mentally ill and physically challenged Missourians obtain guardians to help obtain care.

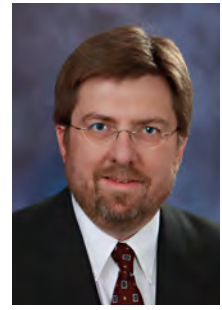
The division provides legal representation to state officers—including the secretary of state, treasurer and auditor—as well as several state agencies, including the departments of health and senior services, mental health and social services; the Missouri Ethics Commission; the Health Facilities Review Committee; and more than 30 professional licensing boards. Division attorneys also defend constitutional challenges to state laws and ballot issues. Division attorneys enforce the provisions of the tobacco Master Settlement Agreement, which has brought in more than $1.5 billion to the state as of April 2009. Attorneys in the division also address questions from the public, from government officials and from the media about Missouri's open meetings and records law, commonly known as the Sunshine Law.

Labor Division

The Labor Division provides general counsel and litigation services for the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and its officers and agencies. The division also represents the state in crime victims' claims and workers' compensation cases of state employees, including claims involving the Second Injury Fund.



Litigation Division

Litigation division attorneys handle major and complex litigation for Missouri, providing legal defense to state officials, state agencies and their employees. Cases in the division include damage claims, contract actions, class-action lawsuits, employment issues, constitutional challenges, suits seeking injunctive relief and other types of civil litigation.

The division defends the state in lawsuits brought by inmates of Missouri's correctional facilities. Division attorneys also defend constitutional challenges to state laws and ballot issues. Attorneys in the litigation division defend lawsuits filed against the police boards and the police officers of the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

The division also represents the Missouri Commission on Human Rights in cases before the Administrative Hearing Commission and in all subsequent court actions. The division enforces the Missouri Human Rights Act and takes action on behalf of Missouri citizens in discrimination cases. The division enforces state interests regarding the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Federal Fair Housing Act.

Finally, the division protects and enforces workers' rights in Missouri under the prevailing wage and minimum wage laws, and Missouri's unauthorized workers law.

Medicaid Fraud Control Unit

The Medicaid Fraud Control Unit prosecutes cases involving fraud of the state Medicaid program by health professionals, and prosecute abuse or neglect of Medicaid recipients by caregivers. The unit has obtained more than $278 million in Medicaid fraud judgments and recoveries since 2009.

Public Safety Division

The Public Safety Division is involved in a wide range of criminal prosecutions at the trial level. The division's special prosecution unit prosecutes or assists in the prosecution of cases throughout Missouri, many of them homicide cases. In 2010, division attorneys had more than 483 active special prosecutions throughout the state's 114 counties and the City of St. Louis. The unit also specializes in handling criminal cases involving the manufacture, sale or possession of methamphetamine.

The Workers' Compensation Fraud Unit prosecutes fraud or misconduct involving workers' compensation, and the division's High Technology and Computer Crime Unit assists local law enforcement with investigations and prosecutions of computer and Internet crime cases. The Sexually Violent Predator Unit seeks the civil commitment of sexual predators who suffer from a mental abnormality making them more likely to commit additional predatory acts of sexual violence.

Attorneys in the division also serve as legal counsel for the Department of Public Safety, the Missouri State Highway Patrol, the Missouri State Water Patrol and other state law enforcement agencies, and represent those agencies in all civil litigation to which they are a party. Division attorneys also defend the state in all habeas corpus actions filed by prison inmates in state and federal courts. Each year, they litigate some 500 federal habeas corpus actions in the federal district courts, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court.

[1]Welch was appointed attorney general by provisional Governor Gamble when Knott refused to take a loyalty oath.
[2]Crittenden was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Aikman Welsh, who died in office. Crittenden only served until the end of that year.
[3]Baker ran and was elected as a Liberal Republican.
[4]Otto left office to become a Supreme Court Judge.
[5]Some held multiple terms as attorney general. In consideration of space, some are listed here only once.

Note: Like other state offices, except governor and lieutenant governor, the attorney general's office was filled by appointment from 1820-1852. The offices then became elective for four-year terms. They changed to two-year elective terms in 1868, and changed back to four-year elective terms in 1875.

The president and the vice president of the United States are elected every four years by a majority of votes cast in the Electoral College. These votes are cast by delegates from each state who traditionally vote in accordance with the majority of the state's voters. States have as many electoral college votes as they have congressional delegates. Missouri has 10 electoral college votes—one for each of the eight U.S. Congress districts and two for the state's two seats in the U.S. Senate.

The president is the chief executive of the United States, with powers to command the armed forces, control foreign policy, grant reprieves and pardons, make certain appointments, execute all laws passed by Congress and present the administration's budget. The president earns $400,000 annually, with an allowance for expenses.

The vice president is selected by members of each national political committee and runs on the same ticket for the same term as the president. The vice president assumes the presidency if the president dies or resigns from the office, is incapacitated to the extent that he or she cannot exercise presidential duties for an extended period or is impeached. The vice president presides over the functions of the U.S. Senate and acts as emissary of the president. The vice president earns $231,900 annually.

The tradition of the Cabinet dates back to the beginnings of the presidency itself. Established in Article II, Section 2, of the U.S. Constitution, the Cabinet's role is to advise the president on any subject he or she may require relating to the duties of each member's respective office. It is made up of 15 cabinet members (or secretaries) who have the responsibility to operate each department. Secretaries are appointed by the president and serve at his or her pleasure. Cabinet secretaries earn $199,700 annually.

Legislative Branch

www.house.gov / www.senate.gov

The U.S. Constitution provides for two legislative houses, known as the Congress. The Senate is composed of 100 members; two senators are elected from each state. The House of Representatives is composed of 435 members; the number of representatives is determined based on the population of each state.

Senators must be at least 30 years of age and must be residents of the United States for at least nine years. They also must reside in the state they are elected to represent. Senators serve terms of six years, with one-third of Senate members elected every two years. Senators earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Representatives must be at least 25 years of age and must have been residents of the United States for at least seven years. They also must reside in the state they represent. Representatives serve two-year terms and earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Congress is in session for two years, beginning on January 3 of each year unless another date is specified. The presiding officer of the Senate is the vice president of the United States. The Senate also elects a president pro tem of the Senate to serve in the absence of the vice president. The president pro tem also represents the party in power and earns $193,400. The presiding officer of the House is called the speaker. The speaker traditionally represents the party in majority and earns $223,500.

Judicial Branch

The U.S. Supreme Court heads the nation's judicial branch of government. The Supreme Court is composed of nine justices, appointed for life. Supreme Court justices may only be removed by impeachment and trial by Congress. Justices receive $246,800 annually while the chief justice, who leads the court, earns $258,100.

The Supreme Court concerns itself with national issues or matters concerning the constitutionality of certain laws or findings. Decisions of the court are binding and overrule any other court decision.

Other Federal Courts

Immediately below the Supreme Court are the U.S. Courts of Appeals and the U.S. District Courts. The Courts of Appeals operate in 11 regions and the District of Columbia. Missouri is served by the Eighth Circuit. Appeals Court judges earn $213,300 annually.

There are 94 U.S. District Court districts with federal jurisdiction. Two of these are located in Missouri: the Eastern Missouri District and the Western Missouri District. Eastern District courts are located in St. Louis, Hannibal and Cape Girardeau, and the Western District courts are in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Jefferson City and Joplin. Federal charges stemming from both civil and criminal suits generally begin in U.S. District Court. Judges in these courts earn $201,100 annually.

Barack H. Obama

United States President

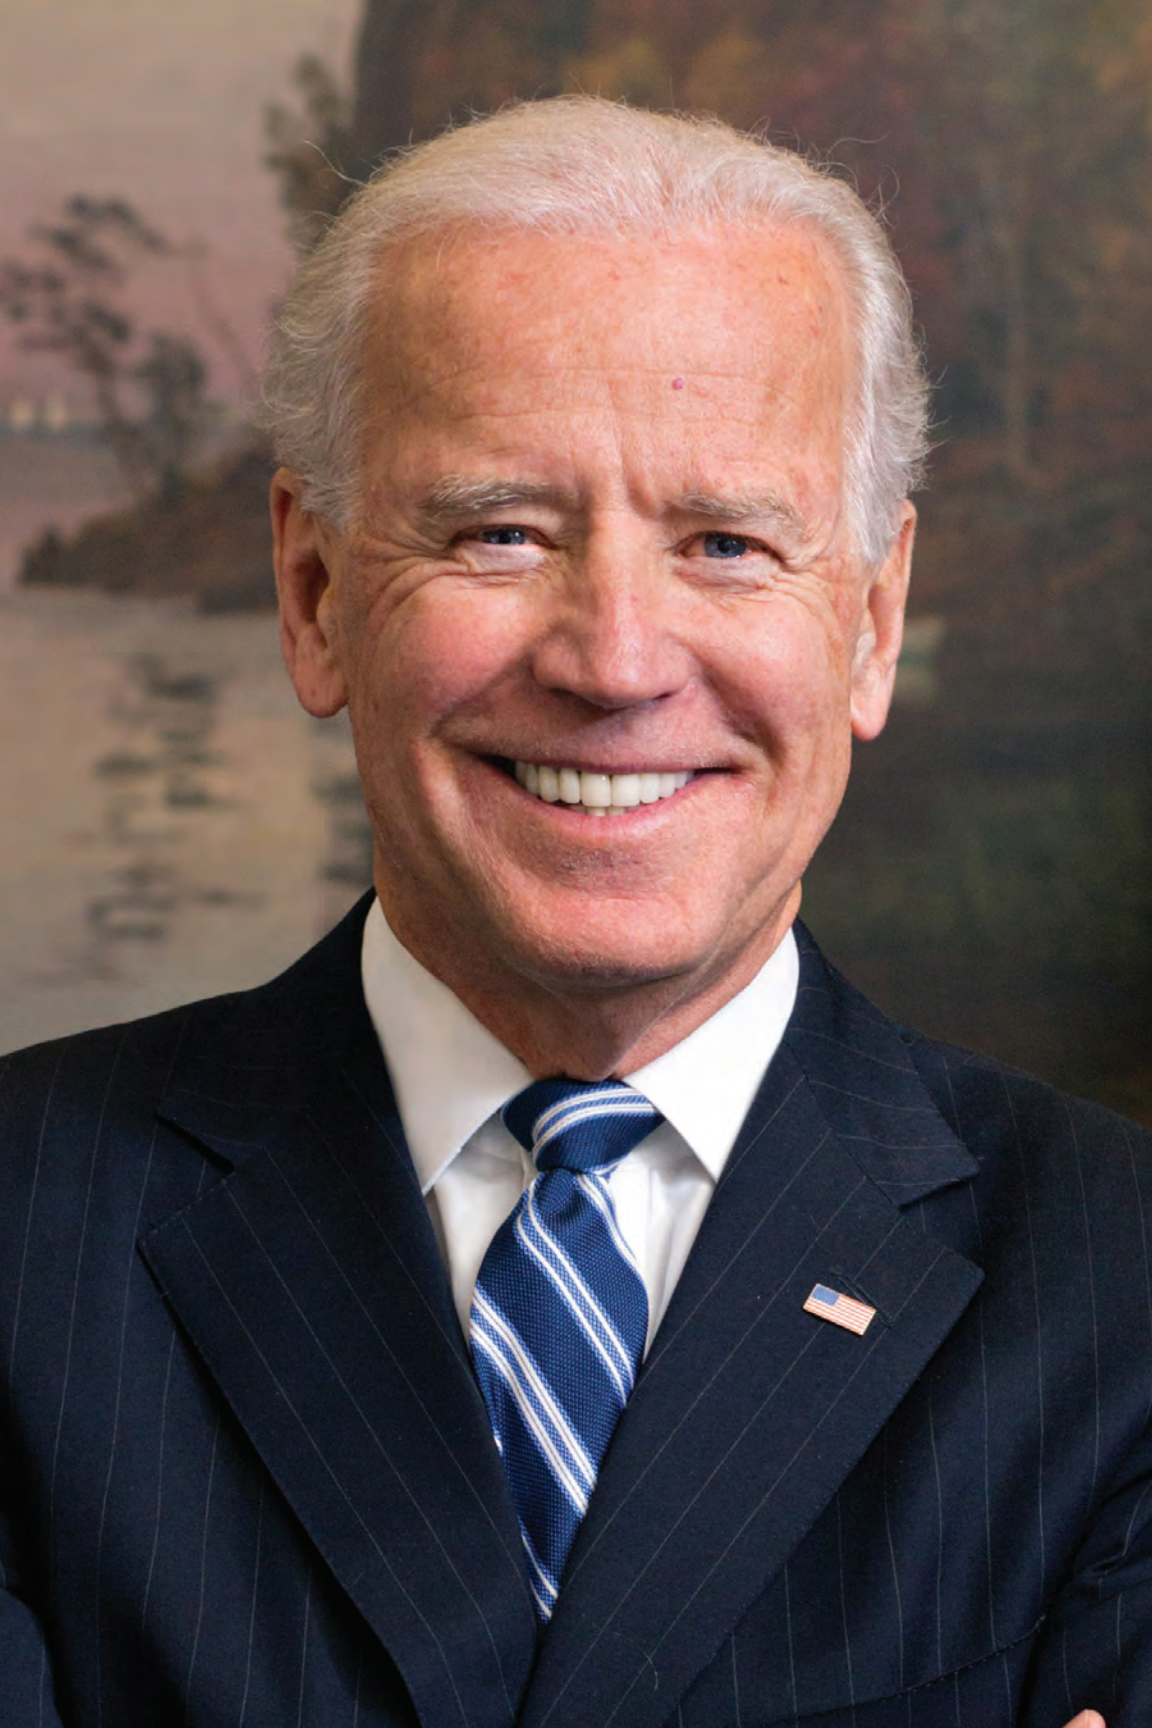
Elected November 4, 2008

Term expires January 2017

Barack H. Obama is the 44th President of the United States.

His story is the American story — values from the heartland, a middle-class upbringing in a strong family, hard work and education as the means of getting ahead, and the conviction that a life so blessed should be lived in service to others.

With a father from Kenya and a mother from Kansas, President Obama was born in Hawaii on August 4, 1961. He was raised with help from his grandfather, who served in Patton's army, and his grandmother, who worked her way up from the secretarial pool to middle management at a bank.



After working his way through college with the help of scholarships and student loans, President Obama moved to Chicago, where he worked with a group of churches to help rebuild communities devastated by the closure of local steel plants.

He went on to attend law school, where he became the first African-American president of the Harvard Law Review. Upon graduation, he returned to Chicago to help lead a voter registration drive, teach constitutional law at the University of Chicago and remain active in his community.

President Obama's years of public service are based around his unwavering belief in the ability to unite people around a politics of purpose. In the Illinois State Senate, he passed the first major ethics reform in 25 years, cut taxes for working families, and expanded health care for children and their parents. As a United States Senator, he reached across the aisle to pass groundbreaking lobbying reform, lock up the world's most dangerous weapons and bring transparency to government by putting federal spending online.

He was elected the 44th president of the United States on November 4, 2008, and sworn in on January 20, 2009. He and his wife Michelle are the proud parents of two daughters, Malia, 17, and Sasha, 14.

Joseph R. Biden Jr.

United States Vice President

Elected November 4, 2008
Term expires January 2017

Joseph Robinette Biden, Jr., was born November 20, 1942, in Scranton, Pa., the first of four siblings. In 1953, the Biden family moved from Pennsylvania to Claymont, Del. He graduated from the University of Delaware and Syracuse Law School and served on the New Castle County Council. Then, at age 29, he became one of the youngest people ever elected to the United States Senate.

Just weeks after the election, tragedy struck the Biden family, when Biden's wife, Neilia, and their one-year-old daughter, Naomi, were killed and their two young sons critically injured in an auto accident. Vice President Biden was sworn in to the U.S. Senate at his sons' hospital bedsides and began commuting to Washington every day by train, a practice he maintained throughout his career in the Senate.

In 1977, Vice President Biden married Jill Jacobs. Jill Biden, who holds a Ph.D. in education, has been an educator for over two decades and currently teaches at a community college in Northern Virginia. The vice president's son, Beau (1969-2015) was Delaware's attorney general from 2007-2015 and a major in the 261st Signal Brigade of the Delaware National Guard. The vice president's other son, Hunter, is an attorney and chairman of the World Food Program USA. Ashley is a social worker and executive director of the Delaware Center for Justice. Vice President Biden has five grandchildren: Naomi, Finnegan, Roberta Mabel (Maisy), Natalie and Robert Hunter.

As a senator from Delaware for 36 years, Sen. Biden established himself as a leader on some of our nation's most important domestic and international challenges. As chair or ranking Member of the Senate Judiciary Committee for 17 years, then-Sen. Biden was widely recognized for his work on criminal justice issues including the landmark 1994 Crime Bill and the Violence Against Women Act. As chair or ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee since 1997, then-Sen. Biden played a pivotal role in shaping U.S. foreign policy. He has been at the forefront of issues and legislation related to terrorism, weapons of mass destruction, post-Cold War Europe, the Middle East and Southwest Asia.

Now, as the 47th vice president of the United States, Joe Biden has continued his leadership on important issues facing the nation. The vice president was tasked with implementing the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, helping to rebuild our economy and lay the foundation for a sustainable economic future. As part of his continued efforts to raise the living standards of middle class Americans across the country, Vice President Biden has also focused on the issues of college affordability and American manufacturing growth, key priorities of the administration.

Vice President Biden continues to draw on his foreign policy experience, advising the president on a multitude of international issues. He helped secure the Senate's approval of the New Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty (START) with Russia, together with significant new funding to maintain our nuclear laboratories. He played a lead role in ending the war in Iraq responsibly, traveling to the country eight times since being elected – most recently in December 2011 to mark the formal end of the war.

In addition, Vice President Biden has supported the administration's effort to reestablish leadership in the Asia Pacific, traveling to China, Japan and Mongolia in August 2011 and completing an exchange of visits with China's then-vice president in February 2012, that country's current leader. He has represented our country in every region of the world, advancing our unprecedented support for Israel's security, securing approval in Europe for the administration's more effective approach to missile defense, working with Latin American leaders to combat drug trafficking and international crime and building relations with key leaders in Africa. He has traveled to more than two dozen countries, including Germany, Belgium, Chile, Costa Rica, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Serbia, Kosovo, Lebanon, Georgia, Ukraine, Iraq, Poland, Romania, the Czech Republic, Israel, the Palestinian Territories, Jordan, Spain, Egypt, Kenya, South Africa, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Finland, Russia, Moldova, Italy, China, Mongolia, Japan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, Greece, Mexico, Honduras, Brazil, Colombia and Trinidad and Tobago.

CLAIRE McCASKILL (Democrat) The year Harry Truman left the presidency, Claire McCaskill's parents, Bill and Betty Anne, traveled to Rolla for the birth of their daughter. Not long after she was born, the family moved to Lebanon, Mo., where Betty Anne's family ran the corner drug store. Another move shortly thereafter landed Claire in Columbia, Mo., where she attended Hickman High School.

A product of Missouri's public schools, Claire began waiting tables at the Lake of the Ozarks the day after graduating high school, a job she would hold for six years to help pay her way through college and law school at the University of Missouri.

In 1982, McCaskill won a seat in the state legislature. Claire made history in 1992 when she became the first woman elected Jackson County prosecutor. As head of the largest prosecutor's office in the state, she launched one of the nation's first drug courts and established a domestic violence unit—a first-of-its-kind initiative for the region.

Claire won reelection and served as Jackson County prosecutor until 1999 when she was sworn in as state auditor. Her pursuit of accountability included audits of the state's Social Services Foster Care Program and child support enforcement, as well as domestic violence shelters and puppy mills.

In 2006, she became the first woman elected to the U.S. Senate from Missouri, winning the seat once held by Harry Truman.

Making good on a campaign pledge, Claire waged a successful effort to rein in wasteful wartime contracting practices—modeled on Truman's battle against war profiteering. During the final hours of Claire's first term, her signature legislation implementing historic wartime contracting reforms was signed into law.

Claire drew on her personal commitment to America's veterans, establishing a "secret shopper" program to improve health care services for Missouri's veterans. Following reports of neglect, she successfully pushed for the removal of Army officials managing Walter Reed Army Medical Center, and led the successful effort to reform management of Arlington National Cemetery after disclosures of mismarked gravesites.

When dozens of small towns across rural Missouri were threatened with post office closures, Claire waged a successful battle to protect those post offices, which she called "the lifeblood of rural Missouri."

Following reelection in 2012, her oversight panel was expanded into a permanent subcommittee charged with investigating waste, fraud and abuse at every federal agency. A tech leader with a penchant for communicating with constituents via Twitter, Claire was also named chair of the Subcommittee on Consumer Protection. In the first year of her second term, she launched investigations into areas including robocalls, inaccuracies on credit reports, security clearance background checks and the Pentagon's troubled POW/MIA recovery program.

As a senior member of the Armed Services Committee, Claire drew on her years as a prosecutor in leading efforts to curb sexual assaults in our armed forces.

Claire returns home nearly every weekend to spend time with her nine grandchildren. She and husband Joseph have a blended family of seven children, all but two of whom live in St Louis.

ROY BLUNT (Republican) Building on a background as a public servant, university president, and teacher, United States Senator Roy Blunt was elected to the United States Senate in 2010.

Senator Blunt serves as the Vice Chair of the Senate Republican Conference. He also serves on the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The people of Southwest Missouri overwhelmingly elected Senator Blunt seven times to the U.S. House of Representatives. Senator Blunt was elected the Majority Whip earlier in his career than any member of Congress in eight decades, and he was elected to the Senate leadership during his first year in the Senate.

Before serving in Congress, he was a history teacher, a county official, and in 1984 became the first Republican elected as Missouri's Secretary of State in more than 50 years. Senator Blunt also served four years as the president of Southwest Baptist University, his alma mater, in Bolivar, Missouri. Senator Blunt earned an M.A. in history from Missouri State University.

Senator Blunt is a member of the Smithsonian Council for American Art and is a Trustee of the State Historical Society of Missouri. Senator Blunt is also a member of the Kennedy Center Board of Trustees.

The Senator is married to Abigail Blunt and has four children: Matt Blunt, Missouri's 54th Governor; Amy Blunt, an attorney in Columbia, Mo.; Andy Blunt, an attorney in Jefferson City; and Charlie (age 10). Blunt has six grandchildren: Davis Mosby, Ben Blunt, Branch Blunt, Eva Mosby, Allyson Blunt and Brooks Blunt.

She ran as a Republican in the special election to serve out the remainder of the term in the seat held by her late husband, U.S. Rep. Bill Emerson, who died in June 1996. With not enough time for her name to be added to the ballot for the next full term in Congress, Jo Ann Emerson ran for the upcoming term as an Independent. She won both elections and began her congressional service during the 104th Congress, representing Missouri's eighth district starting in November 1996.
[22]Jo Ann Emerson resigned and Jason Smith was elected to fill the vacancy.

Historical Note: The election of early Missouri delegates was by general statewide ticket. In 1847, the state was divided into five congressional districts from which representatives were elected. In 1863, the districts were expanded to number nine, and 10 years later in 1873, Missouri was redistricted to allow for 13 congressional districts. By acts approved in 1882 and 1885, Missouri was allowed one additional district and in 1893, the congressional districts numbered 15. Missouri was allowed 16 districts in 1901; these were in place until 1933. In that year, the state was allotted 13 representatives, while the legislature redistricted the state. Those 13 representatives were elected at large (indicated by an asterisk (*) in the listing). The state has been redistricted at various times over the last 40 years, moving from 11 districts in the 1950s, to ten districts in the 1960s, to nine in the 1980s, to the current number of 8 congressional districts in 2011. Because of the redistricting, it may be necessary to check the Revised Statutes of Missouri to determine which Missouri counties were represented by a district during a particular year. Redistricting changes generally occur in the years following the taking of the federal census.

The Missouri General Assembly

Legislative power in Missouri is vested by Article III, Section 1 of the 1945 Constitution in the General Assembly, composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives. Their website is www.moga.mo.gov.

The Senate consists of 34 members elected for four-year terms. Senators from odd-numbered districts are elected in presidential election years. Senators from even-numbered districts are chosen in the midterm elections. Each senator must be at least 30 years of age, a qualified voter of the state for three years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The lieutenant governor is president and presiding officer of the Senate. In the absence of the lieutenant governor, the president pro tem, elected by the Senate members, presides.

The House of Representatives consists of 163 members, elected at each general election for a two-year term. A representative must be at least 24 years of age, a qualified voter of the state for two years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The House is presided over by the speaker, chosen by the members, and in the absence of the speaker by the speaker pro tem.

Reapportionment of both houses of the Missouri General Assembly following each decennial U.S. census is provided for by the Missouri Constitution.

Senators and representatives receive a salary of $35,904 per year, a weekly allowance for miles traveled going to and returning from their place of meeting and expenses for each day the General Assembly is in session.

Time of Meeting

The General Assembly convenes annually on the first Wednesday after the first Monday of January. Adjournment is midnight on May 30, with no consideration of bills after 6 p.m. on the first Friday after the second Monday in May. The General Assembly reconvenes on the first Wednesday following the second Monday in September for a period not to exceed 10 calendar days to consider vetoed bills.

A special session of the General Assembly may be called by petition of the General Assembly. If three-fourths of the members of the Senate and three-fourths of the members of the House sign the petition calling for a special session, the president pro tem of the Senate and the speaker of the House shall, by joint proclamation, convene the General Assembly in special session. The petition and proclamation must specifically state the subjects to be considered during the special session, and the signed petition must be filed with the secretary of state.

The General Assembly shall automatically stand adjourned sine die at 6 p.m. on the 30th calendar day after the convening of the special session unless it has adjourned sine die before the 30th day. No appropriation bill shall be considered in the special session if the General Assembly has not passed the operating budget in compliance with Article III, Section 25 of the Missouri Constitution.

The governor may convene the General Assembly in extraordinary session for a maximum of 60 calendar days at any time. Only subjects recommended by the governor in his or her call or a special message may be considered.

Organization of the General Assembly

Following the general election in November of even numbered years, the majority and minority members of each house caucus separately nominate candidates for the offices to be elected by each body and organize their parties for the coming session. Nominees of the majority party and minority party are elected. Each party names its floor leader, assistant floor leader, caucus chair and secretary.

Both houses of the General Assembly convene at noon on the opening day of the session. The Senate is called to order by the lieutenant governor. Temporary officers are named and the roll of new and incumbent senators is read. Newly elected senators are then sworn in, usually by a judge of the Supreme Court. The president pro tem and other permanent officers are then elected and take an oath of office administered by the president of the Senate.

The House of Representatives is called to order by the secretary of state and the oath is administered to all members. After the swearing-in ceremony, a roll call is taken and a temporary speaker is named. He or she presides for the nomination and election of permanent officers. Temporary rules, usually the rules in force for the preceding session, are adopted.

After each house notifies the other that it is duly organized, a House Resolution is adopted, inviting the Senate to a joint meeting to receive the governor's message. Under the Constitution, the governor, at the beginning of each session, delivers a message concerning state government with any recommendations he or she wishes to make for the enactment of legislation. This message is commonly referred to as the State of the State Address.

Each house determines its own rules. Procedures and rules may not be dispensed with, except by unanimous consent or concurrence by a constitutional majority. Both the Senate and House are required to keep a daily journal of their proceedings. At the end of the session, the journals are bound by the House and Senate. The secretary of state's office maintains microform copies of the journals.

Term Limits

In November 1992, the voters approved an amendment to the Missouri Constitution to limit for the first time the amount of total service in the House and Senate to eight years in each. Total legislative service was limited to sixteen years. In November 2002 voters approved an additional amendment to allow members elected through a special election, after the effective date, to serve the partial term and two full terms for the Senate and four full terms for the House, through a general election.

How Bills Become Laws

General Provisions

Bills may originate in either house and are designated as Senate Bills or House Bills, depending on the house in which they originate. No bill (except general appropriation bills) may contain more than one subject, which is to be expressed clearly in its title. No bill can be amended in its passage through either house so as to change its original purpose. No bill can be introduced in either house after the 60th legislative day of a session unless consented to by a majority of the elected members of each house. No appropriation bill shall be taken up for consideration after 6 p.m. on the first Friday following the first Monday in May of each year.

Introduction of a Bill

Missouri law provides for pre-introduction of bills beginning Dec. 1 preceding the opening of the assembly session and continuing up to, but not including, the first day of session. Bills filed during the pre-introduction period are automatically introduced and read the first time on the opening day of session.

Bills also may be introduced by any senator or representative during session. Bills may be written by the legislator or by staff drafting attorneys at the request of a senator or representative. When introduced, a bill is assigned a number and read for the first time by its title. It then goes on the calendar for second reading and assignment to committee by the speaker of the House or the president pro tem of the Senate.

A public hearing before the committee to which a bill is assigned is the next step in the legislative process. Except in the case of unusually controversial, complex or lengthy bills, the bill is presented by its sponsor, and both proponents and opponents are heard in a single hearing. When hearings are concluded, the committee meets to vote and makes its recommendations. The committee may (1) report the bill with the recommendation that it "do pass;" (2) recommend passage with committee amendments, which are attached to the bill; (3) return the bill without recommendation; (4) substitute in lieu of the original bill a new bill to be known as a committee substitute; (5) report the bill with a recommendation that it "do not pass;" or (6) make no report at all.

Perfection of a Bill

If a bill is reported favorably out of committee or a substitute is recommended, it may be placed on the "perfection calendar." When it is brought up for consideration, it is debated on the floor of the originating house. If a substitute is recommended by the committee or if committee amendments are attached to the bill, they are first presented, debated and voted upon. At this point, further amendments can be proposed by other members. When all amendments and substitutes have been considered, a motion is made to declare the bill perfected. Perfection is voted on by a voice vote or, on the request of five members, by roll call. If a majority of members vote to perfect, the bill is reprinted in its original or amended form.

Final Passage of a Bill

After perfection and reprinting, the bill goes on the calendar for third reading and final passage. When the bill is reached in the order of business, any member may speak for or against its passage, but no further amendments can be offered. At the conclusion of debate, a recorded vote is taken. Approval of a constitutional majority of the elected members (18 in the Senate and 82 in the House) is required for final passage.

Passage of the bill is then reported to the other chamber where it is first and second read, referred to committee for hearing, reported by committee, read a third time and offered for final approval. If further amendments or substitutes are approved, these are reported to the originating house with a request that the changes be approved. If the originating house does not approve, a conference may be requested and members from each house are designated as a conference committee. Upon agreement by the conference committee (usually a compromise of differences), each reports to its own house on the committee's recommendation. The originating house acts first on the conference committee version of the bill. If it is approved, it goes to the other house; upon approval there, the bill is declared "truly agreed to and finally passed." If either house rejects the conference committee report, it may be returned to the same or a newly appointed committee for further conferences.

Upon final passage, a bill is ordered enrolled, printed in its final form and the bills are closely compared and proofed for errors.

Signing of the Bill

Bills truly agreed to and finally passed in their printed form are then signed in open session by the House speaker and Senate president or president pro tem. At the time of signing, any member may file written objections, which are sent with the bill to the governor.

Governor's Part in Lawmaking

The governor has 15 days to act on a bill if it is sent to him during the legislative session and 45 days if the Legislature has adjourned or has recessed for a 30-day period.

If he or she signs a bill, it is returned to its house of origin with a message of approval, then delivered to the Office of the Secretary of State. The bill is delivered directly to the Office of the Secretary of State if the Legislature is not in session.

If the governor vetoes a bill, it is returned to the house of origin with his or her objections. A two-thirds vote by members of both houses is required to override a governor's veto.

If any bill is not returned by the governor within the time limits prescribed by Article III, Section 31 of the Missouri Constitution, it will become law in the same manner as if the governor had signed it.

Effective Date of Laws

The 1945 Constitution provides that no law passed by the General Assembly shall take effect until 90 days after the end of the session in which it was enacted, except an appropriation act or in case of an emergency, which must be expressed in the preamble or in the body of the act. Some bills specify the exact date when they are to take effect.

Duties of the Secretary of State

The secretary of state preserves and the state archives binds and maintains the finally printed and signed copy of the law. The laws are published annually by the Committee on Legislative Research in a volume titled Laws of Missouri.

The general statute laws are revised, digested and promulgated by the revisor of statutes, in the Office of the Committee on Legislative Research. These are known as the Revised Statutes of Missouri. The Committee on Legislative Research also publishes annual supplements to the statutes to include changes in laws since the last revision.

Joint Legislative Committees

Joint Committee on Administrative Rules

Room B-8, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7980
www.senate.mo.gov/jcar

The Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR) was created in 1975 and is a permanent joint committee of the General Assembly as provided in Chapter 536, RSMo. The Committee is comprised of five members of the Senate and five members of the House. In order to provide continuity in the operation of the committee, the statute authorizing the committee provides the appointment of each member shall continue during his or her term of office as a member of the General Assembly.

The Senate members are appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, while the representatives are appointed by the House speaker. No more than three members from each chamber may be of the same political party.

Under state law, the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules is to continuously monitor and review both proposed and existing rules promulgated by the various executive branch departments and divisions of state government. Citizens or interested organizations who have concerns about rules issued by state agencies can contact the committee with their concerns. In its review the committee is authorized to hold public hearings and review rules in question. Actions taken by the committee on rules and regulations of state agencies must be ratified by the full General Assembly through a concurrent resolution, which then must be signed by the governor. The goal of the Committee on Administrative Rules is to ensure a state agency does not exceed its statutory authority and that the agencies effectively accomplish their missions as mandated by the statutes.

The members of the committee are: Senators Schmitt, Silvey, Wallingford, Holsman, Sifton. Representatives Barnes, Burlison, Colona, McGaugh, Mitten.

Joint Committee on Child Abuse and Neglect

www.senate.mo.gov13info/comm/statutory/jccn.htm

The Joint Committee on Child Abuse and Neglect is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of seven members of the House of Representatives, appointed by the speaker and the minority floor leader of the House of Representatives; and seven members of the Senate, appointed by the president pro tem and the minority floor leader of the Senate. The duties of the committee are set forth in Section 21.771, RSMo.

Members are: Senators Dixon, Schaefer, Riddle, Schaaf, Chappelle-Nadal, Curls, Schupp. Representatives Lant, Franklin, Haefner, Hubrecht, May, Kirkton, Meredith.

Joint Committee on Education

Room 502, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7987
www.senate.mo.gov/13info/comm/statutory/jced.htm

The Joint Committee on Education was created in 2004 and is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of seven members of the Senate and seven members of the House. The committee meets to review and monitor the progress of education in the state's public schools; receive reports from the commissioner of education concerning the public schools; conduct a study and analysis of the public school system; make recommendations to the General Assembly for legislative action; and conduct an in-depth study concerning all issues relating to the equity and adequacy of the distribution of state school aid, teachers' salaries, funding for school buildings and overall funding levels for schools and any other education funding-related issues the committee deems relevant. Duties of the committee are set forth in Section 160.254, RSMo.

Members are: Senators Romine, Pearce, Riddle, Schaefer, Wieland, Holsman, Nasheed. Representatives Wood, Cookson, Lair, Swan, Allen, Mims, Pierson.

Joint Committee on Government Accountability

www.senate.mo.gov/13info/comm/statutory/jcga.htm

The Joint Committee on Government Accountability was created in 2004 by House Bill 1599. It is composed of seven members each of the House and the Senate. The bill requires continuing studies and analysis of state government; the determination of the appropriate methods to obtain relevant data at least biennially from each state entity in regard to its function, duties, and performance; and recommendations on any needed changes to statutory law, rules or policies.

Members are: Senators Emery, Kraus, Schaefer, Schmitt, Chappelle-Nadal, Nasheed, Walsh. Representatives Conway, Curtman, Engler, Pierson, Richardson, Rizzo, Walton Gray.

Joint Committee on Legislative Research

Research Division
Room 117A State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 751-4223
www.moga.mo.gov/legres/legreshome.htm

The Committee on Legislative Research is a permanent joint committee as provided by Sof Article III, Section 35 of the Missouri Constitution.

The committee is composed of 20 members of the General Assembly, with 10 members appointed by the leaders of each chamber. No major party may have more than six members appointed as members from either chamber.

The committee is directed by statute to provide a variety of services for the General Assembly and its members. The committee's offices and staff are divided into two divisions, a Research Division and an Oversight Division. The committee itself is not a policy making group and formulates no legislative program. Its staff renders only such technical and professional assistance as may be requested by the General Assembly or any of its members, or as required by statute.

The Research Division provides bill drafting assistance, prepares concurrent and courtesy resolutions, operates a legislative reference library and publishes the Revised Statutes of Missouri and subsequent supplements, and Session Laws of Missouri.

Bills are drawn at the request of any member of the General Assembly, but the fact that a bill has been drafted by a member of the staff does not carry with it the endorsement of the Committee on Legislative Research. All bill requests are treated confidentially by the bill drafter and without comment or criticism of the subject matter.

One need of state government is a modern legislative reference library. The library maintained by the Committee on Legislative Research continuously acquires books, pamphlets, periodicals and reports and the staff works closely with the staff of the Missouri State Library and the Supreme Court Library.

Through its acquisitions, exchanges and loans with other libraries, the legislative library provides much of the material requested by members of the General Assembly for the analysis of public questions and provides a research tool for bill drafting and research services.

Courtesy resolutions continue to be of great importance to members of the General Assembly. More than 600 per month are prepared by the resolution-writers for a variety of observances.

The Oversight Division is supervised by a subcommittee of the Committee on Legislative Research. The Oversight Division is responsible for preparing fiscal notes on all bills pending before the General Assembly with the exception of appropriation bills. Fiscal notes must state the cost of the proposed legislation to the state for the next two fiscal years; whether the proposal would establish a program or agency which would duplicate an existing program or agency; whether the provisions of the proposal were federally mandated; whether the proposal would have significant direct fiscal impact upon any political subdivision of the state; whether any new physical facilities would be required; and whether an impact to small businesses would be expected. The division prepares approximately 3,000 fiscal notes during a regular legislative session.

The Oversight Division is authorized to perform management and program evaluations of state agencies and is assigned work pursuant to a duly adopted concurrent resolution of the General Assembly or a resolution adopted by the Committee on Legislative Research. The division conducts the evaluations in accordance with government auditing standards set forth by the U.S. Government Accountability Office. The management and program evaluations of the division provide the General Assembly with important information regarding the status of programs they have created and the expenditure of funds they have authorized.

In 2003, the Oversight Division was authorized to perform sunset reviews of any new program enacted into law. Each new program that is enacted will have a sunset date period of not more than six years. A program may be re-authorized for a period of up to 12 years. The committee shall issue a report to the General Assembly with recommendations on whether the program should continue, be reorganized, sunset or consolidated within state agencies not under review.

Committee members are: Senators Dixon, Munzlinger, Parson, Schaefer, Silvey, Wallingford, Holsman, Sifton, Walsh. Representatives Engler, Allen, Conway, Flanigan, Jones, Fitzpatrick, Gardner, McDonald, Pierson, Shaul.

Joint Committee on Life Sciences

The Joint Committee on Life Sciences is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of seven members of the Senate and seven members of the House of Representatives. The duties of the committee are set forth in Section 21.805.1, RSMo.

Members are: Senators Brown, Munzlinger, Richard, Wasson. Representatives Frederick, Rowden, Zerr, Carpenter, McNeil.

Joint Committee on MO HealthNet

www.senate.mo.gov/13info/comm/statutory/jcmh.htm

The Joint Committee on MO HealthNet was created in 2007 and is a statutory joint committee under Section 208.952, RSMo. Missouri's Medicaid program was renamed "MO HealthNet" and various new provisions pertaining to the program were adopted in that same year. The committee has been charged with the study of the resources needed to continue and improve the MO HealthNet program over time.

The committee consists of ten members of the general assembly, five from the Senate and five from House of Representatives, with no more than three members from each house from the same party. In addition, the committee shall consist of members from the appropriate budget and appropriations committees assigned to MO HealthNet and health related matters.

The committee is tasked with making recommendations in a report to the general assembly by January first each year on anticipated growth in the MO HealthNet program, needed improvements, anticipated appropriations, and suggested strategies on ways to structure the state budget in order to satisfy the future needs of the program.

Members are: Senators Brown, Schmitt, Schaefer, Curls.

Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement

Room 219A, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7990
www.jcper.org

The Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement (JCPER) was created in 1983 and is a permanent joint committee as provided in Chapter 21, RSMo.

The committee is composed of 12 members of the General Assembly; six appointed from the House of Representatives by the speaker and six appointed from the Senate by the president pro tem. No political party may be represented on the committee by more than three members from the Senate, nor by more than three members from the House of Representatives.

The Joint Committee on Public Employees Retirement is directed by statute to:

1) make a continuing study and analysis of all state and local government retirement systems;

2) devise a standard reporting system to obtain data on each public employee retirement system that will provide information on each system's financial and actuarial status at least biennially;

3) determine from its study and analysis the need for changes in statutory law; and

4) make any other recommendations to the General Assembly necessary to provide adequate retirement benefits to state and local government employees within the ability of taxpayers to support their future costs.

The committee is required to meet at least quarterly and may subpoena witnesses or records and may take testimony under oath in matters pertaining to public employee retirement.

Members are: Senators Kehoe, Schaaf, Chappelle-Nadal, Keaveny, Wallingford, Walsh. Representatives Bernskoetter, Leara, Runions, Anders, Pierson, Walker.

Joint Committee on Tax Increment Financing

The Joint Committee on Tax Increment Financing is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. Established pursuant to Chapter 99, Section 863, RSMo.

Members are: Senators Romine, Kraus. Representatives Allen, Leara.

Joint Committee on Tax Policy

Room 235C, State Capitol
Jefferson City 65101
Telephone: (573) 522-7995
www.senate.mo.gov/taxpolicy/

The Joint Committee on Tax Policy is a statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of five members of the Senate and five members of the House of Representatives. It is the duty of the committee to:

1) make a continuing study and analysis of the current and proposed tax policy of this state;

2) make a continuing study and review of the department of revenue, the department of economic development, the state tax commission, and any other state agency, commission, or state executive office responsible for the administration of tax policies;

3) study the effects of the coupling or decoupling with the federal income tax code as it relates to the state income tax;

4) make recommendations, as and when the committee deems fit, to the General Assembly for legislative action or to report findings and to the departments, commissions and offices for administrative or procedural changes;

5) study the effects of a sales tax holiday; and

6) examine and assess the public benefit of any tax credit program that is the subject of an audit by the state auditor.

Members are: Senators Kraus, Hegeman, Onder, Chappelle-Nadal, Curls. Representatives Haefner, Jones, Smith.

Joint Committee on Transportation Oversight

www.senate.mo.gov/13info/comm/statutory/jcto.htm

The Joint Committee on Transportation Oversight was created in 1998 and is a permanent, statutory committee of the General Assembly. It is composed of seven members of the House of Representatives, and seven members of the Senate. The duties of the committee are set forth in Section 21.795, RSMo.

Members are: Senators Libla, Dixon, Munzlinger, Romine, Schatz, Chappelle-Nadal, Curls. Representatives Kolkmeyer, Korman, Lant, Rone, Burns., May, McDonald.

Missouri's Judicial System

From its inception in 1820, Missouri state government constitutionally has been divided into three separate branches—legislative, executive and judicial. The judicial branch's function is not to make the laws of the state or to administer them but to adjudicate the controversies that arise between persons and parties, to determine fairly and justly the guilt or innocence of persons charged with criminal offenses and to interpret the laws of the state as enacted by the legislature and carried out by the executive branch.

The roots of Missouri's judicial branch reach back to the days when Missouri was a part of the Missouri Territory controlled by the French and Spanish. When Missouri officially was organized as a territory in 1812, the judicial power was vested in a superior court, inferior courts and justices of the peace. The Constitution of 1820, the state's first constitution, placed the judicial power in a Supreme Court, chancery courts (later abolished by the General Assembly) and circuit and other courts to be established by the legislature.

Today, Missouri has a three-tier court system. Article V of the constitution, as amended by Missouri voters in 1976, vests the judicial power in a Supreme Court, the state's highest court, with statewide jurisdiction; in a court of appeals consisting of districts established by the General Assembly; and in a system of circuit courts that have original jurisdiction over all cases and matters, civil and criminal.

Effective Jan. 2, 1979, the circuit court system absorbed all former courts of limited jurisdiction and became the state's single trial court. Cases once heard in magistrate and probate courts, in the St. Louis Court of Criminal Corrections, in the Hannibal and Cape Girardeau courts of common pleas, and in municipal and other local courts, now are heard in appropriate divisions of the circuit courts.

All the judges of these former courts have become either circuit, associate circuit or municipal judges. They may hear and determine different classes of cases within their respective circuits. A presiding judge, elected by the other judges in the circuit, has general administrative authority over all judicial personnel in the circuit. He or she may assign other judges throughout the circuit to relieve caseload and administrative backlogs. The Supreme Court and court of appeals have general superintending control over all courts and tribunals within their jurisdictions. Original remedial writs may be issued and determined at each level of the court system. Decisions of the Supreme Court are controlling in all other state courts.

Selection of Judges

In the first 30 years of Missouri's statehood, the judges of the supreme, circuit and chancery courts were appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. After much public discussion, the constitution was amended in 1850 to provide for the popular election of judges, and this system remains in effect for most Missouri courts today. In most circuits, the judges are elected by the voters in partisan elections.

In 1940, Missouri voters amended the constitution by adopting the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," which was placed on the ballot by initiative petition and which provides for the nonpartisan (non-political) appointment of certain judges, rather than having them popularly elected.

The constitution, as amended further in 1976, provides that the Nonpartisan Court Plan applies in the Supreme Court, the court of appeals and the circuit courts within the City of St. Louis and Jackson County. In addition, voters in Clay, Greene, Platte and St. Louis counties have elected to institute the plan, and the Kansas City charter extends a nonpartisan selection plan to Kansas City municipal court judges. While all other judges are elected in partisan elections, other judicial circuits may adopt the plan on approval by a majority of the voters in the circuit.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled through a nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons and lawyers. The commission selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor then appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation, and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Every supreme, appellate, circuit and associate circuit court judge must be licensed to practice law in Missouri. By constitutional amendment and statute, all judges must retire by age 70.

History and Organization

The Supreme Court has been the state's highest court since 1820, when the first Missouri Constitution was adopted. The earliest court, consisting of only three members, was required to hold sessions in four different judicial circuits in the state. At various times, the court sat in Boonville, Cape Girardeau, Fayette, Hannibal, Jackson, Lexington, St. Charles, St. Louis and other cities.

The size of the Supreme Court was increased to five judges in 1872 and to its present size—seven judges—in 1890. Because of the court's increasing caseload, commissioners were appointed for a brief period in the 1880s. In 1911, the legislature authorized the court to appoint four commissioners, and in 1927, the number was changed to six. The commissioners were required to possess the same qualifications as judges of the Supreme Court. They received the same compensation and were appointed for four-year terms. The commissioners heard cases along with the judges, and their written opinions, if approved by the court, were issued as opinions of the court.

Under terms of the 1970 constitutional amendment of Article V, the offices of the commissioners ceased to exist when the individuals holding the offices retired, resigned, died or were removed from office.

In 1890, the Supreme Court was divided into two divisions to permit it to handle and decide more cases in a shorter time. Under the present constitution, the court may sit en banc (all seven judges together) or in as many divisions as the court determines are needed. Today, cases are assigned to and decided by the court en banc.

Supreme Court Jurisdiction

Originally, the Supreme Court had only the traditional powers to decide cases on appeal from the lower courts (either the circuit courts or the court of appeals) and to issue and determine original remedial writs, such as those in habeas corpus, mandamus and prohibition. The Constitution of 1945 also authorized the court to establish rules for practice and procedure in the courts and to make temporary transfers of judicial personnel from court to court. Maintaining and updating the rules is a continuous process requiring substantial time. Each year, the Supreme Court, through its Office of State Courts Administrator, transfers several hundred court personnel on a temporary basis to assist other courts. This usually is done when a judge has been disqualified by the parties in a case or when a judge's docket has become overly crowded and the judge cannot handle all the cases expeditiously.

The constitutional amendments of 1976 and 1982 defined the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court more narrowly than in the past, resulting in its receiving fewer cases on appeal and directing more appeals to the court of appeals. Now the Supreme Court has exclusive appellate jurisdiction in all cases involving: the validity of a treaty or statute of the United States or of a statute or provision of the Missouri Constitution, the construction of the state's revenue laws, the title to any state office and the death penalty.

Cases do not have to fall within this area of exclusive jurisdiction, however, to reach the Supreme Court. The court may order cases transferred to it from the court of appeals if the cases involve questions of general interest or importance, if the court believes the existing law should be re-examined or for other reasons provided by rule of the court. The court of appeals also may order a case transferred to the Supreme Court either by order of the court of appeals itself or by the dissent of a court of appeals judge, if that judge certifies the court of appeals opinion is contrary to previous decisions of the Supreme Court or of other districts of the court of appeals.

In addition to its decision-making powers, the Supreme Court supervises all lower courts in the state. It is assisted in this task by its Office of State Courts Administrator, established in 1970. The Supreme Court also licenses all lawyers practicing in Missouri and disciplines those found guilty of violating the legal rules of professional conduct.

Qualifications and Terms

Supreme Court judges must be at least 30 years of age, licensed to practice law in Missouri, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years. Supreme Court judges are retained for 12-year terms. They earn $147,591 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

Chief Justice

The seven judges of the Supreme Court select one of their members to be chief justice and preside over the court. The chief justice also handles many of the administrative details for the court. The present practice of the court is to rotate the position of chief justice every two years. The chief justice earns $154,215 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

The court hears oral arguments each month from September through May. Court sessions are open to the public, and oral arguments are broadcast live and are archived through the court's website, www.courts.mo.gov.

Supreme Court Building

The Supreme Court Building, a three-story, red brick structure of French Renaissance architecture, was completed in 1907 and stands opposite the Capitol Building. By statute, it houses the attorney general's offices as well as those of the Supreme Court. The building's main features are a massive marble staircase in the lobby and the two-story high library. The building has been refurbished extensively and modernized with the use of monies appropriated by the General Assembly.

Clerk's Office

The clerk of the Supreme Court is responsible for a wide range of duties, including the supervision of the internal administrative function of the court itself as well as the planning and administrative direction of the Judicial Conference of Missouri, the organization comprising all of the state judges.

Supreme Court Function

The court's day-to-day administrative duties include handling all inquiries and procedural requests from attorneys throughout the state, arranging the docketing (scheduling) of cases, maintaining files in each case before the court, receiving and disposing of fees related to those cases and distributing opinions of the court. In all of these matters, the clerk reports directly to the chief justice.

Missouri Bar Responsibilities

Telephone: (573) 635-4128
www.mobar.org

The clerk of the Supreme Court has a number of additional duties relating to The Missouri Bar and supervising the admission of new attorneys.

Among the records required to be maintained by the clerk are the official and permanent roll of attorneys for the State of Missouri. The clerk's office also prepares, on request, certificates evidencing admission to The Missouri Bar. By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is treasurer of the state board of law examiners, which conducts bar examinations twice yearly. The clerk also supervises the court's semiannual enrollment ceremonies and prepares all attorney licenses.

By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is ex officio treasurer of both The Missouri Bar and the advisory committee and is responsible for collecting the annual attorney enrollment fee and distributing Missouri Bar membership cards to all attorneys licensed to practice in Missouri. He or she is responsible for maintaining the official records of The Missouri Bar and the bar fund and for preparing annual financial reports for publication in the Journal of The Missouri Bar. The clerk is also responsible for conducting annual elections for The Missouri Bar Board of Governors.

Supreme Court Library

www.courts.mo.gov

The Supreme Court Library, which is on the second floor of the Supreme Court Building, contains more than 110,000 volumes. These include decisions of state and federal courts as well as state and federal administrative agencies, Missouri-approved jury instructions, state and federal statutes, legal periodicals and treatises. In addition, the library contains computer research services for the use of court personnel.

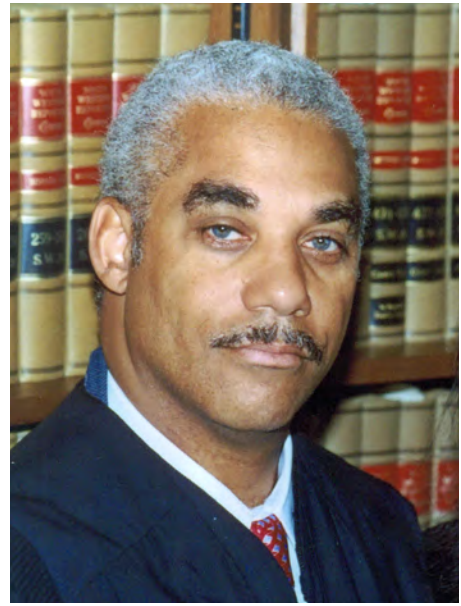
The library's main responsibility is to meet the research needs of the Supreme Court, the attorney general's office, the General Assembly and the state's executive department agencies, but it also provides resources to members of the bench and bar and the general public. It is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, throughout the year, excluding state holidays.

Patricia Breckenridge
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court

PATRICIA BRECKENRIDGE was elected chief justice by her colleagues for a two-year term beginning July 1, 2015. She was born and raised in Nevada and was educated in the Nevada public schools. She attended the Univ. of Arkansas–Fayetteville and the Univ. of Mo.–Columbia, where she earned a B.S. and J.D. She was admitted to The Missouri Bar in 1978. Following law school, she practiced law in the firm Russell, Brown, Bickel & Breckenridge. While practicing, she served as an assistant municipal judge for the City of Nevada.

In 1982, she was appointed associate circuit-judge of Vernon County. Chief Justice Breckenridge was elected to that position until 1990, when she was appointed to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District. There, she authored more than 900 opinions and participated in more than 2,700 cases. Chief Justice Breckenridge was appointed to the Supreme Court of Missouri, 2007.

She served as chair to the Supreme Court's Judicial Education Coordinating Commission for six years and served as a faculty member at the new judges' orientation for 12 years. She established the Judicial Education's Civic Education Committee in 2011, and served as chair for four years. She is a founding faculty member of Missouri's Court Management Institute program, receiving her certification in Purposes and Responsibilities of Courts from the National Center of State Courts, Williamsburg, Va. Chief Justice Breckenridge also served as liaison to the Family Court Committee and liaison to the Joint Committee on Gender and Justice for six years.



Chief Justice Breckenridge is an Elwood L. Thomas American Inn of Court Master, and also serves as a member of the Missouri Crossover Youth Policy team, American Bar Assoc., The Missouri Bar, the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Assoc., the National Assoc. of Women Judges, the Assoc. for Women Lawyers of Kansas City, and the Missouri Assoc. of Probate and Associate Circuit Judges. She was a member of the Casey Family Programs' National Impact Outcomes Committee, 2012–2013. She has served on the board of directors of Lawyers Encouraging Economic Performance and the Missouri Institute for Justice. Chief Justice Breckenridge was a member of the Missouri Task Force on Gender and Justice and co-chair of the Missouri Gender Fairness Implementation Joint Committee of the Supreme Court of Missouri and The Missouri Bar.

She has received The Missouri Bar President's Award, the University of Missouri School of Law's Citation of Merit, Association of Women Lawyers of Greater Kansas City's Judicial Recognition Award, Judge of the Year and Special Achievement Award, Daily Record's Legal Leader Award, the Nevada Rotary International Citizen of the Year, Nevada Business and Professional Women Woman of the Year, Soroptimist International of Nevada Women Helping Women and Woman of Distinction and the Ozark Area Girl Scout Council Woman of Distinction. Chief Justice Breckenridge has served both the Kansas City and Nevada communities through numerous civic and charitable activities. In Kansas City, she was a mentor and tutor for children at St. Vincent's Operation Breakthrough. She served on the board of directors and as president of the Mattie Rhodes Center, and on the board of directors of Cabot West Side Clinic and the University of Health Sciences, College of Osteopathic Medicine. In Nevada, she served as president of Soroptimist International of Nevada and the Business and Professional Women of Nevada, on the board of directors for the Home Health Advisory Board and was a member of Rotary International of Nevada. She is a member of PEO Sisterhood, Chapter DW and the United Methodist Church of Nevada.

She married Bryan C. Breckenridge on May 15, 1976. She and Bryan live in Nevada and maintain a home in Columbia. She was retained by Missouri voters at the November 2008 general election for a term expiring Dec. 31, 2020.

George W. Draper III
Judge of the Supreme Court

GEORGE W. DRAPER III was born Aug. 5, 1953, in St. Louis. He attended Hamilton Elementary School in north St. Louis City until his family moved to Silver Spring, Md., in 1964. In 1977, he graduated from Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., with a bachelor's degree in psychology. After earning his law degree in 1981 from Howard University School of Law in Washington, D.C., he served as a law clerk to Judge Shellie Bowers in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

Draper worked for the circuit attorney of the City of St. Louis as assistant prosecuting attorney from 1984 to 1994. There he served as assistant prosecutor, then team leader and, finally, as first assistant, for which he handled numerous felony prosecutions.

In 1994, Draper was appointed associate circuit judge in St. Louis County by Gov. Mel Carnahan. While serving on this court, Draper presided over 60 to 200 cases each week and was assigned specially to 12 jury trials. In 1998, he was appointed to circuit judge in St. Louis County by Gov. Carnahan. He presided over the civil, criminal, family court and juvenile division throughout his time as a trial judge.

In 2000, Gov. Carnahan appointed Judge Draper to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District. Draper served as that court's first African-American chief judge from July 2005 to June 2006. While on that court, he also served by special assignment on the Appellate Apportionment Commission, a constitutional commission created to resolve redistricting disputes, and on the court's rules, security and facilities committees. His October 2011 appointment to the Supreme Court of Missouri by Gov. Jeremiah Nixon makes Draper one of the few judges to have served at every level of Missouri's current court system.

When not on the bench, Draper counsels students interested in legal careers and has served as a mentor to attorneys deferred from practicing.

Draper is a member of the Mound City Bar Association, the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis, the Lawyer's Association of St. Louis, the National Bar Association and the Missouri Asian Bar Association. He is an inaugural member of the Gallery of St. Louis Legal Pioneers within the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis. He is a member and vice president of the board of Covenant Community Church in north St. Louis County. He also is a member of the Prince Hall Free and Accepted Masons.

As an advocate for continuing legal education, Draper has organized and presented numerous programs. He also has served as a panelist on the Mound City Bar Association's program "Mistakes to Avoid" and at the judicial forum hosted by the Missouri Association of Trial Attorneys.

In addition to his service to the court, Draper has taught trial advocacy as an adjunct professor at Saint Louis University School of Law from 1996 to the present.

Draper's wife, Judy Preddy Draper, is an associate circuit judge in St. Louis County and previously served as general counsel for the Missouri Department of Corrections. They have a daughter, Chelsea, who graduated from Amherst College in Amherst, Mass., and is presently a student at Washington University School of Law in St. Louis.

Zel M. Fischer
Judge of the Supreme Court

ZEL M. FISCHER was born in Hamburg, Iowa, on April 28, 1963, and grew up in Watson, Mo.

Judge Fischer was educated in Rock Port public schools. He attended William Jewell College, in Liberty, Mo., and received his B.A. in philosophy and political science in 1985. He is the recipient of the Harry S Truman Most Outstanding Political Science Major for the class of 1985.

He graduated from the University of Missouri–Kansas City School of Law with distinction in 1988. He is the recipient of the Order of the Bench and Robe, the American Jurisprudence Award from the UMKC School of Law and was a member of UMKC Law Review. He is the original author of Chapter 40, Strict Liability of Product Manufacturers and Sellers — Manufacturing Defect of the Products Liability Handbook, published by the University of Missouri–Kansas City, Continuing Legal Education.

Judge Fischer was admitted to The Missouri Bar in 1988. Upon graduation, he served for one year as a law clerk for the Honorable Andrew Jackson Higgins of the Supreme Court of Missouri. From 1989–1992, he practiced law in the Law Offices of James D. Boggs in Kansas City. From 1992–2006, he engaged in a solo law practice in northwest Missouri. In November 2006, he was elected associate circuit judge for Atchison County, in the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and served in that capacity until his appointment to the Supreme Court of Missouri in October 2008.

Judge Fischer was selected as an ASTAR Fellow by the board of directors of the Advanced Science and Technology Adjudication Resource Center for his knowledge and ability to preside over complex cases involving science or technology issues. The National Courts and Science Institute (NCSI) is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to training judges in science. Recently, the NCSI board of directors selected him to be the vice president and chair of the executive committee.

Judge Fischer is an active member of his church and community.

Judge Fischer was married July 13, 1985, to the former Julie Ann Moore. They have four children.

Judge Fischer was appointed to the Supreme Court by Gov. Matt Blunt on Oct. 15, 2008, and was retained at the 2010 general election for a 12-year term expiring Dec. 31, 2022.

Mary R. Russell
Judge of the Supreme Court

MARY R. RUSSELL, a seventh-generation Missourian, was raised on a dairy farm in Ralls County, near Hannibal, where she learned the value of hard work. She graduated valedictorian from Hannibal High School and summa cum laude from Truman State University. She received her J.D. from the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law.

Upon graduation from law school, Judge Russell clerked for the Honorable George Gunn of the Supreme Court of Missouri. She later practiced law in Hannibal with the law firm of Clayton and Rhodes until her appointment to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District in 1995. At the Court of Appeals, she served as chief judge from 1999–2000.

Judge Russell is active in many professional and legal organizations around the state and country. Always promoting the administration of justice, Judge Russell is currently on the Board of Directors of the National Courts and Science Institute, and a member of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar. She has served as second vice-president of the Conference of Chief Justices; on the Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline of Judges; Missouri Lawyers Trust Account Foundation; Young Lawyers Council of The Missouri Bar; numerous Missouri Bar committees; the Supreme Court Civil Rules Committee; and the Appellate Practice Committee. She is a past co-chair of the Appellate Practice Committee of BAMSL and has served as chair on other committees in BAMSL.

She has been a member on a variety of statewide boards and commissions, including the Board of Governors of Truman State Univ. (president, 1996), Missouri State Senate Reapportionment Commission in 1991, the Missouri Council on Women's Economic Development, the Missouri Job Development and Training Council and, in 2009, she was the president of the board of directors of Missouri's Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA). Currently, she serves on the Missouri Press-Bar Commission and is a trustee of the State Historical Society of Missouri.

Judge Russell is the recipient of numerous awards, including the Women's Justice Award, the Faculty/Alumni Award from the University of Missouri-Columbia, the Citation of Merit Award from the University of Missouri–Columbia Law School, the Distinguished Alumni Award-Truman State University, the Legal Services of Eastern Missouri Equal Justice Award, the Lasting Legacy award from Missouri CASA, the Soroptomist International Women Helping Women Award, the Jefferson City Rotarian of the Year, Zonta Woman of Achievement in Jefferson City, the Matthews-Dickey Boys & Girls Club Appreciation Award, a Henry Toll Fellow, the Kirkwood Citizen of the Year and she was named in 2015 to the Ingram's 50 Missourians You Should Know. She is a member of the Missouri Academy of Squires and the Rollins Society of the University of Missouri.

Active in many community organizations, Judge Russell is a member of the BackStoppers, Inc., Missouri Women's Forum, Jefferson City Rotary Club (past president), PEO, Grace Episcopal Church and The Tuesday Club. She also volunteers as a truancy court judge at Lewis and Clark Middle School in Jefferson City. She was active in many organizations in Hannibal and Kirkwood prior to her move to Jefferson City.

Judge Russell is easily approachable and devotes much time to mentoring young people. In addition to lecturing to many attorney organizations and continuing education programs, she spends many hours demystifying the court system by speaking to community groups and students.

Judge Russell and her husband, Jim, live in Jefferson City. She was appointed to the Supreme Court in 2004 and was retained by the voters in November 2006 for a 12-year term. She was elected chief justice by her colleagues for a two-year term beginning July 1, 2013, and ending on June 30, 2015.

Laura Denvir Stith
Judge of the Supreme Court

LAURA DENVIR STITH was born in St. Louis on October 30, 1953. She was raised in St. Louis and graduated with honors from the John Burroughs School, 1971. She received a National Merit Scholarship to attend Tufts University in Boston, Mass. While there, she was an Iglauer Fellowship Intern in Washington, DC, for Sen. Thomas Eagleton, 1973. She studied at the University of Madrid through a program administered by the Institute of European Studies. In 1975, she graduated magna cum laude from Tufts, receiving her B.A. in political science and social psychology. She then attended the Georgetown University Law Center, distinguishing herself as an editor of the Law and Policy in International Business Journal. Judge Stith graduated magna cum laude from Georgetown in 1978.

Following her graduation from law school, Judge Stith served for one year as a law clerk to the Honorable Robert E. Seiler of the Missouri Supreme Court. In 1979, she moved to Kansas City and practiced law with the firm of Shook, Hardy & Bacon, becoming a partner of the firm in 1984 and later co-founding the firm's appellate practice group.

In the fall of 1994, Gov. Mel Carnahan appointed Judge Stith to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District. She was retained in the November 1996 general election. During her time on the court of appeals, Judge Stith authored over 400 opinions in cases involving nearly every area of state law.

Governor Bob Holden appointed Judge Stith to the Supreme Court of Missouri effective March 7, 2001, and she was retained in the November 2002 general election, and again at the 2014 general election. She is the second woman in Missouri history to serve on the state's Supreme Court. She served as chief justice of the court from July 1, 2007, through June 30, 2009.

Judge Stith has been involved in many organizations in the legal community. She has served as chair of the Gender and Justice Joint Committee of The Missouri Bar and the Missouri Supreme Court. She was a founding director of Lawyers Encouraging Academic Performance (LEAP), an inter-bar lawyers' public service organization. She has served as president and member of the board of directors of the Association for Women Lawyers (AWL) of Greater Kansas City, chair and vice-chair of the Missouri Bar Civil Practice and Procedure Committee, chair of the Appellate Practice Committee and vice-chair of the Tort Law Committee of the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association (KCMBA) and is a member of the American Bar Association (ABA).

Judge Stith has served as a speaker on appellate practice at the annual conventions of the ABA, Missouri Bar, Missouri Association of Trial Attorneys (MATA) and Missouri Organization of Defense Lawyers (MODL). She has also served as a speaker or moderator on civil procedure and evidence at The Missouri Bar, KCMBA, AWL, and University of Missouri–Kansas City Continuing Legal Education (CLE) programs and as a speaker on gender bias at the Missouri New Judges School. She has authored many publications, including Stith, A Contrast of State and Federal Court Authority to Grant Habeas Relief, 38 Val. U .L. Rev. 421 (Spring 2004); Stith and Root, The Missouri Nonpartisan Court Plan: The Least Political Method of Selecting High Quality Judges, 74 Mo. L. Rev. 711 (2009); and Stith, Just Because You Can Measure Something, Does it Really Count?, 58 Duke L.J. 1743 (2009).

Judge Stith has been actively involved in many community activities in Kansas City, serving as a mentor and tutor to young students at St. Vincent's Operation Breakthrough and a guest speaker at many local civic organizations, talking about the law, the role of the courts and public service.

Judge Stith is married to fellow attorney Donald G. Scott. Mr. Scott served as a law clerk for Judge Warren D. Welliver of the Supreme Court of Missouri. He is a shareholder in McDowell, Rice, Smith and Buchanan, P.C., in Kansas City. They have three daughters.

Richard B. Teitelman
Judge of the Supreme Court

RICHARD B. TEITELMAN opened a solo law practice after graduating from law school. In 1975, he joined Legal Services of Eastern Missouri, serving for 23 years—18 of those as executive director and general counsel.

Judge Teitelman served on the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, from 1998 to 2002, when he was appointed to the Supreme Court of Missouri, becoming the first legally blind and the first Jewish member of the court. He was retained in the 2004 general election. He was elected chief justice for a two-year term beginning July 1, 2011 and served on the Executive Council of the Judicial Conference of Missouri. He serves as second vice president of the Conference of Chief Justices.

In his pursuit of equality and access to justice for all, Judge Teitelman is currently a member of the African-American/Jewish Task Force. He served on the board of the American Jewish Congress and is a member of the board of the American Association of Jewish Lawyers and Jurists. He served on the Midwest Board of the American Federation for the Blind; as a board member of the St. Louis Public Library; and is a lifetime member of the Urban League of St. Louis.

Devoted to the administration of justice, Judge Teitelman is a Life Patron Fellow of the American Bar Association (ABA). He served on the executive committee of the ABA Appellate Judicial Conference and the American Judicature Society (AJS) and is an AJS delegate to the ABA House of Delegates. He has served as president of the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis (BAMSL); president of the BAMSL Young Lawyers Section; charter member and president of the St. Louis Bar Foundation; and vice president and president-elect of The Missouri Bar. He was chair of the bar's Delivery of Legal Services Committee. He is a Life Fellow of and serves as ex officio of the Missouri Bar Foundation; trustee of the National Council of Bar Foundations; and served as chair of the ABA Commission on Mental and Physical Disability Law. He served as a member of the ABA Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service.

Judge Teitelman's dedication to the legal services program has earned him many honors, including the prestigious Missouri Bar President's Award, the American Council for the Blind's Durward K. McDaniel Ambassador Award, the Women's Legal Caucus Good Guy Award, the Mound City Bar Association Legal Service Award, the ABA Young Lawyers Division Award of Merit, the ABA Young Lawyers Division Difference Maker Award and the St. Louis Bar Foundation Award. Legal Services of Eastern Missouri has named its pro bono award for legal services the "Richard Teitelman Award."

A strong proponent of legal scholarship, Judge Teitelman is an honorary dean of St. Louis University School of Law's DuBourg Society and an honorary member of Washington University School of Law's Order of the Coif and Eliot Society. He is a member of the Washington University School of Law National Council. He was honored by Washington University School of Law as a Distinguished Alumnus. Judge Teitelman participated in the Toll Fellowship Program of the Council of State Governments.

Other honors Judge Teitelman has received include The Missouri Bar Purcell Award for Professionalism; the American Jewish Congress Democracy in Action Award; the Lawyers Association of St. Louis Award of Honor; the St. Louis Society for the Blind Lifetime Achievement Award; the University of Missouri–Columbia School of Law Distinguished Non-Alumnus Award; the ABA Government and Public Sector Lawyers Division's Hodson Award, ABA Legislative Advocacy Award and its Grassroots Legislative Advocacy Award; the Dr. Martin L. Paul C. Wilson

PAUL C. WILSON was born in Jefferson City, and raised in a home dedicated to public service. His father, McCormick Wilson, served as a long-time municipal and associate circuit judge in Cole County. His mother, Lorna Wilson, served as director of the state health department's Division of Maternal, Child and Family Health, as well as the first executive director of the Missouri Association of Local Public Health Agencies.

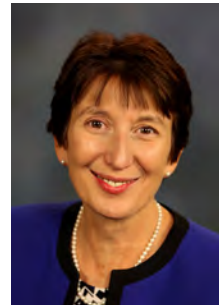
Judge Wilson earned his undergraduate degree from Drury College in Springfield, Mo., and graduated cum laude from the University of Missouri–Columbia School of Law, where he was named to both the Order of the Coif and the Order of the Barristers.

Judge Wilson interned for Judge Edward D. (Chip) Robertson on the Supreme Court of Missouri, and Judge Pasco Bowman on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit, while in law school. Upon graduation, Judge Wilson served as a full-time law clerk for then-Chief Justice Robertson and Judge Richard F. Suhrheinrich on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. Judge Wilson then moved to New York City to join the law firm Sullivan & Cromwell as an associate in the firm's litigation practice.

In 1996, Judge Wilson returned to Missouri to work in the state attorney general's office. During his tenure there, he represented the State of Missouri in numerous criminal and civil matters in trial and appellate courts around the state and across the country. He argued dozens of cases in Missouri's Court of Appeals and Supreme Court, as well as in the United States Supreme Court. On Jan. 16, 2010, Judge Wilson was appointed circuit judge in the 19th Judicial Circuit (Cole County).

In 2012, while a member of the Columbia law firm of Van Matre, Harrison, Hollis, Taylor & Bacon, P.C., Judge Wilson was nominated by the Appellate Judicial Commission to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court of Missouri created by the retirement of his long-time friend and mentor Judge Ray Price. Pursuant to the Missouri Constitution's nonpartisan court plan, he was appointed by Gov. Jeremiah (Jay) Nixon and subsequently retained for a full term by the voters in the 2014 general election.

Before becoming a member of the Supreme Court, Judge Wilson was a member of the board of directors for Legal Services of Mid-Missouri and counsel to the board of directors for a regional child advocacy center, and he remains an Elder in the First Presbyterian Church in Jefferson City.



Judge Wilson is married to Laura O'Kelley Wilson, and they are the proud parents of daughters Meredith and Alice.

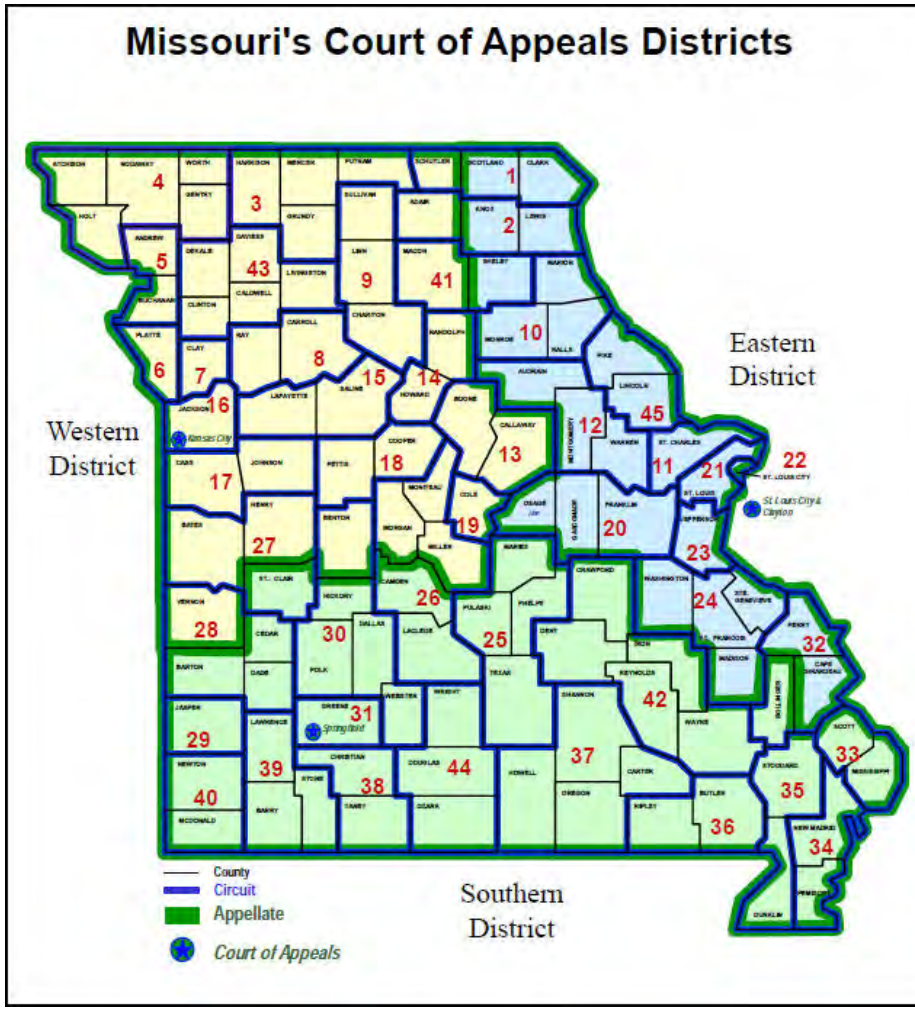
Missouri Court of Appeals

The Constitution of 1865 provided for Missouri's first general intermediate courts, known as district courts. There were district courts in Cape Girardeau, Jefferson City, Macon, St. Charles, St. Joseph and Springfield. Each district was composed of three circuits. Appeals were taken from the circuit court to the district court and then to the Supreme Court. The district courts, however, were abolished in 1870 by a constitutional amendment.

Alarmed at the congested docket of the Supreme Court, the St. Louis Bar Association urged the 1875 Constitutional Convention to provide for another appellate court. As a result, the convention created the St. Louis Court of Appeals, consisting of three judges who heard appeals from Lincoln, St. Charles, St. Louis and Warren counties. Its territorial jurisdiction was expanded in 1884 to include several more counties.

Another constitutional amendment in 1884 established the Kansas City Court of Appeals and authorized creation of another appellate court, when necessary, by the General Assembly.

The Springfield Court of Appeals was organized in 1909. Missouri's current appellate structure—a single court of appeals consisting of three geographic districts—was established by a 1970 constitutional amendment.



The Eastern District of the Court of Appeals sits in St. Louis and consists of 14 judges. Eleven judges preside over the Western District in Kansas City, and seven judges sit on the Southern District, meeting either in Springfield or Poplar Bluff. Trained law clerks, who are licensed attorneys, assist each appellate judge with legal research.

The Missouri Court of Appeals may issue and determine original remedial writs and has general appellate jurisdiction in all cases not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. Cases not within the Supreme Court's exclusive jurisdiction, however, may be transferred from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court when it is determined that a case involves a split among the districts of the Court of Appeals or an important issue that should be decided by the state's highest court.

A chief judge is elected for each district of the Missouri Court of Appeals by the judges in the districts and serves for such time as the districts determine. Traditionally, the chief judge in the Eastern District serves for one year, while the chief judges in the Southern and Western districts serve for two years.

The districts are authorized to sit in divisions of three judges if they choose, which all three districts have elected to do.

Missouri Court of Appeals judges must be at least 30 years of age, licensed to practice law in Missouri, residents of their district, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years before their selection. Appeals judges serve 12-year terms. They earn $134,685 annually. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

Missouri's 45 Judicial Circuits

Missouri Circuit Courts

Missouri's first two circuit courts were established in 1815. The 1820 Constitution provided for the creation of four circuits, each containing from four to eight counties. The number of circuits has increased over the years; today, 45 circuits operate in Missouri.

The first circuit judges were appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The life term of the judges and their method of appointment proved unpopular, however; in 1850, the constitution was amended to provide for popular election. Most circuit judges are elected today, though judges in six circuits—Clay, Greene, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis counties and the City of St. Louis—are selected under provisions of the Nonpartisan Court Plan.

Constitutional amendments approved by Missouri voters in 1976 provide that the circuit courts shall be courts of original civil and criminal jurisdiction. All trials start at this level. Former courts of limited jurisdiction became divisions of the circuit court effective Jan. 2, 1979.

Within the divisions of the circuit court, there are three levels of jurisdiction: circuit, associate and municipal. Circuit judges may act within all circuit jurisdictions.

The number of circuit judges is determined by the General Assembly. The constitution requires at least one circuit judge in each of Missouri's 45 judicial circuits.

Associate circuit judges may hear matters pending in the circuit court or assigned by the Supreme Court. Associate circuit judges hear all cases pursuant to Chapter 517, RSMo, and have concurrent jurisdiction over all cases pending in the circuit court.

The constitution requires at least one resident associate circuit judge in each county. The statutes authorize additional associate circuit judges depending on county populations. Presently, there are 197 associate circuit judges.

Municipalities with 400,000 or more people must establish a municipal division over which a municipal judge presides. Communities of fewer than 400,000 people may establish municipal divisions to hear ordinance violations, or the municipality may request that these matters be heard in the associate division of the circuit court. Municipal judges are paid locally.

By statute, each circuit judge appoints a court reporter, and the court in each circuit appoints a juvenile officer. A circuit clerk in each county is selected according to law, and salaries are set by statute.

Circuit court judges must be at least 30 years old, residents of their circuit, licensed to practice law in Missouri, U.S. citizens for 10 years and Missouri voters for three years. Circuit judges serve six-year terms. Associate circuit judges must be at least 25 years old, Missouri voters and residents of the counties they serve and licensed to practice law in Missouri. Associate circuit judges serve four-year terms.

Circuit court judges each earn $146,803 annually; associate circuit court judges earn $135,059. Compensation is determined by statute (section 476.405, RSMo).

The Fine Collection Center

The Supreme Court of Missouri established the Fine Collection Center pursuant to section 476.385, RSMo. It is a central bureau authorized by statute to process certain traffic, conservation and watercraft violations for the courts. The center began operation July 1, 1999, and all courts now participate in the center's program.

Offenders who receive citations eligible to be processed by the center have the option of pleading guilty by paying their fine and costs directly to the center or by pleading not guilty and having their citations sent to the county or circuit prosecutor. When the offender pleads guilty and pays the fine and costs, the center issues a record of conviction and sends it to the Missouri Department of Revenue and the Missouri State Highway Patrol. All fines and costs are distributed to the local jurisdiction and the appropriate state agencies.

Policy and oversight of the center is provided by a committee consisting of at least seven associate circuit judges appointed by the Supreme Court of Missouri. The committee establishes and maintains the uniform fine schedule in use by the center.

Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline

The Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline of Judges was created by a constitutional amendment in 1970. It began operating Jan. 1, 1972, and is governed by Supreme Court Rule 12.

The commission is responsible for receiving and investigating all requests and suggestions for the retirement of judges because of disability and all complaints concerning the alleged misconduct of judges and members of judicial commissions. It is composed of six members who serve six-year terms. Two non-lawyers are appointed by the governor, two lawyers are appointed by The Missouri Bar's governing body, one court of appeals judge is selected by court of appeals judges and one circuit judge is selected by the state's circuit judges.

The members are: Chairman Mr. Skip Walther, attorney, Columbia; Mr. Barry Aycock, lay member, Parma; Rev. Dr. Carlton R. Caldwell, lay member, St. Louis County; Mr. Arthur S. Margulis, attorney, St. Louis County; Hon. Sandra C. Midkiff, circuit judge, 16th Judicial Circuit (Jackson County-Kansas City); and Hon. Nancy Steffen Rahmeyer, appellate judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Southern District.

On receiving a complaint against a judge or member of a judicial commission, the commission conducts an investigation. If at least four members of the commission find there is probable cause to believe the person may be guilty of misconduct, incompetency or other action constituting grounds for discipline as listed in Rule 12.08, a formal hearing is conducted. If at least four members find the person investigated should be disciplined, a report containing findings of fact and conclusions of law is made to the Supreme Court with recommendations for discipline (removal from office, suspension or reprimand). The court then makes a final ruling based on the commission's record and transcript.

A similar procedure is followed in cases involving retirements because of disability.

To protect the public from persons unqualified or unauthorized to practice law, the Supreme Court of Missouri has established an attorney discipline system. The Supreme Court appoints a chief disciplinary counsel to investigate allegations of professional misconduct, incompetence and incapacity of lawyers. The Court also has established an Advisory Committee, which oversees the disciplinary hearings process. Complaints filed against attorneys are reviewed by the Office of Chief Disciplinary Counsel. Regional disciplinary committees located in Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis—composed of at least four lawyers and two nonlawyers—also may investigate complaints referred to them by the chief disciplinary counsel or the Advisory Committee.

If the chief disciplinary counsel or a majority of a regional disciplinary committee finds there is probable cause to believe a lawyer is guilty of professional misconduct, they may issue a written admonition to the attorney or file information making specific allegations of the lawyer's violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct. The lawyer may request a hearing to be held before a disciplinary hearing panel composed of two lawyers and one nonlawyer, all of whom are appointed as disciplinary hearing officers by the Supreme Court. If the disciplinary hearing panel finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the lawyer is guilty of misconduct, it makes findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendations for discipline, which then are filed in the Supreme Court. It is the Supreme Court's responsibility to impose any warranted discipline. If a lawyer who has been suspended or disbarred later seeks reinstatement, the chief disciplinary counsel investigates the application. The chief disciplinary counsel also investigates the unauthorized practice of law and takes appropriate action to stop such practices. The chief disciplinary counsel is Alan Pratzel.

In addition to providing oversight of the disciplinary hearing process, the Advisory Committee reviews complaint files that have been closed after investigation, at the request of the complainant. It also may issue formal ethics opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6. Members of the Advisory Committee, appointed by the Supreme Court are: Jennifer Gille Bacon, Kansas City, chair; Susan Appelquist, Springfield; Richard E. Banks, St. Louis; John Briscoe, New London; Al Brooks, Kansas City; Doreen D. Dodson, St. Louis; Sidney Dulle, Jefferson City; Hon. John C. Holstein, Springfield; David P. Macoubrie, Chillicothe; Richard N. Priest, St. Louis; Susan Ford Robertson, Kansas City; and Dorothy White-Coleman, St. Louis.

The legal ethics counsel, who serves as counsel to the Advisory Committee, may give nonbinding informal advisory opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6 to members of the Bar. The legal ethics counsel is Melinda Bentley.

The Supreme Court of Missouri regulates admission to the Bar. The Missouri Board of Law Examiners is authorized by Supreme Court Rule 8 to conduct the bar examination and to determine the character and fitness and eligibility of applicants for admission to The Missouri Bar. Application forms and information about the bar examination, the character and fitness process and the requirements for admission are available online at www.mble.org. In addition, pass/fail statistics for the bar examination are published on the website.

The Missouri Board of Law Examiners is comprised of six members who are lawyers appointed by the Supreme Court of Missouri to serve a nine-year term. The current members of the board are: Patricia A. Sexton, Kansas City, president; James G. Nowogrocki, St. Louis, vice president; Jennifer K. Huckfeldt, Springfield; Karen M. Jordan, St. Louis; and Sandra L. Schermerhorn, Kansas City.

The Missouri Bar is the official organization of all Missouri lawyers and judges. Established by rule of the Supreme Court of Missouri in 1944, it is the successor of the original Missouri Bar Association, a voluntary organization of lawyers founded in 1880. Its executive director is Sebrina Barrett.

Membership in The Missouri Bar is required of every lawyer who practices in Missouri and of every judge of a state court. To qualify for membership, a person must have completed an approved law school leading to a juris doctor degree. Those seeking membership in The Missouri Bar also must pass a comprehensive bar examination and character and fitness investigation and make application for admission to the Bar with the Supreme Court of Missouri.

Committees

There are numerous standing committees of The Missouri Bar, plus a number of special project committees. Committees of The Missouri Bar meet at least twice each year to discuss particular areas of the law and, in some cases, draft potential legislation in those areas. Committee members, as well as officers and other members of The Missouri Bar, are available to testify before the General Assembly in support of those bills. In addition, the Bar's Board of Governors often votes to support or oppose other bills pending before the legislature and the Bar's legislative services are directed accordingly. Because of its status as a mandatory organization for those practicing law in Missouri, the Bar's legislative efforts are confined to bills affecting the administration of justice.

Education

The Missouri Bar's Continuing Legal Education Department (MoBarCLE) has taken the lead in keeping Bar members informed of the latest developments in the law. Each year, the CLE department organizes and presents a number of programs—live, videotaped, webinars and by telephone—to keep lawyers abreast of changes in state and federal laws. These sessions are regularly accompanied by detailed course materials designed to supplement the programs themselves. In addition, the department's renowned deskbook series (the "black books"), supplements and guidebooks provide attorneys with valuable reference materials they can make use of in their own law libraries.

Publications/Public Information

The Journal of The Missouri Bar, offering valuable perspectives about the law from its lawyer-authors, is published six times per year as the official publication of the legal profession in Missouri. Also available to members are the Legislative Digest, published during and after each year's session of the General Assembly; Precedent, a quarterly publication featuring practice-oriented articles and columns; and The Courts Bulletin, a monthly update on recent court decisions in pertinent areas of the law.

For more than 50 years, The Missouri Bar has conducted a broad program of public information and education. Thousands of informative pamphlets and other educational materials about the law are distributed annually, including materials from an extensive law-related education audio-visual lending library. Copies of the Bar's brochures are also available on the Internet at www.mobar.org. The growth of the Bar's public information programs has been aided by cooperative ventures with the Extension Division of the University of Missouri, the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the Missouri Press Association, the Missouri Broadcasters Association, various state colleges and other groups and associations.

Other Activities

Other prominent programs and services offered by The Missouri Bar include: a client security fund that considers partial financial reimbursement to eligible clients who have been harmed by the unethical conduct of a lawyer; a lawyer referral service that links attorneys with Missourians in need of legal assistance; a lawyers assistance program that offers help to lawyers hindered by impairment issues; a complaint resolution program that offers an alternative to the formal lawyer disciplinary system for matters considered to be less serious in nature; a fee-dispute resolution program that works to resolve disputes between a lawyer and a client over fees charged for services; and many more.

Through the years, The Missouri Bar has gained recognition on the national and international level. It has been cited many times by the American Bar Association as the most outstanding bar organization in the nation. Its programs have won Freedom Foundation awards, the American Bar Association Award of Merit and the American Judicature Society's Justice Award. Similarly, staff members and officers serve on many important national committees and work with various national groups on problems of national scope.

Judicial Conference of Missouri

Supreme Court Bldg.
PO Box 150, Jefferson City 65102
Telephone: (573) 751-4144

In 1943, the General Assembly established the Judicial Conference of Missouri, which is composed of all state judges. The conference is charged by statute (section 476.350, RSMo) with studying the organization and administration of the state's judicial system, compiling data about the work of various courts and making biennial reports to the General Assembly, including any recommendations the conference may have for improving the laws. Since 1974, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, who is the conference's presiding officer, has presented an annual State of the Judiciary address to a joint session of the General Assembly, reviewing the problems, needs and goals of the judicial branch.

The statute also requires the conference to hold an annual meeting to be attended by all judges. At this meeting, the judges discuss the problems of court administration and invite experts in various fields to speak about matters of particular concern.

The clerk of the Supreme Court provides administrative and staff assistance and also serves as secretary to the executive council and the conference.

Nonpartisan Judicial Nominating Commissions

Under provisions of Article V of the Missouri Constitution, any vacancy occurring in the office of judge of the Supreme Court, the court of appeals or the circuit courts within St. Louis City or Jackson County is filled through the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," adopted through initiative petition at the November 1940 general election, which provides for the governor to appoint one of three qualified persons nominated by a nonpartisan judicial commission. This method of selecting judges was adopted by the voters of the 21st Judicial Circuit (St. Louis County) in 1970; by the voters of the Sixth Judicial Circuit (Platte County) and the Seventh Judicial Circuit (Clay County) in 1973; and by the voters of the 31st Judicial Circuit (Greene County) in November 2008.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled in the following way. A nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons, lawyers and a judge selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation, and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Appellate Judicial Commission

Nominations for judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals are made by a seven-member Appellate Judicial Commission. It consists of a judge of the Supreme Court selected by the members of the Court and two resident citizens from each of the three court of appeals districts. One lawyer is elected from each district by members of The Missouri Bar residing in that district, and one non-lawyer is appointed from each district by the governor. The judge member serves a two-year term, while the other members serve staggered terms of six years each.

Members: Mary R. Russell, chief justice, Supreme Court of Missouri, chair, term expires June 30, 2015.

From the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District: Thomas M. Burke, lawyer member, term expires Dec. 31, 2017; Edward "Nick" Robinson, lay member, term expires Dec. 31, 2018.

From the Missouri Court of Appeals, Southern District: Michelle Beckler, lay member, term expires Dec. 31, 2020; Donald E. Woody, lawyer member, term expires Dec. 31, 2019.

From the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District: Cheryl M. Darrough, lay member, term expires Dec. 31, 2016; James R. Hobbs, lawyer member, term expires Dec. 31, 2015.

Circuit Judicial Commissions

Nominations for judges of circuit courts are made by a five-member circuit judicial commission consisting of the chief judge of the district of the Court of Appeals in which the circuit or the major portion of its population lies, two lawyers elected by other members of The Missouri Bar residing in the circuit and two non-lawyer residents of the circuit appointed by the governor.

Sixth Circuit (Platte County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Alok Ahuja, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2014. Members: Keith Hicklin, Platte City, lawyer member; John W. Pepper, Kansas City, lay member; Staci L. Petrillo, Kansas City, lay member; Robert Shaw, Platte City, lawyer member.

Seventh Circuit (Clay County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Alok Ahuja, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2014. Members: Dr. Lancer G. Gates, Kansas City, lay member; Ben T. Schmitt, Kansas City, lawyer member; Jason Starr, Liberty, lay member; James H. Thompson Jr., Kansas City, lawyer member.

Sixteenth Circuit (Jackson County) Judicial Commission: Chair: James E. Welsh, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, term expires June 30, 2014. Members: Scott Bethune, Kansas City, lawyer member, term expires Dec. 31, 2015; Byron G. Thompson, Kansas City, lay member, term expires Dec. 31, 2012; Rev. Eric D. Williams, Kansas City, lay member, term expires Dec. 31, 2016; and Teresa Woody, Kansas City, lawyer member, term expires Dec. 31, 2017.

Twenty-first Circuit (St. Louis County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Lisa Van Amburg, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, term expires June 30, 2014. Members: Christine Bertelson, Webster Groves, lay member; Matthew Rossiter, St. Louis, lawyer member; Rev. Anthony Witherspoon, Florissant, lay member; Richard Wuestling IV, St. Louis, lawyer member.

Twenty-second Circuit (St. Louis) Judicial Commission: Chair: Lisa Van Amburg, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, term expires June 30, 2014. Members: Rita Burlison, St. Louis, lay member; Tiffany Franklin, St. Louis, lay member; Steven L. Groves, St. Louis, lawyer member; Thomas Neill, St. Louis, lawyer member..

Thirty-first Circuit (Greene County) Judicial Commission: Chair: Mary W. Sheffield, chief judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Southern District, term expires June 30, 2015. Members: Andrew K. Bennett, Springfield, lawyer member; Steven B. Garner, Springfield, lawyer member; Joann Hosmer, Springfield, lay member; Steven Stepp, Springfield, lawyer member.

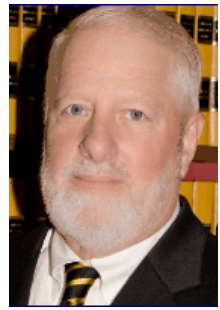
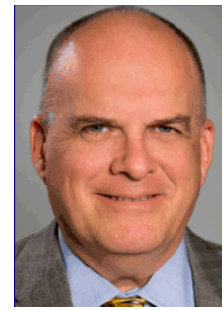
The Office of State Public Defender is created by Section 600.019.1., RSMo as an independent department within the judicial branch of state government.



The Missouri State Public Defender System (MSPD) is the state agency created to fulfill the state's constitutional obligation to ensure that all persons facing criminal prosecution in its courts have the assistance of counsel in their defense. MSPD's lawyers provide legal representation to persons who are charged with or challenging convictions for state criminal offenses but do not have the means available to hire defense counsel.

Public Defender Commission



State law (Chapter 600, RSMo) provides for a seven-member Public Defender Commission to oversee the State Public Defender System. The members of the commission are appointed by the governor with consent of the Senate and serve

Members, Public Defender Commission

Copeland, Douglas, chair;
Bock, H. Riley, commissioner;
Chval, Craig, commissioner;

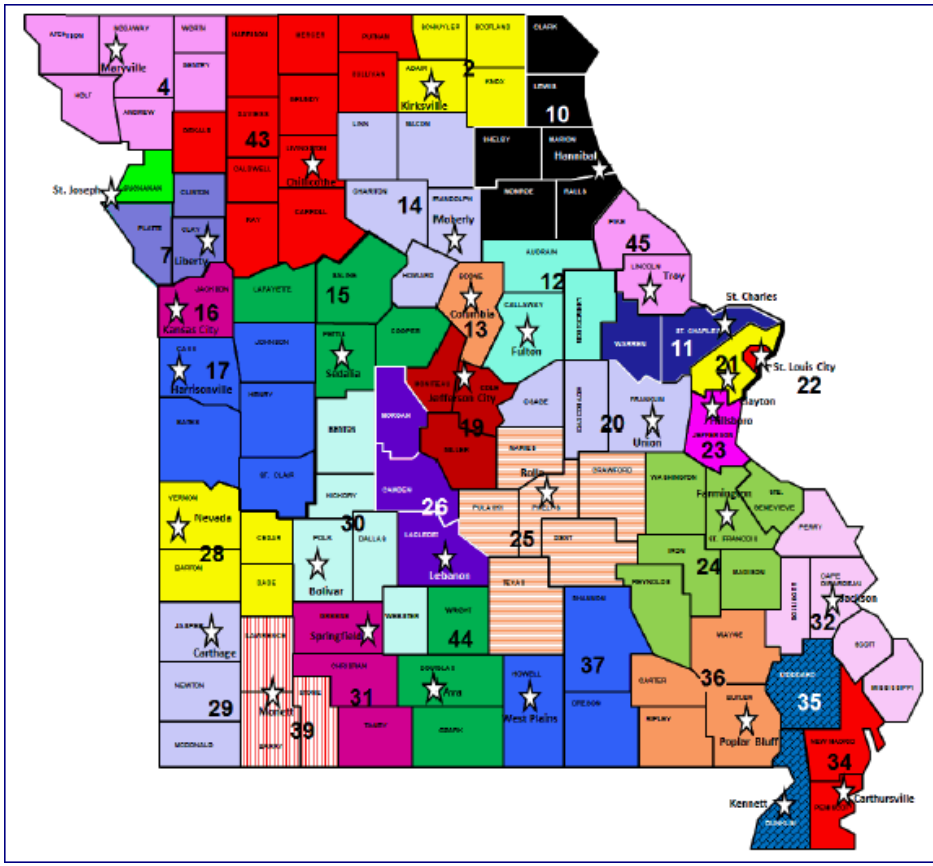
Jackson, Charles, commissioner.

MSPD is a statewide department primarily comprised of three legal service divisions: the Trial Division, the Capital Division and the Appellate/Post-Conviction Division. Attorneys in district offices within each division provide direct representation to indigent clients.

Trial Division



The Trial Division employs close to 300 full-time attorneys as well as investigators, paralegals and legal assistants. Trial Division attorneys represent both adult and juvenile indigent clients charged with crimes at the state trial court level throughout Missouri.

The Commitment Defense Unit represents indigent people throughout the state of Missouri against whom the government has initiated civil commitment proceedings based on the allegation that the citizen is a "sexually violent predator" (SVP). The unit was created in 1999 in response to Missouri's sexually violent predator legislation. This legislation enables the state to incarcerate individuals after they have completed their sentences for eligible sex offenses, and allows for indefinite civil commitment upon a jury finding that an individual meets the legislative criteria of a SVP.

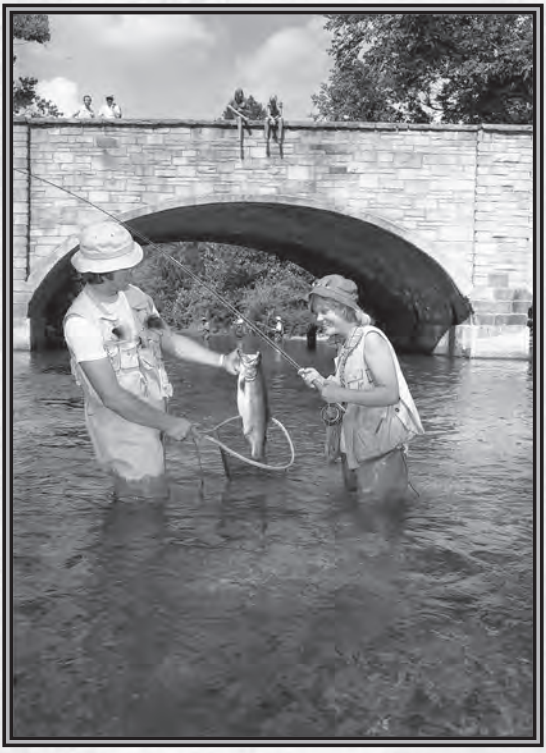
Capital Division

The Capital Division of MSPD was established in 1989 to handle the complex litigation involved when the state seeks the death penalty. The purpose of this division is to provide the highest-quality representation to individuals against whom the state of Missouri is seeking the death penalty in the State Trial Court, the State Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court.

Missouri State Public Defender Trial Division District Map

The division employs experienced attorneys who excel as litigators to handle the initial trial of the case. The division also employs experienced attorneys with exceptional appellate advocacy skills to handle the direct appeal of cases following a trial and sentence of death.

There are three Capital Division district offices within the state, located in St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia. Trial attorneys in the division have the opportunity to try cases in both the urban and rural areas of Missouri.



Division of Appellate/Post Conviction Relief

This division ensures that the constitutional rights of citizens are preserved and protected, and that the trial or guilty-plea process was fair and legal. In essence, the division monitors and provides quality-control for the criminal judicial process.

There are six district offices in this division. The offices are located in St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia in close proximity to most of Missouri's appellate courts.

Attorneys in this division provide representation to indigent citizens who have been convicted of felony offenses, after either a trial or a guilty plea. These attorneys handle direct appeals from non-capital felony convictions, post-conviction trial court challenges and appeals from post-conviction proceedings. The post-conviction practice includes providing aggressive representation to death-row clients at the trial-court level, and in the Supreme Courts of Missouri and the United States.

Executive Departments

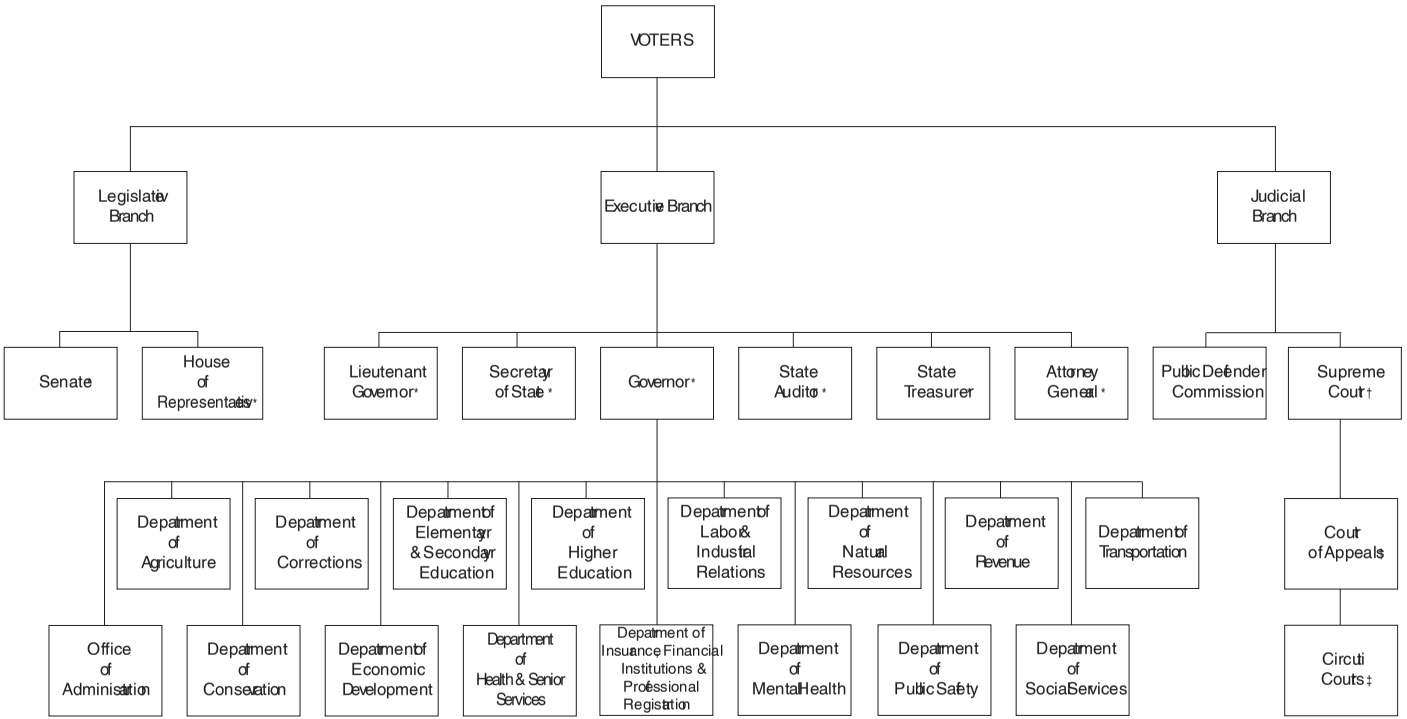
Government exists to serve, and a broad network of government organizations has been created to accomplish the purpose. The Missouri Constitution (Article II, Section 1) states: "The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial." This section also prohibits persons within each branch from exercising powers of the other branches. From these three branches spring the variety of organizations which deliver services of state government.

The many different names used by these groups—departments, divisions, agencies, boards, commissions, bureaus, units, sections, programs and others—can make it difficult to determine which area of government is responsible for certain services, and sorting out responsibilities or relationships within the governmental framework.

It is through the executive branch that the greatest proportion of state services are delivered. The Constitution (Article IV, Section 12) and the Reorganization Act of 1974 have established a number of "executive departments" to deal with specific areas of interest. A chart showing the present state departments is shown on the following page.

The Missouri Constitution provides for 16 specific departments: the Office of Administration and the departments of Agriculture, Conservation, Corrections, Economic Development, Elementary and Secondary Education, Health and Senior Services, Higher Education, Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration, Labor and Industrial Relations, Mental Health, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Revenue, Social Services and Transportation.

Within each executive department exists a variety of offices of varying size and scope which deal with specific services. Traditionally, "divisions" are the next-largest organizations within departments and function to bring together smaller-sized groups, such as "bureaus," "sections" or "units." Divisions may be governed by a "board" or "commission" composed of members who are either appointed by the governor, made members by law or appointed by a department official. State agencies may administer certain sections of state law as defined by the Revised Statutes of Missouri, may develop their own rules and regulations as promulgated in the Missouri Register and Code of State Regulations or may institute programs and policies which address the needs of their areas of service.



Generally speaking, the legislative and judicial branches rely on committees or other small, appointed groups to perform research, develop policy, provide advocacy services or handle administrative duties. In these two branches services are delivered through the offices of the elected officials themselves and not by related agencies.

The Missouri Constitution

Since achieving statehood and joining the union on August 10, 1821, Missouri has operated under four Constitutions. The first was adopted in 1820 and was presented to Congress before Missouri was allowed to enter the union of states. The state's second Constitution, born in the bitterness and strife of the Civil War, was drafted and adopted in 1865. It was replaced by a third Constitution only ten years later, in 1875. Missourians approved their current Constitution in 1945, and it has been amended a number of times in order to meet the changing needs of our state and its people.

The Constitution of the State of Missouri is published by the Office of Secretary of State pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Missouri (RSMo 2.110). Copies of the Missouri Constitution, which also includes the text of the U.S. Constitution, are available without charge by contacting:

The Office of Administration is the state's service and administrative control agency. Created by the General Assembly on Jan. 15, 1973, it combines and coordinates the central management functions of state government. Its responsibilities were clarified and amended by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The chief administrative officer is the Commissioner of Administration, who is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commissioner appoints the deputy commissioner, assistant commissioner, chief counsel and the directors of the divisions who report directly to him. The divisions are: Accounting; Budget and Planning; Facilities Management, Design and Construction; General Services; Information Technology Services; Personnel; and Purchasing and Materials Management.

The Office of Equal Opportunity (OEO) is a program within the Office of Administration. The OEO assists and monitors state agencies in promoting and ensuring equal opportunity within state government through employment, provision of services and operation of facilities. The director of the OEO reports to the Assistant Commissioner of Administration.

eral agencies. The division prepares the budget instructions, reviews agency budget requests, prepares the annual executive budget, analyzes economic and demographic conditions, forecasts state revenues and conducts technical policy and program analyses. To assist in state government management, the division controls appropriation allotments, manages the automated state budget system, prepares legislative fiscal notes, reviews legislation, tracks agency performance measures, analyzes and develops policy options and reviews federal issues and their impact on Missouri. The division coordinates preparations for, and assistance during, elected-official transitions. The division compiles population estimates and projections, provides technical assistance during decennial reapportionment and is Missouri's liaison to the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

The Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction (FMDC) operates, maintains and manages state-owned office buildings and other structures at the seat of government and other locations within the state. The FMDC oversees leased property for agencies statewide and is also responsible for design, construction, renovation and repair of state facilities. Review of all requests for appropriations for capital improvements also falls under the responsibilities of the FMDC.

The division's Administrative/Legal Unit consists of the following sections: Legal, Contracts and Fiscal/Accounting. This unit has oversight of the division's overall administrative and fiscal issues. The Real Estate Services fiscal section is also a part of this unit. This unit provides budgeting and payment processing for an approximate $150 million annual budget for state-owned, institutional and leased facilities.

CATHY BROWN
Director, Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction

The division's Operations Unit maintains state-owned buildings and grounds for agencies that are tenants in state-owned office buildings, as well as buildings for the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Mental Health, Division of Youth Services and the Missouri Highway Patrol. The division manages 22 structures in the Capitol complex, comprising approximately 1.75 million square feet of usable space, including the state Capitol and the executive mansion. In addition, the unit operates state office buildings in St. Joseph, Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis. These facilities contain approximately 535,000 square feet of usable office space. Institutional operations include providing maintenance management services for mental health, highway patrol, youth services and state school facilities. These services include providing the maintenance management staff and the authorization and administration of maintenance funding. This division is responsible for the maintenance of approximately 8 million square feet of institutional buildings. The unit also has oversight of the state's ID Badge Security System.

In addition, this Project Management Unit is responsible for the oversight of maintenance and repair, as well as new construction projects at state facilities (excluding higher education, conservation and transportation projects). The unit implements, contracts, reviews and has oversight of plans and specifications for statewide construction, selects architectural/engineering consultants and oversees expenditures of capital improvement appropriations statewide.

The division's Energy Unit is responsible for monitoring energy consumption in state-owned buildings and continues to develop and implement programs to help departments comply with the governor's Executive Order 09-18, mandating a reduction of energy consumption in state-owned buildings. This unit also assists the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA) in providing emergency services during disaster relief efforts.

The division's Real Estate Services Unit coordinates real estate transactions on behalf of the state to include conveyance of state-owned property, purchase of property and granting easements. The unit also oversees leases within state-owned and leased space for state agencies throughout Missouri. The real estate services unit oversees approximately 520 separate contracts, providing 3.24 million square feet of leased space, with an annual rent of approximately $31 million.

The Capital Improvement Planning/Asset Management Unit is responsible for the CI budget, which includes the maintenance and repair budget, new construction budget and the reappropriation budget. In addition, it maintains the condition of all assets in a comprehensive database. Within this unit is an accounting section that provides payment processing for all CI projects.

The Division of General Services provides essential support services to state departments and to the Office of Administration.

State Printing provides comprehensive reproduction services including design, printing, finishing, and quick copy services.

Central Mail Services advises agencies on efficient mailing practices and provides comprehensive mailing services to most state agencies operating within the Jefferson City area.

Risk Management administers the Legal Expense Fund and the workers' compensation program for state employees, purchases insurance as required, and advises state agencies on risk management issues.

Vehicle Maintenance operates a centralized maintenance facility to provide mechanical repairs and body shop services for state vehicles based in the Mid-Missouri area.

Fleet Management establishes statewide policies governing state vehicle operations and management; coordinates a centralized fleet information system; operates a consolidated car pool serving agencies in the Jefferson City area; and serves as a resource for fleet management issues.

Surplus Property transfers and disposes of state surplus property and distribution of excess federal property to eligible entities.

State Recycling coordinates statewide recycling efforts and serves as a resource for recycling issues.

General Services also provides administrative support and staffing to operate the Missouri Public Entity Risk Management Fund (MOPERM) program and coordinates the Missouri State Employees Charitable Campaign.

The materials management section, the State Agency for Surplus Property (SASP), is responsible for transfers and disposal of state surplus property to obtain the maximum return on investment. SASP acquires property declared excess by federal government agencies to distribute to eligible Missouri entities. SASP is also responsible for the statewide in-house recycling program.

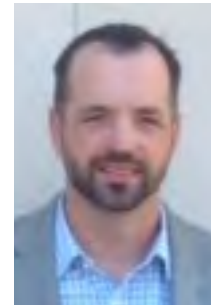
The mission of the Information Technology Services Division (ITSD) is to provide technology and communication services and solutions to the state's departments and agencies so they can efficiently and effectively serve the citizens of Missouri.

Under the leadership of the chief information officer, the ITSD offers centralized staff and resources in a single unified entity, and supports 14 executive branch departments. The new organizational model allows for enterprise standards and guidance in the common areas of security, networking, data management, server administration, end user support, technical architecture and application management, while maintaining a department-focused perspective on service delivery.



In collaboration with other state agencies, the ITSD aims to deliver reliable and accessible IT systems and services in an environment striving for optimization, collaboration, productivity and cost savings.

disciplinary actions. Approximately 32,100 state employees in six state departments and sections of three other departments comprise the Missouri Merit System.

The Uniform Classification and Pay (UCP) system is designed to promote equity in pay among state employees in most executive branch agencies and to provide coordinated compensation policies. The UCP system covers approximately 35,750 employees of merit system agencies and employees from several other departments. The Division of Personnel is also responsible for the oversight of the statewide performance appraisal system.

The Division of Personnel is composed of four sections:

Employee services reviews applications for employment; ensures employees are assigned to appropriate job classes; develops and administers position classifications for agencies covered by the UCP; and develops, updates and administers merit system examinations.

Pay, leave and reporting provides information on the UCP system pay plan; interprets policies on pay, leave and hours of work; provides workforce reports and assistance with the SAM II HR/Payroll System; maintains lists of individuals from which agencies can select for merit system jobs; and ensures personnel transactions are in compliance with state personnel law.

The Center for Management and Professional Development develops and delivers management and supervisory training programs, as well as computer and technical training programs; administers statewide recognition programs; and coordinates the WeSave Employee Discount Program.

The Human Resources Service Center (HRSC) provides administration of human resources by providing a single point of contact for Office of Administration management and employees to

The Administrative Hearing Commission (AHC) is a neutral, independent administrative tribunal that decides disputes between a state agency and another party. The AHC typically decides the cases after a trial-type hearing in which it takes evidence. Any party may seek review of an AHC decision by the judicial branch.

By law, the AHC has jurisdiction over many types of disputes. Chief among them are disputes involving the director of the Department of Revenue's tax decisions; professional licensing decisions of many boards of the Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration and the Department of Social Services' decisions on payments to Medicaid service providers; personnel matters arising under the state's merit system; and most recently added, due-process complaints under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. The AHC opens over 2,300 cases per year.

The AHC currently consists of five commissioners, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, who serve six-year terms.

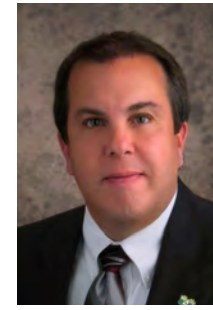
Board of Fund Commissioners

The Board of Fund Commissioners issues, redeems and cancels state general obligation bonds and performs other administrative activities related to state general obligation debt as assigned by law.

The board is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state treasurer and commissioner of administration. The governor is president of the board, and the state treasurer is secretary. An executive secretary performs staff functions for the board.

Board of Public Buildings



The Board of Public Buildings (BPB) is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general. The governor serves as the chair, and the lieutenant governor the secretary. The speaker of the House of Representatives and the president pro tempore of the Senate serve as ex officio members of the BPB but do not have the power to vote.

Missouri law provides the BPB has general supervision and charge of state facilities at the seat of government. The BPB also has the authority to issue revenue bonds for the construction of state office buildings and certain other facilities.

The board works with the Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction and the Division of Accounting in carrying out its responsibilities.

Board of Unemployment Fund Financing

The Board of Unemployment Fund Financing is composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and the commissioner of administration. The governor serves as chair, the lieutenant governor serves as vice chair and the commissioner of administration serves as secretary. Staff support is provided by the Division of Accounting.

In 1994, Missouri voters approved the creation of the Missouri Citizens' Commission on Compensation for Elected Officials. This commission was established to ensure the power to control the rate of compensation of elected officials of this state is retained and exercised by tax-paying citizens of the state.

Beginning in 1996 and every two years thereafter, the commission reviews the relationship of compensation to the duties of all elected state officials. The commission's recommendation of a salary schedule becomes effective unless disapproved by the General Assembly. The 22-member commission serves four-year terms.

The Governor's Council on Disability (GCD) serves as the voice and advocate in state policymaking for 949,000 Missourians with disabilities. The GCD educates people with disabilities about their rights and responsibilities; increases employment opportunities for job seekers with disabilities; and expands access to equal and full participation for all individuals with disabilities in their communities at the local, state and federal levels. The GCD provides youth leadership programming for young people with disabilities.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman issued an executive order establishing the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. This federal agency was created to assist disabled World War II veterans with re-entry into the civilian workforce. Following President Truman's lead, Missouri established the Governor's Committee in 1949 after it became obvious that a local network was needed to disseminate information about work-related problems facing people with disabilities.

The mission of the GCD has naturally evolved from strictly promoting employment to addressing all of the barriers to employment and full participation in community life. To more accurately reflect the mission, the 1994 General Assembly renamed this agency the Governor's Council on Disability. The GCD was transferred by executive order in 2004 from the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations (DOLIR) to the Office of Administration (OA) to better meet its mission.

The GCD consists of 21 council members, including the chair and one member from each state congressional district, as well as the executive director. The majority of the GCD is composed of people with disabilities representing various disability groups. Family members of people with disabilities, persons who represent other disability-related groups and other advocates fill the remaining positions.

The governor appoints the chair with the advice and consent of the Senate. The governor also appoints the 20 members-at-large. The GCD meets at least quarterly to act as an advisory body to its staff and to discuss and suggest ways to address current issues affecting persons with disabilities in Missouri.

In the administration of its duties, the GCD also offers assistance to help the various departments, divisions and branches of government to comply with all laws regarding persons with disabilities. To further that goal, the director of each state department designates at least one employee to act as a liaison with the council. The assistance offered includes educational programming and consultation on the rights of persons with disabilities.

Missouri Minority Business Advocacy Commission

State Capitol, Rm. 125
Telephone: (573) 751-1851 / FAX: (573) 751-1212

The Missouri Minority Business Advocacy Commission (MBAC) identifies and assesses the needs of minority businesses throughout the state; initiates aggressive programs to assist minority businesses in obtaining state and federal procurement; makes recommendations regarding state policies, programs and procedures; and provides a focal point to assist and counsel minority small businesses in their dealing with federal, state and local governments. The MMBAC also initiates and encourages minority business education programs; analyzes current legislation and regulations as they affect minority businesses; and receives complaints and recommendations concerning policies and activities of federal, state and local governmental agencies that affect minority small businesses. The purpose of the MMBAC is to increase economic opportunity for minority businesses to improve the overall business climate of the state of Missouri; and to develop and establish the inclusionary process for state departments so that they can meet or exceed the goals and objectives of the legislation and executive order designed to increase minority participation in state procurement.

The Health and Educational Facilities Authority of the State of Missouri was created in 1975 by an act of the Missouri General Assembly. It is empowered to make loans to qualified health or educational institutions and to refund outstanding obligations, mortgages or advances previously issued, made or given for the cost of such facilities and to do all things necessary to carry out the purposes of the act. The authority consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Each member must be a resident of the state and no more than four members may be of the same political party.

The mission of the authority is to provide access to the capital markets in an effort to lower the cost of health and educational services in Missouri by providing high quality, readily available, low cost financing alternatives for Missouri public and private, nonprofit health and educational institutions.

This bipartisan authority consists of five commissioners who are qualified voters of the state of Missouri and residents of Jackson County. The Jackson County Legislature submits a list of candidates to the governor to replace members of the authority whose terms have expired. The governor then appoints the succeeding members from that list of candidates. The commissioners serve staggered terms of five years and hold office until a successor has been appointed and qualified. No more than three members may be of the same political party. The authority is empowered to issue bonds.

The Jackson County Sports Complex Authority is authorized under the constitution and laws of the State of Missouri to plan, construct, operate and maintain a sports stadium fieldhouse, indoor and outdoor recreational facilities center, playing fields, parking facilities and other concessions within Jackson County; negotiate and perform its obligations as landlord under lease agreements with the Kansas City Royals Baseball Corporation and the Kansas City Chiefs Football Club, Inc.; oversee the maintenance and operation of the Harry S. Truman Sports Complex in a fiscally responsible manner, which will allow it to maintain its stature as a premier sports facility in the nation; administer funds received from the State of Missouri, Jackson County and the City of Kansas City, Mo., or any other sources that are to be used for furtherance of its statutory duties; develop a land-use plan for potential development of the sports complex and recommend to the county appropriate long-term leasing arrangements for the sports complex facilities; and to work with other political subdivisions, agencies and commissions for the furtherance of all types of sports, either professional or amateur, commercial or private, within Jackson County.

The Missouri Ethics Commission (MEC) was created by the Missouri Ethics Law of 1991 (Section 105.955, RSMo). The commission is charged with enforcement of conflicts of interest and lobbying laws (Section 105.450-498, RSMo) and campaign finance disclosure laws (Chapter 130, RSMo).

The MEC is composed of six members, not more than three of whom may be from the same political party. These members must be from different congressional districts, and no more than three can be from an odd- or even-numbered congressional district. The governor appoints the members of the commission with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commission elects a biennial chair and is assigned to the Office of Administration for budgeting purposes only.

The MEC receives and reviews complaints alleging violations of the conflict of interest and lobbying statutes and the campaign finance disclosure statute. After investigation of these complaints, the commission refers the complaints to the appropriate prosecuting authority or disciplinary authority along with recommendations for sanctions. The commission may also initiate judicial proceedings on its own.

The MEC reviews and audits reports required by the campaign finance disclosure law, the financial interest disclosure laws and the lobbying registration and reporting laws. The MEC acts as the public repository for such reports. The MEC provides information and assistance to lobbyists, elected and appointed officials, employees of the state, political subdivisions and the general public.

The Missouri State Penitentiary Redevelopment Commission was established in 2000, by authority of House Bill 621 of the 91st General Assembly.

The commission is composed of 10 members. Three commissioners, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, are residents of Jefferson City and are appointed by the mayor, with the advice and consent of the governing body of that city; three commissioners, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, are residents of Cole County but not of Jefferson City and are appointed by the county commission; and four commissioners, no more than three of whom shall belong to the same political party, none of whom shall be residents of Cole County or of Jefferson City, are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The governor appoints one of the commissioners who is not a resident of Cole County or Jefferson City as chair of the commission. No elected official of the State of Missouri or of any city or county in this state is appointed to the commission.

LARRY SPENCE

LARRY WEBER
Executive Director
Missouri Public Entity Risk Management Fund

The director of the Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction provides staff support for this commission. The commission may also employ staff or secure the services of consultants through contract for the purpose of conducting the business of the commission.

The purpose of the commission is to redevelop the real property that encompassed the grounds of the Missouri State Penitentiary for more than 150 years, so as to maintain its historic value for present and future generations of Missourians, and to provide new uses for the property that will benefit the citizens of the City of Jefferson, the County of Cole and the State of Missouri as a whole.

To accomplish its purpose, the commission may perform the following functions:

- Acquire and hold title to the property historically utilized as the Missouri State Penitentiary;
- To acquire by gift or bequest from public or private sources property adjacent to the Penitentiary property and necessary or appropriate to the successful redevelopment;
- To lease or sell real property to developers who will utilize the property consistently with the master plan for the property;
- To hire employees necessary to perform the commission's work;

- To enter into contracts with private or governmental entities in connection with the acquisition by gift or bequest and in connection with the planning, construction, financing, leasing, subleasing, operation and maintenance of any real property or facility and for any other lawful purpose;
- To sue and be sued;
- To receive any rentals, or proceeds from the sale of real estate, contributions or moneys provided by any governmental entity and to apply for grants and other funding;
- To disburse funds for its lawful activities and fix salaries and wages of its employees;
- To borrow money for the acquisition, construction, equipping, operation, maintenance repair, remediation or improvement of any facility or real property to which the commission holds title and for any other property purpose and to issue negotiable notes, bonds and other instruments in writing as evidence of sums borrowed;
- To perform all other necessary and incidental functions, and to exercise such additional powers as shall be conferred by the General Assembly; and
- To purchase insurance, including self-insurance, of any property or operations of the commission or its members, director, officers and employees, against any risk or hazard, and to indemnify its members, agents, independent contractors, directors, officers and employees against any risk or hazard.

Promoting and Protecting Missouri Agriculture

Established in 1933 by the General Assembly, the Department of Agriculture promotes and protects Missouri's multi-billion dollar agriculture and agribusiness industry. The department also enforces state laws that regulate and market the agricultural industry.

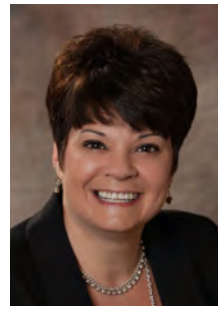
The department's divisions include Agriculture Business Development, Animal Health, Grain Inspection and Warehousing, Plant Industries and Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection. The department also houses the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority, the Missouri State Fair, the State Milk Board and the Missouri Wine and Grape Board.

Office of the Director

The Missouri Department of Agriculture is managed by a director who is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director determines department policy, oversees the department's five divisions and serves as a liaison to the governor, state legislators, the agriculture community and the public.

The director is a standing member of the State Milk Board, the State Fair Commission, the Missouri Soil and Water Districts Commission, the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund and the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority.

Agriculture Business Development Division



The Agriculture Business Development Division creates opportunities for success for Missouri's farmers and agribusinesses. Division staff help facilitate growth in Missouri's agriculture-based businesses by providing business counseling and information and training on a sector-by-sector basis.

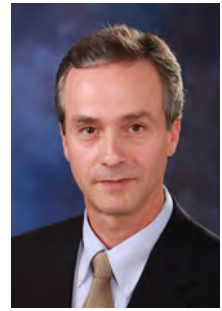
General Counsel

Areas of specialization include capitalization, business planning, marketing, industry development, product and brand development and organizational structures. The division also helps facilitate growth in Missouri's agriculture-based industries by working with key players such as universities, associations, private sector partners and federal and state agencies.

AgriMissouri

AgriMissouri is a branded program designed to grow the production of and demand for agricultural products grown and made in Missouri. The program works with farmers, agribusinesses and retail outlets statewide to increase consumer recognition of Missouri's agricultural products in the marketplace.

International and Business Development Programs



The International and Business Development Programs focus on both domestic and international marketing. Department specialists work with specific industry representatives or groups to establish marketing opportunities and promote Missouri commodities here and abroad. Through providing one-on-one assistance to producers interested in marketing, production and processing their commodities in new ways, the marketing personnel enhance farm profitability in Missouri through innovations in technology and marketing and promotions of value-added agriculture. With an international office in Taiwan, international marketing specialists are able to work worldwide to promote and sell Missouri agriculture products.

The division's staff also works with Missouri youth, encouraging them to pursue agricultural degrees and careers through the Missouri Agri-Business Academy, the Missouri Livestock Grading and Judging Contest, Building Our American Communities grants and working with state FFA and 4-H Chapters.

Farmers' Markets/Specialty Crops

Consumers demand high quality and fresh products at more than 270 farmers' markets as well as traditional retail outlets. To increase awareness for Missouri markets, this program works one-on-one with farmers' markets to ensure safe and abundant fresh products. Farmers marketing fresh products require knowledge of food safety, manufacturing, distribution and general market and business regulations. This program assists both markets and growers in efforts to increase the production, consumption and sales of specialty crops.

Market News

Market News provides an unbiased, reliable, accurate and timely source for livestock and grain market news to remain competitive and assist them in making wise and profitable marketing decisions. It also guides producers in production planning and provides a more even playing field in the marketplace. Market News staff report prices from 25 livestock auctions and 28 grain markets in Missouri. Daily market figures are published online and through the Weekly Market Summary.

Animal Health Division

The Division of Animal Health, under the direction of the state veterinarian, promotes and protects Missouri's diverse and dynamic livestock industry. The assistance and oversight provided by the division's programs ensures greater market access for Missouri's livestock and companion animal industries.

Animal agriculture accounts for about one-half of Missouri's annual agriculture cash receipts. The division administers laws and programs designed to control and eradicate livestock disease and maintain and enhance the integrity of the state's animal industries. This includes both mandatory and voluntary regulatory programs for beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine, poultry, sheep, goats, and exotic and companion animals.

The state's progress in national disease control and eradication is due to the cooperative efforts of livestock producers, markets, practicing veterinarians, other agencies and division staff. Through these efforts, Missouri has achieved Bovine Tuberculosis and Brucellosis Free status, Swine Pseudorabies stage V status and Avian Pullorum-Typhoid Clean status. In addition, the division operates two state-of-the-art diagnostic laboratories, located in Jefferson City and Springfield.

Agri-Security

The Animal Health Division works to safeguard the livestock industry and the public against the threat of bioterrorist attacks. In addition, the division informs cattle producers of quality assurance, targeting breeding and cow-herd management; increases awareness and understanding of environmental issues affecting production; presents marketing and food safety programs to small poultry producers; and inspects Missouri meat processors to supplement existing U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) inspections.

Animal Care Facilities

The Animal Care Facilities Act (ACFA) became law to ensure dogs and cats, specifically those under the care of breeders, dealers, animal shelters, rescue operations and municipal pounds, receive adequate health care, shelter and proper socialization. The ACFA law, designed to benefit both the animals and the pet industry, requires any animal shelters, pounds or dog pounds, boarding kennels, commercial kennels, contract kennels, pet shops, exhibition facilities, dealers and commercial breeders be licensed and inspected annually.

Branding Cattle

Branding is one of the oldest and best ways to permanently identify livestock. It serves as an excellent safeguard against livestock theft, loss or dispute. Legislation passed in 1971 made the Department of Agriculture responsible for registering livestock brands. Brands must be recorded as required by Missouri's Marks and Brands of Animals Law to prove ownership and be considered legal evidence in a court of law.

Livestock Markets and Dealers

Missouri has a livestock inventory of 4.25 million cattle, three million hogs and pigs, 73,000 sheep and 200,000 equine. To help livestock producers obtain the maximum return on their investment, Missouri is fortunate to have a number of livestock market/sales throughout the state. To operate a livestock market/sale in the state, the operator must have a license issued by the Division of Animal Health. This license shall entitle the applicant to conduct business for one calendar year, January through December. All livestock markets must be licensed and provide a satisfactory bond (with a minimum bond amount of $10,000), determined by business volume. Missouri Livestock Dealer Registration is required for those who buy, sell or exchange livestock.

Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program

The Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program is dedicated to ensuring that the commercial supply of meat and poultry products within the state are safe, wholesome, accurately labeled and secure, as required by state/federal meat and poultry inspection laws. By providing inspection service and guidance to Missouri processors, the program continues to endorse the mission of the Missouri Department of Agriculture — to serve, promote and protect the agricultural producers, processors and consumers of Missouri's food, fuel and fiber products. In cooperation with USDA-Food Safety Inspection Service (FSIS), the Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program (MMPIP) offers equal inspection authority and service within the state of Missouri. As a result, any meat processed under MMPIP inspection and sold within the state of Missouri is offered the same privileges and exemptions as USDA inspected meat products.

Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division

The Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division is composed of two programs that administer the Missouri Grain Warehouse Law: the Missouri Grain Dealer Law and the United States Grain Standards Act. These laws promote and protect commerce in the interest of grain producers, merchandisers, warehousemen, processors and consumers. They also promote a uniform, official inspection system for the orderly marketing of grain. This division also collects and disburses funds for nine commodity merchandising programs.

Commodity Services Program

The Commodity Services Program provides commodity councils with an organized procedure for collection and distribution of commodity checkoff funds for nine Missouri commodities (beef, corn, soybeans, rice, sheep and wool, wine, aquaculture, peaches and apples). The program is also responsible for conducting seven annual merchandising council elections and administers the Missouri Hay Directory, an online hay listing service.

Grain Inspection Services Program

The Grain Inspection Services Program is designated to officially inspect, grade and weigh all grains that have standards established under the United States Grain Standards. The program provides four primary services: official sampling to take a representative sample of grain from a particular lot; official inspection to determine and certify the type, class, quality or condition of grain; weighing certification to supervise the loading, unloading and weighing of grain containers; and chemical analysis to determine the protein or oil content of grain and the existence of mycotoxins in grain.

Services are provided at inspection offices in Marshall, New Madrid and St. Joseph. The program is self-supporting and operates entirely on fees charged for inspection services performed.

Grain Regulatory Services Program

The Grain Regulatory Services Program protects the public interest by auditing grain warehouses and grain dealers to determine grain obligations and financial solvency. The program enforces the Missouri Grain Warehouse Law, the Missouri Grain Dealer Law and the United States Grain Standards Act, so producers are assured of storing or merchandising their grain with licensed, bonded, reputable and financially stable grain businesses. The program annually licenses approximately 200 warehouses and 400 grain dealers and conducts more than 900 audits and investigations.

Plant Industries Division

The Plant Industries Division comprises four bureaus, which together administer state and federal laws. These laws facilitate agricultural production and marketing, and provide consumer and environmental protection for Missouri citizens by regulating animal feeds, seeds and treated timber; providing necessary certifications for interstate and international shipment of agricultural and forest products; ensuring plant pest protection for crops and forests; inspecting for conformance to USDA grades for fresh fruits and vegetables; and regulating the use of pesticides.

CHRIS KLENKLEN
Director, Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division

JUDY GRUNDLER
Director
Plant Industries Division

Bureau of Feed, Seed and Treated Timber

The bureau administers the Missouri Commercial Feed Law, Missouri Seed Law and the Missouri Treated Timber Law. The feed law regulates the manufacturing, distribution and labeling of commercial feed products to ensure that livestock producers and pet owners receive the feed product guaranteed. In partnership with the USDA, the bureau provides inspection reports and regulation involved with preventing Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE), provides labeling assistance and investigates complaints related to animal feed.

The bureau regulates seed products through inspecting, sampling, testing and labeling. Products are reviewed to ensure they meet the label guarantees and comply with the USDA Seed Regulatory and Testing branch in regulating the interstate movement of seed.

The bureau is responsible for the licensure of all treated timber producers and dealers doing business within the state of Missouri and for regulations governing the quality and distribution of treated wood products.

Laboratories are maintained for analytical support to the seed, treated timber and commercial feed and other programs.

Bureau of Pesticide Control

The bureau administers laws for registration, distribution and use of pesticides. All pesticides sold and used in Missouri are regulated by the Missouri Pesticide Registration Act and the Missouri Pesticide Use Act. Bureau personnel inspect pesticides for proper labeling and registration and investigate claims of pesticide misuse. The Missouri Pesticide Use Act allows the bureau to certify commercial, noncommercial and private applicators and public operators. The act also provides for licensing pesticide dealers and pesticide technicians.

Bureau of Plant Pest Control

The bureau administers laws to control the introduction and spread of insect and disease pests of plants, and administers the Missouri Plant Law, which mandates controlling harmful insect pests and plant pathogens through early detection surveys, quarantines, nursery and greenhouse inspections and certification. The law also enables interstate and international shipments of Missouri plants and plant products. Additionally, the bureau works to diminish the threat of exotic, invasive plant pests through outreach and education efforts.

As a service to Missouri beekeepers, the bureau works under the Missouri Apiculture Law to inspect and certify honeybee colonies. These procedures are required for interstate shipment of honeybees.

Bureau of Integrated Pest Management

The Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Bureau includes the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Inspection, Noxious Weed and IPM in Missouri Schools programs. IPM strategies anticipate pest problems and prevent them from reaching economically damaging levels. The goal of the IPM program is to assist in reducing pesticide use through pest identification and surveys; increasing adoption of improved cultural management practices and strategic control methods; and overseeing the use of biological control agents. The program administers the noxious weed statutes as well as the appointment of Johnson Grass Control Board members in their respective counties. The bureau provides oversight for Missouri DriftWatch, a tool to enhance communications between specialty crop producers and pesticide applicators.

The Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Program assures buyers and sellers of this highly perishable product that commodities are graded and packed to comply to established USDA standards. Terminal market inspections confirm quality and grade of produce received by Missouri wholesale purchasers for distribution to retail outlets. Shipping-point inspections determine the quality and grade of Missouri-grown produce. Both types of inspections are provided upon request and at the expense of growers, shippers or wholesale purchasers. The program is a cooperative effort between the state and the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service.

RONALD HAYES
Director, Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division

Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division

As the chief consumer protection agency in the state, the Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division maintains surveillance of commercial weighing and measuring devices. The division promotes uniformity in laws, regulations and standards to achieve equity between buyers and sellers. Sales of products and services impacted by weights and measure laws represent more than 50 percent of U.S. gross national product, totaling over $4.5 trillion.

The Missouri Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection programs are operated in accordance with the National Institute of Standards and Technology. The division is also a member of the National Conference on Weights and Measures, American Society for Testing Materials International and the National Fire Protection Association.

Land Survey Program

The division's Land Survey Program provides information and resources for the accurate location of all private and public boundaries in Missouri. The program is responsible for the restoration and preservation of the original corner monuments established by the General Land Office for the U.S. Public Land Survey System. The division also maintains a records storage and retrieval system for all land survey records and geodetic data.

Device and Commodity Inspection Program

As required by Missouri statutes, device and commodity field personnel inspect large and small scales; grain hopper scales; taxicab meters; devices that measure time, fabric and grain moisture; milk for quantity determination; prepackaged merchandise; and method of sale of commodities. The program enforces the Missouri Egg Law and the Missouri Unfair Milk Sales Practices Law.

Petroleum/Propane/Anhydrous Ammonia Program

The program combines a variety of services. Under the program, petroleum dispensers, petroleum terminal meters and metered fuel delivery trucks are tested for accuracy. Service station pumps are also inspected for accuracy and safety. Metered propane delivery trucks are checked, and the storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia are monitored for safety.

Metrology Program

The metrology program conducts tests, calibrates and certifies field standards for state agencies and private institutions. The state metrologist is the official keeper of Missouri's primary standards of mass, volume and length.

Fuel Quality Program

Fuel samples are collected by field personnel and submitted for testing. The petroleum laboratory analyzes gasoline, kerosene, heating oils and diesel fuel to ensure they meet state quality and safety standards.

Established in 1899, the Missouri State Fair is one of the oldest in the nation. The fairgrounds, which cover 396 acres in Sedalia (Pettis County), are open year-round, providing facilities for horse and livestock shows, art and craft festivals, camping, rallies and other events. During the annual fair held in August, visitors enjoy educational and recreational activities, a carnival midway and musical entertainment.

The Missouri State Fair continues to be the state's largest agricultural and tourism event, with exhibits showcasing livestock, row crops, horticulture and floriculture. The State Fair plays an important role in shaping Missouri agriculture, contributing to the state's economy and educating the public about the importance and necessity of agriculture. It features agribusiness exhibits and displays of Missouri-produced commodities.

The State Fair Commission, whose members are appointed by the governor, oversees the fair's operations.

The Missouri Wine and Grape Board is responsible for researching, developing and promoting Missouri grapes, juices and wine. The board is funded by a tax on all wine sold in Missouri.

Missouri wineries continue to refine their grape-growing and winemaking skills to offer distinct, quality wines. The Wine and Grape Board sponsors research and advisory programs at the Grape & Wine Institute.

Missouri has more than 1,700 acres of grapes. Missouri wineries produce more than 950,000 gallons of wine with an overall economic impact of $1.6 billion. Many of the state's 120 plus wineries consistently take top honors in prestigious domestic and international competitions.

Four of the appointed members of the board must be Grade A dairy farmers representing recognized producer organizations. Four appointees are active members of local health departments in the state. The two remaining appointees represent processor and consumer interests. No more than six of the 12 board members can be from the same political party.

The board administers milk inspection in relation to Grade A milk and milk supplies to ensure uniformity of procedures and interpretation of milk inspection regulations. The Grade A or fluid milk activities of the state are supported by revenue from inspection fees.

The Manufacturing Grade Dairy Program enforces sanitation and quality standards for manufactured dairy products and provides market testing of all milk at the first point of sale. Milk procurers, manufacturing plants, field superintendents, testers, graders, samplers and bulk milk truck operators are licensed by the State Milk Board.

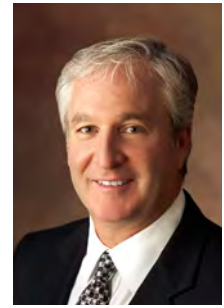
The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC), authorized in 1937 by an initiative process and statewide vote to amend the Missouri Constitution, was created by public demand for better management of the state's forest, fish and wildlife resources. The department is headed by the Conservation Commission, whose four members, no more than two of whom may belong to the same political party, are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. They serve with no compensation for staggered six-year terms.



The department's principal sources of revenue are receipts from the sale of hunting and fishing permits and the one-eighth of one percent conservation sales tax. The conservation sales tax was approved as a constitutional amendment through a citizen initiative process and statewide vote in 1976. Funds are also received, primarily on a matching basis, from federal aid provisions of the Wildlife Restoration, Sport Fish Restoration Act and Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act. The department receives no state general revenue funds.

The department's mission is to protect and manage the forest, fish and wildlife resources of the state; and to facilitate and provide opportunities for all citizens to use, enjoy and learn about these resources. The vision is that the department shall be a forward-looking agency, implementing solid core values that ensure integrity and trust; using adaptive learning and creative thinking; embracing technology; and providing superior public service. The department seeks to be the national leader in forest, fish and wildlife management, proactively advancing its mission through understanding natural resource and social landscapes.

The mission and vision are accomplished using a set of values that include: excellent public service; believing all citizens are important; providing open communication; offering opportunities for Missourians to partner; ensuring fairness, objectivity, sound science, integrity and accountability to guide actions; and knowing employees are the department's most important asset. The department works to advance conservation by being results-driven, working as a team, serving as ambassadors for conservation and living out the conservation ethic through actions.

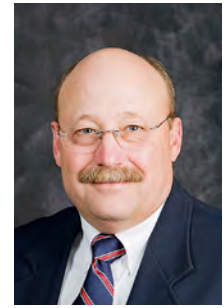
Director's Office



The Conservation Commission appoints the department director who, along with two deputy directors, directs programs and activities through the divisions of administrative services, design and development, fisheries, forestry, human resources, outreach and education, private land services, protection, resource science and wildlife. In addition to division assignments, the deputy directors provide leadership for projects and initiatives through partnerships, federal aid coordination, the policy coordination unit and the information technology unit. The Policy Coordination Unit serves the director's office, divisions and regions by providing technology planning, systems research and design, customer technical support and administers voice and data network operations. The director also supervises the general counsel, internal auditor and an assistant to the director for government relations.

General Counsel

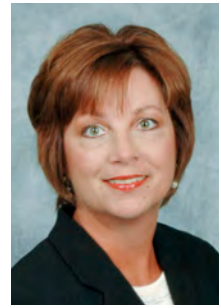
The general counsel is appointed by the director of the Department of Conservation, with the consent of the Conservation Commission, to provide legal advice and representation to the commission and the department. The Office of General Counsel handles litigation, works with prosecutors and staff to enforce statutes and regulations, provides legal advice and opinions, drafts and reviews documents, oversees real estate transactions and reviews administrative regulations.

Internal Auditor

The internal auditor assists the commission and director by independently analyzing department operations, policies, procedures, records and compliance with laws and regulations to ensure effectiveness and accountability. The internal auditor also serves the Department of Conservation as a custodian of records and the hearing officer for revocation of hunting and fishing privileges.

Regional Offices

The department has two administrative units and eight regions. The Missouri River Unit includes the Central, Kansas City, Northeast and Northwest regions. The Ozark Unit includes Ozark, St. Louis, Southeast and Southwest regions. A regional service center in each region, in addition to other offices, nature centers, staffed shooting ranges and interpretive centers, provides close-to-home opportunities for Missourians to participate in conservation programs and services. Regional offices are located in Columbia, Lee's Summit, St. Joseph, Kirksville, West Plains, St. Charles, Cape Girardeau and Springfield.



Administrative Services Division

The administrative services division provides administrative support through five units: financial services, permit services, fleet services, flight services and general services.

The financial services unit administers all financial activities of the department. It maintains a liaison with the state treasurer, state auditor, Office of Administration and Department of Revenue. It is responsible for revenue collection, accounts payable, accounting, budget and payroll. Revenue from the conservation sales tax, hunting and fishing permits, federal reimbursement, timber sales, publications and surplus property is received and deposited in the state treasury for department programs.

The other units are responsible for: management, operation and purchasing of the department's fleet; management of aircraft operations; inventory control; repair and disposition of vehicles, marine and other mechanical equipment; operation of a distribution center and warehouse for publications, products and media loan services; operation of printing, mailing and sign production services; the distribution of hunting and fishing permits statewide for sale to the public; and purchasing services.

Design and Development Division

The design and development division provides engineering, architecture, land surveying, construction, quality control and facility maintenance services to develop, maintain and manage the department's infrastructure and to implement and administer capital improvement projects.

Infrastructure and capital improvement projects include boat accesses, docks, roads, parking areas, office and storage buildings, fish hatcheries, fishing lakes and ponds, nature centers, shooting ranges, trails, wetlands and other projects. The division provides engineering and architectural designs that apply sound engineering principles to the design of conservation projects and public-use facilities that are in harmony with the environment and enhance the enjoyment of Missouri's natural resources. The division provides: land surveying; ongoing renovation, repair and maintenance; facility maintenance, including grounds maintenance, grading of parking areas and entry roads, cleaning boat ramps and maintenance of privies, boat docks and other infrastructure; and coordinates and obtains regulatory environmental permits and cultural clearances for construction and management activities involving soil disturbance on public lands owned and managed by the department.

The division also administers the department's County Aid Road Trust Fund (CART) program that assists county and other governmental units with road maintenance to ensure public access is available to department areas.

Fisheries Division

The fisheries division provides fisheries and aquatic resource expertise and management efforts. Responsibilities include four warm water and five cold water hatcheries; administering a Stream Unit program that includes over 4,196 active "Stream Team" citizen groups; monitoring and maintaining the quality of Missouri's aquatic resources; managing public fisheries resources for quality fishing; providing technical stream and lake management advice to private landowners and other public agencies; and providing and assisting with public information and education programs.

The four warm water hatcheries rear and coordinate the stocking of about 8 million fish in public waters, suitable private lakes and waters used for special fishing events and aquatic resources education. Methods are also developed for rearing endangered species. The five cold water hatcheries (Bennett Spring, Maramec Spring, Montauk, Roaring River and Shepherd of the Hills) rear and coordinate the stocking of about 2 million trout in public waters.

The division directs and administers fisheries programs, develops and refines regulations, works on the acquisition and development of public fishing and boat access areas, administers the Community Assistance Program and Corporate and Agency Partnership Program, administers federal aid grants, coordinates angler recognition programs, develops and revises technical and popular written materials and distributes a weekly fishing report during the fishing season.

Missouri has more than 975 public lakes with approximately 281,450 acres of surface water, 486 miles of the Mississippi River, 553 miles of the Missouri River, about 110,000 miles of permanent and intermittent streams, and 500,000 private impoundments. These waters support rich and diverse aquatic communities that are used, enjoyed and appreciated by millions of people each year. Fishing is one of the most popular and economically important uses of these waters. Each year, nearly 1.1 million anglers in Missouri generate more than $1 billion of economic impact in the state.

Forestry Division

The forestry division provides management and protection of the state's forest resources to have healthy and sustainable forest and woodland communities on both public and private land. Forestry programs assist forest landowners and forest industries with practices designed to: ensure healthy and sustainable forests; ensure the proper management and sustainability of public forest lands; control and reduce the impact from major infestations of forest insects and diseases; work with communities to develop sustainable community forestry programs; and improve rural fire protection throughout the state.

Each year, technical assistance is provided by the division to private woodland owners. These services are available statewide and include tree selection and planting advice, forest management plans and recommendations, forest products utilization and marketing assistance and wildlife management recommendations. The forest health protection program ensures the continuing health of forest resources through survey and detection, pest and control evaluations and public information. The division also provides training for loggers to encourage the sustainable harvest of Missouri's forests.

The division manages more than 440,000 acres of public forest land. Forest management benefits include biodiversity, watershed protection, wildlife habitat, forest products and recreational opportunities. To encourage forest and wildlife plantings, 3 million seedlings of more than 60 different tree and shrub species are produced at the George O. White State Forest Nursery each year to fill requests from Missourians. Every fourth-grade student in the state receives an Arbor Day seedling produced at the nursery.

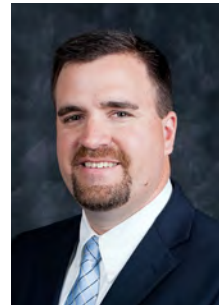
The division provides assistance to communities through the Tree Resource Improvement and Management (TRIM) program, which provides funds to implement community forestry programs, including tree establishment, maintenance and care. Special consideration has been given to communities that have sustained significant damage from natural disasters and invasive pests.

In addition, the division assists more than 776 volunteer rural fire departments to suppress approximately 3,000 wildfires annually, which burn forest and grassland. Technical assistance, training and federal excess equipment are available at no cost to cooperating rural fire departments. Grants, supported in part by the U.S. Forest Service (USFS), are available to rural fire departments on a competitive basis. A rural forest fire equipment center is located in Lebanon. The center acquires and distributes federal excess property to rural fire departments for use in fire suppression activities. "Operation Forest Arson" is a program to combat the high number of arson-caused wildfires. This program is combined with the Smokey Bear wildfire prevention campaign to educate school children.

In Missouri, there are about 15.5 million acres of forests, or 35 percent of the land area. Approximately 80 percent of the forested land is the oak-hickory type, 6 percent is shortleaf pine and oak-pine types and the remainder is in cedar and bottomland hardwoods. Over 83 percent of forests are privately owned by about 350,000 individual owners. Missouri's forests support a large forest products industry with about 1,000 manufacturing plants producing lumber, railroad ties, cooperage, cedar and walnut items (including gunstocks and veneer), charcoal and other products. Missouri leads the nation in the production of charcoal, cooperage barrels, cedar novelties, gunstocks, walnut bowls and walnut nutmeats. The economic impact of the forest industry and wood products in Missouri is $8 billion annually.

Human Resources Division

The Human Resources Division provides services that help the department attract and retain a diverse and dynamic workforce, including recruitment and selection; administering salary and fringe benefits programs; overseeing a comprehensive group life, medical, accidental death and dismemberment and dependent life insurance program; maintaining official employee documents and records through a human resources information system; and managing a safety program, including worker's compensation. The division also monitors compliance with employment practices relating to affirmative action, American's with Disabilities Act (ADA) and drug testing; provides employee training and development programs; administers employee assistance and wellness activities; and assists with disciplinary and grievance processes. A workforce council implements programs to increase the department's efforts to experience the benefits of a diverse workforce.



Outreach and Education Division

The Outreach and Education Division helps Missourians learn to conserve and enjoy Missouri's forests, fish and wildlife resources through focused education, interpretation and outreach efforts. The division develops, coordinates and implements education curriculum, materials and programs; public relations, news and marketing; hunter education; print, image and digital media; exhibits; nature and interpretive centers; shooting ranges; hands-on and indirect learning opportunities; and volunteer programs.

The Missouri Conservationist magazine is published monthly and is free to adult Missourians. The magazine has been published since 1938. The monthly circulation is about 500,000. A children's magazine, Xplor, is published every other month. The division coordinates the department webpage information, www.missouriconservation.org, which includes an online Conservation Atlas with maps and information about department areas. Other information includes tips for getting outdoors, hunting and fishing reports, conservation videos, the Missouri Conservationist magazine and news online, a calendar of events, links to special programs such as "Grow Native!" and "No MOre Trash!" and the ability to purchase hunting and fishing permits online. Through many free publications, Missourians can also learn about subjects as diverse as how to fish, hunting regulations or animal identification. A Natural Events Calendar, books and DVDs are available at nature centers, through a catalog or online.

There are nature and education centers in Blue Springs, Jefferson City, Kirkwood, Springfield, Cape Girardeau and Winona, and visitor centers in Taney, St. Charles and St. Louis counties that offer unique nature exploration programs. The Discovery Center, located in the heart of Kansas City, features workshops offering hands-on instruction to school groups and individuals in a building that highlights energy-efficient design.

The division develops and makes available conservation education programs, including "Discover Nature–Schools," which helps students get outside to experience hands-on learning in nature close to home. Instructional units are provided at no cost, which meet testing needs and are combined with grants for field trips and instructional materials to complement the national "No Child Left Inside" effort. Additional units provide focused conservation information for other grade levels. The division delivers conservation education to public, private and parochial schools and colleges, as well as youth leaders and community leaders.

Opportunities for citizen involvement include "Missouri Master Naturalists," which is a community-based, adult natural resource education and volunteer program sponsored by the Department of Conservation, the University of Missouri Extension program and the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources.

The division also teaches Missourians skills to enjoy the outdoors safely and responsibly. Outdoor skills specialists work to give Missourians of all ages direct experience in nature-based activities such as fishing, hunting and archery. The "Missouri National Archery in the Schools Program (MoNASP)" is supported by the department with the help of the Missouri Conservation Federation to bring archery to schools statewide. Other programs called "Discover Nature–Families" and "Discover Nature–Women" help Missourians learn a variety of skills to enjoy the outdoors. The division coordinates a team of volunteers to provide hunter education training, which is mandatory for all persons born on or after Jan. 1, 1967, as a prerequisite to the purchase of firearms hunting permits; about 25,000 students receive training each year.

Shooting ranges administered by the division provide hunters a safe place to practice and develop outdoor skills. Five staffed shooting range and outdoor education centers and more than 75 unstaffed ranges (including both firearms and archery ranges) provide Missourians with opportunities to practice firearm and archery skills. Programs offered at the staffed ranges help educate new hunters.

Private Land Services Division

The private land services division helps Missouri landowners achieve their land use objectives in ways that enhance forest, fish and wildlife conservation. Private landowners own about 93 percent of the land in Missouri. The division promotes the wise use of forests, fish, wildlife and natural communities through voluntary participation, information, financial assistance and partnerships.

The health of Missouri's forest, fish and wildlife resources depends on the stewardship of Missouri landowners. The division provides technical assistance and tailors management recommendations to the goals of the landowner and site-specific natural resource needs. Assistance is provided to communities, including urban developers, homeowners, city and county planners and others to address natural resource protection and management in developed areas, as well as in areas under development. Wildlife damage control biologists provide assistance to landowners experiencing damage to their property caused by wildlife.

The division develops partnerships with state and federal agencies, commodity groups, agribusinesses and conservation organizations. Partnerships with the Natural Resources Conservation Service and Farm Service Agency integrate forest, fish and wildlife considerations into implementation of Farm Bill programs. To complement funding available through federal programs, the department offers cost-share to landowners for implementation of select natural resource management practices.

LARRY YAMNITZ
Protection Division Chief

Protection Division

The protection division is responsible for enforcement of the Wildlife Code of Missouri and related statutes on both private and public lands. Uniformed Conservation Agents are assigned to each county in Missouri and represent the department in a wide variety of programs.

Agents are licensed as peace officers to enforce all state laws on lands owned, managed or leased by the department. Agents are also commissioned by the U.S. Department of the Interior to enforce federal fish and wildlife laws. Agents administer the hunter education program in their local area. Agents provide conservation information and education through newspaper articles, adult and youth meetings, exhibits, clinics, radio and television programs and other media. The division helps to provide basic information on forest, fish and wildlife management, assists with landowner assistance programs and conducts surveys and special field studies.

Agents are the primary contact for landowners with poaching or trespassing problems and are often contacted about nuisance wildlife issues.

The division works with the Conservation Federation of Missouri to administer the Operation Game Thief, Operation Forest Arson and Share the Harvest programs. Operation Game Thief provides an avenue for concerned citizens to report poaching through a centralized toll-free hotline: (800) 392-1111. Rewards for information leading to the arrest of violators are available. Since the inception of this program in 1982, over 7,600 arrests have been made with information supplied by concerned citizens. This program has been shown to be an effective means of public awareness and involvement in protecting the natural resources of Missouri.

Share the Harvest, a program where hunters donate deer meat to those less fortunate through established charitable organizations, has received over 3.2 million pounds of deer meat for Missouri citizens. Hunters who donate their entire deer receive a reduction in the price of processing, which is paid to the processor by the Missouri Conservation Federation, a private citizen's organization. In some cases, local organizations provide additional funds for processing so there is no cost to hunters who wish to donate deer.

Resource Science Division

The resource science division provides the science-based information needed to conserve, appreciate and effectively manage the living natural resources of Missouri. The division is organized around systems and functions, rather than traditional disciplines, and delivers management assistance through a series of field stations. The systems include terrestrial systems, aquatic and wetland systems, science technology and policy support, geographic information systems (GIS), environmental health and the Heritage Program. Field stations include a grasslands systems field station in Clinton, a forest systems field station in West Plains, a big rivers and wetlands systems field station in Jackson, an agricultural systems field station in Kirksville and the Missouri River field station in Chillicothe. A Conservation Research Center is located in Columbia.

The terrestrial systems work includes evaluating plant and animal habitat relationships, monitoring population status and developing harvest and species management recommendations for statewide populations of deer, furbearers, turkey and migratory birds. Specialized projects monitor wildlife and plant diversity, population changes and forest silviculture.

Aquatic and wetland systems work includes evaluating fisheries, wetland and waterfowl management, fish communities, watersheds, stream systems, interactions among predators and prey and species of concern.

Science technology and policy support work includes post-harvest hunter and angler surveys, attitude surveys and public-use surveys to understand the opinions and attitudes of Missourians. This information, combined with biological information and natural resource economics data, informs management decisions. The GIS program uses geospatial technology and products to support natural resource decisions, archive the processes, evaluate results and train users. Biometricians ensure statistically sound study designs and the use of appropriate statistical techniques to analyze and interpret complex natural resource questions.

Environmental health work includes evaluating aquatic biodiversity, such as mussel conservation and genetics research, water quality and provides responsive service to the department, the public and other agencies and entities. Issues involving pollution, fish kills and contaminants are coordinated with other agencies. Wildlife Health work provides expertise for management and research of wildlife health-related issues.

The Heritage Program provides expertise for management and research on high-priority taxa and maintains the Heritage Database. The Natural Heritage program tracks the status and location of 1,252 species and natural communities of conservation concern, with ongoing documentation and mapping. These data are used in the department and by federal and state agencies for recovery efforts, environmental reviews and management efforts.

Wildlife Division

The wildlife division actively manages and restores Missouri's plants, animals and habitats for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The division manages over 538,000 acres, which is about one-half of department-managed lands. The division provides technical advice for wildlife and habitat management to other agencies, organizations, communities, industries and private landowners.

MIKE HUBBARD
Resource Science Division Chief

JENNIFER BATTSON WARREN
Wildlife Division Chief

The division administers the department's endangered species, invasive species, natural community management, Natural Areas, Missouri Comprehensive Conservation Strategy and other state and national wildlife initiatives. The division assists with the development of regulations for public use of department-managed lands and statewide wildlife management. The division assists with research and monitoring projects that inform regulation changes and improve wildlife and habitat management practices. The division promotes active citizen involvement in conservation and outdoor recreation and connects urban and rural citizens with opportunities to appreciate and enjoy Missouri's wildlife and their habitats.

The division's public land management activities accommodate public recreation opportunities through the active management of wildlife and their habitats. The division maintains more than 285 miles of trails and administers numerous managed hunts, including special opportunities for youth and hunters with disabilities. Wildlife habitat management on public lands provides environmental benefits for all citizens by maintaining the ecological health of Missouri forests, prairies, glades, wetlands and streams. Healthy ecosystems are necessary to produce healthy and sustainable forest, fish and wildlife resources. They also contribute to high water quality, groundwater recharge, air quality, soil erosion control, watershed protection and the economy. In Missouri, approximately 576,000 individuals hunt and 1.7 million view wildlife. Missourians and non-residents spend more than $2.6 billion dollars annually related to fish and wildlife recreation. These expenditures generate $4.7 billion dollars annually in economic impacts in Missouri.

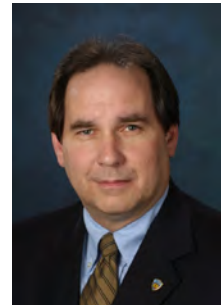
The Department of Corrections is an agency dedicated to public safety through the successful management and supervision of offenders on probation, in prison and on parole. The department's responsibility is to administer the sentence set by the court in ways that promote public safety at the lowest cost to taxpayers. Offenders assigned to the department are successfully managed by ensuring they are supervised at the correct custody or supervision level. A cadre of over 11,000 well-trained correctional professionals committed to the vision, mission, values and professional principles of the department assess each offender's criminal history, evaluate community and institutional conduct and enforce court orders and department rules. This mixture of ongoing assessment, classification, referral-to-supervision strategies and assignment to basic habilitation interventions are several of the key methods used to promote sober, responsible, productive and law-abiding behavior. When offenders are held accountable for their behavior and responsible for their actions, the public's safety is enhanced.



In all, the department is responsible for the care, custody and supervision of approximately 94,371 adult offenders in Missouri. On Dec. 31, 2014, there were 31,942 offenders confined in Missouri's 20 correctional facilities, and the department was supervising 16,599 parolees and 45,830 probationers across the state. In addition to the correctional facilities, the department operates two community release centers and seven community supervision centers.

There are four divisions within the department. The management of felons and selected misdemeanants committed by the court are divided between the Division of Probation and Parole and the Division of Adult Institutions. The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services provides program services to felons assigned to probation, parole or prison. All staff-related activities and special program services are provided through the Division of Human Services.

The department utilizes strategic planning to promote continuous improvement and excellent customer service at all levels of the organization.

This commitment to continuous improvement ensures offenders under the supervision of the Department of Corrections are assigned to the correct custody classification and receive those services that reduce criminal behavior and promote long lasting public safety through a measurable reduction in recidivism and revocation.

The strength of the Department of Corrections is found in the women and men who serve around the clock to ensure that offenders are supervised at the most appropriate level with the greatest care for public safety. To assist staff in their challenging work, the department has developed policies and procedures based on statutes, case law and the best practices in the field.

Sometimes overlooked are the line staff and supervisors dedicated to providing quality correctional supervision to offenders. Working together, these units of probation and parole officers, correctional officers, clerical staff, cooks, substance abuse counselors, caseworkers, maintenance workers, teachers, treatment staff and others blend into a team that holds offenders accountable for their behavior and responsible for their actions. Through a combination of supervision strategies and classification criteria, offenders are supervised in ways that address public safety concerns while meeting the needs of the offender.

Supervision levels in the community range from intensive to minimum supervision of offenders, to community corrections programs, such as electronic monitoring and residential facilities. Community supervision centers provide additional supervision and treatment for at-risk offenders. In the prisons, there are three custody levels: minimum, medium and maximum. Using objective criteria to establish supervision and custody levels ensures offenders with corresponding need and disposition are supervised and confined safely and securely with appropriate programming.

The employees of the Missouri Department of Corrections are among the finest in the field of corrections. They are active in their local communities both in developing professional relationships with citizen groups and maintaining their role as citizens building strong communities. The department takes its responsibilities seriously and is committed to making Missouri a safe and secure place for its citizens and visitors.

Offender Management

Risk management is the process of classifying offenders according to the risk they currently present to the public so as to assign them to the institutional custody or community supervision level that best monitors their conduct. Department staff assess, evaluate and intervene as necessary to ensure offenders are managed in ways that best promote public safety in accordance with the sentence of the court.

Risk management is accomplished in a variety of ways. Sentencing assessment reports assist the court in determining sentencing options. Individualized institutional treatment programs for substance abusers, sex offenders and others who experience mental health or other special problems provide offenders with the necessary skills for successful reintegration into society. Supervision strategies such as intensive specialized programming, electronic monitoring, community supervision centers, day reporting centers and residential facilities provide offenders with a structured environment for increased supervision. Restorative justice programming in institutions and field offices allow offenders an opportunity to repair the harm their crimes have caused individual victims and their communities. The institutional classification system ensures felons in prison are confined at custody levels that maintain facility security and public safety.

Office of the Director

The director of the Missouri Department of Corrections is charged with shaping legislation, formulating policies and procedures and keeping the public informed in order to effectively and efficiently guide and implement objectives and goals that increase the public's safety. The Office of the Inspector General is also charged with the oversight of the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) standards for the department to ensure compliance needs are met. Included in the Office of the Director are units that participate in these endeavors, notably Victim Services, Inspector General, Legal Services, Budget and Research, Reentry and Women Offender Programs, Emergency Preparedness/Workplace Violence, Legislative/Constituent Services and Public Information.

Budget, Research and Evaluation

The Budget Unit is responsible for developing, preparing and presenting the department's annual budget request. Budget staff coordinate with the department's operating divisions to determine the resources required to implement agency programs and strategies. The unit then develops funding requests that accurately reflect the department's strategic planning goals and objectives. Through analysis of research data on program outcomes and population trends, the unit provides guidance on ways to use department resources more effectively and efficiently. The Budget Unit presents the budget request to the governor's office and then works closely with the General Assembly to provide information during the appropriations process. This unit also coordinates fiscal note responses for the department.

The Federal Grants Unit is responsible for obtaining, monitoring, managing and disbursing all federal funds obtained through grants to the department. This section pays all bills and salaries for federal programs in which the department participates. The Federal Grants Unit prepares financial and progress reports for all department grants.

The Research and Evaluation Unit is responsible for providing research data and analysis to support the entire Department of Corrections. The unit tracks population growth of all offenders and maintains statistical data required for the evaluation of department programs and trends. The unit provides research information required to support the strategic planning process and all departmental decision-making. The unit also provides research and survey data to agencies within and outside state government and reviews outside research requests.

Reentry, Restorative Justice and Women Offender Programs

Missouri was chosen as one of the first two states to implement a model created by the National Institute of Corrections called the Transition from Prison to Community Initiative (TPCI). This initiative was the impetus for the development of the Missouri Reentry Process (MRP), which is a system of resources, programs and partnerships designed to decrease offender risk and enhance offender self-sufficiency to improve public safety. The Reentry Unit manages a number of programs and initiatives related to the MRP and provides offender reentry assistance and direction to divisions within the Department of Corrections, partnering agencies and the community. The purpose of this assistance is to empower professionals and community members to better assist the offender population with their reintegration to the community. The Women Offender Program was established to ensure accountability, reliability and continuous improvement in meeting the department's commitment to provide gender-specific resources and interventions to women incarcerated or under probation or parole supervision. The Department of Corrections understands the value of partnership and works closely with the state level MRP Steering Team, the 40 local MRP Steering Teams and various other state and community agencies, organizations and faith-based groups.

The Reentry Unit also provides oversight and support to the Department of Corrections' restorative justice efforts. Through restorative justice initiatives, offenders assist victims and victimized communities as part of their sentence to prison. Restorative justice holds the offender accountable and provides a means for them to repay their debt to the victim and the community. These initiatives also provide the offender an opportunity to leave the system with an improved attitude and sense of belonging, as well as strengthened social bonds that serve as the foundation of communities. Through the efforts of offender volunteers, not-for-profit agencies and victims statewide receive reparative products and services. Examples include donation of quilts, fruits and vegetables harvested from inmate gardens, wooden toys, refurbished bicycles, etc. to organizations such as the Salvation Army, children's hospitals, senior citizen homes, schools, KidSmart, Newborns in Need, Head Start, Boys and Girls Club, Veterans Administration hospitals, homeless shelters and many more. In addition, many offenders attend Impact of Crime on Victims classes (ICVC), which help offenders develop sensitivity and respect toward victims that helps prevent further victimization.

Inspector General

The Office of Inspector General is charged with objectively examining department operations through the Investigations Unit and the Intelligence Unit. The Investigations Unit is the investigative arm of the department and conducts investigations in response to reports of suspected violations of policy and procedure, statute and events that might endanger the safety and security of offenders, staff, facilities, employees or the public. The Intelligence Unit is responsible for developing and filtering intelligence information.

AMY RODERICK
Inspector General

KIMBERLY EVANS
Victim Services Coordinator

Emergency Preparedness/Workplace Violence

This section is responsible for writing, reviewing and revising departmental policies and procedures related to emergency preparedness, disaster planning and response. This includes the oversight of department emergency preparedness with mitigation planning, monitoring training programs and evaluating emergency exercises at worksites to prepare all staff to respond to emergencies efficiently and effectively.

This section also serves as the liaison to the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA), which includes responding to SEMA when an emergency dictates an activation. Participation in SEMA sponsored committees and training sessions representing the Department of Corrections and participation in statewide emergency exercises is expected as well.

Coordinating the Department Workplace Violence Program, including development and review of department procedures for program management and Peer Action Care Teams (PACT), is also handled by this section. Additional responsibilities include: developing, revising and coordinating training for PACT members (peer responders); mobilizing PACT when appropriate; receiving and responding to calls regarding workplace violence and critical incidents; assisting with Employee Assistance Program (EAP) referrals; and critical incident stress debriefing at worksites.

Legislative/Constituent Services, Public Information and Victim Services

These three sections of the Office of the Director provide and coordinate information to specific audiences concerning the department and its divisions.

The Legislative/Constituent Services Office processes offender-related inquiries from legislative offices, offender families and the public. Through a customer-focused approach, the office provides information about specific offenders and education about the department's policies, procedures and practices. This office also responds to inquiries from legislators and other interested parties about the department's operations and the potential impact of proposed legislation.

The department's Public Information Office responds to inquiries from the news media and the general public. The office responds to dozens of media calls and inquiries each week. The office also produces department publications and videos. It promotes activities and handles updates to the department website. The unit develops organizational plans to improve internal communication and has implemented a media outreach plan for interviews designed to promote department programs and activities.

The department's Office of Victim Services (OVS) was established to ensure core services and accurate and timely information are provided to Missouri's crime victims. The OVS provides notification of changes in an offender's status to victims of crime in accordance with 595.209, RSMo. The OVS enhances accessibility to department operations including parole hearings, victim impact statements for the Parole Board's consideration and reasonable protection from offenders or others acting on behalf of the offender. The OVS provides services including notification, crisis intervention, support and referrals to approximately 16,000 victims of crime. Upon the request of the victim, OVS staff will provide accompaniment to parole hearings and provide support to families of homicide victims during an execution.

CARI COLLINS
Director
Division of Human Services

Division of Human Services

The Division of Human Services consists of Human Resource Management, Training and Employee Development, Employee Health/Wellness/Safety, Religious/Spiritual Services, Volunteer/Intern Programs, Planning, Fiscal Management, Offender Financial Services and General Services. This division provides support to the other divisions of the department. A professionally trained workforce, where safety and wellness is practiced as a part of the job, is essential to carrying out the vision, mission, values and professional principles of the department. The Division of Human Services is tasked with recruiting a diverse professional workforce, maintaining that qualified workforce, improving the work environment of employees and communication between management and staff. Strategic planning and fiscal management are essential to support the operation of the department. Additionally, the division has oversight of the institutional food operations, major new construction and maintenance projects, the management of the vehicle fleet and the Central Region's business office and warehouse functions.

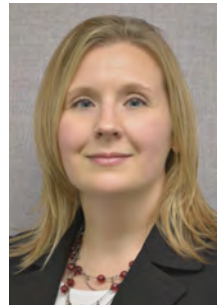
Fiscal Management Unit

The Fiscal Management Unit oversees the implementation and maintenance of a variety of complex accounting systems that provide essential fiscal oversight, support and assistance to correctional institutions, probation and parole district offices and Missouri Vocational Enterprises. The unit's primary responsibility is to ensure the accountability and transparency of the state resources entrusted to the department. This is accomplished through the efforts of skilled and experienced staff in the areas of Purchasing, Accounting and Internal Auditing. The unit also serves as the department liaison with the Office of Administration, the state auditor's office, the state treasurer's office and the Department of Revenue.

Offender Financial Services

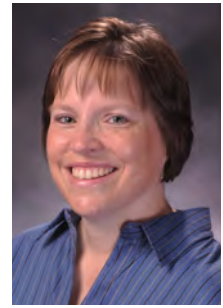
Offender Financial Services provides fiscal oversight, support and assistance to the offender population by managing the offender canteen and offender banking system. The offender banking system is used to maintain offenders' personal funds, savings accounts, savings bonds and liabilities owed to other entities. The system is also used to process offender payroll and accounts receivable. Each institution operates an offender canteen offering approved products for sale to offenders with revenues used for the benefit of offenders in the areas of recreation, religion or educational services.

Planning Section



The Planning Section provides organizational development assistance in the preparation of the department's strategic plan and oversees the monitoring of strategies and performance measures associated with the strategic plan to ensure success. The Planning Section also facilitates departmental teams that work on process improvement, problem-solving and customer satisfaction projects.

Training Academy



The Training Academy develops, coordinates and delivers pre-service, in-service and management/supervisory training to staff in each of the department's divisions. The academy consists of 53 full-time staff and a cadre of part-time volunteer trainers who perform their duties in one of the department's three regions: Central, Eastern and Western. The academy promotes personal growth, professional development and imparts the departmental vision to all staff members to help them achieve the short- and long-term goals of the agency. To this end, the regions conduct pre-service basic training courses for all new corrections officers, non-custody staff and probation and parole officers. In addition, more than 1,000 in-service and management courses are presented annually. The academy is also responsible for probation and parole safety training and a variety of other certification programs. The academy designs and develops all departmental curricula.

Employee Health and Safety

This section addresses job-related health and safety concerns with a focus on control of infectious diseases. It also oversees and implements occupational safety concerns, coordinates the department's "Early Return to Work Program" and promotes employee wellness activities. The department's Employee Drug Testing Program is coordinated through this unit.

Human Resources Section

The Human Resources Section provides technical assistance on all human resource functions. This section is responsible for the timely and accurate processing of payroll, maintenance and updating of official personnel records for all departmental staff, testing and hiring of corrections officers, reviewing and coordinating classification actions, ensuring the department recruits a qualified and diverse workforce and ensuring that all merit guidelines are followed. The Human Resources Section assists employees in their career development and employee conflict resolution.

Religious/Spiritual Programming

Religious programming opportunities and pastoral care services are provided for inmates in correctional centers. Department chaplains assigned to every institution work with volunteers from various faith-groups to ensure constitutional rights of inmates to practice the religion of their choice are facilitated within the limitations of a secure setting. Religious and spiritual services are used as a restorative and transforming tool for inmate change, growth and social reintegration. Chaplains partner with the outside faith community to provide effective service delivery for the offenders, both in the institution and relative to community reentry. Raising public awareness of offender spiritual needs and volunteer recruitment are essential tasks in which chaplains regularly engage.

The impact of religious and spiritual services for inmates has been shown to decrease conduct violations and promote inmate institutional adjustment. Inmates attending religious and spiritual programming are more likely to engage in activities that promote positive attitudes and behaviors needed to take advantage of other inmate programs.

Volunteer Services

Volunteers/Interns

Volunteers serve throughout the department and are recognized as non-salaried staff. They receive an orientation to the department, training and supervision by department staff. Volunteers provide a variety of services and programs in areas such as substance abuse, recovery support, literacy, tutoring, parenting, anger management, employability skills and religion. Volunteers provide incarcerated offenders the opportunity to participate in community organizations including: NAACP, Vietnam Veterans, Kiwanis, Toastmasters, American Legion and other such organizations.

This section also coordinates student internships from various educational institutions and colleges around the state. The Volunteer Section coordinates the involvement of representatives from other state agencies, community organizations and individuals in providing reentry services and programs to incarcerated offenders.

General Services

General Services is responsible for the purchasing, storage and distribution of commodity food items to the department's institutions statewide from two regional warehouses. This section also oversees the operations of institutional food service, including regional cook-chill facilities, major new construction and maintenance projects within the department and management of the statewide departmental vehicle fleet. The General Services Unit also oversees the central business office, telecommunications and warehouse functions.

Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services

The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services is responsible for developing and delivering interventions and services necessary for offenders to correct their criminal behavior at each point in the department's supervision continuum and prepare for successful reintegration into the community upon release. These services and interventions include: academic and vocational education, medical services, mental health services, Missouri Sexual Offender Program, Missouri Vocational Enterprises, toxicology and substance abuse services. These program services allow corrections professionals throughout the department to fully utilize the supervision continuum to better resolve offender issues such as literacy, sobriety and employability. Without remediation, these factors would impede their return to the community as law-abiding and productive citizens. The public's safety is best served by creating increased offender accountability.

Adult Basic Education

In order to prepare inmates for successful reintegration into society and to reduce recidivism, offenders without a high school diploma or equivalent are required by statute to participate in Adult Basic Education classes. The educational program provides offenders an opportunity to obtain a high school equivalency certificate and make measurable progress in academic education. The Department of Corrections offers:

- Assessment: Intake centers screen and diagnose offenders prior to school assignments.
- Adult Education: Classes assist the offender in working toward a high school equivalency certification.
- Literacy: Courses provide specific instruction for those with limited English proficiency and reading skills.
- Title I: Supplemental instructional services are offered for educationally disadvantaged students under age 21.
- Special Education: Education for offenders with learning disabilities through the age of 22.
- Library: Library services are provided and focus on leisure, legal and informational needs. Each library is composed of a general collection and maintains a collection of legal resources and online law library services to provide offender "access to courts," per the U.S. Supreme Court's Bounds v Smith decision.

The Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education certifies all department teachers and administrators.

The Mandatory Academic Education Statute, Section 217.690.10 RSMo establishes that offenders must earn their high school equivalency certificate or exhibit a continuous honest, good-faith effort toward academic success to be eligible for parole.

Academic education can serve more than 5,000 eligible offenders daily and during the past two fiscal years, approximately 3,300 inmates have earned high school equivalency certificates. More than 80 percent of the inmates who take the equivalency test pass. This rate exceeds both the state and national average.

Career and Technical Education

Current programs include vocational training programs throughout the prison system. These programs include web design, simulated commercial vehicle driving, applied computer technology, automotive mechanics, basic welding, building trades, business technology, electrical wiring, residential plumbing, diesel mechanics, modern woodworking, culinary arts, cosmetology, professional gardening, small engines mechanics and certified nursing assistant. The department also partners with local community colleges to offer technical literacy and certified production technician training programs. All of the vocational programs provide offenders with a Department of Labor certificate upon completion. In addition, offenders obtain the following certifications and/or licenses upon completion of the applicable coursework: ServSafe (culinary arts), National Center for Construction Education and Research (welding, plumbing, electrical and building trades), Certiport (computer technology), State Board of Cosmetology License (cosmetology) and Certified Nursing Assistant License (certified nursing assistant).

Missouri Vocational Enterprises

Missouri Vocational Enterprises (MVE) is responsible for 23 different industries in 13 correctional institutions throughout the state. At any one time, MVE employs approximately 1,350 offenders who provide a variety of products and services for sale to state agencies, city and county governments, political subdivisions, state employees and not-for-profit organizations. MVE's goal is to increase work and training opportunities for offenders. Profits generated by MVE sales are used to develop new products and create expanded vocational training opportunities. More than 50 MVE jobs now qualify as federally certified apprenticeships by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Work-based programs are delivered via apprenticeships and on-the-job training delivered by MVE and through institutional jobs. MVE also provides skilled training programs such as computer-aided drafting and similar software to assist the offender to secure and retain meaningful employment upon release.

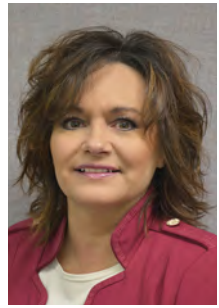
Medical Services

Health care for offenders is required by Missouri law (217.230, RSMo). It was also determined that the 8th and 14th amendments of the U.S. Constitution further established this right. The Missouri Department of Corrections is responsible for the health care of offenders in its custody. The Medical Services Unit oversees medical care, which has been provided on a contractual basis since Dec. 1, 1992. This health care system stresses education, disease prevention, immediate identification of health problems and early intervention to prevent more debilitating, chronic health problems. Medical units are located in 21 correctional centers. Depending upon institutional size, the level of care provided to offenders ranges from daily, routine medical and dental sick-call services to 24-hour care infirmaries. Many sites have X-ray equipment, laboratory services, physical therapy and minor surgical procedures. Chronic care clinics ensure those with chronic conditions are regularly assessed and provided continuous medical care by licensed nurses and physicians.

All facilities utilize community hospitals and clinics for emergency care, consultation and inpatient treatment. Consultation agreements are also in place with community specialists. The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services' contract-monitoring staff ensures offenders receive medical care equivalent to the community standard, and that all mandates of the contract are fulfilled. The goal is to return offenders to the community as medically stable as possible, so they may become productive citizens of the state.

Mental Health

When offenders are sentenced to prison, their mental health needs are assessed at the reception and diagnostic centers. All offenders receive a mental health screening and psychological testing. While in the corrections system, mentally ill offenders receive individualized treatment to stabilize their mental illness and help with institutional adjustment.



The department works closely with the Department of Mental Health. A specialized treatment program, the Correctional Treatment Center, offers programming for seriously mentally ill offenders at Farmington Correctional Center. Both departments also work together coordinating treatment for mentally ill offenders being released from incarceration.

The department also has other specialized mental health treatment programs at Farmington Correctional Center (Social Rehabilitation Unit); Jefferson City Correctional Center (Secure Social Rehabilitation Unit); Potosi Correctional Center (Potosi Reintegration Unit); and Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center (Women's Social Rehabilitation Unit).

The department also has the Special Needs Unit for developmentally disabled offenders. This is located at the Potosi Correctional Center.

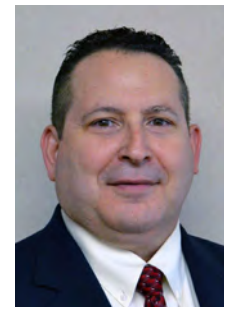
Missouri Sexual Offender Program (MoSOP)



Missouri law (589.040, RSMo) mandates the director of the Department of Corrections to develop a program of treatment, education and rehabilitation for sexual assault offenders. By statute, the successful completion of MoSOP is mandatory for a release prior to an offender's sentence completion time. The MoSOP program generally takes 9 to 12 months to complete and is provided at the Farmington Correctional Center for males and at the Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center in Vandalia for females. Programming for handicapped offenders and those in protective custody, is offered at the Eastern Reception Diagnostic and Correctional Center in Bonne Terre. During the fiscal year of 2014, 354 offenders completed the MoSOP program.

The Sex Offender Assessment Process (SOAP) at the Farmington Correctional Center is a 120-day, pre-sentencing residential process established in fiscal year 1994. SOAP assesses risk to the community and sex offender treatment needs. Information is shared with the court for sentencing considerations.

The Department of Corrections is responsible for assessing sex offenders prior to their release from incarceration to determine whether any qualify for civil commitment as sexually violent predators (632.480, RSMo). After careful examination by highly specialized staff, 26 out of 510 offenders reviewed (5 percent) from fiscal year 2014 were referred for possible civil commitment to the Department of Mental Health.

Institutional Substance Abuse Treatment and Toxicology Services

Substance use problems and disorders are well-documented criminogenic factors with a direct impact on offender recidivism. Substance use disorders are progressive and the need for treatment and recovery management usually recurs throughout an offender's life span. In fiscal year 2014, approximately 40 percent of new admissions to prison were alcohol- or drug-related offenders.

An array of treatment services for substance use disorders are provided to offenders incarcerated in Missouri's prisons who have been sentenced by the courts or stipulated by the Board of Probation and Parole for substance abuse treatment. In fiscal year 2014, 2,987 beds were designated for institutional treatment. Approximately 92 percent of offenders who were discharged from institutional treatment successfully completed their programs.

The Department of Corrections provided the following services in correctional institutions in fiscal year 2014:

- Substance Use Assessment services.

- Long-Term Institutional Treatment programs of one year or longer.
- Offenders Under Treatment (OUT) programs for 180-day treatment.
- Partial-Day Treatment programs for parole violators.
- Short-Term Treatment programs for offenders ordered by the court or board to serve 84 to 120 days of treatment.
- Treatment programs for offenders with special needs who are mandated substance use treatment and face health, cognitive or mobility problems that prevent them from attending other facilities.
- Toxicology Services for the department are a critical aspect of the drug interdiction approach of Department of Corrections. The department conducts both random and targeted urinalysis at every correctional institution for offenders and district office staff.

Cremer Therapeutic Community Center

The Cremer Therapeautic Center (CTCC) is a minimum-security facility located in Fulton, in which all offenders receive substance use treatment. The facility has a capacity of 180 beds.

Division of Adult Institutions

The Division of Adult Institutions is responsible for supervision and management of the state's 20 adult correctional institutions. The division operates safe, secure and humane institutions for the confinement of individuals committed by the courts to serve a prison sentence. By Missouri law, a felon must be 17 years of age or older or certified as an adult by a circuit court and have a sentence of not less than one year to be committed to the division.

Incarcerated inmates are accountable for civil conduct and compliance with institutional rules. Inmates are also required to make payments from their individual inmate accounts for court-ordered fines or judgments to the Crime Victims Compensation Fund. In addition, each inmate is required to engage in work, school or treatment on a full-time basis throughout their period of confinement in order to prepare them to be productive, law-abiding citizens upon their release. Inmates are encouraged to make positive contributions to society and take responsibility for repairing the harm caused by their past criminal actions by participating in community service, restorative justice activities and impact-of-crime-on-victims programs. Over 97 percent of all offenders committed to the division to serve a sentence are released at some point. Preparing inmates to transition successfully from prison to the community is an investment in public safety and reduces future victimization.

Board of Probation and Parole

The Missouri Board of Probation and Parole is composed of seven full-time members appointed by the governor, subject to the advice and consent of the Senate. During their six-year terms, members determine the release of individuals from confinement in the Division of Adult Institutions through parole or conditional release. Parole hearings are held at each correctional center monthly. If a release date is set, the Parole Board determines whether release strategies, such as electronic monitoring, residential facility and community release center, are appropriate. The Parole Board stipulates special conditions in order to address specific offender needs and improve the opportunity for success under supervision. They also monitor the supervision of offenders in the community and return those offenders to prison who pose a risk to the community. The Parole Board also investigates and reports to the governor on all applications for pardons, commutations of sentence, reprieves or restorations of citizenship. The Parole Board may include information relating to the applicant along with appropriate recommendations.

The chair of the Board of Probation and Parole is designated by the governor and is the chief administrative officer in charge of operations, expenditures, Interstate Compact Services for supervision of parolees and probationers and chief spokesperson for the Parole Board. The members of the Parole Board are:

McSwain, Ellis Jr., (D), chair, Jefferson City;
Jones, Kenneth C., (R), Clarksburg;

Division of Probation and Parole

The Division of Probation and Parole supports the operations of the Board of Probation and Parole and is responsible for field and institutional services for probationers, parolees and conditional releases, as well as community corrections programming, two community release centers and seven community supervision centers. The Division of Probation and Parole assesses and supervises criminal offenders assigned to the division by the circuit courts of Missouri, the Parole Board or under the terms of the Interstate Compact.

The division is divided statewide into six regions for the effective management of the offenders assigned to it. Regions are made up of a network of local district offices, institutional parole offices and residential facilities, and, in some instances, are supported by satellite offices. The chief state supervisor reports directly to the chair of the Parole Board and oversees the daily operations of the division. An assistant division director is responsible for managing the division's support staff, including the Command Center. The assistant division director reports directly to the chief state supervisor.

Eastern Region consists of 11 district field offices in St. Louis City, St. Louis County, St. Charles County and the St. Louis Community Release Center.

Western Region encompasses district field offices in Kansas City (4), St. Joseph (satellite in Maryville), Cameron, Lexington (satellite in Marshall), Trenton (satellite in Brookfield), Independence, Belton, Warrensburg, Liberty and the Kansas City Community Release Center.

Southwest Region consists of two field district offices in Springfield and other district offices in Joplin, Neosho, Branson, Nixa, Aurora, West Plains, Lebanon and Nevada.

Southeast Region has district field offices in Hillsboro, Cape Girardeau (satellite in Perryville), Farmington, Sikeston, Kennett (satellite in New Madrid), Caruthersville, Potosi, Dexter, Union, Poplar Bluff and Charleston.

North Central Region has district field offices in Hannibal, Columbia, Fulton, Jefferson City, Sedalia, Moberly (satellites in Macon and Kirksville) Lake Ozark, Troy (satellite in Warrenton), Rolla and Camdenton.

Institutional Region consists of the institutional parole offices in Jefferson City (2), Fordland, Licking, Fulton, Vandalia, Tipton, Bowling Green, Bonne Terre, Farmington, Charleston, Pacific, Chillicothe, Maryville, Cameron (2), Moberly and St. Joseph.

Institutional Services

The institutional probation and parole officers are responsible for the assessment of incarcerated offenders and the tracking of their progress for the Parole Board or the court. The institutional parole officers report their findings to the Parole Board, prior to an offender's parole hearing and to the court, when the offender is being considered for release to probation supervision. The institutional parole staff and parole analyst assist the Parole Board as they conduct hearings. The officers work with the offenders to develop supervision plans as they prepare for their release from confinement.

Institutional parole offices are located at the following correctional centers: Algoa, Boonville, Chillicothe, Crossroads, Farmington, Potosi, Jefferson City, Maryville, Missouri Eastern, Moberly, Northeast, Western, Ozark, South Central, Southeast and Tipton. Parole offices are also located at diagnostic and reception centers in Bonne Terre, St. Joseph, Vandalia and Fulton (satellite at Cremer Therapeutic Community Center).

Field Services

Field services encompass the supervision of probationers in the community assigned to the division by the courts, offenders released under supervision by the Parole Board and offenders from other states through the Interstate Compact. There were approximately 66,500 offenders under the supervision of the division in the community at the end of calendar year 2014, including parole and conditional release cases received from the Parole Board and probationers.

In order to reduce recidivism, field probation and parole officers continuously assess and evaluate offenders assigned to them and supervise the offenders at a level consistent with their risk to reoffend. The probation and parole officer effectively balances treatment and supervision strategies necessary to manage offender risk with the needs and interests of victims and the community. This supervision process consists of a number of critical activities including:

- accurate and ongoing assessment of offender risk and need;
- development of effective supervision and treatment plans;
- restorative justice practices; and
- use of appropriate sanctions and strategies to minimize risk and maximize the potential for successful outcomes.

Offenders may be ordered to perform community service hours by the court as part of their reparation to the community. They may also be required to compensate victims of crime, pay court costs and make restitution to individual victims.

Probation and Parole staff is engaged with local communities to assist in the coordination of service delivery and activities to improve public safety. Across the state, Citizen Advisory Boards (CABs) provide valuable assistance to their communities. CABs promote an environment for offenders to gain the skills they need to be productive, law-abiding citizens. To this end, CABs fund special programs, such as financial management, providing transportation and assistance and substance abuse education and training.

In addition to CABs, Probation and Parole staff participates in more than 30 local Missouri Reentry Process Teams. The goal of the teams is to improve the transition process of offenders leaving prison and returning to their communities and to enhance options for offenders sentenced to probation within those communities. This creative approach has led to strong partnerships from which new and innovative interventions and supervision approaches have emerged.

Community Supervision Strategies

Probation and Parole staff coordinates and manages a continuum of community based programs and employ a variety of supervision services to improve public safety and offender success. These facilities, programs and services assist with the supervision of probationers assigned by the courts and with the reintegration of parolees upon release from prison. The following programs are designed to provide additional treatment, intervention, sanctions and structure for offenders:

- cognitive skills development classes;
- community reentry contracts;
- community sex offender treatment and registration;
- contract residential facilities;
- day report centers;
- domestic violence supervision;
- electronic monitoring;
- employment services;
- mental health treatment; and
- outpatient substance abuse treatment.

Community Release and Supervision Centers

Community Release Centers and Community Supervision Centers provide the Parole Board and courts with a structured, residential program to better assist and supervise offenders transitioning from prison to the community or offenders at risk of revocation from community supervision. Offenders assigned to these facilities are required to accept personal responsibility in finding and maintaining employment, obtaining substance abuse and medical care and obtaining educational or vocational opportunities. Assessment and treatment sessions are scheduled to coincide with the offenders' off-hours from work.

Kansas City Community Release Center

The Kansas City Community Release Center (KCCRC) opened in May 1978 and is located in the downtown area of Kansas City. KCCRC has a capacity to house 350 offenders.

St. Louis Community Release Center

The St. Louis Community Release Center (SLCRC) is located just north of downtown St. Louis and has been in operation since April 1978. SLCRC has a capacity to house 550 offenders.

Community Supervision Centers

The division has seven community supervision centers. Each center includes an administrative area to accommodate the existing probation and parole district office located in that area, as well as sufficient program/classroom areas and dormitory housing space for 30 offenders in need of structured, residential supervision. Each center provides short-term residential services for offenders who otherwise would have to be housed within the department's correctional centers or local jails. The centers are located in St. Joseph, Farmington, Hannibal, Kennett, Poplar Bluff, Fulton and Kansas City.

Command Center

The department's Command Center is a 24/7 communication center whose staff tracks offenders in the community on electronic monitoring, in community release centers and residential centers. This unit was established to ensure that offenders assigned to community corrections programs maintain their curfews and adhere to other restrictions as required around the clock. Command Center staff conduct investigations for every serious rule violation. They issue arrest warrants should offenders fail to return to their assigned residence at the appointed time. Command Center staff also maintain regular contact with state and local law enforcement to develop leads and ensure absconders are apprehended and returned to department custody without delay.

The Missouri Department of Economic Development's mission is to create solid, high-paying jobs and to boost economic development across the state to help local communities grow and prosper.

The department administers a wide array of services and programs designed to enhance Missouri's economic growth in the 21st century. These essential services focus on workers, businesses and communities. The department is composed of agencies that administer statutory requirements and department policy in the areas of community, economic and workforce development.

Helping the department with its mission are a number of divisions, boards, commissions and councils working together to ensure the state meets Gov. Jay Nixon's vision of making Missouri the best possible location to live, work, raise a family and visit.

The Business and Community Services Division is the largest division in the department and houses the sales, research, marketing, finance and compliance teams.

The Division of Workforce Development remains a pivotal section of the department, helping Missourians access gainful employment and train for the next-generation, high-tech jobs of tomorrow's economy.

The Missouri Division of Tourism, Missouri Development Finance Board, Missouri Housing Development Commission, Missouri Arts Council, Missouri Women's Council and the Missouri Community Service Commission are all housed within the department, as are the Missouri Public Service Commission and the Office of Public Counsel.

Administrative Services

The department is administered by a director appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director appoints the management staff and division directors. The general counsel's office provides comprehensive legal advice regarding issues affecting divisions within the department and provides staff support for the Small Business Regulatory Fairness Board.

Several support sections assist in department administration. Communications promotes the department's programs and activities throughout the state and nation by means of news releases and other public-relations tools.

Financial Systems analyzes monthly financial statements and works with the state treasurer,

Budget and Planning develops and monitors the budget, reviews expenditures, provides strategic-planning assistance and researches grants.

Human Resources assists the divisions by advertising for and recruiting new employees, administering the wage and salary program, preparing payrolls, developing and delivering staff training and maintaining personnel policies and procedures.

Economic Development Groups

The economic development agencies—Business and Community Services Division, Workforce Development and Tourism—work with local communities to help businesses create jobs, increase sales, find and retain qualified workers, identify sites and obtain financial support to locate or expand in Missouri. The agencies also work with local and regional partners to stimulate greater economic growth by increasing capital investment, promoting tourism and the arts, creating greater access to affordable housing and enhancing self-sufficiency within the state's diverse communities.

The Division of Business and Community Services' mission is to facilitate job creation and private investment in the state through existing business expansion and new business location, as well as to support planned community development and growth. The division is composed of professionals who work directly with local economic and community development professionals, private business, local government, nonprofit organizations and real estate developers. The division is organized into teams that all support the same mission. The teams are sales, research, marketing, finance and compliance.

Sales Team

The sales team's main objective is existing business retention and expansion. There are three main components of the sales team: regional project managers assigned to work with businesses and communities in every region of the state; international trade specialists, including foreign office representatives, assigned to promote export trade, increase opportunities for foreign investment and provide technical assistance in the area of trade finance; and industry specialists assigned to facilitate growth in eight of Missouri's high-potential industries. The sales team also works closely with the Missouri Partnership, a public-private organization sponsored in part by the state, whose mission and focus is to attract new businesses to Missouri.

SALLIE HEMENWAY
Director, Division of Business and Community Services

Research

The research team, known as the Missouri Economic Research and Information Center (MERIC), provides comprehensive analysis of Missouri's socioeconomic environment at the local, regional and statewide levels. To achieve this, MERIC employs a wide array of tools, which include econometric models, geographic information systems and advanced statistical methods. Coupled with its analysis capability, MERIC maintains a comprehensive labor market database produced in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Labor. Data on employment/unemployment, wages, layoffs, labor availability and a variety of other information designed to help understand the state's labor market conditions are regularly reported.

Marketing

The marketing team blends marketing, creative design and research skills with information technology to construct customized communications and marketing tools that add value to Missouri's business, attraction and expansion efforts. The professional staff is responsible for providing direct support as required by business expansion and site-selection projects by delivering social, economic and demographic information on the state's and the project's location. The team provides a variety of analytical reports on prospects to enhance decision-making and customer service.

Finance

The state of Missouri has a variety of tools to assist in the financing of a variety of economic development projects. Tax credits, grants and loans are available in the areas of business development, community development, redevelopment and infrastructure development. The finance team houses professionals that oversee the programs including application and program creation, application review, evaluation, coordination with the sales team, recommendation and reporting. The team also provides professional technical assistance and training to businesses, communities, nonprofits and developers.

Compliance

The compliance team monitors the finance and incentive programs administered by the department to ensure efficiency and compliance. The monitoring process includes both internal file reviews and on-site visits. The professional staff strives to ensure the stated purpose of each program is being achieved, funds have been used in a manner consistent with the statute and that there is adequate source documentation indicating compliance. The compliance team provides feedback and suggestions to both the sales and finance teams to ensure programs are efficient and effective.

Division of Energy

The Division of Energy helps Missourians meet their energy needs through education and assistance, and encourages Missourians to advance the efficient use of diverse energy resources to provide for a healthier environment and to achieve greater energy security for future generations.

The division provides technical and financial assistance for energy efficiency and renewable energy improvements; supports market development and demonstration projects promoting clean energy sources and technologies; provides energy data, information and research on energy issues, including supplies and prices, to all Missourians; and promotes policies that support energy efficiency.

Employees work with residential, agricultural, educational, local government, business and industrial clients to develop energy-efficiency programs and measures that pay back the initial investment within a reasonable time frame. Staff consults with the Office of Administration and other state agencies to integrate energy efficiency into state buildings and purchases.

The division monitors energy supplies and prices, works with state decision-makers to help ensure adequate energy supplies for Missouri and reviews policy issues relevant to Missouri energy needs.

Staff trains other state agencies to use alternative fuel vehicles in compliance with state laws. The division also partners with the federal Clean Cities programs in Missouri's metropolitan areas to strive for cleaner air and water through alternative transportation fuels and technologies. Staff assists the Missouri Department of Transportation with the Mid-Missouri Rideshare Program and connects Missouri commuters to the carpooling program nearest them.

The division provides financial assistance for energy efficiency projects and administers the Weatherization Assistance Program, which serves Missouri citizens through 19 local agencies. The weatherization program has provided cost-effective, energy-efficient home improvements to more than 182,000 homes since the inception of the program in 1977. The department's energy revolving loan fund helps schools, colleges, universities, hospitals and local governments finance energy-efficiency projects so money saved can be used for other needs related to the mission of the entity.

Missouri Weatherization Policy Advisory Council

The council provides policy review and recommendations for delivery of the Weatherization Assistance Program in Missouri. Federal regulations require that a policy advisory council be formed to advise the department on weatherization program issues and distribution of financial assistance. The council reviews and makes recommendations to the department pertaining to the Missouri Weatherization State Plan, federal grant application and programmatic policies.

laborating with volunteer organizations and state agencies and continuing to effectively administer National Service initiatives, the MCSC makes it possible for Missourians to serve their communities.

The MCSC was established by an act of the Missouri Legislature in 1994 as a direct response to the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993. Its 15 to 25 members are appointed by the governor and meet quarterly. The Missouri Legislature passed a measure in 1998 allowing the commission to raise private contributions to assist in its work, thus enabling the commission to broaden its impact on the service and volunteer communities. The MCSC receives federal funding from the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) to administer the AmeriCorps*State and Education Awards programs in Missouri, making federal funds more responsive to state and local needs and providing greater assistance to educational, nonprofit, secular and faith-based community organizations.

Overseeing the AmeriCorps program is the MCSC's primary responsibility. AmeriCorps is a national service network supported by the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) of Washington, D.C. AmeriCorps members may serve full-time or part-time. The participants are often referred to as "members." These members, through the MCSC and CNCS, are provided opportunities to serve their communities and build capacity to meet local needs.

AmeriCorps, often referred to as the "domestic Peace Corps," engages citizens of all ages in projects ranging from tutoring, youth mentoring, public safety, housing rehabilitation, health care, environmental issues, disaster relief and other human needs. It provides communities and neighborhoods with valuable human resources for addressing their most pressing civic issues and gives individuals a way to serve their country by reaching out to others. Since 1994, more than 10,000 Missouri residents have served more than 14 million hours and have qualified for Segal AmeriCorps Education Awards totaling more than $29,900,000. In 2011–2012, 389 AmeriCorps Members recruited 77,568 volunteers who served 612,484.5 hours. Based on the Independent Sector's Value of Volunteer Time, the National Value of Volunteer Time for 2011 was $21.79 per hour. This equates to $13,346,037. Also in 2011–2012, AmeriCorps Members tutored and/or mentored 46,734 individuals. Of these, 168 were children of incarcerated parents. 167 AmeriCorps members participated in disaster response and relief and 263 were certified in disaster preparedness and response.

Most not-for-profit organizations with 501(c)(3) status in the state of Missouri, local or state governments, school districts or institutions of higher education may sponsor an AmeriCorps program. An AmeriCorps member's term of service for one year on a full-time basis is a minimum of 1,700 hours. Part-time can consist of 900, 675, 450 or 300 hours. At the successful completion of their service commitment, they may be eligible to receive up to a $5,550 education award (less for part-time service) that may be redeemed at a Title IV university, college or trade school. Most AmeriCorps members receive a living allowance while serving, though it varies with the type of program. In 2011–2012, a full-time minimum living allowance equaled $12,100. The living allowance is optional for part-time members.

The Missouri Housing Development Commission (MHDC), created by the 75th General Assembly, has invested and loaned in excess of $4 billion to construct, renovate and preserve affordable housing. MHDC functions as a bank, providing financing directly to developers of affordable rental properties.

The commission also provides funding for home loans to qualified, first-time buyers through a network of certified, private mortgage lenders.

The funds for mortgage financing are provided through the sale of tax-exempt notes and bonds that the commission is authorized to issue.

The commission administers the federal and Missouri Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) programs, federal HOME funds, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Project-Based Section 8 rental assistance contracts, Affordable Housing Assistance tax credit and several housing assistance programs funded directly by MHDC. Additionally, the commission administers the Missouri Housing Trust Fund, a program designed to prevent homelessness and provide emergency housing assistance for very low-income Missourians.

The commission participates with the Department of Economic Development in preparing the state's Consolidated Plan for HUD.

The commission includes the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, treasurer and six persons appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Missouri Arts Council (MAC)—as a public leader, partner and catalyst—is dedicated to broadening the appreciation and availability of the arts in the state and fostering the diversity, vitality and excellence of Missouri's communities, economy and cultural heritage.

Created by an act of the 73rd General Assembly, the MAC acts as the state's arts grant-making division, providing financial assistance to nonprofit organizations across the state to encourage and stimulate economic and community growth and development through the arts. A division of the Missouri Department of Economic Development, MAC is the second oldest state-funded arts agency in the country, providing vital support and leadership to bring the arts to all the people of Missouri. The Missouri Arts Council board consists of 15 volunteer citizens from across the state who are appointed by the director of the Department of Economic Development. The governor designates a chair and a vice chair. The board meets regularly to provide direction in policy making and programmatic oversight.

Through funds from the Missouri General Assembly and the National Endowment for the Arts, MAC provides funding for quality arts programming in both large and small communities. Funding areas include: discipline program assistance (music, dance, theater, literature, electronic media, visual arts, multidiscipline, festivals), community arts, established institutions and mid-sized organizations, folk arts, arts education, minority arts, touring, monthly strategic grants and capacity building.

MAC allocates every program dollar based on the recommendations of Missouri citizens who review grant applications from organizations throughout the state. The panel's recommendations are based on established criteria, including artistic excellence, education and outreach, community support, administrative ability and diversity of audience served.

As the employment and training arm of the Department of Economic Development, the Division of Workforce Development (DWD) provides a robust menu of vital re-employment services, including access to skill-building training, career connections for job seekers and human resources assistance for businesses. These services are provided through a statewide network of Missouri Career Centers and the jobs.mo.gov web portal. Missouri's workforce system is a collaborative partnership that includes the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations' Division of Employment Security, 14 local workforce investment boards and 12 community college districts and other local educational agencies across the state.

With the assistance of trained, professional staff, Missouri's Next Generation Career Centers streamline customer flow to provide an expanded product box of valuable career assistance services, like specialized workshops, skills assessments, résumé-writing assistance and more. These services equip the state's workforce with the training and skills needed by employers to compete in this 21st century economy. Career Centers offer job seekers use of supportive equipment, such as computers, telephones, fax machines and copiers. Businesses may use Career Centers to seek or interview potential employees, test applicants' occupational skills or gain access to labor market information.

DWD also provides several innovative, targeted skill-building programs, such as the WorkReadyMissouri program for unemployment insurance claimants, the Show-Me Heroes program for veterans; a nationally recognized On-the-Job Training (OJT) Program, the National Career Readiness Certificate, as well as a summer youth program in partnership with the Department of Natural Resources' State Parks Youth Division.

Because Missouri's businesses are critical to the success of a long-term healthy economy, DWD provides industry training programs, cost-saving financial incentives, hiring assistance and other business services. The division's state-funded industry training programs provide funding to assist eligible companies in training their workers for the purpose of creating or retaining jobs in Missouri. These programs are operated locally by educational agencies, such as community colleges.

The division also provides staff to the governor-appointed Missouri Workforce Investment Board (MoWIB). This board sets workforce policy for Missouri's local workforce areas and strengthens ties among state workforce, education and economic development agencies. MoWIB is currently a 37-member board, a majority of whom represent high-level management from Missouri's most progressive and successful companies. The board meets quarterly and engages the directors and commissioners of six state agencies to meet the objective of strengthening Missouri's workforce system.

By fostering a skilled workforce, DWD helps our businesses to be more competitive—both regionally and globally—and helps Missouri citizens become more competitive and successful as they seek jobs and advance up the career ladder.

The Missouri Development Finance Board (MDFB) administers several financing programs for public infrastructure and private economic development capital projects of all sizes throughout Missouri. Additionally, the board provides technical consulting services that support Missouri business export activities in partnership with Ex-Im Bank, the Small Business Administration and small cities' downtown development efforts. The board manages many of these programs in partnership with the Missouri DED.

The board was originally created in 1982 as a separate body corporate and politic of the state within DED as the Missouri Industrial Development Board. Its primary mission was to finance small- to medium-sized new and expanding manufacturing businesses. The board's name and mission have evolved at various times since its inception based upon subsequent legislation that expanded its business financing authority and added authority to fund local and state public infrastructure improvements and nonprofit facilities.

The board funds its loans and investments through the issuance of project-specific conduit revenue bond debt, limited authorization to approve tax credits and fee income earned. Borrowers participating in the board's programs are responsible for debt repayment. The state of Missouri does not incur any costs, nor does it bear any obligation for repaying conduit loans, bonds or notes issued by the board for private or local government borrowers. The board sustains its staffing and operational costs from fee income paid by applicants to its programs and other general operating revenues.

Membership on the board is composed of eight private Missouri residents appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate to four-year terms. These volunteer members must have been residents of the state for not less than five years prior to their appointment. Remaining membership consists of the lieutenant governor and directors of the departments of economic development, agriculture and natural resources. Seven members constitute a quorum. Not more than five appointed members may be of the same political party. Appointed members serve staggered terms to provide continuity and enhance program development.

Missouri Division of Tourism

Tourism continues to rank as one of the most important revenue- and job-producing industries in Missouri, creating more than 290,000 jobs. Missouri's 6 million residents welcome more than 39 million visitors annually. With a $15.3 billion dollar economic impact, tourism is a dynamic component of economic development. The travel industry has a broad footprint in Missouri because it is composed of a diverse group of businesses found in every county in the state. The money visitors spend while in Missouri produces business receipts at these firms, in turn employing Missouri residents and paying their wages and salaries.

State and local government units benefit from travel as well. The state government collects taxes on the gross receipts of businesses operating in the state, as well as sales and use taxes levied on the sale of goods and services to travelers. Local governments also collect sales and use taxes generated from traveler purchases.

The 74th General Assembly recognized the importance of tourism when it created the Missouri Tourism Commission in 1967. In collaboration with the Missouri Department of Transportation, the Division of Tourism operates nine welcome centers at key locations around the state, providing interaction with visitors, many of whom extend their stay after learning about the opportunities to be found in the state.

As the official destination marketing organization charged with promoting Missouri as a leisure travel destination, the Missouri Division of Tourism (MDT) plans and implements a wide variety of marketing and strategic sales initiatives. The division's award-winning marketing program includes print, television, radio, online, outdoor, search text and mobile advertising focusing on the experiences Missouri offers and tourists' perceptions of Missouri as a scenic destination with cultural, historical and family activities. A major component of the division is its website: VisitMO.com.

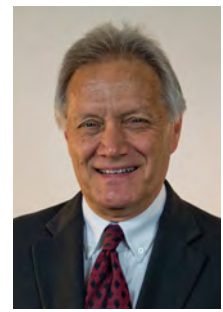
In 1993, HB 188 was signed into law as section 620.467, RSMo. This legislation included a performance-based funding formula for the Missouri Division of Tourism.

Tourism Commission



The commission consists of 10 members: the lieutenant governor, two members of the Senate of different political parties appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, two members of the House of Representatives of different political parties appointed by the speaker of the House, and five other persons appointed by the governor, which may include but are not limited to persons engaged in tourism-oriented operations. No more than three of the governor's appointees shall be of the same political party.

Commission members appointed by the governor serve staggered four-year terms and may be reappointed at the end of their terms. All serve without compensation but are reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

The commission elects a chairman and meets at least four times in a calendar year, at the call of the chairman, to determine all matters relating to the tourism policies of the state of Missouri and the administration of the Division of Tourism.

The commission reports to each regular session of the General Assembly the results of its marketing program and any recommendations for legislation in the field of tourism promotion.

The budget of the Division of Tourism is contained within the annual submittal of the Department of Economic Development to the Missouri General Assembly for approval.

The Tourism Commission employs a director of the Division of Tourism, qualified by education and experience in public administration with a background in the use of the various news media. The director employs a staff of professional, technical and clerical personnel.

Advertising and Promotion

The division's primary activities are in the areas of advertising and promotion. The goal is to deliver the right message, through the right medium, to the right audience, at the right time, in order to maximize the economic impact of travel to the Show-Me State.

The strategic marketing plan is the roadmap that guides all marketing efforts of MDT and has been designed to highlight the benefits that mean the most to the largest potential universe of customers. The goal is to implement a competitively funded program providing the required manpower and marketing resources to achieve success. Among the promotional tools is the annual Missouri Travel Guide. News releases and a monthly newsletter, The Tourism Monitor, are distributed to the news media, travel writers and others interested in Missouri tourism. MDT also engages with thousands of potential travelers, all of whom have expressed an interest in travel in Missouri through its twice-monthly email marketing campaign and via social media outlets.

Through a paid-advertising program, the division promotes Missouri's vacation opportunities. MDT's advertising is designed to create a positive image of Missouri and to generate travel to the state. The majority of MDT marketing efforts are focused on the domestic leisure traveler, which includes visits to friends and relatives as well as trips taken for cultural, arts, outdoor recreation and entertainment purposes. A person-trip is defined as one person on a trip away from home overnight in paid accommodations, or on a day or overnight trip to places 50 miles or more, one-way, away from home.

Research plays a vital and necessary role in measuring the effectiveness of the division's efforts to increase tourism spending and stimulate economic and market-share growth at the state and local level. MDT's research measures past efforts and offers insights as to how, where, when and to whom the state should direct promotional efforts to increase the number of visitors, the length of stay and their expenditures. Research projects are conducted on a continual basis to determine the size, growth and impact of these marketing efforts.

The division works with independent research firms to assess the effect of travel spending on the state's economy, tax revenue derived from travel spending and employment generated through tourism.

In 1993, the Missouri Division of Tourism initiated the Cooperative Marketing Program designed to leverage division marketing resources through participation in strategic marketing partnerships.

For travelers to the Show-Me State, the division's nine Official State Welcome Centers are at the following locations:

- Joplin Welcome Center—Interstate 44 at Mile Marker 2 Rest Area, west of Joplin;
- St. Louis Welcome Center—Interstate 270 and Riverview Drive;
- Hayti Welcome Center—Interstate 55 at Mile Marker 20;
- The Hardin C. Cox Welcome Center at Rock Port—Interstate 29 S. at Mile Marker 109;
- Hannibal Welcome Center—Hwy. 61 N.;
- Kansas City Welcome Center—Interstate 70 at Blue Ridge Cutoff;
- Eagleville Welcome Center—Interstate 35 at Eagleville;
- Conway Welcome Center East—110620 Interstate 44 East;
- Conway Welcome Center West—110619 Interstate 44 West.

These centers welcome more than a half-million visitors each year.

Close relationships with others in the travel promotion field are vital. The division maintains these relationships through memberships, with organizations such as the U.S. Travel Association, National Tour Association and American Bus Association.

The division also works to reach international markets, with a marketing representative assigned to oversee the growth of these important markets.

The division works in collaboration with Brand USA to market Missouri to the international traveler.

The division also oversees work of the Missouri Film Office, which works to attract film, television and video productions to Missouri and to promote the growth of the film and video-production industry in the Show-Me State.

Regulatory Groups

Through its regulatory agencies, the Department of Economic Development works to safeguard the public interest by ensuring safe and sound financial institutions, just and reasonable utility rates and ethical services by licensed professionals. These agencies include the Office of the Public Counsel and the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The Office of the Public Counsel is Missouri's consumer advocate in the area of utility regulation. The public counsel must be an attorney licensed to practice in Missouri and is appointed by the director of the Department of Economic Development. The Office of the Public Counsel was established in 1974 as an independent agency to represent the interests of utility customers in proceedings before and appeals from the Missouri Public Service Commission (PSC) and the courts. The PSC regulates the rates and services of investor-owned electric, natural gas, telephone, water, sewer and steam heat utilities and manufactured housing. The public counsel's participation in PSC cases and its power to appeal PSC decisions has resulted in important victories for utility consumers. While keeping abreast of the rapid changes currently occurring in the utility sector, the Office of the Public Counsel advocates for safe and adequate utility services at just and reasonable rates. By statute, the Office of the Public Counsel represents all customers and focuses its representation on residential and small business customers who otherwise would not have their point of view presented or their interests protected. The public counsel's representation gives these consumers an essential voice in the regulation of life-sustaining public utility services. The public counsel educates and communicates with consumers about their rights and responsibilities. These efforts are especially important to guard against consumer fraud. The office consists of attorneys, technical experts and administrative staff. The attorneys represent the public interest in proceedings before the PSC and the state and federal courts, as well as before the Federal Communications Commission and Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. Accountants and economists are the backbone of the technical staff. These experts offer the public counsel's testimony on the reasonableness, feasibility and affordability of utility proposals and practices. The public counsel attempts to focus on the most significant cases for utility consumers and cases that have broad public policy effects. The office also consults and works with other public utility consumer advocates in the other states to keep current on issues vital to the consumer and to address national and regional issues of interest to Missouri consumers. In addition, through the property rights ombudsman, the Office of the Public Counsel provides assistance to citizens seeking guidance about condemnation process and procedures.

The Missouri Public Service Commission is charged with the statutory responsibility of ensuring public utility consumers receive safe and adequate services at just and reasonable rates that will provide the utility companies' shareholders the opportunity to earn a reasonable return on their investment.

The commission consists of five commissioners who are appointed by the governor to six-year terms with the advice and consent of the Missouri Senate. The terms are staggered so no more than two terms expire in any one year. The governor designates one member as chair, who serves in that capacity at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission regulates utility rates, service and safety for investor-owned electric, natural gas, sewer and water companies. The commission also monitors the construction and set-up of manufactured homes to ensure compliance with state and federal law. While the rates charged by rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned utilities are determined by their respective governing bodies, the commission has jurisdiction regarding matters of safety over the electric cooperatives and municipal electric and natural gas systems. The commission has limited authority over telecommunications services. The commission also oversees service territory issues involving investor-owned electric utilities, rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned electric utilities, as well as those involving privately owned water and sewer utilities and public water supply districts.

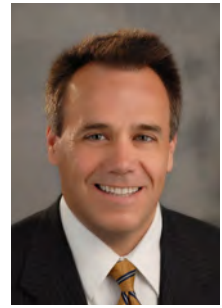
The commission has a staff of professional accountants, engineers, economists, attorneys, financial analysts and management specialists who evaluate utility requests for commission approval. These requests deal with matters such as tariff changes regarding rates and business operations, financing proposals, business reorganizations, asset transfers and mergers. The staff will provide the results of its evaluation and recommend actions that satisfy the agency's statutory requirements.

The staff conducts routine and special investigations to ensure compliance with commission statutes, rules and orders, including standards for safety and quality of service. Staff will initiate or implement actions to enforce these laws when necessary. Enforcement actions for injunctive relief or monetary penalties are prosecuted in state court by the commission's general counsel.



The traditional rate case is the process through which the commission ultimately determines what customers will pay for their utility services. The process is commenced in one of two ways: a utility company files a tariff for authority to change its rates, or a complaint is filed by the commission, the PSC staff, the Office of the Public Counsel or others challenging the reasonableness of the utility's rates.

The general public is formally represented before the commission by the Office of the Public Counsel, which is a separate state agency under the Department of Economic Development.

Under both the tariff method and the complaint case method, the commission normally will conduct hearings for the purpose of addressing the reasonableness of the proposed tariff or the rates being challenged. In many tariff filing cases, by law, the commission has up to 11 months from the time a tariff is filed to reach its decision, or the rates will go into effect as filed. Many of these cases are resolved in accord with a settlement between the parties and processed in a shorter time frame.

Special rules apply for water and sewer companies with fewer than 8,000 customers in Missouri. They can pursue changes in rates without the necessity of filing a formal rate case (called an informal rate case). Water and sewer companies with over 8,000 customers are subject to filing a traditional rate case.

The commission staff conducts an independent, on-site investigation of the company's books and records to provide the commission with a recommendation as to what increase or decrease, if any, should be ordered. This investigation can take from two weeks to several months and results in the pre-filing of written testimony. Other parties such as the Office of the Public Counsel, consumer groups, commercial and industrial interests and municipalities are given an opportunity to provide written testimony.

In addition to holding formal evidentiary hearings, the commission may hold local public hearings, which allow customers to express their views on the proposed increase or the utility's service.

Once the formal hearings are completed, the commission reviews the evidence submitted, deliberates and then issues a decision. That decision is subject to court appeal.

The commission is also engaged in a variety of activities reflecting changes in state and federal law regarding the telecommunications and energy sectors of the utility industry. As federal regulators make decisions that directly affect Missouri utility consumers, the commission participates in proceedings before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Commissioners and staff members have submitted comments or testified on numerous occasions before these agencies and the commission has taken appeals from decisions adverse to Missouri rate-payers to the federal courts.

Regular meetings of the commission are each week. As with other state agencies, commission meetings are subject to the state's open meetings law.

The Data Center keeps a record of all filings and proceedings of the commission. These records are available for public inspection from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except legal holidays. Many of these records are also available via the commission's website: www.psc.mo.gov.

A consumer with questions about specific matters relating to utility service should first call the utility company. If the consumer is not satisfied with the company response, he or she may call the commission's consumer services department. Consumers may also file formal, written complaints. The commission's main consumer services office is located in Jefferson City. The commission's toll-free hotline number for complaints is (800) 392-4211.

Under the commission's procedure, each informal complaint is assigned a specialist who acts as an intermediary between the consumer and the utility in an attempt to resolve the complaint. Through investigations of consumer complaints, the consumer services department works to ensure that utilities comply with their approved tariffs and commission regulations.

The Missouri Public Service Commission was established in 1913 by the 47th General Assembly. The 1974 State Reorganization Act placed the commission within the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, which in 1984 was renamed the Department of Economic Development.

State Board of Education

Under the Missouri Constitution (Article IX), the State Board of Education has general authority for "supervision of instruction in the public schools." Today, this responsibility includes the oversight of educational programs and services that serve Missourians from preschool through the adult levels.

The State Board of Education is composed of eight lay citizens, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate to serve eight-year terms. The terms are staggered so that one term expires each year. No more than four members may belong to the same political party. No more than one member of the board may live in the same county or congressional district.

The board appoints the commissioner of education to serve as its chief executive officer and as director of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The primary role of the board is to provide leadership and advocacy for the improvement of Missouri's public education system. The board also establishes policies and regulations needed to carry out state and federal laws related to public education. The board's major duties include:

- Setting performance indicators that determine accreditation for local school districts through the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP). The indicators define basic requirements regarding performance on assessments, both in aggregate as well as subgroups; high school graduation and/or dropout; advanced coursework; post-secondary and career preparedness; and other areas of student achievement;
- Establishing academic performance standards for the public schools;
- Setting education and certification requirements for all professional personnel (teachers, administrators, librarians, counselors, etc.) in public schools;
- Approving public and private educator preparation programs in the state;
- Establishing regulations and administrative requirements for the distribution of state and federal funds to school districts and other agencies;
- Monitoring school districts' compliance with state and federal laws and regulations. This includes the administration of federally supported programs in the areas of special education, career-technical education and child nutrition (the school lunch and breakfast programs);
- Administering the State Board Operated School Systems—Missouri School for the Blind (St. Louis), Missouri School for the Deaf (Fulton) and Missouri Schools for Severely Disabled; and
- Administering adult learning and rehabilitation services for adult citizens.

Article IX of the Missouri Constitution reads, in part: "A general diffusion of knowledge and intelligence being essential to the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people, the General Assembly shall establish and maintain free public schools for the gratuitous instruction of all persons in this state within ages not in excess of twenty-one years as prescribed by law."

To help carry out this mandate, the legislature first established a state office of education, with an elected state superintendent, in 1839. The office went through several transformations until the current constitution, adopted in 1945, established the State Board of Education in its present form and created a department of education, headed by an appointed commissioner.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) was reorganized and established in its present form by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The department is primarily a service agency that works with educators, legislators, government agencies, community leaders and citizens to maintain a strong public education system. Through its statewide school-improvement initiatives and its regulatory functions, the department strives to ensure all citizens have access to high-quality public education.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education is the administrative arm of the State Board of Education. In addition to the commissioner of education, the department organization reflects functions under two divisions—Financial and Administrative Services and Learning Services.

Office of the Commissioner of Education

The commissioner of education directs the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and fulfills other duties as prescribed by law (161.122, RSMo). These duties include: supervising schools and directing the process by which school districts are accredited; suggesting ways to upgrade curriculum and instruction in public schools; working with state and local officials to ensure efficient management of public schools; advising local school officials, teachers and patrons about education-related issues and laws; and seeking "in every way to elevate the standards and efficiency of the instruction given in the public schools of the state." The commissioner is appointed by, and serves at the pleasure of, the State Board of Education.

Division of Financial and Administrative Services

This division is responsible for distributing all federal and state funds to local school districts and other agencies that provide education-related services. The division assists local school officials with budgeting, audits and the reporting of financial statistics, both state and federal. The division also provides assistance with school administrative and governance issues. Other personnel in this division administer the federally funded school lunch and breakfast programs. This division also manages the department's internal business operations, such as accounting and procurement, budget and human resources.

Division of Learning Services

This division is composed of offices that manage adult learning and rehabilitation services; college and career readiness; data system management; educator quality; quality schools, which includes early childhood and extended learning; and special education.

The Office of Adult Learning and Rehabilitation Services administers statewide adult education services, including adult education and literacy, the high school equivalency testing program and veterans education, including the Troops to Teachers program.

Rehabilitation Services provide specialized services to adult citizens with disabilities to help them achieve employment and independence. Offices are maintained across the state to provide convenient services to clients. Rehabilitation Services personnel provide individualized counseling, training and other services to help clients achieve gainful employment or independent living. Rehabilitation Services is supported primarily with federal funds.

STEPHEN BARR
Assistant Commissioner
Special Education

SARAH POTTER
Communications Coordinator

Independent Living Centers (ILC) are located throughout the state. ILC personnel provide counseling, advocacy, personal care and training in independent living skills for adults with disabilities.

The Disability Determinations Program is part of this office and operates under regulations of the Social Security Administration. Located in offices across the state, Disability Determinations personnel adjudicate claims from Missouri residents seeking federal disability benefits.

The Office of College and Career Readiness provides technical assistance to local school personnel in the adoption and adaptation of the state's performance standards, and curriculum development/adoption of all content areas — math, science, social studies, English/language arts, health/physical education, fine arts and the career-technical content areas. The office assists schools and career centers with the monitoring and approving of Perkins programming.

The development and oversight of the Missouri Assessment Program, consisting of the annual, grade-level assessments for grades 3 through 8 and high school end-of-course assessments, as well as the administration of the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), are also responsibilities of this office.

The Office of Data System Management is responsible for the development and implementation of the Missouri Comprehensive Data System (MCDS), which includes the student-level record system, the Missouri Student Information System (MOSIS) and Core Data, a web-based data collection system of education-related statistics. This office collects and generates data to meet federal reporting requirements and compliance, as well as provide data utilized in research and analysis that impacts policy decision-making.

The Office of Educator Quality is responsible for approving public and private educator preparation programs. The Office of Educator Quality also issues certificates (licenses) to all professional personnel who work in the state's public school systems, as well as assisting with the review of certificate-holders who are charged with misconduct.

This office is responsible for implementation of teacher, principal and administrator standards, as well as implementation of Missouri's Educator Evaluation System.

A primary function of the Office of Quality Schools is to manage the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP), the accreditation/accountability system for public school districts. This office also administers a wide range of state and federally funded programs that assist local schools (Title I, Title III and other federal programs), charter and other innovative schools, as well as developing and implementing a statewide system of support for schools, communities and families. Schools are also provided assistance on federally and state-developed improvement initiatives that are coordinated with other state and regional services.

The Office of Quality Schools is also responsible for the oversight of the department's efforts to expand and improve early learning opportunities for children and providing support for teachers, programs, parents and families of young children. Staff administers the Missouri Preschool Program and the Child Care Development Fund Grant. The office is also responsible for the development of early learning goals.

Extended learning (after school) programs, under the Office of Quality Schools, provide a safe, caring and nurturing place for extended learning, social, recreational and personal life-skills development for students outside school hours. Grant programs administered by this section include the 21st Century Community Learning Centers grants and School Age Community grants. The programs foster partnerships among the schools, parents/families and communities.

The Office of Special Education administers state and federal funds to support services for students and adults with disabilities. This office works with other state and local agencies to coordinate the Missouri First Steps program, which provides early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families. The office works with local school districts in developing and improving special education services for students (ages 3–21) with disabilities. It also provides financial and technical support for all approved sheltered workshops in the state. Sheltered workshops provide employment for adults with disabilities.

This office also oversees the operation of three school systems administered by the State Board of Education. These are the Missouri School for the Blind, the Missouri School for the Deaf and the Missouri Schools for Severely Disabled. In addition to providing direct services to eligible students with disabilities, these school systems, through their outreach programs and consulting services, assist local school personnel and families throughout the state in meeting the needs of children with disabilities.

Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

The Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing was created in 1988 to improve the quality of life for all Missourians with hearing loss. It advocates for public policies, regulations and programs to improve the quality and coordination of existing services for deaf and hard-of-hearing persons and promotes new services whenever necessary.

The commission promotes deaf awareness to the general public and serves as a consultant to any public agency needing information regarding deafness; develops a system of state certification for those individuals serving as interpreters of the deaf; maintains the quality of interpreting services statewide; maintains a census of persons with a hearing loss in Missouri; promotes the development of a plan that advocates the initiation of improved physical and mental health services for deaf Missourians; conducts or makes available workshops or seminars as needed for educating non-deaf individuals of the problems associated with deafness and ways by which these groups or agencies can more effectively interact with those who are deaf; promotes the development of services for deaf adults, such as shelter homes, independent living skill training facilities and post-school educational training that will help provide for those deaf individuals requiring such services an opportunity to live independently; and establishes a network for effective communication among the deaf adult community and promotes the establishment of TDD relay services where needed.

Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council

The Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council was established in 1993. The mission of Missouri Assistive Technology is to increase access to assistive technology for Missourians with all types of disabilities, of all ages.

The council is charged to serve as an advocate for policies, regulations and programs to establish a consumer-responsive, comprehensive, assistive technology service delivery system. The council meets at least four times a year, reports annually to the governor and the General Assembly on council activities to increase access to assistive technology, and provides programmatic direction for all activities and services.

Missouri Charter Public School Commission

The Missouri Charter Public School Commission was established by state statute in 2012 with the authority to sponsor higher-quality charter schools throughout the State of Missouri.

The commission shall consist of nine members and shall collectively possess strong experience and expertise in governance, management and finance, school leadership, assessment, curriculum and instruction and education law. All members of the commission shall have demonstrated understanding of and commitment to charter schooling as a strategy for strengthening public education.

Department of Health and Senior Services

PO Box 570, Jefferson City 65102

The Department of Health and Senior Services was created by the passage of House Bill 603 in May 2001. The bill transferred the roles and responsibilities of the Division of Aging in the Department of Social Services to the Department of Health, creating the Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS). The department's mission is to promote, protect and partner for better health for all Missourians. This is accomplished through disease prevention, control and surveillance activities; regulation and licensure of health and child care facilities; and programs designed to create safeguards and health resources for seniors and the state's vulnerable populations. The department strives to provide all Missourians with information and tools to improve their own health and well-being and the health of their communities.

State Board of Health

The State Board of Health serves as an advisory body for activities of the Department of Health and Senior Services. It consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Members serve four-year terms and may serve a maximum of two terms. Missouri law (191.400, RSMo) specifies that three members shall be licensed physicians; one member shall be a licensed dentist; one member shall be a licensed chiropractic physician; and the other two members shall be persons other than those licensed by the State Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, the Missouri Dental Board or the Missouri State Board of Chiropractic Examiners, and shall be representative of those persons, professions and businesses that are regulated and supervised by the Department of Health and Senior Services and the State Board of Health. The State Board of Health advises the director operating the department and acts in an advisory capacity regarding rules promulgated by the department.

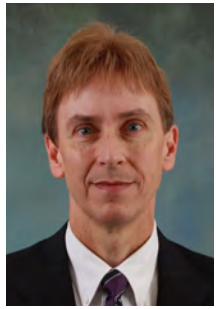
State Board of Senior Services

The State Board of Senior Services serves as an advisory body for activities of the Department of Health and Senior Services. It consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Members serve four-year terms and may serve a maximum of two terms. Missouri law (660.062, RSMo) specifies that board members shall currently be working in the fields of gerontology, geriatrics, mental health issues, nutrition and rehabilitation services of persons with disabilities. Four of the seven members appointed must belong to the Governor's Advisory Council on Aging. The State Board of Senior Services advises the director in operating the department and acts in an advisory capacity regarding rules promulgated by the department.

Office of the Director

The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints the director of the Department of Health and Senior Services. The department director is responsible for the management of the department and the administration of its programs and services. The department deputy director assists the director and acts in his or her absence. Under the director, the department is organized into four divisions: Administration; Community and Public Health; Licensure and Regulation; and Senior and Disability Services. The offices of General Counsel, Governmental Policy and Legislation, Human Resources and Public Information also report to the director. In addition, the director's office oversees the Office of Minority Health, the Office on Women's Health, the Office of Primary Care and Rural Health and the State Public Health Laboratory.

Office of General Counsel (OGC)



The office provides legal counsel to all departmental divisions, programs and offices. The office represents the department in regulatory and licensure cases before departmental hearing officers, the Administrative Hearing Commission and circuit courts. It pursues guardianships for eligible adults and represents the department in Employee Disqualification List appeals. It provides legal assistance in the promulgation of regulations. The Employee Disqualification List Unit is also maintained within the Office of General Counsel.

Office of Governmental Policy and Legislation

This office coordinates the development, review and tracking of legislation related to matters involving the department. The legislative liaison serves as the department's point of contact for

Office of Human Resources (OHR)

The Office of Human Resources ensures the department's compliance with state personnel law and serves as a liaison with the state Office of Administration's Division of Personnel. Staff administer personnel functions of employment, promotion, compensation (including payroll preparation), performance appraisal, discipline, termination, personnel records maintenance and related personnel activities. The office also provides assistance to managers and supervisors in those areas. The OHR investigates and monitors complaints and grievances, maintains DHSS' administrative policies and coordinates and conducts professional development opportunities for DHSS staff.

Office of Public Information (OPI)

The Office of Public Information coordinates all public information released by the department, including media contacts and information, in response to inquiries from other agencies and the public. OPI staff design department publications, including newsletters, brochures and pamphlets, for programs and divisions within the department. This office also oversees the department's website and maintains the department's social media presence.

Office of Minority Health

The Office of Minority Health seeks to eliminate minority health disparities through monitoring departmental policies and programs, providing technical assistance and developing culturally sensitive health education initiatives. The office also works collaboratively with community-based organizations and leaders to identify and implement specialized strategies that address the health needs of minority populations in Missouri.

Office on Women's Health

The Office on Women's Health provides recommendations to the director on issues affecting the health of women and assists the department in developing priority initiatives and policies to address health inequities. The Sexual Violence Primary Prevention and Education program provides community-based, sexual violence primary prevention education to the citizens of Missouri. The Public Health and Health Services Sexual Assault Victims Services grant provides funding for direct services for victims of sexual assault.

Office of Primary Care and Rural Health

The Office of Primary Care and Rural Health (OPCRH) is composed of the Oral Health Program (OHP), the Primary Care Office (PCO) and the State Office of Rural Health (SORH).

- The Oral Health Program provides a broad range of core public health activities, including surveillance education and support for the provision of preventive services, to improve the oral health of Missourians. The initiatives under this program include the Preventive Services Program, which provides oral health surveillance, education and preventive services to children in Missouri under the age of 18.
- The Primary Care Office works to ensure access to and the availability of primary health care services for all of Missouri's populations. This includes the Health Professional Loan Repayment Program, which provides financial incentives for primary care physicians and general practice dentists, the Primary Care Resource Initiative for Missouri (PRIMO) Student Loan Program and the Professional and Practical Nursing Student Loan and Loan Repayment programs.
- The State Office of Rural Health provides leadership in the development of rural health initiatives; a central resource for information and education related to rural health; and coordination for rural health initiatives to support, strengthen and improve rural health care. This includes the Medicare Rural Hospital Flexibility Program, which provides quality and financial support to Critical Access Hospitals as well as the Small Rural Hospital Improvement Program, which provides financial and technical assistance to small rural hospitals.

Missouri State Public Health Laboratory

The Missouri State Public Health Laboratory provides a wide range of diagnostic and analytical services for individuals, health care providers and local public health authorities. These services include quality-assurance measures for laboratory functions and laboratory testing for infectious diseases, genetic disorders and environmental health concerns, both in support of public health programs and as a reference laboratory performing unique or specialized procedures.

The laboratory provides specimen courier service, scientific expertise, biosafety training and consultation and managerial leadership in meeting the rapidly changing challenges in the clinical and environmental laboratory disciplines and in the development of public health policy.

About 5 million analyses are performed in the State Public Health Laboratory. Approximately 350,000 test kits are assembled and distributed each year for specimens from hospitals and private laboratories, as well as city, county and district health offices.

The State Public Health Laboratory also functions as an emergency response laboratory for biological and chemical events, as well as serving as the main reference laboratory for clinical laboratories in the state by confirming results or completing organism identification.

Division of Administration

The Division of Administration provides a wide array of support functions to help programmatic divisions deliver services to Missourians in a cost-effective manner that assures fiscal accountability.

Division Director's Office

- Develops and submits the department's indirect cost plan.
- Evaluates administrative, management and fiscal controls of departmental operations.
- Provides technical assistance to programs concerning contract monitoring and granting requirements.
- Reviews and evaluates contractors' financial management systems and audit reports for financial and administrative compliance.

Budget Services and Analysis Bureau

- Prepares and tracks the department's operating and leasing budget requests.
- Administers the budget after passage.
- Monitors department expenditures.
- Coordinates department efforts to review legislative proposals and prepare fiscal notes.

Financial Services Bureau

- Coordinates department-wide financial activities.
- Oversees the receipt of funds and ensures timely deposit of funds.
- Reviews department expenditures to ensure appropriate fund disbursement, including vendor payments and employee expense accounts.
- Develops, reviews and approves all department contracts.
- Oversees procurement of all supplies, materials, equipment and services.
- Provides technical assistance and support in the development of grant applications.
- Maintains and prepares financial status reports on all federal grants.
- Administers the fixed assets accounting system.

General Services Bureau

- Manages leased property occupied by department staff.
- Manages department-owned vehicles.
- Provides warehouse services.
- Supports telecommunications needs.
- Controls building security access.
- Provides mail service.
- Provides forms management.
- Oversees office moves and space reconfigurations.
- Handles surplus equipment.

Division of Community and Public Health

The Division of Community and Public Health coordinates public health resources to protect and promote the public's health and prevent diseases. The programs in this division provide a broad range of services to Missourians of all ages, incomes, races and ethnicities. These programs are in turn supported by the division on specific issues including epidemiology and local public health systems.

The Emergency Response Center serves as the coordination point for all department responses to emergencies. It operates at a non-threat level and can quickly be activated as a command and control center in an emergency. It monitors the public health and allied systems' day-to-day emergency preparedness and also serves as part of the Health Alert Network to rapidly receive and disperse communications among public health and health care partners at the local, regional, state and federal levels, and to assign and track follow-up activities. The hotline, (800) 392-0272, is the primary contact point for the general public and emergency response partners.

The Center for Local Public Health Services (CLPHS) works to strengthen Missouri's public health system composed of the state department and 115 local public health agencies. The CLPHS is responsible for managing 333 contracts that support local public health efforts including Aid to Local Public Health, Maternal Child Health improvement services and Child Care Health Consultation. Technical assistance is provided by the CLPHS to the Council for Public Health Nursing, Heartland Learning Management System and numerous agencies applying for public health grants. The CLPHS staff provides leadership, training and technical assistance to local public health agencies, communities, not-for-profit organizations and other health-related key stakeholders regarding the development of processes that improve community-based public health systems.

The Section for Healthy Families and Youth promotes optimal health by providing leadership to both the public and private sectors in assessing health care needs of families and communities and ensuring the health system responds appropriately. The section is composed of the following:

- Bureau of Genetics and Healthy Childhood: utilizes multiple programs that promote and protect the health and safety of individuals and families based on their unique conditions, needs and situations. This is achieved by implementing prevention and intervention strategies to optimize an individual's health and environment from pre-pregnancy through adulthood. Related activities of the bureau encompass public and professional education, screening and follow-up services, surveillance, needs assessment and resource identification and/or development. The bureau accomplishes its mission in collaboration with families, health care providers and other community, state and national partners.

- Genetics Services Program: expands existing programs and develops new ones, to reduce the morbidity and mortality associated with genetic disorders. Information is provided to the public and medical professionals regarding genetic disorders and the availability of genetic services in Missouri. A referral network is maintained for individuals in need of diagnostic services, treatment, counseling and other genetic-related services.
- Adult Genetics Program: provides limited assistance with health care costs for Missouri adults (21 years of age and older) with cystic fibrosis, hemophilia and sickle cell disease. The program provides applicants who meet financial and medical guidelines with limited financial assistance for inpatient and outpatient services, medication and blood factor products, emergency care and home equipment. Service coordination is provided for those who meet the medical eligibility requirements.
- Metabolic Formula Distribution Program: provides prescribed dietary formulas to individuals with covered metabolic disorders such as phenylketonuria and maple syrup urine disease. Use of the dietary formula combined with a medically supervised diet eliminates or reduces the adverse consequences of the disorders.
- Sickle Cell Anemia Program: provides information to the public and health professionals about sickle cell disease and sickle cell traits and promotes and provides screening, testing, referral, education, counseling, follow-up and outreach services for individuals and families with sickle cell conditions.
- Newborn Health Program: promotes healthy birth outcomes and healthy infants by increasing awareness of recommended best practices through educational activities and materials, including text4baby. Messages and activities promote the importance of preconception care; early entry into prenatal care; use of folic acid to prevent birth defects; avoidance of smoking, alcohol and other drugs; promotion of breast-feeding; safe infant sleep practices; and other healthy behaviors.

- Newborn Blood Spot Screening Program: provides early identification and follow-up of galactosemia, congenital hypothyroidism, congenital adrenal hyperplasia, hemoglobinopathies, organic acid disorders, fatty acid oxidation disorders, amino acid disorders (including phenylketonuria), cystic fibrosis, biotinidase deficiency and lysosomal storage disorders. Newborn screening can indicate the presence of disease in affected yet asymptomatic infants. Infants found to be positive are referred to a system of health care for confirmation of diagnosis and management.
- Newborn Hearing Screening Program: develops, promotes and supports systems to ensure all babies born in Missouri receive hearing screenings, audiologic evaluations and early intervention, as appropriate. The hearing screening program is dedicated to providing unbiased support to families of children who are deaf or hard of hearing.
- Folic Acid Program: endeavors to increase the number of Missourians who are aware of the importance of folic acid intake in helping to prevent certain birth defects, diseases and health conditions.
- Fetal and Infant Mortality Review: analyzes infant and fetal death records to develop recommendations for community change, if appropriate, to reduce fetal and infant mortality. The communities then determine and implement interventions based upon recommendations received that may improve outcomes for future families.

- Building Blocks Program: is an evidence-based prenatal and early childhood nurse home-visiting program based on the David Olds Model. Participants in the program are low-income, first-time mothers who enter the program prior to the 28th week of pregnancy. Nurses make home visits to work with the women and their families during pregnancy and the first two years of the child's life to improve pregnancy outcomes, child health and development and family economic self-sufficiency.
- Healthy Families Missouri Home Visiting (HFMoHV) Program: is founded on the Healthy Familes of America evidence-based home visitation model. The HFMoHV provides intensive, sustained home visits to include health assessments and education during the prenatal period; parenting education both prenatally and postnatally; newborn and infant assessments, including developmental screenigns; and referral information based on health, social and financial assessments. Services are provided through registered nurses, social workers and paraprofessionals to the target population of at-risk, low-income pregnant and postpartum women and their children up to five years of age. Services are offered for a minimum of three years. The goals of this program are to increase healthy pregnancies and positive birth outcomes, as well as decrease child abuse and neglect through home-based services.
- Maternal, Infant and Early Childhood Home Visiting Program: is a voluntary program that delivers high-quality, evidence-based, early childhood home-visitation services to ensure more children have the opportunity to grow up healthy, safe, ready to learn and able to become productive members of society. In Missouri, this is accomplished utilizing three evidence-based home visiting models (Nurse Family Partnership, Early Head Start—Home Based Option and Parents as Teachers) and one promising approach model (Nurses for Newborns) serving pregnant women and children up to kindergarten entry. Home visitors work with the women and their families to improve maternal and newborn health; reduce child injuries, child abuse, neglect or maltreatment and emergency department visits; improve school readiness and achievement; reduce prevalence of domestic violence; improve family economic self-sufficiency; and improve coordination and referrals for other community resources and support for families.
- Early Childhood Comprehensive System: improving early chilhood comes by providing opportunities for implementation of the Missouri Early Childhood Strategic Plan for Missouri's children and their families. The plan is organized around five critical components for helping young children be healthy and ready to learn at school entry. The five components are: health, mental health and social-emotional development, early childhood programs, parenting education and family support. Within the focus of each of the five critical components are the outcomes and strategies for supporting Missouri's young children. In addition to these components, there is an added focus on the mitigation of toxic stress and trauma in infants and young children by partnering with the Department of Mental Health to bring training and technical assistance to early childhood professionals across the state.
- TEL-LINK: is the department's toll-free telephone line for maternal, child and family health services. The purpose of TEL-LINK is to provide information and referrals to Missourians concerning a wide range of health services. TEL-LINK can connect callers to services for: WIC (women, infants and children), MO HealthNet, pregnancy assistance, home visiting services, prenatal drug abuse treatment, immunizations, child care, social services, down syndrome helpline services, First Steps, genetics services, audiology services, parenting, special health care needs, alcohol and drug abuse treatment, mental health treatment, family violence services, non-emergency medical transportation, etc. The toll-free telephone number is (800) 835-5465.
- Sexual Assault Forensic Examination – Child Abuse Resource and Education (SAFE-CARE) Program: provides education and support to medical providers who evaluate children suspected of being abused or neglected. SAFE-CARE providers (physicians, nurse practitioners and physician assistants) receive Missouri-based initial training and annual update training on the medical evaluation of child maltreatment. Collaboration and mentoring are provided through Missouri's Child Abuse Medical Resource Centers (St. Louis Children's Hospital, Cardinal Glennon Children's Medical Center and Children's Mercy Hospital).

- Safe Cribs for Missouri: provides portable cribs to low-income families who have no other resources for obtaining a safe crib. Local public health agencies distribute the cribs and provide one-on-one safe sleep education to each family before the crib is taken home. A follow-up home visit is conducted four to six weeks later to assess the family's use of safe-sleep practices.

- Bureau of Immunization Assessment and Assurance: The Bureau of Immunization Assessment and Assurance supports efforts to plan, develop and maintain a public health infrastructure that helps assure high immunization coverage levels and low incidence of vaccine-preventable diseases for all ages throughout the state. Every effort is made to provide children, adolescents and adults with information on all vaccines recommended by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP).
  - Vaccines for Children (VFC) Program: is a federally funded program that provides vaccines at no cost to children who might not otherwise be vaccinated because of inability to pay. Children who are eligible for VFC vaccines are entitled to receive those vaccines recommended by the ACIP.
  - ShowMeVax: is an immunization registry that offers medical providers an opportunity to track vaccine inventory, input immunization records and verify immunization status of clients. Schools and child care providers have the ability to review the immunization status of children to verify compliance with state regulation.
  - School and Child Care Program: uses data from annual surveys and validation visits to analyze trends in meeting Missouri's child care attendance requirements and school immunization requirements.
  - Quality Improvement Program: uses data from Assessment, Feedback, Incentive and Exchange (AFIX) visits at providers enrolled in Vaccines for Children to offer guidance and technical assistance to assist providers in increasing immunization rates.
  - Influenza Program: actively reaches communities across the state through outreach efforts promoting influenza awareness.
  - Adult Immunization Program: utilizes Section 317 federal funding to offer selected vaccines at no cost to uninsured or underinsured adults.

The Section for Special Health Services is responsible for developing policy, planning systems of care and designing, implementing and evaluating programs to meet the special health care needs of families in the state. The section is composed of the following:

- Bureau of Special Health Care Needs (SHCN): provides statewide health care support services, including service coordination, for children and adults with disabilities, chronic illness and birth defects. State and federal funding supports SHCN services. To be eligible for SHCN services, individuals must be a Missouri resident, have a special health care need and meet medical and financial eligibility when required. There is no application fee for these services. Service coordination, an essential service for people with complex conditions and needs, is provided to all bureau program participants, regardless of financial status.
  - Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs Program (CYSHCN): provides assistance statewide for individuals from birth to age 21 who have, or are at increased risk for, a disease, defect or medical condition that may hinder their normal physical growth and development, and who require more medical services than children and youth generally. The program focuses on early identification and service coordination for individuals who meet medical eligibility guidelines. The CYSHCN Program provides limited funding for medically necessary diagnostic and treatment services for individuals whose families also meet financial eligibility guidelines.
  - Healthy Children and Youth-Administrative Case Management: provides home- and community-based services for children under the age of 21 who are enrolled in MO HealthNet (Medicaid). Public health nurses provide service coordination and authorization for medically necessary in-home services. Service coordination includes assessment through home visits and links to services and resources that enable participants to remain safely in their homes with their families. Authorized services may include in-home personal care, in-home nursing care, case management and skilled nursing visits.

- Medically Fragile Adult Waiver: provides home- and community-based services for individuals with serious and complex medical needs who have reached the age of 21 and are no longer eligible for home care services available through the Healthy Children and Youth Program in Missouri. This waiver is designed to provide a cost-effective alternative to placement in an intermediate care facility for individuals with intellectual disabilities (ICF/IID). Public health nurses provide service coordination and authorization for medically necessary services. Service coordination includes assessment through home visits and links to services and resources that enable participants to remain safely in their homes with their families. Authorized services may include in-home personal care, in-home nursing care and medical supplies.
- Adult Brain Injury Program: assists Missouri residents, ages 21 to 65, who are living with a traumatic brain injury (TBI). Through service coordination, the program links individuals to resources to enable each person to obtain goals of independent living, community participation and employment. Individuals who meet financial eligibility requirements may also receive community-based rehabilitation services to help achieve identified goals. Rehabilitation services include counseling, vocational training, employment support and home- and community-based support training.

The Section for Community Health and Chronic Disease Prevention (CHCDP) is engaged in activities to reduce risk factors for the prevention and control of chronic diseases. The section is composed of the following:

- Bureau of Community Health and Wellness (CHW): focuses on promotion and delivery of primary prevention strategies to address optimum health across a citizen's lifespan and prevention of chronic conditions through interventions to reduce tobacco use and obesity.
  - Chronic Disease Primary Prevention Program: works to reduce the primary risk factors for chronic diseases—tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke, as well as physical inactivity and unhealthy eating—that lead to obesity. Contracts are established with 16 local public health departments in a multi-county collaborative. Emphasis is placed on making environmental, policy and system changes to support healthy behaviors for schools, worksites and communities.
  - Comprehensive Tobacco Use Prevention Program: works to prevent youth from tobacco-use initiation, promote quitting among youth and adults, eliminate exposure to secondhand smoke and reduce the impact on populations disproportionately affected by tobacco. The program collaborates with youth advocacy groups, community-based coalitions, volunteer organizations and partners to educate the public about the health effects of tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke. The program advocates for policies prohibiting tobacco use on school property and eliminating exposure to secondhand smoke in public places. To increase quitting among tobacco users, the Missouri Tobacco Quitline (1-800-QUIT-NOW) provides free cessation counseling services and referrals for local assistance.
  - Team Nutrition Program: activities are designed to reduce rates of overweight children and create healthier school and child care nutrition and physical activity environments.
  - Adolescent Health Program: addresses various adolescent, teen and young adult issues of Missourians age 10 to 24 years old. The program provides consultation, education, technical assistance and resources for health professionals, school personnel, parents, adolescents and state and community organizations. The Council for Adolescent and School Health assists the department in promoting a multi-level approach to achieve healthy adolescent development.
  - School Health Program: provides technical support to public school districts and local public health agencies to establish or expand preventive, population-based health services educational programs in school settings. Technical assistance and consultation are provided. The program is a collaborative effort of Missouri's departments of Health and Senior Services, Elementary and Secondary Education and Social Services.

- Injury and Violence Prevention (IVP) Program: provides targeted unintentional injury prevention services to children zero to 14 years old through local Safe Kids coalitions. The IVP Program, through the local Safe Kids coalitions, provides safety education on child passenger safety, bicycle safety, fire safety, crib safety, water safety, poisoning and other prevention activities based on community needs. The Missouri Injury and Violence Prevention Advisory Committee (MIVPAC) provides advice, expertise and guidance to the IVP Program. The committee also identifies and mobilizes the state, regional and community resources and networks needed to support and implement state injury prevention initiatives.
- Physical Activity and Nutrition Program to Prevent Obesity: works to increase access to healthy food and safe places to be physically active in order to prevent obesity and other chronic diseases. Program goals are reached through policy and environmental changes. The program collaborates with other stakeholders to advocate for statewide policy changes, provide training and technical assistance to local communities and provide support for local initiatives. Major initiatives include Missouri Livable Streets, healthy corner stores and worksite wellness, including support for nursing mothers in the workplace.
- The Abstinence Education Grant Program: is funded by the Administration for Children and Families at the Department of Health and Human Services. Funding is provided for communities to deliver Abstinence Education to high-risk youth, ages 10 to 17, based on criteria identified by the funding source. The main goals of the program are to reduce teen pregnancy, decrease the rate of sexually transmitted disease, expand foster parent/youth communication and increase the percentage of high school graduates.
- Faith-Based Initiatives: is a developing initiatives targeted to harness efforts of the faith-based community to deliver public health messages to a hard-to-reach/hard-to-convince segment of the population. Initial efforts for this initiative are to gather information regarding current faith-based efforts within the Department of Health and Senior Services (i.e., disaster preparedness, heart disease, cancer, obesity and nutrition).
- Bureau of Cancer and Chronic Disease Control (CCDC): administers services and programs to assist individuals who have a noncommunicable, chronic disease or disability, and promotes recognition of signs and symptoms, screenings and other early intervention strategies (including Chronic Disease Self-Management programs) to lessen the impact of the disease and disability.
  - Comprehensive Cancer Control Program: partners with individuals, professionals and cancer survivors who share expertise, resources and ideas to develop a statewide cancer plan. The program and its partners support healthy lifestyles, recommend cancer screenings, educate people about cancer symptoms, increase access to quality cancer care and enhance cancer survivors' quality of life.
  - Show Me Healthy Women (SMHW): provides free breast and cervical cancer screening and diagnostic services to low-income, uninsured or underinsured women aged 35 years and older to reduce the mortality rate of breast and cervical cancer in Missouri women. The program is funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, general revenue and donations. Most women diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer through the program are eligible for free treatment under the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Act (Medicaid).
  - Arthritis and Osteoporosis Control Program: promotes optimal health and quality of life for all Missourians affected by arthritis, osteoporosis, lupus, rheumatic diseases and related musculoskeletal conditions.
  - Asthma Prevention and Control Program: works to improve the capacity of Missouri's public health system to define and reduce the burden of asthma. Program services include linking existing resources and partners, maintaining comprehensive surveillance and evaluation and providing technical assistance for local control efforts.
  - Diabetes Prevention and Control Program: addresses diabetes prevention and diabetes complications by influencing change at the policy, environmental, health systems and community levels.
  - Heart Disease and Stroke Prevention Program: addresses the ABC's of heart disease and stroke prevention, with the main focus on preventing and controlling high blood pressure and reducing sodium intake. The ABCs include: Aspirin, (increase low-dose aspirin therapy according to recognized guidelines); blood pressure, (prevent and control high blood pressure, reduce sodium intake); cholesterol (prevent and control high blood cholesterol) and smoking (increase the number of smokers counseled to quit and increase availability of no or low-cost cessation products).

- Organ and Tissue Donor Program: works to maintain a statewide, confidential registry of potential organ and tissue donors that is available to procurement agencies and individual registrants 24/7. The program works with state and national partners to develop and implement initiatives to increase awareness about the benefits of donation and how to enroll in the registry. An advisory committee makes recommendations related to priorities, development and implementation of program activities, registry management and strategic planning. The program works with the Department of Revenue to aid program reach and registry operations.
- WISEWOMAN Program: provides services for low-income, underinsured women age 40 and older who are clients of the Show Me Healthy Women Program. Services include health screenings for heart disease risk factors, such as high cholesterol, high blood pressure, obesity and diabetes. In addition, WISEWOMAN risk counseling and lifestyle education helps women eat healthier, be more physically active and quit smoking to reduce their risk for heart disease.

- Bureau of WIC and Nutrition Services: is a short-term intervention program designed to influence lifetime nutrition and health behavior in a targeted, at-risk population. WIC provides specific nutrition education to pregnant, breast-feeding and postpartum women, as well as infants and children under the age of 5 who are at-risk and meet financial eligibility requirements. This serves to meet enhanced dietary needs during periods of crucial physiological development. WIC also administers breast-feeding support programs, such as the Breastfeeding Peer Counseling Program, and initiatives to increase breastfeeding duration rates, such as making breast pumps available to WIC participants returning to work or school. The statewide breastfeeding coordinator also promotes initiatives to increase breastfeeding initiation and duration rates among the general public through Missouri Breastfeeding Month activities and the Missouri Show Me 5 Hospital initiative.
- Bureau of Community Food and Nutrition Assistance Programs: provides meal subsidies to eligible organizations that feed infants, children and youth, and provides food packages for low-income elderly persons.
  - Child and Adult Care Food Program: is a federal entitlement program to improve the nutrient intake of participants in licensed childcare centers, licensed family child care homes, licensed adult day care centers, emergency homeless shelters and after-school programs.
  - Summer Food Service Program: serves to improve the nutrient intake of low-income children when school is not in session, which reduces the risk for health problems, enhances children's learning capabilities and helps them succeed in school. The program also improves the quality of the summer programs offered in low-income areas and provides summer employment opportunities in local communities.
  - Commodity Supplemental Food Program: works to improve the nutrient intake of low-income elderly adults by providing commodity food packages specially formulated to provide additional sources of iron, calcium, protein and vitamins A and C.

The Section of Epidemiology for Public Health Practice serves as the scientific authority on issues related to the control and prevention of diseases and health risk behaviors in the state of Missouri. It houses the resources necessary to operate and maintain major public health information systems, the state's vital records and statistics, community health information and medical and public health epidemiology resources necessary to prevent, intervene and control diseases and conditions impacting the health of Missourians. The section is composed of the following:

- Office of Epidemiology: uses science to guide and develop public health practices; monitors health status and health risk behaviors through effective use of public health surveillance systems; promotes evidence-based public health interventions; and provides epidemiologic consultation for maternal and child health communicable disease/environmental health, and chronic disease and nutritional health initiatives.
- Information Support Unit: is responsible for communication of health information to support public health activities and initiatives. The staff serves as an integral part of preventive health care programs, such as the smoking cessation campaign, cancer detection programs, treatment and management of obesity programs, genetics and healthy childhood and child nutrition assistance and education services.

- Bureau of Vital Records: maintains the central registry of births, deaths, fetal deaths (after 20 weeks gestation, but before birth) and reports of marriages and dissolutions of marriages for the state of Missouri. The registry of births and deaths extends back to 1910, while the registry of marriages and dissolution of marriages extends back to 1948. The bureau also corrects vital records as authorized by law; files and issues certified copies of births, deaths and fetal reports; issues statements relating to marriages and dissolution of marriages; and prepares new certificates for adoptions and legitimating.
- Bureau of Health Care Analysis and Data Dissemination: collects, analyzes and distributes health-related information that promotes the understanding of health problems and needs in Missouri. Data generated by the bureau aid and guide the planning, development and evaluation of programs and services of the department, as well as the health-related activities of other agencies, institutions and organizations. The bureau provides data analysis and statistical support to health programs and local public health agencies; prepares, edits and publishes other statistical reports for the department; disseminates health data via the Internet and other media; and provides health data and statistics as requested by researchers, public health professionals, legislators, media, educators and the public. The bureau is responsible for maintaining and enhancing Internet-based data and statistical resources such as the Community Data Profiles, the Missouri Information for Community Assessment and the Missouri Health Care Associated Infection Reporting System.
- Bureau of Vital Statistics: analyzes and distributes vital statistics and related information to promote the understanding of health problems and needs in Missouri, and also spotlights improvements and progress in the general health status of Missourians. The bureau also maintains the needed vital statistics infrastructure; provides data analysis and statistical support to health programs and local public health agencies; prepares, edits and publishes other statistical reports for the department; disseminates aggregated health data and statistical reports via the Internet and other media; and provides vital statistics data and oversight to meet data needs of researchers, public health professionals, legislators, media, educators and the public. The bureau is also responsible for quality control of the statistical information on vital records (i.e. births, deaths, fetal deaths, marriages, dissolution of marriages) and induced terminations of pregnancy; ensures compliance with the National Center for Health Statistics, Vital Statistics Cooperative Agreement; analyzes data on vital events and other health status measures; publishes monthly, annual and periodic special statistics; develops and updates various linked data systems used for surveillance of health problems and the evaluation of public health programs; and prepares vital statistics data and maternal and child health indicator data for the Web-based Community Data Profiles and the Missouri Information for Community Assessment data query system.

The Section for Environmental Public Health is involved in ensuring environmental hazards that pose unnecessary health risks to the public are identified and appropriate steps are taken to protect the public's health. The section provides services and activities that include food safety, food recalls, general safety and sanitation inspections, evaluation of health risks due to exposure to hazardous substances and guidance involving environmentally related health hazards. The section contributes to the Department of Health and Senior Services' emergency response to public health emergencies and natural disasters, including chemical and radiological terrorism. The section is composed of the following:

- Bureau of Environmental Health Services: protects the health of all Missourians and visitors to the state by ensuring healthy environments. There are four unique environmental sanitation programs in the bureau: the Food Safety Program, the Environmental Child Care Program, the Lodging Program and the On-site Wastewater Treatment System Program.
  - Retail Food Safety and Food Processing Program: is responsible for oversight of all retail food establishments (including restaurants, school food service, temporary food events and grocery and convenience stores), frozen desserts and food processing/storage facilities throughout the state. There are approximately 28,000 retail food establishments, 2,150 frozen dessert facilities and 1,654 food processing/storage facilities statewide.

The program minimizes the potential risk of foodborne illness and injury and provides food safety training to both industry and regulatory personnel. The program responds to complaints and emergencies involving regulated products.

- Lodging Program: licenses approximately 1,600 lodging establishments (hotels, motels, bed and breakfasts and resorts) statewide. The program issues licenses after determining compliance with applicable rules and regulations, provides training to local public health agencies and responds to complaints and emergencies involving lodging establishments.
- Environmental Child Care Program: serves approximately 180,000 children statewide. The program oversees annual sanitation inspections of more than 4,200 regulated child care providers to ensure sanitary and safe practices are utilized when caring for children and provides training to local public health agencies. In addition, the program responds to complaints and emergencies regarding environmental childcare issues.
- On-site Wastewater Treatment System Program: establishes sanitation standards and ensures the applicable onsite systems are in compliance with these standards. In addition, the program trains and provides licensure for approximately 1,970 professionals who install, inspect and repair on-site systems in accordance with sanitation standards set forth by law. The program assists the public and local public health agencies with questions and concerns, and responds to emergency situations.

- Bureau of Environmental Epidemiology: is involved in the investigation and prevention of diseases related to the environment. The bureau's efforts focus on diseases associated with exposure to chemical and physical agents in our environment. Services include:
  - Performing health assessments and quantitative risk assessments of hazardous waste sites;
  - Providing public health consultation and toxicological consultation for emergencies involving chemicals and pesticides;
  - Implementing the state Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program;
  - Providing consultation, technical assistance and responding to issues affecting private water supplies;
  - Providing professional and public information on radon and other indoor air-quality issues;
  - Providing technical assistance to local public health agencies and communities on environmental public health issues;
  - Regulating and licensing professionals who remove lead hazards from buildings and providing accreditation training to providers; and
  - Conducting environmental investigations and assessments.

The Section for Disease Prevention principal unit investigates the cause, origin and method of transmission of communicable diseases. The interrelated services of this section focus on disease surveillance, prevention and control. This section focuses on communicable diseases, tuberculosis, zoonoses, sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) and HIV/AIDS. The section is integral to the Department of Health and Senior Services' response to public health emergencies, natural and biological disasters and terrorism. The section ensures rapid detection and response through a comprehensive surveillance system operated by public health staff who are prepared through expertise and training to detect diseases/conditions that may indicate an emergency/bioterrorism event. The Section is composed of the following:

- Bureau of Communicable Disease Control and Prevention: provides prevention, and intervention programs related to 91 reportable communicable (or infectious) diseases and conditions of public health significance in Missouri. Many of these diseases are emerging infections (such as Multi-drug Resistant Tuberculosis, Cryptosporidiosis, Paragonimiasis and Novel Influenza).
- Bureau of HIV, STD and Hepatitis: provides comprehensive prevention, intervention and care programs targeting HIV/AIDS, syphilis, gonorrhea, chlamydia, hepatitis B (including perinatal HBV) and hepatitis C. Services include:
  - Providing guidelines, recommendations, training and technical assistance or consultation to practicing physicians, local public health agencies and community-based providers on HIV disease, certain STDs and hepatitis B and C; coordination of disease outbreak investigations; disease investigation control activities; and analysis of data.
  - Providing HIV counseling, testing and referral.

- Providing HIV/STD/hepatitis outreach, health education and risk-reduction programs statewide.
- Collaborating with community members, community-based organizations and other stakeholders throughout the state who serve on the HIV/STD Prevention Community Planning Group and various other advisory bodies.
- Collaborating with local, state and federal agencies as well as community-based organizations to ensure comprehensive health care and supportive services to individuals living with HIV/AIDS through a statewide case management system.
- Administering the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, Ryan White Title II, Housing Opportunities for People With AIDS and Medicaid AIDS Waiver services to eligible low-income Missourians living with HIV who have no other access to health care and support services.
- Coordinating the perinatal hepatitis B program, in which pregnant women with the virus are followed through delivery to prevent transmission of the disease to their newborns.

- Bureau of Reportable Disease Informatics: provides surveillance programs for 91 reportable diseases in Missouri. Services include:
  - Conducting epidemiological studies, identifying communicable disease surveillance data needs, designing data collection processes/systems, developing and maintaining data systems and datasets, analyzing and interpreting data at regular intervals to track trends and providing regular reports on these analyses.
  - Maintaining a statewide surveillance system (WebSurv) and analysis of morbidity to identify trends and risk factors.
  - Maintains the Electronic Surveillance System for Early Notification of Community-Based Epidemics (ESSENCE), a statewide syndromic surveillance system that analyzes chief complaints from hospitals, emergency rooms, over-the-counter drug sales and poison control center data.
- Office of Veterinary Public Health: conducts activities related to the prevention and control of zoonotic diseases that might be transmitted from animals native to Missouri, or accidentally through normal trade, commerce or an act of bioterrorism.
  - Acts as a liaison with other agencies such as the Missouri departments of Agriculture and Conservation to maintain current knowledge of diseases occurring in animal populations that could affect humans.
  - Conducts specific disease prevention programs, including the Rabies Program, which focus on consultations with medical providers to assess patient risk factors, education of the public, vaccination of animals and other preventive measures.
  - Coordinates seasonal mosquito surveys to examine the prevalence of mosquito-borne pathogens (like West Nile virus) by contracting with local health agencies and publishes the results on the DHSS website and a national database.
  - Monitors the worldwide occurrence of vector-borne disease agents that could be used in a bioterrorism attack or introduced accidentally into North America and assists the department in developing response plans to address these situations.
  - Facilitates local public health agencies' capacity to conduct tick- and mosquito-borne disease prevention activities by providing educational materials and developing locally based outreach strategies.

Division of Regulation and Licensure

The Division of Regulation and Licensure (DRL) oversees licensure and regulation activities for child care facilities, long-term care facilities and health care facilities. In addition, the division oversees the Certificate of Need Program, the Board of Nursing Home Administrators and the Family Care Safety Registry. The division enforces statutory and regulatory requirements to ensure the safety, health, welfare and rights of children and residents to long-term care and other health care facilities.

The Family Care Safety Registry serves as a resource for background screening information maintained by various state agencies. Information accessed by the registry includes Missouri open criminal records, the sex offender registry, the child abuse/neglect registry, the department's employee disqualification registry, child care license revocations and foster parent license denials, revocations and suspensions. In addition to the needs of families selecting an individual for a private employment arrangement, many employers of child care, elder-care and personal-care workers are required to obtain background screening information for staff in order to obtain or maintain licensure or to be in compliance with state regulations. The registry maintains a toll-free call center (866) 422-6872; is staffed from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday; and a website health.mo.gov/safety/fcsr/.

The Missouri Board of Nursing Home Administrators: establishes minimum standards for licensing nursing home administrators and residential care and assisted living administrators; provides testing opportunities for qualified applicants; approves and monitors continuing education programs designed for licensed administrators; renews the licenses of qualified licensees; and conducts licensee disciplinary hearings.

The Certificate of Need Program (CONP): The Missouri Health Facilities Review Committee (MHFRC), with the assistance of the CONP staff, carries out its responsibilities as set out in the CON statute to address issues of community need, accessibility, cost containment and other community health services factors. The MHFRC reviews substantial health capital expenditures and expenditures for major medical equipment. The board is made up of members from the legislature and the public sector appointed by the governor.

The Section for Health Standards and Licensure (HSL): is responsible for licensing and regulating a wide variety of health care entities, investigating complaints levied against these entities, performing inspection activities for numerous Medicare-certification programs and also ensuring the safe and legal handling and distribution of controlled substances in Missouri. The section consists of six bureaus: Ambulatory Care; Emergency Medical Services; Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards; Hospital Standards; Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs; and Outpatient Healthcare.

- Bureau of Ambulatory Care: administers the state licensing program, federal survey activities and complaint investigations for all Missouri freestanding ambulatory surgical centers, birthing centers, abortion facilities, mammography providers and medical facilities that use ionizing radiation.
- Bureau of Emergency Medical Services: licenses, inspects and investigates complaints involving Emergency Medical Technicians (Basic, Intermediate and Paramedic) and ground and air ambulance services.
- Bureau of Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards: conducts on-site surveys and complaint investigations for compliance with state and federal regulations involving home-health agencies, hospices, comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facilities and outpatient physical therapy providers.

JEANNE SERRA
Director, Division of Regulation and Licensure

- Bureau of Hospital Standards: licenses all applicable Missouri hospitals in the areas of fire safety, sanitation, nursing service, dietary service, organization and administration, and conducts federal hospital survey and complaint investigation activities related to certification of providers of services participating in the Title XVIII (Medicare) and Title XIX (Medicaid) programs. The bureau also performs the review and designation of hospitals seeking to be recognized as a stroke center, a STEMI center or a trauma center as part of the Time Critical Diagnosis System.
- Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs: maintains a registry of the individuals and firms who prescribe, dispense or otherwise conduct activities that involve controlled substances and inspects and investigates firms and individuals who lawfully manufacture, distribute or dispense controlled substances.
- Bureau of Outpatient Healthcare: conducts survey and complaint investigation activities related to certification of providers, including laboratories participating in the CLIA program, end-stage renal disease facilities and rural health clinics.

The Section for Child Care Regulation (SCCR) is responsible for ensuring the safety and health of children while in the care of licensed and regulated child care facilities. The section has the statutory authority to discipline licensed child care facilities. The section:

- Conducts twice-yearly inspections of family child care homes, group child care homes and child care centers.
- Conducts annual health and safety inspections of license-exempt child care facilities.
- Conducts renewal inspections for licensed child care facilities every two years.

- Investigates complaints of child care regulations and/or statute violations in child care facilities.
- Provides technical assistance, blue print reviews and facility review conferences with licensed and regulated child care facilities.
- Reviews children's health records for appropriate immunization for communicable vaccine preventable childhood diseases.
- Ensures fire safety requirement for licensed and regulated child care facilities are maintained.
- Ensures sanitation standards for licensed and regulated child care facilities are maintained.

The Section for Long-Term Care Regulation (SLCR) is responsible for ensuring the safety, health, welfare and rights of persons residing in long-term care facilities. The section:

- Inspects and licenses adult day care centers, adult residential care, assisted living, intermediate care and skilled nursing facilities.
- Investigates complaints of abuse or neglect at long-term care facilities.
- Reviews and approves plans for proposed health care facilities.
- Investigates complaints for any allegation of failure to comply with all rules and regulations.
- Investigates complaints of misuse of resident funds in long-term care facilities.
- Reviews applications for licenses to operate a long-term care facility.
- Inspects and conducts utilization reviews, and determines client eligibility for intermediate care facilities for persons with mental disabilities.
- Implements appropriate rules and regulations in accordance with the Omnibus Nursing Home Act and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and determines compliance with Medicaid/Medicare requirements in intermediate care and skilled nursing facilities.

Division of Senior and Disability Services

The Division of Senior and Disability Services serves as the state agency charged with protecting seniors and adults with disabilities from abuse, neglect and financial exploitation. Additionally, the division serves as the State Unit on Aging, carrying out the mandates for the state of Missouri regarding programs and services for seniors and adults with disabilites. The division is responsible for oversight and implementation of programs designed to maximize independence and health/safety for seniors and adults with disabilities who choose to remain independent in the community by administering state and federally funded home and community-based programs.

The Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program advocates for the rights of residents in long-term care facilities. An ombudsman is someone who "speaks on behalf of another." Through the work of regional ombudsman coordinators (who are employees or contractors of the Area Agencies on Aging) and many volunteers, residents and their families receive assistance with questions and are empowered to resolve complaints. The program also provides educational forums and information to the public regarding issues dealing with long-term care facilities.

The Bureau of Central Registry Unit (CRU)/Adult Abuse and Neglect Hotline and Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) Call Center maintains the statewide toll-free number (800-392-0210) for reporting alleged abuse, neglect and financial exploitation of persons age 60 and older and adults with disabilities between the ages of 18 and 59. All information obtained during investigations is confidential. The hotline operates from 7 a.m to midnight, seven days a week, 365 days a year. The number to call to make a referral for Medicaid HCBS Services is (866) 835-3505.

Reports of abuse, neglect or exploitation registered at CRU include those of individuals living in a community setting (such as a private residence or apartment), as well as those residing in state-licensed, long-term care facilities (such as a nursing home or residential care facility). The CRU also registers reports from other care settings, such as hospitals, home health agencies, hospice programs, other entities and certain state programs serving eligible adults.

The Missouri Share Care Tax Credit Registry is maintained at the CRU. Shared Care provides a state tax credit to help qualifying familes offset the costs of caring for an elderly person age 60 or older.

The Home and Community Based Services Call Center serves as the statewide, centralized intake point for Medicaid (TXIX) funded in-home services authorized through the Division of Senior Disability Services. Referrals are initially screened at the call center for preliminary eligibility.

The Bureau of Senior Programs is responsible for statewide implementation of the federal Older Americans Act. For the act, states must designate planning and service areas to develop and implement programs and services for older persons at the local level. Missouri has ten Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs), each responsible for providing services and overseeing programs within specifically defined geographic boundaries. Within the mandates of the act, priority is given to serving older adults with the greatest social and economic need with a focus on serving low-income and minority seniors. Under the direction of the bureau chief, staff:

- Conducts periodic monitoring reviews of the local programs to verify compliance with state and federal guidelines, and to validate program and service effectiveness, and
- Provides training and technical assistance to AAA staff members and their boards as requested, keeping them apprised of new developments in the field of aging and federal and state policies and procedures.

Each AAA is allowed flexibility in providing the services most needed within its planning and service area. Each AAA:

- Is required to submit an area plan for review and approval in order to receive funding to carry out various provisions of the Older Americans Act at the local level;
- Administers the nutrition program—both congregate and home-delivered meals—and nutrition education activities;
- Provides services to support family caregivers, ombudsman services, information about the prevention of abuse, neglect and exploitation of seniors and issues relating to elder justice; and
- Provides funding for access services, legal services and in-home services. Access services include transportation and Information and Assistance (I&A) and general outreach and advocacy activities. (In-home services include homemaker chore, personal care and respite.)
- AAAs may also provide one or more of the following services: minor home modification, counseling, adult day care, telephone reassurance, friendly visiting, case management and volunteer recruitment.
- Special Investigations Unit: investigates cases of elder abuse/neglect and financial exploitation that may result in referrals to local prosecutors for prosecution. The unit provides assistance to the divisions in the department by conducting training on investigation techniques, consulting for ongoing investigations and assisting to carry out the department's mission. The unit also provides educational outreach programs, informational training seminars and other related program activities to senior citizen groups, law enforcement agencies, prosecuting attorney personnel and other governmental entities and community groups in an effort to increase awareness of the threat of exploitation and abuse of elderly citizens.

CELESTA HARTGRAVES
Director, Division of Senior and Disability Services

- Bureau of Systems and Staff Development: is composed of two units: the Adult Protective Services (APS) Systems and Staff Development Unit, and the Home-and-Community-Based Services (HCBS) Systems and Data Reporting Unit.

  The bureau supports the section by gathering and analyzing data elements to ensure accurate, secure and consistent data. The unit is the central point of contact for coordination with internal and external partners regarding computer data systems. The unit also provides education and training for division staff and external partners.
- Bureau of Program Integrity: is responsible for the interpretation, development, implementation and maintenance of Missouri home-and-community-based services and case management policies. Policy interpretation and technical assistance is provided to field staff, management, supervisors, aging network partners and other interested individuals. Policies are developed in compliance with the Medicaid and Division of Senior and Disability Services' Code of State Regulations, state and federal statutes, guidelines and rules.
- Bureau of Home and Community Services: is responsible for services and programs directly administered by the division involving eligible persons 60 years of age or older and adults with disabilities between the ages of 18 and 59. Through a comprehensive investigative or assessment process, the division determines the intervention and/or services necessary to meet the needs of each eligible adult. Under the direction of the home and community services bureau chief, field staff:

- Investigates all reports of senior abuse, neglect and exploitation of non-institutionalized elderly.
- Intervenes on behalf of eligible adults believed to be at risk of injury or harm, including preparing cases for litigation based on investigative findings.
- Informs individuals considering long-term care about options to ensure individuals have the ability to make a decision about care and care settings.
- Authorizes temporary or short-term home and community-based services funded through Social Service Block Grant/general revenue for persons who need them.
- Authorizes in-home provider and/or consumer-directed services in the home or community through state and federal funding, which includes basic and advanced personal care, homemaker, chore, authorized nursing visits, counseling, basic and advanced respite, home-delivered meals and adult day health care.
- Oversees care plans developed in conjunction with seniors and persons with disabilities in their homes who are screened and determined to be medically eligible for nursing facility care and Medicaid-eligible (or potentially Medicaid-eligible).

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE) was authorized by an amendment to the Missouri Constitution in 1972 and established by statute in the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974. The nine board members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The term of appointment is six years. No more than five of the nine members may be affiliated with the same political party, and all members serve without compensation. The CBHE has statutory responsibilities relating to higher education programs and policies and oversees the activities of the Missouri Department of Higher Education (MDHE), which serves as the administrative arm of the CBHE.

The CBHE appoints the commissioner of higher education to head the MDHE and carry out administrative responsibilities to achieve the CBHE's desired goals for the state system of higher education, which serves more than 450,000 students through 13 public four-year universities, 13 public two-year colleges, one public two-year technical college, 26 independent colleges and universities, 150 proprietary and private career schools and 27 specialized nonprofit colleges.

The MDHE's primary responsibilities include identification of statewide planning for higher education, evaluation of institutional performance, review of institutional missions, development of specialization among institutions, submission of a unified budget request for public higher education to the governor and the General Assembly, establishment of guidelines to promote student transfer among institutions, approval of new degree programs offered by public colleges and universities, administration of the Proprietary School Certification Program and policy setting for and administration of student financial assistance programs.

The MDHE administers the following state student financial assistance programs: Access Missouri Financial Assistance Program; Missouri Higher Education Academic "Bright Flight" Scholarship Program; A+ Scholarship Program; Advantage Missouri Program; Marguerite Ross Barnett Memorial Scholarship Program; Vietnam Veteran's Survivor Grant Program; Public Service Officer or Employee's Child Survivor Grant Program; Wartime Veteran's Survivors Grant Program; Minority Teaching Scholarship; and the Minority and Underrepresented Environmental Literacy Program. During the state fiscal year 2014, the MDHE administered approximately $107 million in state-based student financial assistance to more than 70,000 students.

The MDHE also administers the Missouri Student Loan Program, the state-designated guaranty agency for the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP). The Healthcare and Education Affordability Reconciliation Act went into effect July 1, 2010, eliminating FFELP and mandating that new federal student loans would be disbursed through the Federal Direct Loan Program. As a result, the MDHE maintains its existing $2.1 billion loan guarantee portfolio but will not guarantee new loans issued from the federal government.

In addition, the MDHE works to increase awareness among Missourians regarding postsecondary education and student financial assistance opportunities. Through its student loan default prevention initiatives, the MDHE strives to help students avoid loan default and credit card debt.

The MDHE also has administrative responsibility for several grants as well as organizational responsibility for the Missouri State Anatomical Board.

Established in 1887, the Missouri State Anatomical Board functions to receive "unclaimed" human bodies requiring burial at public expense and to distribute them for scientific study to certain qualified schools. The board, which operates under state law (194.120–180, RSMo), was transferred to the Department of Higher Education by the Ominibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

In 1969, the board was designated a recipient for bodies donated under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act (194.230, RSMo).

The day-to-day business of the anatomical board is handled through local anatomical boards or secretaries in Columbia, Kansas City, Kirksville and St. Louis. The annual meeting of the entire board is held in July in Columbia. Officers are elected for two-year terms.

University of Missouri System

www.umsystem.edu

The University of Missouri has provided teaching, research and service to Missouri since 1839 and added economic development as its fourth mission in 2004. With campuses in Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla and St. Louis, plus a statewide Extension program and a comprehensive health care system, the university serves more than 77,000 students, more than 37,000 employees, and nearly a half million alumni worldwide.

The mission of the University of Missouri, as a land-grant university and Missouri's only public research and doctoral-level institution, is to discover, disseminate, preserve and apply knowledge.

The University of Missouri awards more than 17,000 degrees annually. The university offers doctoral degree programs as well as professional degrees in law, medicine, optometry, pharmacy, dentistry and veterinary medicine.

The university attracts more than $304 million annually in grants and contracts for research in a wide range of disciplines, including medicine, agriculture, engineering and life sciences. The university's seed funding programs help develop and move university technologies to the marketplace, and its network of research parks and incubators encourage economic growth across the state.

The University of Missouri is governed by a nine-member Board of Curators appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate.

The board also has a non-voting position for a student representative.

The university's chief administrative officer is the president. Each campus is directed by a chancellor.

The University of Missouri was founded in 1839 in Columbia as the first public university west of the Mississippi River. Today, with a record enrollment of more than 35,000 students, 13,000 full-time employees and 296,000 alumni worldwide, Missouri's flagship university is a $2.1 billion enterprise and an important investment for the state and nation.

Based on quality of teaching, research and scholarship, MU is one of only 34 public U.S. universities to be selected for membership in the prestigious Association of American Universities (AAU).

Missouri's largest and most comprehensive university, MU has more than 300 degree programs through 18 colleges and schools, and is one of only six public institutions nationwide that can claim a medical school, college of veterinary medicine and a law school on the same campus.

Mizzou students earn 27 percent of all bachelor's degrees, 23 percent of master's degrees and 62 percent of doctoral degrees granted by the state's public universities. Roughly one-third of degrees awarded (more than 3,200 annually) are in science, technology, engineering, mathematics or health fields.

MU spends about $240 million a year on scientific research, accounting for 70 percent, on average, of the research dollars flowing to Missouri's public universities. Known for a collaborative, interdisciplinary culture, Mizzou has incomparable expertise and resources on a global scale in four areas: Food for the Future, One Health/One Medicine, Media of the Future and Sustainable Energy.

As a land-grant institution, MU serves and unifies the state via extension programs, a comprehensive health system, two museums and an NCAA Division I athletic program that competes in the Southeastern Conference.

The historic 1,265-acre campus is a botanic garden, offering visitors 42,000 plants and trees in numerous thematic and special collection settings.

College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources (CAFNR)

cafnr.missouri.edu

The College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources is at the center of ensuring sustainability for future generations by infusing research, collaboration and science-based technology with confidence, creativity, conscience and commitment.

HENRY (Hank) FOLEY
Interim Chancellor
University of Missouri-Columbia

CAFNR, established in 1870 under the Morrill Act, offers bachelor and graduate degrees in agriculture; agribusiness management; agricultural economics; agricultural education; science and agricultural journalism; agricultural systems management; animal sciences; biochemistry; fisheries and wildlife; food science and nutrition; forestry; hospitality management; parks, recreation and tourism; plant science; and soil, environmental and atmospheric sciences.

Research strengths include agricultural policy, biotechnology, plant and animal genomics, animal reproductive biology, nutrition, production and pest management, agroforestry and environmental sciences. Research is conducted in a system of Agricultural Research Centers located throughout the state to address unique regional needs. This is geared to making the most effective use possible of the state's natural resource base, including people resources.

Through extension, CAFNR conducts educational activities through agriculture and natural resources and community development programs in agribusiness management, integrated crop management, livestock production systems, horticulture and forestry, environmental quality, rural policy and community economic and entrepreneurial development.

College of Arts and Science

coas.missouri.edu

Established in 1841, the College of Arts and Science is the oldest and largest division of the university. The college provides its more than 10,000 undergraduate and graduate students with liberal-education programs in fine and performing arts, humanities and social and natural sciences.

The College of Arts and Science offers undergraduate and graduate programs ranging from art to religious studies, biology to political science, geology to theater. Graduates of the college include a Golden Globe Award-winning actor, an Academy Award-winning actor, a former deputy director of the CIA, a physicist/astronaut, Missouri's first poet laureate, a legendary cartoonist and three current United States senators.

The Undergraduate Research Mentorship Program encourages students to collaborate on research with faculty members. Administered by a faculty committee, the program is an opportunity for rising juniors to cooperate actively with faculty mentors, learning firsthand about the natural integration of research and teaching. Other programs include the Summer Repertory Theatre program and a summer field camp in Wyoming for geology students.

The renowned faculty supplement their achievements in the classroom with significant research, scholarly interpretation, writing and creative production. Faculty include three members of the National Academy of Sciences and one member of the Royal Society of Canada; a recipient of the National Medal of Science; internationally recognized mathematicians; top experts in psychology; winners of the American Book Award and the American Academy of Arts and Letters' Academy Award in Literature; a former astronaut; physics researchers working to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil; and a finalist for a national teaching prize.

The college boasts two museums: The Museum of Art and Archaeology, which possesses the third-most extensive art collection in Missouri, and the Museum of Anthropology, which is the only one of its kind in the state.

The Brain Imaging Center accommodates researchers from across the campus and is accessible to other academic institutions as well as technological, scientific and pharmaceutical industries that need imaging of the body and brain. The accessibility to the magnetic resonance imaging technology solely for research sets MU apart from other universities that have restricted access to hospital equipment.

Trulaske College of Business

business.missouri.edu

The Trulaske College of Business, founded in 1914, today enrolls more than 5,000 students. The college has four academic units – accountancy, finance, management, and marketing.

The college offers an undergraduate degree in business administration, a full-time MBA and an execMBA for working professionals, a 150-hour program that confers both undergraduate and master's degrees in accountancy, and Ph.D. programs in accountancy and business administration. These programs are nationally ranked and are fully accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International.

For more than a century, the Trulaske College of Business has maintained a proud tradition of outstanding instruction, an experiential learning and impactful research. The college houses internationally known scholars in every academic unit. In addition, several faculty members hold editorial positions with academic journals, and others serve as officers in professional associations.

Student development and preparation is at the core of the college's 3D Learning Model. The Professional Development Program prepares students through workshops and a required internship, while Business Career Services provides placement assistance to graduating students. Other hallmark programs such as the Allen Angel Capital Education Program, the Entrepreneurship Alliance and MBA Consulting provide experiential learning opportunities in addition to rigorous coursework.

With approval by the Board of Curators, the University of Missouri's business school was named the Robert J. Trulaske, Sr. College of Business in October 2007. The naming recognizes the business and personal achievements of alumnus Bob Trulaske and the unprecedented support of the college by the late Mr. and Mrs. Trulaske. More than 32,000 alumni of the college are contributing their expertise to the private and public sectors in every state and in a host of foreign countries.

College of Education

education.missouri.edu

In 1868, MU became the first public university in the nation to open a college specifically for the development of teachers. Today, the MU College of Education offers 24 undergraduate program areas and 20 graduate programs serving more than 1,200 undergraduates and 1,500 graduate students each year. The college consistently ranks among the best education colleges in the nation and has more than 40,000 living alumni.

The college offers bachelor's, master's, specialist and doctoral degrees in a wide range of programs. Graduates work in the private and public sectors as teachers, principals, superintendents, school counselors, special educators, researchers, policymakers, library specialists and in many other roles that support the education field.

In addition, the college collaborates with the MU Partnership for Educational Renewal (MPER). MPER is the largest school partnership in the nation and includes 365 designated schools in 22 districts across Missouri.

College of Engineering

engineering.missouri.edu

MU Engineering was the first college of engineering west of the Mississippi River. The college offers Bachelor of Science, Master of Science and doctoral degrees. Its departments and programs include bioengineering, chemical engineering, civil and environmental engineering, computer science, electrical and computer engineering, industrial and manufacturing systems engineering, mechanical and aerospace engineering and nuclear and information technology programs.

Engineering supports its educational programs with extracurricular and research opportunities for undergraduates. The college has approximately 3,220 undergraduates, with an average freshman ACT score of 28.2. There are more than 50 engineering student organizations that encourage the development of leadership, business, collaboration and social skills as well as an undergraduate honors research program. Faculty are entrepreneurial and interdisciplinary.

MU Engineering currently boasts 15 National Science Foundation CAREER Grant recipients among its faculty members. Faculty have established five college centers of expertise and success and seven signature programs.

Research at the centers is focused on technology that will help the elderly manage their health and remain independent; processing images vital to national security; seeking informatics solutions to biological and medical problems; and more. Signature programs include environmental engineering, supply chain management, production and manufacturing energy efficiency and computer security, among others.

Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs

truman.missouri.edu

The mission of the Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs is to advance the knowledge and practice of governance in Missouri, the nation and beyond by informing public policy, educating for ethical leadership in public service and fostering democratic discourse among citizens, policymakers and scholars.

The Truman School grew out of MU's well-regarded Department of Public Administration and builds on its 40-year history of professional education for public service careers.

The school offers Ph.D. and M.P.A. degrees, a joint M.P.A./J.D. with the MU Law School and a joint M.P.A./M.P.H. with MU's Public Health Program. Through affiliated centers and institutes, faculty conduct cutting-edge research, provide consulting services to public and nonprofit organizations, deliver leadership training to public officials and bring academic expertise directly to policymakers.

Policy forums, roundtables with policymakers, lectures by distinguished visiting scholars and research symposia make for an exciting and highly relevant learning environment.

College of Human Environmental Sciences

hes.missouri.edu

The college's mission touches the heart of humanity: to improve the quality of life for individuals and families where they live and work. Beginning with the basics—food, clothing, shelter, finances, family and community—Human Environmental Sciences (HES) concentrates on providing scientific solutions for contemporary challenges in human lives.

Rooted in the university since 1900 and established as a separate division in 1973, the college offers bachelor's and master's degrees in five departments: human development and family science, focusing on child development and education, family studies, child life and human development; textile and apparel management, focusing on apparel marketing and merchandising, international studies, product development and management; personal financial planning, with options in personal financial management services and personal financial planning; architectural studies, including interior design; and nutrition and exercise physiology, with emphases in dietetics, nutrition and fitness and nutritional sciences.

The MU School of Social Work educates leaders who meet challenges facing individuals and society in the areas of military social work, child welfare, community organization, criminal justice, domestic violence, employee assistance, family and children services, gerontology, homeless, hospice, juvenile justice, mental health, physical health, public welfare, schools, substance abuse and victim assistance.

The School of Social Work joined the College of Human Environmental Sciences in 1988. Bachelor of Social Work, Master of Social Work and a Doctorate of Philosophy in social work degrees are offered in the School of Social Work. MU's School of Social Work provides the only doctoral program for social work at a public institution in Missouri.

Through University of Missouri Extension, educational activities are transmitted to citizens of the state. Human Environmental Sciences' programs prepare students for professional positions in business, industry, government, education, human services and research. Accreditation has been earned within specializations.

Recognized as a leading human sciences program in the United States, Human Environmental Sciences is unique among professional peers in its comprehensive use of advisory boards composed of industry experts to provide guidance and support for each department and the School of Social Work.

Missouri School of Journalism journalism.missouri.edu

The Missouri School of Journalism is committed to improving democracy through the practice of journalism. The first school of its type in the world, the Missouri School of Journalism educates students for careers in journalism, advertising, public relations and related news and strategic communication fields by combining a strong liberal arts education with hands-on, experiential training in professional media.

The school offers the Bachelor of Journalism degree in six areas of emphasis. Advanced graduate studies lead to the Master of Arts degree and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in journalism. The Donald W. Reynolds Journalism Institute (RJI), a 50,000 square-foot facility on historic Francis Quadrangle dedicated in 2008, is committed to developing solutions for 21st-century journalism. RJI engages students, journalists, researchers and other citizens in programs to test new technologies and experiments with new approaches to producing, designing and delivering news, information and advertising.

law.missouri.edu

The School of Law, established in 1872, has a collegial environment, reinforced by a small student body and a low faculty-student ratio. The intimacy of this setting, coupled with reasonable cost, consistently high bar passage rates, a network of alumni around the globe and access to top scholars in the legal world, make the School of Law one of the best values in the nation.

Students receive a traditional legal education paired with practical experience in such areas as trial practice and advocacy, negotiation and client interviewing and counseling. The School of Law offers a Juris Doctor degree, as well as a master's degree in dispute resolution, developed in 1999 as the first such program in the nation. In addition, the school offers ten dual degree programs with other departments on the University of Missouri campus in areas such as journalism, business and public affairs. The curriculum provides a solid foundation for graduates to take the bar examination and practice in any jurisdiction.

Students at the School of Law publish the highly regarded Missouri Law Review, Journal of Dispute Resolution and Journal of Environmental and Sustainability Law; represent the school on regional and national mock trial teams; organize a variety of philanthropic activities in honor of the school's emphasis on service; and hold a wide array of social activities focused on alleviating the stress of law school and enhancing the strong sense of community for which the law school is known.

medicine.missouri.edu

The origin of medical education at MU can be traced to 1841, when the university affiliated with Kemper College in St. Louis. After offering a two-year preclinical sciences degree for much of the 1900s, the School of Medicine expanded to a comprehensive four-year medical degree program in 1955. Since awarding its first medical degrees more than 165 years ago, the University of Missouri has developed one of the nation's most progressive medical education programs and created a foundation for biomedical research growth. This is in keeping with the MU School of Medicine's tripartite mission of teaching, health and discovery.

MU is the number one provider of physicians for Missouri. Through the medical school's Rural Track Pipeline Program and other initiatives, many MU physician graduates practice in underserved areas throughout the state. The medical school's patient-based learning curriculum offers patient-centered learning in small-group settings and provides a number of opportunities for students to gain practical experience at clinics and hospitals.

MU physicians treat patients from every county in the state. The School of Medicine's more than 650 faculty physicians and scientists educate more than 1,000 medical students, resident physicians, fellows and others seeking advanced degrees. Their research is focused on life-saving discoveries that address the most prevalent health problems.

Sinclair School of Nursing nursing.missouri.edu

The MU Sinclair School of Nursing (SSON) offers a full range of programs at the baccalaureate, master's and doctoral levels. The school is nationally accredited by the Commission of Collegiate Nursing Education and approved by the Missouri State Board of Nursing.

The undergraduate program prepares graduates to practice in a variety of health care settings. Undergraduate program options include a four-year Bachelor of Science in Nursing (B.S.N.), a distance mediated R.N. to B.S.N. degree and an accelerated B.S.N. for individuals with a baccalaureate degree in another area.

Students are prepared at the master's level in nursing education and nursing leadership. The Doctor of Nursing Practice (D.N.P.) prepares nurse administrators and advanced practice nurses as adult-gerontology and pediatric clinical nurse specialists as well as family, pediatric and family mental health nurse practitioners. The D.N.P. prepares nurse executives and clinical scholars to perform direct clinical practice, translate, disseminate and integrate evidence-based research into clinical practice and improve quality care and health outcomes.

The Ph.D. program prepares nurse scholars to assume leadership positions in research and educational settings. The Ph.D.-prepared nurse advances the discipline, conducts research and contributes to the development of social and health policy.

MU SSON graduates of the doctoral programs are prepared for a variety of leadership and scientific roles to advance health care and discover new knowledge.

Major categories of research within the school include: aging, living with chronic conditions and promoting healthy behavior/avoiding health risks. The MU SSON is committed to multi-disciplinary and interdisciplinary collaborations as a means of solving some of the most important health care dilemmas.

School of Health Professions

shp.missouri.edu

The School of Health Professions educates highly qualified health care professionals committed to improving society and the health and well-being of individuals and communities through education, service and discovery in health, diagnostic and rehabilitation sciences. The school is credited with establishing the nation's first baccalaureate degree in respiratory therapy and, to the university's knowledge, has the nation's only master's program in diagnostic medical ultrasound. It is the nation's only health professions school to sponsor an adult day health care facility.

The school's six departments and nine accredited academic programs have a distinguished history, producing many well-respected internationally and nationally recognized professionals. Graduates of the departments of clinical and diagnostic sciences, communication science and disorders, health psychology, health science, occupational therapy and physical therapy fill critical health care roles.

The school offers undergraduate degrees in athletic training, communication science and disorders, diagnostic medical ultrasound, health science, medical technology, occupational therapy, nuclear medicine, radiography and respiratory therapy. Graduate degrees are offered in communication science and disorders, diagnostic medical ultrasound, occupational therapy and physical therapy and post-doctoral training in health psychology.

Students gain valuable experience in the school's service and outreach centers, including The Adult Day Connection, MU Speech and Hearing Clinic, Robert G. Combs Language Preschool, neuropsychology clinics, adult and pediatric occupational therapy clinics, PhysZOU pro-bono physical therapy clinic and more than 800 fieldwork sites. At least 60 percent of the school's graduates remain in Missouri to practice, many of them filling critical roles in rural and underserved areas.

College of Veterinary Medicine

cvm.missouri.edu

The MU College of Veterinary Medicine has graduated more than 3,000 doctors of veterinary medicine (D.V.M.) in its history. The College of Veterinary Medicine's mission encompasses teaching, healing discovery and service. It is the only Missouri institution that awards the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree, graduating approximately 115 new veterinarians each year. The college also offers post-graduate specialty training to interns, residents and graduate students.

Most graduates enter private clinical practice, but others choose careers in government, industry and academia.

The college's teaching hospital is a state-of-the-art facility with 140,000 square feet of floor space spread over three clinics for companion animals, horses and farm animals. Clinical faculty provide both primary care and various sophisticated diagnostic procedures and treatment options not available in most private practices. Examples include magnetic resonance imaging, PET scans, hip replacement surgery, a treadmill for evaluation of lameness in horses and herd-health consultation for farmers. Each year, the hospital cares for approximately 17,000 hospitalized animals and thousands more on farms.

Through its research mission, the college fulfills a solemn obligation to advance the understanding of diseases affecting animals and people. People and animals share the same environment and are exposed to the same infectious organisms and environmental pollutants. It should come as no surprise, therefore, that animals and their owners develop many of the same diseases. This is the One Health/One Medicine concept. To pursue the causes of these conditions and develop treatments, faculty of the College of Veterinary Medicine collaborate extensively with colleagues in human medicine, agriculture, engineering and other scientific disciplines.

Libraries

The MU Libraries include Ellis Library, the main library, and eight branch libraries: Columbia Missourian newspaper, engineering, geology, health sciences, journalism, mathematics, University Archives and veterinary medical. The MU Libraries have a collection of 3.2 million print volumes, including 49,000 journal titles.

Some library materials are housed in two off-campus storage facilities that contain more than one million volumes from all of the University of Missouri campus libraries. The libraries' website, library.missouri.edu, provides access to online resources, including the MERLIN (MU system) and MOBIUS (statewide) catalogs and over 195 online databases.

The university collections are frequently reinforced by gifts of friends and alumni. Outstanding gifts include an unpublished manuscript of Charlotte Bronte; the library of John G. Neihardt; the library and manuscripts of Mary Lago; the V.T. Hamlin "Alley Oop" collection; and the libraries of the late Dr. Frank Luther Mott (dean and professor of journalism), manuscripts of deputy minority counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee, Don Sanders and Pulitzer Prize winning playwright Lanford Wilson. Two other libraries, the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection and the library of the State Historical Society of Missouri, are open to faculty, students and the public for study and research. Most of the papers in the Western Historical Manuscripts Collection relate to the area of the Missouri River and Great Plains and include interesting correspondence, account books and diaries representing early and recent business, professional, political and social life.

The library of the State Historical Society of Missouri has an extensive collection of Missouriana and the early West and a painting collection including the works of George Caleb Bingham.

University of Missouri Extension

extension.missouri.edu

University of Missouri Extension has its roots in federal acts, including the Morrill Land Grant Act of 1862 and the Smith-Lever Act of 1914, which enabled the university to deliver the practical benefits of education and scientific research to the people to improve their economic prospects and quality of life.

As early as 1911, MU was reaching out to farmers and families and providing distance education courses for teachers across the state. In 1955, state legislation established county extension councils to advise the university on educational programs. Each year, some 2,000 citizens volunteer on these councils to assess local educational needs and to work with extension faculty in delivering and evaluating programs. A partnership of local, state and federal government forms the basis for supporting these efforts.

Today, MU Extension continues to translate university-generated research and knowledge to meet the practical needs of Missourians. Working with faculty on the four UM System campuses and jointly with Lincoln University Cooperative Extension, specialists serve every county and the City of St. Louis. They reach audiences diverse in age, race and income with educational programs, publications, informative websites and one-on-one consultations.

Programs in community development, agriculture and natural resources, 4-H youth development, human environmental sciences, business development and continuing education build the capacity for success in individuals and communities, and create a foundation for locally and regionally based economic development. Every year, more than 1.3 million Missourians participate in MU Extension programs.

MU Research Reactor

murr.missouri.edu

Lifesaving medical treatments are available every day for patients fighting cancer because of the research mission, facilities and capabilities of the University of Missouri Research Reactor Center (MURR®) and its world-class team of scientists, engineers and professionals. MU is the only university to have brought three FDA-approved radiopharmaceuticals to market, from initial research and development to licensing and commercialization, and MURR and its team were central throughout the process. With medical isotope shelf-lives ranging from a few days to a few weeks, a safe and reliable supply is critical for patient health and MURR is the only U.S. supplier for many of these vital active ingredients.

MURR is a unique international resource and the most powerful university research reactor in the world. The reactor provides an invaluable tool for promoting research, education and economic development providing innovative products and services including cancer drugs and diagnostic agents. The reactor is online 52 weeks per year supplying critical radioisotopes for patients in Missouri and around the world while supporting ongoing educational and research activities at the university.

MURR is a critical hub for multidisciplinary research on the MU campus, integrating the resources of a major teaching hospital, a respected cancer center and a leading college of veterinary medicine, as well as distinguished university programs in the biosciences, chemistry and engineering, into an unparalleled research environment. Research programs at MURR encompass three major areas including biomedical science and nuclear medicine, materials science, and trace element analysis. The biomedical science program focuses on the development of radiopharmaceuticals for cancer research, including both diagnostic and therapeutic applications. The trace element analysis program utilizes neutron activation analysis and other sophisticated analytical techniques to determine the composition of biological, archaeological and geological samples. The materials sciences program focuses on the use of neutron scattering techniques to define and characterize materials at the molecular or atomic level.

Educational opportunities abound at MURR with students arriving from around the globe to take advantage of this unique resource. Students at both graduate and undergraduate levels participate in research projects from diverse disciplines including anthropology, archaeology, chemistry, engineering (chemical, electrical, mechanical and nuclear), geology, materials science, medical, life sciences (including cancer diagnostics, treatment and prevention), nutrition, physics and veterinary medicine. In addition, MURR conducts numerous extracurricular educational programs for high school students, visiting scholars, science teachers, nuclear workers and professionals in the community and around the world.

University of Missouri Health Care

muhealth.org

As part of the state's premier academic medical center, University of Missouri Health Care offers a full spectrum of care, ranging from primary care to highly specialized, multidisciplinary treatment for patients with the most severe illnesses and injuries. Patients from each of Missouri's 114 counties are served by approximately 6,000 physicians, nurses and health care professionals at MU Health Care.

MU's comprehensive health care system began when University Hospital opened in Columbia in 1956. Today, MU Health Care consists of Ellis Fischel Cancer Center, the Missouri Orthopaedic Institute, the Missouri Psychiatric Center, University Hospital and Women's and Children's Hospital – all based in Columbia. More than 50 MU Health Care clinics in central Missouri receive outpatient visits exceeding 500,000 annually. Affiliated organizations include Capital Region Medical Center in Jefferson City, Fulton Medical Center and Rusk Rehabilitation Center in Columbia.

MU Health Care offers the region's only Level I trauma center, named for pioneering MU trauma surgeon Frank L. Mitchell Jr. M.D. MU Health is a founding member of the Health Network of Missouri, a regional collaborative network to improve access and better coordinate health care for patients, and MPact, a multi-state collaborative.

Clinical specialties include comprehensive care for patients with cancer; cardiovascular, neurological and gastrointestinal diseases; orthopaedic surgery; primary care; behavioral health; trauma and acute-care surgery; women's health; neurosurgery; and pediatric and neonatal intensive care. MU Health Care is a part of University of Missouri Health, which also includes the MU School of Health Professions, the MU School of Medicine, the Sinclair School of Nursing and University Physicians practice plan.

University of Missouri–Kansas City

www.umkc.edu
Email: admit@umkc.edu

The history of the University of Missouri–Kansas City (UMKC) has always been tied to that of its namesake city, conceived and executed as the means to meet the city's need for a major university to drive growth, development and progress.

UMKC's roots run back to the 1880s. Three of the professional schools now a part of the university were founded in the 19th century: the School of Dentistry, 1881; the School of Pharmacy, 1895; and the School of Law, 1895. At the same time the Conservatory of Music was founded in 1906, community leaders began discussing the need for a university in Kansas City.

By the 1920s, two groups had plans for such a university. One group proposed Lincoln and Lee University, a Methodist-affiliated school. The other group wanted a private university.

The two groups eventually united and, in 1929, the University of Kansas City was chartered. In 1930, William Volker, Kansas City manufacturer and philanthropist, started the campus with a donation of 40 acres from the William Rockhill Nelson estate.

Despite the ravages of the Great Depression, civic leaders stayed the course, believing that a university was critical to efforts to reverse the economic doldrums. In 1931, Volker donated funds to purchase the Walter S. Dickey mansion and grounds. It was in this remodeled building that the University of Kansas City began its first academic year on Oct. 2, 1933, with 264 students and 17 faculty members. The first commencement at the University of Kansas City was June 9, 1936, with 80 graduates.

In 1963, the University of Kansas City merged with the University of Missouri System, becoming the University of Missouri–Kansas City. In 1963, the enrollment was 4,394; more than 16,000 now study at UMKC.

The campus has been experiencing a major growth spurt in recent years. Two major new buildings opened in 2013: the $32 million, 68,000-square foot Henry W. Bloch Executive Hall for Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and the 1,000-seat Miller Nichols Learning Center classroom building. Projects breaking ground in 2015 include the $14.8 million Robert W. Plaster Free Enterprise Center, a prototyping and product development hub for entrepreneurs, local industry, and high school and college students; a project at 51st and Oak streets that will include a Whole Foods Market, six floors of 170 market rate apartments and a new home for the UMKC Student Health and Counseling Center; and a $21 million state-funded modernization and upgrade project for the university's biology and chemistry laboratories.

College of Arts and Sciences

cas.umkc.edu

The College of Arts and Sciences is the largest academic unit of UMKC. It provides a broad liberal arts education as well as graduate and doctoral preparation, preparing students as specialists in a number of chosen fields.

The major areas of study are architecture, urban planning and design, art and art history, chemistry, communication studies, criminal justice and criminology, economics, English language and literature, foreign languages and literatures, geosciences, history, mathematics and statistics, philosophy, physics and astronomy, political science, psychology, sociology, social work and theatre.

LEO E. MORTON
Chancellor, University of Missouri–Kansas City

Nearly all of the college's departments offer graduate work at the master's level. Doctoral studies are available in psychology. Some departments also participate in the Interdisciplinary Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) program offered through the School of Graduate Studies.

The college's students and faculty have earned an array of academic recognitions, including multiple Guggenheim Fellowships, Fulbright and DAAD scholarships, NATIONAL Endowment for the Arts and National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowships, the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship and the Association of Writers and Writing Programs award. Two graduates of the college have won the Pulitzer Prize.

The College of Arts and Sciences is the home base of the Honors College, which seeks exceptionally motivated and academically talented undergraduates to study in an environment that encourages excellence. It is designed to enrich the collegiate experience of the most outstanding students. Traditional and non-traditional undergraduates from every school and college at the university are provided with the opportunity to develop their academic and leadership skills within the context of a broad, interdisciplinary education, which will ultimately prepare them for graduate studies and professional careers.

sbs.umkc.edu

The School of Biological Sciences seeks to provide quality education, to expand knowledge through scientific research and to apply the latest scientific information for the advancement of human welfare. The school plays a key role in Kansas City's emergence as a center for research and development in the life sciences.

Created in 1985, the school serves to advance the missions of the campus and those programs that have a foundation in the life sciences. It is closely tied to and supports academic programs in the schools of dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and the College of Arts and Sciences. It also offers bachelor's, master's and Interdisciplinary Ph.D. degrees.

In 1999, the School of Biological Sciences announced its membership in an exclusive national consortium to conduct research at the prestigious Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago.

Today, the School of Biological Sciences is home to students seeking bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in all areas of cellular and molecular biology. Programs at the School of Biological Sciences train students to further their education in health professional programs, graduate and doctoral degree programs or to directly enter the biotechnology workforce of Kansas City and the Midwest region.

Henry W. Bloch School of Management

bloch.umkc.edu

World-class programs at the renowned Henry W. Bloch School of Management provide present and future associates of for-profit, public and nonprofit enterprises the opportunity to gain or enhance their knowledge and skills for effective leadership locally, nationally and globally.

Degree programs include Bachelor of Business Administration and Bachelor of Science in accounting, as well as a menu of graduate and executive graduate programs, including Master of Business Administration, Master of Science in accounting, Master of Science in finance and Master of Entrepreneurial Real Estate. The Bloch School also offers an Interdisciplinary Ph.D. in public administration, a Ph.D. in global entrepreneurship and innovation and non-degree executive education.

The school actively engages in research that applies to the business community, Kansas City's urban core and government agencies.

The Bloch School differentiates itself by integrating business management with public administration, along with a strong emphasis on entrepreneurial and innovative thinking across all disciplines. Bloch programs in executive MBA and nonprofit management have been ranked among the best in the nation.

School of Computing and Engineering

sce.umkc.edu

The mission of the School of Computing and Engineering is to provide competitive educational opportunities and focused research in computing and engineering, which generates the technical workforce and research vital to economic development, particularly in a city that is home to four of the nation's top 50 engineering firms and eight of the top 200. Undergraduate degree offerings include ABET, Inc.-accredited degrees in computer science, information technology, civil engineering, electrical and computer engineering and mechanical engineering. Master of Science degree programs are offered in civil engineering, computer science, electrical engineering and mechanical engineering. Thesis and non-thesis options are available.

The school also participates in UMKC's Interdisciplinary Ph.D. program through four disciplines: computer science, electrical and computer engineering, engineering and telecommunications and computer networking. Computer science and electrical engineering research strengths cover a wide range of specialties, including networking and telecommunications, software engineering and systems, bio-informatics, communications, computer engineering and algorithms.

Civil and mechanical engineering research strengths include transportation, bioengineering, engineering education, materials, structures, refrigeration and river engineering. All programs are designed to prepare graduates for successful careers in computer science and engineering.

School of Dentistry

dentistry.umkc.edu

What began in 1881 as the Kansas City Dental College is today the UMKC School of Dentistry, which annually admits approximately 100 students into its four-year Doctor of Dental Surgery (D.D.S.) degree program, 30 dental graduates into specialty programs and 30 students into dental hygiene. The school serves 15,000 patients of record, providing the students with more than 61,000 patient visits annually, while providing $650,000 in uncompensated care to indigent, underserved Missouri residents. About two-thirds of the state's dentists are graduates of the UMKC School of Dentistry.

The school offers continuing education programs and supports or participates in dozens of outreach programs. Faculty and students provide oral health screenings to disadvantaged children and others in underserved, rural areas of Missouri and abroad.

UMKC was the first U.S. dental school to develop and implement a fully electronic patient record-keeping system with digital radiography, and the Department of Oral and Craniofacial Sciences has been named an area of eminence by the University of Missouri System in recognition of its interdisciplinary research programs in the areas of biomaterials engineering, mineralized tissue biology and translational and clinical research. Private businesses contract with the Clinical Research Center to perform clinical trials and efficacy testing on dental products and procedures; research funding averages over $5 million annually.

Philanthropic support from the school's 7,500 living alumni has endowed more than 60 scholarships, providing assistance to a significant number of the school's 500 dental, dental hygiene and graduate students.

School of Education

education.umkc.edu

The overall goal of the School of Education is the development of broadly educated, competent practitioners who are able to engage in critical and cooperative inquiry in order to provide for an increasing diversity of educational specialists who are grounded in both theory and practice and can deal effectively with the problems and needs of a culturally, socially and politically diverse society. A national leader in culturally responsive teaching and urban education, the school prepares teachers, counselors and administrators to work with today's diverse youth.

The School of Education is fully accredited, offering degrees through a diverse array of undergraduate, graduate and continuing education classes. For practicing teachers, course offerings include stand-alone programs and courses delivered in conjunction with partner school districts.

Doctoral degrees are available in counseling psychology from the Division of Counseling and Educational Psychology and PK–12 administration from the Division of Educational Leadership, Policy and Foundations. The School of Education also participates in the Interdisciplinary Ph.D. program, offering a combined degree with many other discipline areas.

The School of Education offers undergraduate programs that lead to the Bachelor of Arts degrees in early childhood, elementary, middle school and secondary education. The school recommends students for certification in a variety of content areas. School of Education faculty work closely with local school districts to give future teachers not only a foundation in theory, but also classroom practice through field work, practica and internships.

sgs.umkc.edu

Programs for advanced degrees in the liberal arts were introduced by the University of Kansas City in 1939. Graduate degree programs are offered in a variety of fields in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences. Several are of special interest to students preparing for careers in the health sciences, performing arts and urban affairs.

Master's degree programs are offered in accounting, anesthesia, art history, bioinformatics, biology, business administration, cellular and molecular biology, chemistry, civil engineering, computer science, counseling and guidance, criminal justice and criminology, dental hygiene, economics, education, English, engineering, history, law, mathematics, music, oral biology, nursing, pharmaceutical sciences, physics, political science, psychology, public administration, romance languages, psychology, social work, sociology, studio art, theater and urban environmental geology. The education specialist degrees, Master of Fine Arts, Master of Laws and Doctor of Musical Arts, are also available.

The Interdisciplinary Ph.D. program offers students a range of doctoral options. Support is available to qualified graduate students through scholarships, assistantships and fellowships.

Honors College

The Honors College, UMKC's newest academic unit, seeks exceptionally motivated and academically talented undergraduates to study in an environment that encourages excellence. It is designed to enrich the collegiate experience of the most outstanding students. Traditional and non-traditional undergraduates from every school and college at the university are provided with the opportunity to develop their academic and leadership skills within the context of a broad, interdisciplinary education, which will ultimately prepare them for graduate studies and professional careers.

School of Law

law.umkc.edu

The Kansas City School of Law, founded in 1895, merged with the University of Kansas City (UKC) in 1938. When UKC joined the UM system in 1963, the school became known as the UMKC School of Law. The school is one of only six in the nation to have educated both a U.S. President and a Supreme Court Justice.

The law school is housed in a modern facility, which includes courtrooms with up-to-date technology that allow actual court proceedings to be held at the school and observed by students and faculty from a sound-proof viewing theater. The building houses the Leon E. Bloch Law Library, which provides both books and online materials and contains an innovative, collaborative teaching classroom for research and writing instruction. A unique feature of the building is the placement of student offices and study carrels in suites shared by faculty.

The law school focuses on the integration of high-level theory with practical skills to educate lawyers with strong problem-solving ability and the foundation for sound judgment. The school is recognized for its strengths in advocacy, family law and entrepreneurship, as well as for its innovative solo and small firm practice program. Students have opportunities for writing and scholarly activity through the three journals edited at the school.

The location of the School of Law on an urban university campus provides abundant opportunities for student participation in externships and clinics that provide excellent skills training while serving community legal needs. It also provides for interdisciplinary collaboration, especially with the Bloch School of Management and the Institute for Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

med.umkc.edu

In 1971, the UMKC School of Medicine accepted its first class in the six-year medical program. The year-round program, involving 48 weeks of study each year, offers students the opportunity to earn both their Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree and a bachelor's degree from either the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Biological Sciences. It is designed primarily for highly-qualified high school seniors.

The curriculum of the School of Medicine provides early exposure to clinical medicine and basic science education, as well as a liberal arts education that is fully integrated into the six-year program. Admission to this program as a freshman gives the student the opportunity to complete requirements for the Doctor of Medicine degree without a second admission process. A unique feature of the school is the docent system, which assigns a full-time faculty member to 12 students for a four-year period, creating an opportunity for the student to interact with a faculty member who serves as a teacher, role model, counselor and mentor.

Nearby are the medical school's major affiliate hospitals: Truman Medical Center, Children's Mercy Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Western Missouri Mental Health Center and the Kansas City Veterans Affairs Medical Center. In addition, the School of Medicine utilizes a number of outstanding private community hospitals in the Kansas City area for education in clinical medicine.

Conservatory of Music and Dance

conservatory.umkc.edu

The Conservatory of Music and Dance has earned national and international recognition through performance, composition, teaching and scholarship. One of the most comprehensive music and dance educational centers in the Midwest since 1906, the conservatory has more than 80 faculty who are highly regarded as scholars, artists, teachers and leaders in their fields.

The conservatory offers the degrees of Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Master of Music Education and Doctor of Musical Arts. It offers the community hundreds of music and dance programs annually by faculty, students and visiting artists, including those in its acclaimed Signature Series. The conservatory also offers students the opportunity to participate in a variety of ensembles that perform throughout the year.

More than 20 ensembles are open by audition to all UMKC students who qualify. Ensembles include the Conservatory Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra, Percussion Ensemble, Wind Symphony, Wind Ensemble, Musica Nova (a contemporary music ensemble), 11 O'Clock Jazz Band and numerous vocal and jazz groups.

School of Pharmacy

pharmacy.umkc.edu

The origin of pharmacy education in Kansas City began in 1885 and evolved into the "Kansas City College of Pharmacy and Natural Science." This college operated independently until 1943, when it merged with the University of Kansas City. For the last 125 years, the School of Pharmacy has maintained its mission to educate students, health care professionals and scientists; conduct research; and serve the public and the pharmacy profession in order to meet pharmaceutical needs and advance the standard of health care.

The UMKC School of Pharmacy is the only public pharmacy school in Missouri, offering professional, post-graduate and graduate programs in the pharmaceutical sciences, including pharmaceutics, pharmacology, biopharmaceutics, pharmacokinetics and toxicology; pharmacy administration; and pharmacy practice. The primary professional degree offered is the doctor of pharmacy (Pharm.D.).

Pharmacy faculty conduct interdisciplinary research and engage in community service. Students are active in various outreach projects, including community health fairs and education of school children about inappropriate use of medication.

The pharmacy program includes significant patient contact and provides an interprofessional approach to patient care. Experiential components of the curriculum are conducted at several area health facilities throughout Kansas City, Columbia and Springfield, as well as at various pharmacy and health care settings throughout the state in rural and metropolitan areas.

In 2005, the School of Pharmacy expanded the Pharm.D. program to the University of Missouri–Columbia campus using distance education and UMKC pharmacy faculty. This program was created in part to help with the shortage of pharmacists statewide and to meet the need for pharmacists in Missouri's rural communities. A similar program was expanded to the Missouri State University campus in Springfield in 2014.

Libraries

library.umkc.edu

UMKC Libraries are an essential partner in intellectual discovery, knowledge creation and empowerment, while serving as the hub of learning activities for UMKC and its urban neighbors. Located on the Volker Campus, the Miller Nichols Library is the largest of UMKC's libraries and houses the general collection, Music/Media Library, LaBudde Special Collections and Marr Sound Archives. The Dental Library and Health Sciences Library are located on the Health Sciences Campus and serve users in those disciplines.

UMKC Libraries' collections contain more than 2 million books, government publications and audiovisual items, as well as more than 2 million microforms supporting the programs of the university. In addition to the physical collections, the libraries provide online access to over 65,000 journals, 250,000 books and 300 research databases. Partnerships with the UMKC School of Law's Leon E. Bloch Law Library and the privately funded Linda Hall Library of Science, Engineering and Technology further extend UMKC's physical and virtual library resources. Reciprocal borrowing agreements and the Community Information Program share UMKC's library resources globally and provides local users access to materials from libraries and repositories located throughout Missouri and around the world. These arrangements assist students, researchers, businesses and all levels of government agencies.

Many rare and priceless collections are part of UMKC Libraries' Kenneth L. LaBudde Special Collections. These include papers and manuscripts of music composers, sheet music and Americana, and British literature. The Marr Sound Archives hold over 330,000 recordings of music and spoken word, documenting the American experience in sound. The libraries have been the recipient of grants from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities to catalog and preserve unique library collections.

Through the libraries' website, Missourians and researchers worldwide can access a variety of material, from online exhibits highlighting the musical heritage of the Kansas City region, to a comprehensive catalog of library holdings at all four campuses to historic digital audio recordings. Visitors to UMKC can observe the recently installed high-density automated storage and retrieval system—dubbed by student vote "RooBot"—and experience the new collaborative study spaces made possible by the new system.

School of Nursing and Health Studies

sonhs.umkc.edu

The UMKC School of Nursing and Health Studies prepares students to excel in the delivery and improvement of health care, now and in the future. Approval for establishment of a School of Nursing was granted by the University of Missouri's Board of Curators in 1979, at which time the Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) program was offered. The school accepted its first class of registered nurse undergraduates (RN-BSN) into its baccalaureate program in fall 1981.

Today, the UMKC School of Nursing and Health Studies offers a full range of education programs including a bachelor's degree in Health Science, a four-year bachelor's degree in nursing (B.S.N.), an R.N.-B.S.N., a Master of Science in Nursing (M.S.N.) degree and a Doctor of Nursing Practice (D.N.P.) degree—all fully accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education. Options for MSN study include the nurse educator, neonatal and family psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner programs. Options for the DNP include the adult, family, women and pediatric nurse practitioner programs. The Ph.D. in Nursing is an inter-campus Ph.D., offered in cooperation with the University of Missouri–St. Louis and Columbia campuses. Many of the programs are approved by the Higher Learning Commission for distance education using both online and interactive telecommunication technologies.

The school presents students with excellent learning opportunities, such as clinical experiences in settings that provide care to patient populations of diverse backgrounds and state-of-the-art simulation technology. Students benefit from the school's long-standing community partnerships, a commitment to a diverse student body and specialized recruitment and retention strategies. The School of Nursing's program of research is focused on community-based research for underserved and under-represented populations and provides educational, practice, service and research opportunities in the provision of health care and education in this area, emphasizing urban health care and wellness.

Continuing Education

The university's schools and colleges, with responsibility for their respective continuing education programs, extend the university's educational reach beyond the traditional campus degree programs. Through credit courses, noncredit courses, conferences and institutes, the people of the greater Kansas City community have an opportunity to continue their education in a manner suited to the adult learner.

Noncredit continuing education activities involve an academic department and a group from business, industry, government or the general public. Citizens throughout the state are served through UMKC's relationship with the University Extension. Offerings include liberal arts lectures and seminars; professional, refresher, remedial and post-graduate courses; and problem-oriented educational programs designed for the analysis and study of major social and urban problems.

Formal education also may be continued through credit courses offered off campus or by enrollment in correspondence courses for academic credit. Frequently, public forums concerned with vital issues of the day are offered in order to increase both the number and effectiveness of people who work toward solutions of community problems. While responding to the broad and varied needs of the community and state, the university is at the same time placing increased emphasis on the development of specific program areas identified as important to large professional, economic and other specialized audiences within the community.

Admission

Missouri University of Science and Technology (Missouri S&T) was founded in 1870 as the University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy (MSM). MSM was the first technological institution west of the Mississippi River and one of the first in the nation. The campus was renamed the University of Missouri–Rolla (UMR) in 1964. On Jan. 1, 2008, UMR became Missouri University of Science and Technology, or Missouri S&T, to more accurately reflect the university's mission as one of the nation's leading technological research universities.

DR. CHERYL B. SCHRADER
Chancellor, Missouri University of Science and Technology

A product of the land-grant movement of the late 19th century, the campus was Missouri's response to the acute need for scientific and practical education in the developing nation. Early academic programs focused on the mining and metallurgical industries, but the campus broadened its mission over time as the need for engineering and scientific education grew.

Graduate education and research began to assume a greater emphasis on the campus in the 1950s. In 1964, Missouri S&T became one of the four campuses of the reorganized University of Missouri. Today, as a nationally respected research university, Missouri S&T has evolved and expanded its heritage as a science and technology-focused institution to inspire and prepare students of all majors to solve the world's great challenges.

The change from "school" to "university" in the 1960s involved three major shifts in emphasis:

- expanded curricula designed to encompass the full range of engineering and scientific subjects, including nuclear engineering, biological sciences and computer science;
- new degree programs in the liberal arts, humanities and social sciences, with an appropriate growth in the number and quality of faculty and courses; and
- new graduate programs to strengthen the science and engineering disciplines and solidify the commitment to research in all areas.

These changes better enabled the campus to respond to Missouri's needs. Originally a mining school, Missouri University of Science and Technology has become a research university of national distinction.

Missouri University of Science and Technology offers bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees in 30 fields of engineering, science, humanities, business and social sciences. Master of science degrees are offered in 27 disciplines, doctor of philosophy in 20 and doctor of engineering in nine.

Academic Programs

College of Arts, Sciences and Business

casb.mst.edu

Missouri S&T's College of Arts, Sciences and Business (CASB) is committed to enriching student development and enhancing Missouri S&T's traditional technological disciplines, as well as developing new programmatic areas within the college. The College of Arts, Sciences and Business also plays a vital role in fulfilling Missouri S&T's mission of integrating education, research and application to create and convey knowledge that serves the state and helps solve the world's great challenges.

In order to fulfill this mission, CASB offers a unique mix of traditional liberal arts and humanities, natural and physical sciences, education, business and military science disciplines. The college includes the departments of applied mathematics; arts, languages and philosophy; biological sciences; business and information technology; chemistry; economics; English and technical communication; history and political science; physics; and psychological science. CASB also includes S&T's Air Force ROTC, Army ROTC and teacher certification programs.

The college offers 13 undergraduate degree programs in applied mathematics, biological sciences, business and management systems, chemistry, economics, English, history, information science and technology, multidisciplinary studies, philosophy, physics, psychology, and technical communication. More than 52 minors are offered, and students may specialize in one of more than 27 emphasis areas within these degree programs. CASB also delivers the majority of academic offerings in the general education curriculum.

CASB offers master's degrees in the departments of biological sciences; business and information technology; chemistry; English and technical communication; mathematics and statistics; physics; and psychological science. Online M.S. degrees are offered in business administration, industrial-organizational psychology, information technology and technical communication. In addition, doctoral degrees are offered in the departments of chemistry, mathematics and statistics, and physics.

CASB's academic departments provide course work for students majoring in those fields (about 20 percent of the student body) as well as the science, mathematics and liberal arts courses to students majoring in engineering and computing.

College of Engineering and Computing

cec.mst.edu

Approximately 80 percent of Missouri S&T's students are enrolled in the College of Engineering and Computing (CEC). The college includes the departments of chemical and biochemical engineering; civil, architectural and environmental engineering; computer science; electrical and computer engineering; engineering management and systems engineering; geosciences and geological and petroleum engineering; materials science and engineering; mechanical and aerospace engineering; and mining and nuclear engineering. More than 6,200 students are enrolled in those nine academic departments. More than 5,200 are undergraduate students and more than 1,000 are graduate students, of which 400-plus are in the Ph.D. program. Nearly 900 students in the college are enrolled as distance learning students.

The CEC offers 18 engineering and computing undergraduate degree programs. Sixteen of these programs are ABET-accredited – more than three times the average of U.S. universities. This is complemented by 19 master's degree and Ph.D. programs in engineering and computing, of which 17 have an online presence. Missouri S&T is home to the one of the oldest computer science programs in the country, the nation's first engineering management program and the nation's only Ph.D. program in explosives engineering. The computer science program also is home to Missouri's only National Center of Academic Excellence in Information Assurance and Cyber Defense Research. Missouri S&T is one of only 56 universities in the nation to hold this accreditation.

Missouri S&T recently was ranked the No. 3 engineering school in the nation by College Factual and USA Today (August 2014) and was ranked 15th in the nation and first in the state of Missouri in terms of engineering bachelor's degrees awarded, according to the American Society for Engineering Education (ASEE, 2014). Missouri S&T's commitment to diversity in engineering and computing is also recognized by ASEE, which ranked Missouri S&T 19th in the nation for the number of bachelor's degrees awarded to African Americans and 26th for the number of bachelor's degrees in engineering awarded to women. The same publication also ranked Missouri S&T 22nd in the nation for number of engineering master's degrees awarded. Missouri S&T's online graduate programs in engineering and computing are ranked among the nation's best, according to U.S. News & World Report (January 2015).

As with all students at Missouri S&T, students in the CEC experience a wealth of out-of-classroom learning opportunities that apply knowledge to real-world problems, such as the Experimental Mine – ranked one of the nation's most "Awesome College Labs" by Popular Science.

Bachelor of science (B.S.), master of science (M.S.) and doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) programs are offered in computer science and all engineering disciplines. The doctor of engineering (D.E.) is offered in ceramic, chemical, civil, electrical, geological, mechanical, mining, nuclear and petroleum engineering. Online M.S. degrees are offered in aerospace engineering, civil engineering, computer engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, engineering management, environmental engineering, explosives engineering, geotechnics, manufacturing engineering, mechanical engineering, mining engineering and systems engineering. Online Ph.D. and D.E. programs are available for certain disciplines on a case-by-case basis.

Since 2006, Missouri S&T has also offered bachelor of science degrees in civil engineering and electrical engineering through the Missouri S&T-Missouri State University Cooperative Engineering Program. The program is located on the Missouri State University campus in Springfield and is available to students from a 16-county area in southwest Missouri.

Graduate Study

grad.mst.edu

Graduate study has been offered at Missouri S&T since about 1900, when the first master of science degree programs were established. The first doctor of philosophy degree for work done on the Rolla campus was granted in 1926. M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are now granted by all engineering and science departments except biological sciences, which offers an M.S. only. Nine disciplines offer the doctor of engineering (D.E.) degree.

Missouri S&T Engineering Education Center

eec.mst.edu

The Missouri S&T Engineering Education Center, located in St. Louis County, was established in 1964 as part of the continuing education program of the Missouri S&T Extension Division. It offers evening courses leading to master's degrees in aerospace, chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, metallurgical, environmental and planning engineering; engineering management; engineering mechanics; and computer science.

Courses are taught by Missouri S&T faculty and selected engineers and scientists from industry. More than 2,000 degrees have been granted through the center over its 51-year history.

Missouri S&T Global Learning

global.mst.edu

In response to growing national trends, Missouri S&T's Global Learning has expanded its distance and continuing education course offerings to better meet the needs of many of today's students, as well as professionals who want to continue their education but are not able to attend on-campus classes.

Students enrolled in distance courses at Missouri S&T may attend class online from their office, home or while away on business. Courses are broadcast live on the Internet and archived for students unavailable at the scheduled class time. The distance courses are identical to their on-campus versions. In fact, most classes consist of both on- and off-campus students. Students can also learn through mailed CD-ROMs and DVDs and face-to-face communication.

Missouri S&T's distance education offerings have expanded from a few courses at Fort Leonard Wood and the Engineering Education Center in St. Louis to offering 16 online graduate degree programs. The department offers an online M.B.A. degree as well as M.S. and M.E. degrees in aerospace engineering, civil engineering, computer engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, engineering management, environmental engineering, explosives engineering, geotechnics, information science and technology, manufacturing engineering, mechanical engineering, mining engineering, systems engineering and technical communication. S&T Global Learning also offers more than 50 certificate programs.

In 2001, Missouri S&T partnered with Boeing to offer its employees a degree in systems engineering. The program began with 30 students in its first year and has grown to more than 260 students.

Research

research.mst.edu

As a national research university, Missouri S&T's research enterprise primarily supports education and service in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) and related disciplines. Research activity at Missouri S&T not only contributes to the further understanding of scientific phenomena in nature and designed environments, but also provides applied knowledge to strengthen the state's economy and meet critical societal needs while furthering the education of faculty and students.

Research projects are conducted in every academic department in nearly every phase of engineering and science and in many areas of business, the liberal arts, social sciences and humanities. Much of it is directly related to the needs of the people and industries of Missouri and to national problems such as energy, mineral resources and the environment.

In 2014, Missouri S&T established four "signature areas" to concentrate key research initiatives in areas of national need. The areas are:

• Advanced Manufacturing, where faculty and students conduct research to advance areas such as additive manufacturing; micro- and nano-scale manufacturing; network-centric and cloud manufacturing; advanced materials for manufacturing; and intelligent, sensor-enabled manufacturing.

• Advanced Materials for Sustainable Infrastructure, where researchers focus on the rehabilitation of urban mass-transportation centers, including highways, bridges, tunnels, rail, airports and port and water navigation channels, as well as utility infrastructure. Researchers from four S&T research centers and six academic departments are working on projects such as a study of high-performance concrete. They are adding new materials, like old concrete, fly ash, ground-up tires and glass and fibers, to traditional concrete and testing how well the mixtures perform in bridges, airports, rail systems and port and harbor facilities.

• Enabling Materials for Extreme Environments, where researchers focus on developing new materials for applications involving extreme temperatures, heat fluxes, neutron radiation levels and other stresses. With expertise in chemistry, materials science and engineering, mechanical engineering, nuclear engineering and physics, researchers in this area are developing the ultra-high-temperature ceramic materials that may one day form the leading and trailing edges of future hypersonic aircraft.

• Smart Living, through which researchers from the social sciences and humanities work with engineering and science researchers on issues related to developing a more secure and sustainable society. Smart Living draws on expertise in cyber security, sustainable energy research, big data analytics, architectural design, behavioral and environmental psychology, the history of technology, and transportation and infrastructure. Current projects include an experimental microgrid that joins the houses in Missouri S&T's Solar Village and allows them to manage and store renewable energy.

In addition to these signature area initiatives, Missouri S&T continues to focus research in the areas of cyber security, energy, the environment, manufacturing, materials and infrastructure. Among the notable research occurring at Missouri S&T is a multidisciplinary effort to develop bioactive glasses for bone and tissue repair and regeneration; testing and development of new lightweight composite materials for use in bridges, buildings and other infrastructure; investigations into the effects of aircraft, space shuttle and rocket exhaust on the ozone layer; and the development of more environmentally friendly methods for removing paint from aircraft.

Other projects are as diverse as basic investigations in cloud physics, the study of the gases in meteorites and moon rocks, research on lightweight structural steel and earthquake structures, robotics, flexible manufacturing, smart materials and glass beads used in the treatment of cancer and arthritis.

Missouri S&T's research centers carry out interdisciplinary investigations that involve different fields of engineering and science. Missouri S&T's research centers include the Biochemical Processing Institute, Center for Aerospace Manufacturing Technology, Center for Biomedical Sciences and Engineering, Center for Cold-Formed Steel Structures, Center for Infrastructure Engineering Studies, Cloud and Aerosol Sciences Laboratory, Design Engineering Center, Electronics Materials Processing and Characterization Institute, Energy Research and Development Center, Environmental Research Center for Emerging Contaminants, Experimental Mine, Experimental Combustion Laboratory, High Pressure Waterjet Laboratory, Institute for Applied Mathematics, Institute of Applied Chemistry, Institute for Artificial Intelligence, Institute for Chemical and Extractive Metallurgy, Institute of River Studies, Institute of Thin Film Processing, Intelligent Systems Center, International Institute of River and Lake Systems, Laboratory for Atomic and Molecular Research, Materials Research Center, Missouri Mining and Mineral Resources Research Institute, Missouri Transportation Institute, Electromagnetic Compatibility Laboratory, Applied Microwave Nondestructive Testing Laboratory, Nuclear Reactor and the Rock Mechanics and Explosives Research Center.

Admission

futurestudents.mst.edu

Interested students may obtain information on admission and enrollment upon request, in person, online or by mail, from the Office of Admissions at Missouri S&T. Prospective students and their parents are encouraged to visit the campus or call the toll-free number (800) 522-0938) dedicated to inquiries about admissions, financial aid and enrollment procedures. Students also may contact the admissions office by email at admissions@mst.edu or by visiting the Missouri S&T web site www.mst.edu.

University of Missouri–St. Louis

www.umsl.edu

St. Louis is more than a college town. It's an exciting metropolitan region with 2.8 million people, 18 Fortune 1000 companies and some of the largest private firms in the U.S. Among those industry leaders that maintain significant operations in St. Louis are Ameren, Anheuser-Busch InBev, Boeing, BJC Healthcare, Centene, Edward Jones, Emerson, Enterprise, Express Scripts, General Motors, Maritz, MasterCard, Monsanto, Olin, Peabody Energy and Sigma Aldrich.

St. Louis also is home to numerous small and mid-sized companies that find the region's know-your-neighbor Midwest vibe refreshingly supportive – perhaps that's why Popular Mechanics magazine named St. Louis one of the nation's best places to start a business.

With a central location, infrastructure capacity, favorable cost structure and high-quality educational institutions, St. Louis' $137 billion regional economy is broad and growing. It all adds up to a great location to live, learn and work.

No university is a better conduit of that energy than the University of Missouri–St. Louis.

With more than 17,000 students, UMSL is the largest public research university in eastern Missouri. It provides excellent learning experiences and leadership opportunities to a diverse student body whose influence on the region upon graduation is immense.

Founded in 1963, UMSL is spread across 470 acres in suburban St. Louis County. It has a mix of modern and historic academic buildings as well as a variety of student residence halls, condominiums and apartments. It's the perfect setting for students to gain unique insights from outstanding faculty and work experience from internships at companies and organizations found only in this world-class metropolitan region.

UMSL graduates can be found in all 50 states and 63 countries. But, their greatest impact is felt right here in St. Louis. More than 65,000 of UMSL's 91,000 alumni call St. Louis home. They drive the region's economy and contribute mightily to its social wellbeing.

DR. THOMAS F. GEORGE
Chancellor
University of Missouri–St. Louis

College of Arts and Sciences

As the largest of the colleges at UMSL, the College of Arts and Sciences offers a curriculum linking the arts, humanities and sciences with the metropolitan area and serves as the institution's academic core. It is composed of 16 departments and the School of Social Work.

Majors include anthropology, biology, biotechnology, chemistry and biochemistry, criminology and criminal justice, economics, English, foreign languages and cultural studies, history, liberal studies, mathematics and computer science, philosophy, physics and astronomy, political science, psychology, social work and sociology. In addition, several interdisciplinary minors and certificates are offered, such as military and veteran studies, American studies, gender studies, neuroscience, history and philosophy of science and technology and child advocacy studies.

The college offers master's degrees in biology, computer science, creative writing, criminology and criminal justice, chemistry, economics, English, gerontology, history, mathematics, physics, physiological optics, political science, psychology, public policy administration, social work and sociology. It also offers graduate certificates in biotechnology, forensic economics, international studies, museum studies, trauma studies, tropical biology and conservation, women's and gender studies and writing.

Doctoral programs within the College of Arts and Sciences include applied mathematics, biology, chemistry, criminology and criminal justice, physics, political science and psychology. The college is also the home of clinical psychology centers including the Children's Advocacy Center of Greater St. Louis, Community Psychological Service and the Center for Trauma Recovery.

Through academic programs offered on and off campus, the College of Arts and Sciences educates diverse, talented, traditional and nontraditional students who will supply knowledge, skills and intellectual leadership in both the private and public sectors.

College of Business Administration

At the undergraduate level, the College of Business Administration offers the bachelor of science degree in business administration with emphases in finance, international business, logistics and operations management, management and marketing.

Bachelor's degrees in accounting and information systems also are offered to undergraduate students. These programs provide students with a high-quality business education that prepares them to become productive contributors in both private and public-sector organizations.

The college offers three master's degree programs. The master of business administration program is designed to fully prepare students for administrative positions. The master of science in information systems program includes a specialized program in computer-based management information systems. The master of accounting program is intended for students preparing to enter the accounting profession or furthering existing accountant careers.

The college also offers a doctoral degree in logistics and supply chain management. All of the college's programs are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the authorized professional accrediting body in collegiate business education.

The Center for Transportation Studies (CTS), initiated in 2000, has been supported through endowments created by the St. Louis Mercantile Library and the John W. Barriger III Railroad Library. Research opportunities are offered through the center to qualified UMSL graduate students. Through the center and the logistics and supply chain program, students have performed several research and network analyses for companies throughout the United States.

College of Education

The College of Education provides undergraduate, graduate and doctoral degree programs to prepare and sustain educational leaders for a variety of school and non-school settings.

The college is consistently one of the top three institutions in the state in the production of educators. The faculty, including a number of nationally recognized endowed professors, is committed to a continuous exchange between research and practice that improves the learning environment of diverse learners.

Bachelor's degrees are offered in general education, early childhood, counseling, fine arts, music, science, biology, physical education, math, languages and English.

In addition to numerous undergraduate degree programs, the college offers master's degrees in counseling, educational administration, elementary education, secondary education and special education. Within these programs, a number of emphasis areas are available, including community education, elementary and secondary school administration, elementary and secondary reading, general and school counseling and secondary curriculum and instruction. The college also offers both doctor of education and doctor of philosophy in education degree programs.

College of Fine Arts and Communication

Founded in 2001, the College of Fine Arts and Communication includes the departments of art and art history, communication, dance, music, media studies and theater. Undergraduates may pursue degrees in art history, communication, music, studio art and theater and dance. The college offers master's degree programs in communication and music.

The college is distinguished by its collaboration with the community. Four endowed professorships through the Des Lee Vision Collaborative link UMSL to the St. Louis Symphony, Saint Louis Art Museum, Opera Theatre of Saint Louis, Laumeier Sculpture Park and other cultural institutions.

University students and faculty, as well as visiting artists, have access to the Blanche M. Touhill Performing Arts Center. Artwork exhibitions are housed in Gallery 210, Gallery FAB and Gallery Visio.

College of Nursing

The College of Nursing was established as a School of Nursing in 1981 and graduated its first class in May 1983. College status was achieved in 1994. Degrees in nursing studies are offered at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The pre-licensure bachelor's degree in nursing teaches the material and skills to complete the professional licensure examination required to become a registered nurse. The BSN offers three degree completion routes: traditional full-time, traditional part-time and accelerated.

UMSL's College of Nursing also offers the RN to BSN program for registered nurses who already have their associate degree or diploma in nursing but would like to earn their bachelor's degree. The RN to BSN program can be completed on campus, online or off campus.

The master's degree in nursing at UMSL helps propel nursing careers forward. The program offers two curricula, preparing students as nurse educators and nurse practitioners. MSN graduates go into advanced practice, often as primary care providers. The master's level of study also offers a post-MSN certificate program, which provides preparation for certification in additional advanced practice areas.

For serious students seeking the highest academic preparation in nursing, the college has two doctoral programs: a doctorate of nurse practicing and the doctorate of philosophy in nursing. The DNP program focuses on preparing nurses for either clinical or translational analysis for improved practice outcomes. The Ph.D. in nursing concentrates on original research and developing nursing knowledge.

UMSL's College of Nursing is fully accredited by The North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The BSN, MSN and DNP programs are accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, and the PNP program is approved by The Pediatric Nursing Certificate Board. The pre-licensure program is fully approved by the Missouri State Board of Nursing.

College of Optometry

After more than 10 years of study and planning, the College of Optometry came into existence on June 1, 1980. The first class of 36 students graduated in May 1984. This college offers the only opportunity to study optometry in Missouri.

Doctors of optometry are primary health-care professionals who examine, diagnose, treat and manage diseases and disorders of the visual system, the eye and associated structures, as well as diagnose related systemic conditions. They prescribe glasses, contact lenses, low vision rehabilitation and medications, as well as perform certain surgical procedures as regulated by state law.

Optometric education is a four-year professional degree program accredited by the Accreditation Council on Optometric Education through the authority granted by the U.S. Department of Education. Upon graduation and following successful completion of the three-part examination given by the National Board of Examiners in Optometry, graduates are eligible for licensure in all 50 states plus the District of Columbia.

Entering students must have completed at least 90 credit hours of undergraduate work, including core courses in the sciences (biology, chemistry and physics), mathematics (including calculus), English and the liberal arts. Applicants also must complete the Optometry Admission Test, which is designed to measure general academic ability and comprehension of scientific information. Ninety-eight percent of those admitted hold a bachelor's degree, most from a scientific discipline.

The curriculum leading to the doctor of optometry degree is a four-year, year-round program. The program prepares graduates to deliver compassionate patient care while instilling a sound background in the biomedical, optical, behavioral and clinical sciences, including an understanding of the health-care delivery system.

Graduate School

The Graduate School, which is responsibile for all graduate degree programs in the various schools and colleges of UMSL, promotes scholarship and creativity through graduate programs that inspire in students a passion for discovery.

In addition to participating in graduate level courses, many graduate students work with faculty mentors on advanced research projects. These graduate research projects address problems of local, regional, national and global significance, and they make a critical contribution to the university's mission as a public metropolitan research university.

Graduate students make up roughly a fifth of the UMSL student body. They pursue advanced degrees and certificates in 30 master's, 12 doctoral and two education specialist programs, as well as a variety of graduate certificate programs.

Pierre Laclede Honors College

The Pierre Laclede Honors College was established in 1989 and has grown to include its own campus, complete with instructional, residential and recreational facilities.

Students may pursue degrees in any undergraduate division of UMSL. In addition, students must undertake a personal writing program and pursue independent study through research, internships, public service projects and guided reading.

The college features a student-faculty ratio of 15:1, a scholar development program, a writing program and 11 honors classes. It offers academic excellence comparable to expensive private colleges, but at public institution rates.

The four-year program has a highly selective student body of about 600. The college's teachers are among the university's leading research and teaching faculty.

UMSL/Washington University Joint Undergraduate Engineering Program

The UMSL/Washington University Joint Undergraduate Engineering Program was established in 1993 and offers bachelor's degrees in civil, mechanical and electrical engineering. All three bachelor's degrees are accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology.

The Joint Program is designed for both full- and part-time students. The first half of coursework, common to all three degrees, is completed at UMSL as part of the pre-engineering program. The remaining half of the coursework, consisting of upper-division engineering courses and laboratories, is completed on the campus of Washington University in St. Louis. Upper-division courses are offered in the evenings and on Saturdays to accommodate part-time students, but also to encourage all students to take advantage of the parallel cooperative education program. The co-op program allows upper-division students to work part time during the day at local engineering firms and technology-based businesses with which the Joint Program has established connections.

Students register for all their courses at UMSL, pay UMSL tuition rates with a small surcharge fee and receive their degrees from UMSL and WUSTL. The Joint Program allows Missouri to make the most efficient use of public funds while meeting the needs of both traditional and nontraditional students.

School of Public Policy and Administration

The School of Public Policy and Administration provides graduate education, professional development and applied research. The master's degree in public policy administration is accredited by the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs and Administration. The program offers four emphasis areas in which students may concentrate their advanced studies: managing human resources and organizations, policy research and analysis, local government management and nonprofit organization management and leadership.

In addition, the School of Public Policy and Administration offers graduate certificates in nonprofit management and leadership, in local government management and in policy and program evaluation. Credit and noncredit courses and training offered by the Nonprofit Management & Leadership Program and Local Government Partnership provide professional development opportunities to enhance the skills of elected and appointed officials and public administrators in the civic, government and nonprofit sectors.

UMSL's long-standing commitment to applied policy research, community engagement and training programs is enhanced by coordinating the school's Center for Ethics in Public Life, Center for Excellence in Financial Counseling, Public Policy Research Center and Sue Shear Institute for Women in Public Life.

The school's Des Lee Endowed Professor of Community Collaboration and Public Policy Administration serves to integrate public policy research, disseminate research findings, and develop applications and implement plans with community partners in metropolitan St. Louis.

School of Social Work

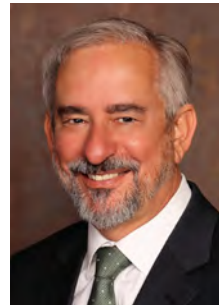
The School of Social Work offers a bachelor's degree in social work and a master's degree in three general areas: family practice, social work leadership and management and gerontology. The school works with various organizations and agencies throughout the region to provide students with hands-on, real-world experience.

Libraries

UMSL Libraries support the educational objectives of the university, meet the informational needs of the campus community and provide users near and far with broad access to research collections. The UMSL library system includes the Thomas Jefferson Library and the St. Louis Mercantile Library.

The latter is housed on the first two floors of the Thomas Jefferson Library building, a busy campus hub, beneath its signature glass pyramid. Founded in 1846, the Mercantile is the oldest cultural institution west of the Mississippi River. The library moved to the UMSL campus in 1998 with collections that concentrate on Western Expansion and the history and growth of the St. Louis region as well as the development of rail and river transportation in the United States.

Together, the two UMSL libraries house more than one million volumes, 300,000 photographs, one million government documents and one million microforms. They provide access to more than 50,000 full-text online periodicals. The libraries are open more than 80 hours per week during regular academic sessions, and students, faculty and other users make use of library resources 24 hours a day online.



Admissions

Information on admission and enrollment is available in person, by mail or online (umsl.edu). Prospective students and their parents are encouraged to visit the UMSL campus (1 University Blvd. St. Louis, MO 63121-4400).

Organized in 1898 by the Missouri Press Association and a trustee of the state since 1899, the State Historical Society collects, preserves, makes available and publishes materials that enhance research and support learning opportunities in Missouri studies and the history of the Midwest. For more than 100 years, the State Historical Society has been the center for research into every aspect of the society and government of Missouri and the lives of its residents.

Society Research Centers

The society comprises six research centers. The administrative offices, art galleries and one center are located on the ground floor of the University of Missouri–Columbia Ellis Library. The other research centers are located in Pacific Hall, Southeast Missouri State University; Newcomb Hall, University of Missouri–Kansas City; Curtis Laws Wilson Library, Missouri University of Science and Technology; Thomas Jefferson Library, University of Missouri–St. Louis; and Duane G. Meyer Library, Missouri State University.

Research Collections

Researchers, officials, scholars and students interested in Missouri history, biography and genealogy find in the society's research centers unsurpassed collections of books and pamphlets, official state records, newspapers, maps, photographs and manuscripts. Over the years, the society has acquired a number of rare or specialized book collections that have given it added recognition as a research center. These collections include the Mahan Memorial Mark Twain Collection, the Eugene Field Collection, the J. Christian Bay Collection of Middle Western Americana, the Francis A. Sampson Collection and the Paul D. Higday Civil War Collection.

The society's Missouri newspaper collection, which includes more than 3,500 titles and extends from 1808 to the present, is one of the largest state newspaper collections in the nation. Two hundred seventy current newspapers from every Missouri county arrive weekly and are microfilmed to ensure their preservation. The lives of famous and typical Missourians and the history of Missouri communities and local, state and national events can be traced and documented in the collection.

The map collection consists of more than 4,000 rare and old maps of the state as well as modern ones. In addition, the collection contains county atlases, gazetteers, statistical maps, official topographical maps and early state guidebooks. For genealogical research, the society's microfilm file of United States census reports is one of the largest in the Midwest. A pictorial collection contains more than six million photographs and images of individuals and subjects dating from the 19th century to the present. Views of buildings, cityscapes and rural areas throughout the state are also found in the collection.

The society's manuscript collection contains letters, diaries, journals, business and organizational records, oral histories, architectural drawings and official state papers. Research materials of this type furnish most of the intimate day-to-day accounts of Missouri history and lend vitality to historical writing.

Art Collection

The society's collection of Missouri regional and westward expansion art records celebrates Missouri's heritage through works by past and contemporary artists. The art collection includes masterworks by George Caleb Bingham and Thomas Hart Benton as well as paintings, drawings and prints by other Missouri and Missouri-related artists. An extensive editorial cartoon collection is national in scope. Exhibitions in the art galleries showcase the society's diverse holdings.

Missouri History Online

The society's website reflects a commitment to making research sources and the history of Missouri and its residents widely available to learners of all ages. More than one million pages of newspapers are accessible online through the Missouri Digital Newspaper Project. The Historic Missourians pages feature more than 100 biographies and images of men and women who are well-known for their contributions in such fields as literature, politics, sports, education and journalism. Other resources on the website include photographs, Civil War documents, editorial cartoons and artworks, as well as the Missouri Historical Review, catalogs and finding aids to society collections and other materials.

Publications

The Missouri Historical Review has served as the cornerstone of the society's publication program since 1906. A benefit of membership, the journal features scholarly articles on diverse topics in Missouri history, book reviews and notes. In addition to the journal, the society has published more than 50 volumes of edited documents, narrative and pictorial history, catalogs, directories and indexes. Missouri Times, a quarterly newsletter, informs members about society activities.

Public Programming

To bring the state's history to its residents, the society sponsors educational outreach programs, including genealogy workshops, tours for elementary and secondary school students and adults and presentations on Missouri history and art.

The society sponsors National History Day in Missouri, the statewide component of National History Day, a competition for students in grades 6 through 12. More than 2,500 students participate annually in regional contests held throughout the state.

Additionally, "Show Me Missouri: Conversations about Missouri's Past, Present and Future" is a speakers' bureau program jointly organized and managed by the Missouri Humanities Council and the society.

Lincoln Institute was founded in 1866 by the enlisted men of the 62nd and 65th U.S. Colored Infantry Regiments. The men, who learned to read and write on the battlefields of the Civil War in Texas, dreamed of a school to educate African Americans in their home state of Missouri. In 1890, Lincoln Institute became a land-grant institution. The school was renamed Lincoln University in 1921. In the fall of 1954, Lincoln University expanded its historical mission to serve a broader population from varied social, economic, educational and cultural backgrounds. Today, Lincoln University is a public, comprehensive institution that provides excellent educational opportunities including theoretical and applied learning experiences to a diverse population within a nurturing, student-centered environment.

In 2016, Lincoln University will celebrate 150 years of providing a quality education to those who seek it. The majority of the university's more than 3,000 students are residents of Missouri or one of nine nearby states. The international student population comes from 35 countries.

Lincoln University offers six undergraduate degrees in more than 50 programs of study. Lincoln University also offers non-credit and continuing education courses for those seeking professional or personal development.

The main Lincoln University campus is composed of nearly 158 acres, centrally located in Jefferson City. In addition, the university properties include two agricultural research facilities and extension offices in St. Louis, Kansas City and southeast Missouri. In addition, a satellite nursing program is housed at Fort Leonard Wood.

Harris-Stowe State University, (HSSU) traces its origin back to 1857 when its first predecessor institution was founded by the St. Louis Board of Education as a normal school for the preparation of white elementary school teachers. It thus became the first public teacher education institution west of the Mississippi River and the 12th such institution in the United States. Its second predecessor institution, Stowe Teachers College, was also a normal school founded by the same public schools in 1890 to prepare African-American elementary school teachers. Both normal schools later became four-year teachers colleges—Harris Teachers College and Stowe Teachers College. The former was named after William Torrey Harris, U.S. Commissioner of Education and former Superintendent of the St. Louis Public Schools. The latter was named after Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famed slavery abolitionist and author of Uncle Tom's Cabin. These two colleges merged in 1954, forming Harris-Teachers College and in 1977 became Harris-Stowe College. In 1979, the college became a Missouri public college, with the name Harris-Stowe State College. The university designation and current name occurred in 2005.

In 2014, Harris-Stowe ranked No. 1 in the state of Missouri and No. 47 in the nation in granting degrees in mathematics and statistics to African-Americans according to Missouri Department of Higher Education and Diverse: Issues In Higher Education, a newsmagazine that has ranked institutions conferring the most degrees to minority students for the past 30 years. In 2015, the governor signed a law broadening degree-granting authority to Harris-Stowe, which allows the university to offer graduate programs and achieve parity with Missouri's other 12 state universities. Harris-Stowe offers the most affordable bachelor's degree in the state of Missouri.

Over the past decade, Harris-Stowe has greatly expanded its degree programs and offers on-campus housing. Currently, the university offers 31 majors, minors and certificate programs in education, business and arts & sciences – including two fully online degree programs in criminal justice and healthcare management.

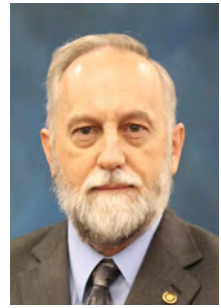
State Technical College of Missouri (STC), founded in 1961, is Missouri's only two-year public technical college with a statewide mission. Originating as Linn Technical Junior College, the college became a part of the public higher education system in Missouri in 1996 as a result of legislation by the 88th General Assembly.

The original educational institution was established with funding from the National Defense Education Act as a public postsecondary residential technical institution. The philosophy of the original institution was "to provide two-year vocational/technical programs to all students who wish to prepare themselves for employment."



The college has a longstanding reputation for producing graduates with the valued technical and interpersonal skills needed for career advancement. With a state mandate and college mission to "prepare students for profitable employment and a life of learning," the college has been responsive to workplace needs.

State Technical College of Missouri offers more than 35 technical programs at the Associate of Applied Science degree and certificate levels. In addition, customized and contract training is offered to Missouri businesses and industry. In each program, the curriculum includes an integration of theory with hands-on application and experience. Such integration ensures the development of functional troubleshooting skills with traditional and innovative techniques, approaches and equipment. Also emphasized are teamwork, interpersonal skills and work ethic. The general education core contributes to the high level of critical thinking, problem-solving and communication abilities of graduates. As part of their education, many students gain on-the-job experience through internships and clinicals.

State Technical College of Missouri monitors the economic, industrial and technological needs of the state as new programs are proposed for development. In response to industry demand over the last decade, State Technical College of Missouri has started or modified over 19 degree and certificate programs. Programs recently developed include: Welding Technology; High Performance and Electric/Hybrid Vehicle options in Automotive Technology; three new health occupations programs - Dental Assisting Technology, Medical Radiologic Technology, and Practical Nursing Technology; and expansion of the Physical Therapist Assistant program through the Missouri Health Professions Consortium, which includes five Missouri community colleges and the School of Health Professions in the University of Missouri Health System.

The faculty has a combination of higher education credentials and industry experience in their professional areas of expertise. In addition, they are continually updating their skills through industry training and workshops.

In keeping with preparing students for profitable employment, students are evaluated through a one-of-a-kind system that provides potential employers with a student's track record of success in academic achievement, job readiness work ethic and attendance (AJA@™STC).

State Technical College of Missouri is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission (HLC); for more information contact the HLC at hlccommision.org or (800) 621-7440. Seventeen programs are accredited by the Association of Technology, Management and Applied Engineering (ATMAE). In addition, 16 other program-level professional accreditations and certifications have been obtained by programs at the college. Many instructors hold individual certifications related to their respective teaching fields.

The main campus is located along Highway 50 on 360 acres one mile east of Linn and includes a public airport. The Physical Therapist Assistant program is offered from locations in Jefferson City, Trenton and Poplar Bluff. The Nuclear Technology program is offered in Mexico at the Advanced Technology Center, a cooperative higher education technology center. The Dental Assisting Technology, Medical Radiologic Technology and Practical Nursing Technology programs are located in Jefferson City at Nichols Career Center. The Automation and Robotics - Advanced Manufacturing Technician program is offered in Saint Charles at the Lewis and Clark Career Center.

Truman State University

Truman State University, founded in 1867, is a vibrant community of teacher and student scholars with the distinction of being Missouri's only statewide public liberal arts and sciences university and the only public university in the state with highly selective admission standards as defined by the Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE). Truman is a residential university focused on providing its 6,200 students with broad liberal arts experiences and depth of study in 48 undergraduate majors and eight graduate programs.

For 18 consecutive years, U.S. News and World Report has recognized Truman as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest Regional Category. They also gave Truman a No. 1 ranking for its "Strong Commitment to Teaching." Other accolades include Washington Monthly, which listed Truman as the No. 2 master's university nationwide in its "2014 College Rankings." Truman was the only Missouri school ranked in the entire Top 100 Master's Universities list. Truman was ranked as the No. 1 value in the nation among public colleges and universities in the May/June 2015 issue of Consumers Digest while Kiplinger's Personal Finance February 2015 magazine ranked Truman as No. 19 on their list of the 100 Best Public College Values in the nation. Both magazines feature schools that combine outstanding academics with affordable costs.

Truman has a long history of being recognized nationally by higher education experts for its assessment program and its commitment to providing a high-quality, liberal arts and sciences education at an affordable price. Truman's program of assessment allows the university to measure the results of the teaching-learning process and to gather critical information on student growth and development to ensure that graduates are prepared for future success. Truman's curriculum provides each student with a foundation of knowledge appropriate to a traditional liberal arts and sciences education. It also requires specialization in a major, providing each student with in-depth knowledge and mastery of a discipline. This exemplary undergraduate education provides graduates with the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful upon graduation. Truman has the highest public college graduation rate in Missouri as calculated by the CBHE. More than 50 percent of Truman's graduates enter graduate and professional schools within six months of their graduation, while the remainder directly enter the workforce or engage in full-time service, such as the Peace Corps.

Truman's students are among the brightest and the best in their high school graduating classes. Eighty-three percent of Truman's 2014 entering freshman class scored 24 or higher on the ACT examination, with 29 percent scoring above the 95th percentile. In addition, 80 percent ranked in the top quarter of their high school graduating class and more than 98 percent of the class demonstrated leadership through high school and community activities.

Truman emphasizes high-quality teaching as its top priority. Truman students' benefit from a low student-to-faculty ratio, which allows for greater student-teacher interaction and a more personalized educational experience. Truman strongly supports undergraduate research with approximately 1,100 students annually doing structured research with faculty both in and outside the classroom. The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools has accredited Truman since 1914. Truman is also accredited by AACSB International–The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, American Chemical Society, American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training, National Association of Schools of Music, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education and the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

Truman also has one of the top National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II athletic programs in the country. Truman has produced the highest number of academic All-Americans in Division II athletics in the history of the program. Truman fields 20 intercollegiate sports, which is the largest number in the state. Truman is a member of the Great Lakes Valley Conference. Information on all of Truman's intercollegiate athletics programs may be found online at www.trumanbulldogs.com.

Northwest Missouri State University

Maryville 64468-6001
www.nwmissouri.edu

Northwest Missouri State University is a coeducational, primarily residential four-year university offering a broad range of undergraduate and selected graduate programs. Founded as a state normal school in 1905, the university has evolved into a vibrant and diverse learning community with an enrollment of more than 6,700 students hailing from 46 states and 31 countries. More than 700 faculty and staff are employed by the university, which offers classes on its Maryville campus, at centers in Kansas City and St. Joseph, online and through instructional television.

Northwest offers more than 120 undergraduate majors with cutting-edge programs in areas such as education, business, agriculture, fine and performing arts, communications and mass media, behavioral sciences, health and human services, humanities and social sciences, English and modern languages, computer science and natural sciences. Northwest also offers 40 master's programs, certificate programs and a cooperative doctorate in educational leadership.

With its emphasis on student success — every student, every day — the university is focused on providing an exceptional student experience that places high value on scholarship and life-long learning, intercultural competence, collaboration, respect and integrity, strategic thinking and excellence.

Profession-based learning experiences are widely available to Northwest students in a variety of fields. The 448-acre R.T. Wright Farm is a living, hands-on laboratory for agriculture students; while the Horace Mann Laboratory School and the Phyllis and Richard Leet Center for Children and Families, which is located in the center of campus and serves children in preschool through sixth grade, provides hands-on practical classroom experience for students in education and related fields. Northwest's internationally benchmarked student employment program also offers some 1,200 opportunities for students to gain professional development and specialized training in administrative, communications, environmental and other areas throughout the university.

The emphasis on Northwest's values and hands-on experiences is reflected in the university's high success and graduation rates. Northwest boasts a freshman retention rate of 71 percent and a graduation rate of 59 percent, which are considerably higher than the national averages. Additionally, 98 percent of Northwest graduates report finding employment or continuing their education within six months of graduation. Furthermore, Northwest student-athletes have an academic success rate of 74 percent, compared to a rate of 73 percent nationally. Northwest has earned a reputation as a university of champions both on and off the field. In addition to boasting competitive athletics teams, including its four-time NCAA Division II national champion football team and its three-time UCA national champion cheerleading squad, Northwest students compete nationally and excel in fields such as agricultural sciences, forensics and debate and student media.

The first public university in the nation to implement an electronic campus, in 1987, Northwest provides fully-loaded notebook computers for all students. The university also offers an innovative textbook rental program that dates back to the early days of the institution and saves students nearly $1,200 each year.

Recognizing the importance of needs-based financial support for students, Northwest created the American Dream Grant in 2004, a first-of-its-kind program at a public university in the United States. Qualified students meet Northwest admissions criteria and come from the neediest families, based on their applications for federal aid. First-time freshmen are responsible for contributing a portion of their tuition, room and board, which may include private, federal, state and institutional scholarships and grants, and the American Dream Grant fills the remaining gap.

The Missouri Academy of Science, Mathematics and Computing was founded at Northwest in 2000. The rigorous program is an accelerated, two-year residential program for high school juniors and seniors academically talented in science, mathematics or technology. Students are challenged by college coursework tailored to individual abilities and taught by Northwest faculty. Students who complete the program earn both a high school diploma and associate of science degree.

Northwest also provides valuable resources to its community and region that support economic development. The state-of-the-art, 46,679-square-foot Dean L. Hubbard Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship (CIE), which opened on the campus in 2009, is a mixed-use business incubator and an academic facility that fuels high-tech enterprise and creates jobs while providing academic opportunities and career paths for students. Additionally, the facility houses the university's undergraduate nanoscale science program and serves as the home of Northwest's Small Business and Technology Development Center.

In addition to being a four-time winner of the Missouri Quality Award, Northwest is the only university in Missouri to receive the prestigious Christa McAuliffe Award for Excellence in Teacher Education from the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. Northwest's innovative Alternative Energy program burns wood chips, paper products and pelletized livestock waste to produce most of the thermal energy needed to heat and cool campus buildings, and the university's sustainability efforts earned it the Missouri State Recycling Program Annual Award in 2011, 2013 and 2014. The Northwest campus also is designated the Missouri Arboretum with more than 1,700 trees and 130 species.

Southeast Missouri State University provides a comprehensive education grounded in the liberal arts and sciences and in practical experience. The University, through teaching and scholarship, challenges students to extend their intellectual capacities, interests and creative abilities; develop their talents; and acquire a lifelong enthusiasm for learning. Students benefit from a relevant, extensive and thorough general education with a global perspective; professional and liberal arts and sciences curricula; co-curricular opportunities; and real-world experiences. By emphasizing student-centered and experiential learning, the University, in collaboration with other entities as appropriate, prepares individuals to participate responsibly in a diverse and technologically advanced world, and in this and other ways contributes to the development of the social, cultural and economic life of the region, state and nation.

With an enrollment of more than 12,000 students, Southeast is an ideal size to take advantage of critical learning and extracurricular opportunities. Class sizes are small with a student/faculty ratio of 21:1. Students come from all 50 states and from more than 50 countries around the world.

Southeast offers more than 200 areas of study and more than 1,500 courses in business, education, the health professions, liberal arts, science, technology and the visual and performing arts. A variety of affordable short-term, spring break and full-semester study abroad programs enhance the academic experience.

Southeast is a leader when it comes to preparing students for careers. Internships and experiential learning are strongly emphasized with all majors having an internship or clinical experience built into the curriculum.

Southeast offers academic programs on five campuses, as well as at other locations and online. Two of the campuses are in Cape Girardeau – the original site founded in 1873 and the River Campus, which opened in 2007. Regional campuses are located in Sikeston, Malden, and Kennett.

Donald L. Harrison College of Business

The Donald L. Harrison College of Business is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International — the gold standard of business school accreditation — an honor held by only five percent of institutions offering business degrees worldwide. Graduates of the college enjoy a job placement rate exceeding 90 percent within the first year after graduation. Princeton Review has included Southeast's Harrison College of Business on its list of "Best Business Schools" for the past nine years.

The Harrison College of Business entrepreneurial studies program is Missouri's most comprehensive, offering options for both B.S., B.A. and M.B.A. degrees. Recognizing that students in any discipline can benefit from knowledge of entrepreneurial processes, Southeast offers seven interdisciplinary minors in entrepreneurship. Combined with a series of annual co-curricular events and services offered by the Douglas C. Greene Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship, students have the tools to become successful entrepreneurs.

More than 50 Southeast senior business students annually participate in the St. Louis Interview Days recruiting event that attracts more than 35 employers from the greater St. Louis region.

Southeast also offers a mechanism to drive the entrepreneurial mindset of today's students with Catapult Creative House, a groundbreaking creative arts and industries incubator. Catapult is a commercial learning laboratory where creativity, innovation and entrepreneurship converge, bringing novel products and services with a sustainable twist and local connection to market in a modern commercial marketplace.

College of Education

Southeast's education program holds national accreditation in addition to state of Missouri accreditation. Southeast teacher education students get first-hand experience in the classroom beginning their freshman year and concluding with a semester-long student teaching experience. Areas of study in the college include secondary education, elementary education and middle school education. Programs include a wide variety of undergraduate and graduate programs along with a cooperative doctorate with the University of Missouri.

The college offers highly integrated field or clinical experiences across programs to provide real world application of effective practice. The university also provides students a technology rich learning environment with our EDvolution iPad integration for all undergraduate students. The Instructional Resource Technology Center creates flexible space to create lessons, share tools for teaching and practice the art of teaching. Our education is at the forefront of innovation, resulting in graduates who are in demand.

College of Health and Human Services

With health care at the center of national concern, programs in this area are in demand. Health management, communication disorders, nursing and social work are examples of the variety of options available. Even recreation and athletic training focus on healthy living.

Nursing students pass their licensure exams at consistently high rates. Nursing also offers an RN-to-BSN program online and a popular master's degree.

Criminal justice majors also enjoy high rates of employment. The Law Enforcement Academy is dedicated to meeting the training needs of all law enforcement officers and agencies in the region. Our graduates have gone on to work for agencies at all levels of law enforcement, including the FBI, DEA, ATF and the U.S. Marshal's Service.

College of Science, Technology and Agriculture

The College of Science, Technology and Agriculture's engineering physics program is nationally accredited by the Accrediting Board of Engineering and Technology (ABET). Southeast is a designated Center of Excellence in Advanced Manufacturing Technology and all of the bachelor's degree programs in the Department of Polytechnic Studies are nationally accredited. Cybersecurity graduates are in demand to combat computer and Internet crime. Southeast was the first university in Missouri to offer a bachelor's degree in this demanding field.

Pre-med remains a popular major and graduates are accepted to medical schools at a rate higher than the national average. Students in many of the science disciplines enjoy a nearly 100 percent placement rate.

The Department of Mathematics offers a program in actuarial science.

Students learn about the latest in beef production technology and row crop research at the 252-acre David M. Barton Agriculture Research Center. In addition, there is a 110-acre rice research station, an irrigated turf plot facility, a modern soil fertility laboratory and 11,000-square-foot climate-controlled Charles Hutson Horticulture Greenhouse.

College of Liberal Arts

The College of Liberal Arts features the Earl and Margie Holland School of Visual and Performing Arts, which houses the departments of Art, Music and Theatre and Dance at the River Campus.

Blending classic beauty and modern technology, the River Campus is composed of the beautifully restored 19th century St. Vincent's Seminary building and newly constructed facilities including a 950-seat performance hall, black box theatre, dance studio, regional museum and convocation center. The restored seminary buildings are on the National Register of Historic Places. An intimate recital hall seating 200 has been created in the seminary chapel, and the historic buildings also house classrooms, faculty offices, rehearsal rooms, art studios, computer laboratories and other academic and student service rooms. Southeast is the only university in Missouri to have a separate campus dedicated to art, dance, music and theatre.

The newest addition to the River Campus is the Kenneth and Jeanine Dobbins River Campus Center, a 90,000-square-foot building combining academic and living spaces on the same property and creating an environment in which talented students live and learn together. The new facility is just north of the original Convocation Center and Seminary Building, forming the completion of a River Campus quad. The first floor includes a directing/acting black box studio; a dance studio; a spacious choral rehearsal room; sectional practice rooms; and St. Vincent's Commons, a 120-seat dining facility overlooking the majestic Mississippi River complemented with an outdoor seating area. An art education classroom is located on the mezzanine, and the second floor houses faculty offices.

The building also provides a 180-bed living area housing many music, art, theatre and dance majors who are now living close to the academic facilities they frequent. The majority of the second and all of the third floor are four-person student suites, along with practice rooms, laundry facilities and spacious lounges. A fitness center also is located on the third floor.

In addition to the School of Visual and Performing Arts, the College of Liberal Arts consists of academic departments that are key contributors to the university mission of "providing professional education grounded in the liberal arts and sciences." These seven departments are: Communication Studies; English; Global Cultures and Languages; History; Mass Media; Political Science, Philosophy and Religion; and Psychology. In addition to promoting the University-wide goal of enhancing critical thinking skills in our students, faculty in the College of Liberal Arts provide students with an understanding of various cultures, languages, and worldviews, all of which are designed to prepare graduates for effective functioning in a world increasingly characterized by diversity and globalization. This is accomplished not only through formal classroom instruction, but also by providing students with opportunities for study abroad and experiential learning in their major field of study. Southeast mass media students receive the full complement of multi-media experiences – print production through The Arrow and the Southeast Missourian, television production through KFVS12 and radio production through KRCU Radio, Southeast's National Public Radio station. The University recently forged a partnership with Rust Communications and KFVS12 to develop an innovation laboratory in downtown Cape Girardeau. It will house the University's television and video production program and The Arrow student newspaper in the new Center for Excellence in Mass Media.

The College of Liberal Arts public relations program is one of only 20 institutions that hold certification by the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA). The Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications (ACEJMC) accredits the mass communication program. Only one other institution in Missouri has this elite accreditation. Only nine other institutions in the world have recognition from both ACEJMC and PRSA for their mass communication program.

The college provides other services for the university and the community. The Center for Regional History documents and preserves various aspects of the area's architecture, history and archaeology and supports the activities of faculty and students in history, archaeology, and related fields. The Center for Faulkner Studies is an internationally renowned repository for materials collected by Faulkner scholars and biographers and regularly hosts visiting international scholars. KRCU at Southeast Missouri State University is the University-operated National Public Radio (NPR) affiliate, which broadcasts news, classical music, jazz, folk music and nationally syndicated programs to the Cape Girardeau community and surrounding areas. The Southeast Missouri State University Press benefits the university, community and region by providing regional scholarly publications, operating as a working laboratory for students, and sponsoring events including nationally known writers' visits to the campus.

School of Graduate Studies

Through its graduate faculty, curricula and research programs, the University offers to its more than 1,500 graduate students 35 master's degree programs; specialist degrees in Educational Administration, Educational Leadership and Counseling Education; a certificate program in Applied Behavior Analysis; and a cooperative doctoral degree in Educational Leadership. The School of Graduate Studies is strongly committed to fostering a successful learning environment by maintaining small classes and individualized research experiences for its students.

Jane Stephens Honors Program

By offering educational opportunities tailored to the special needs, aspirations and motivation of students whose intellectual and creative abilities are outstanding, the Jane Stephens Honors Program underscores Southeast Missouri State University's commitment to quality and excellence in matters of knowledge, creativity and leadership. The goals of the Jane Stephens Honors Program reflect this basic commitment. These goals are:

- To address the special needs of outstanding students by providing a center of identity for formulating personal goals, developing self-esteem and increasing the desire for self-directed learning;
- To contribute to the general advancement of learning by encouraging the active pursuit of academic goals, as exemplified by research, scholarly activity and creative endeavor; and
- To encourage an intellectual perspective by providing a model of academic endeavor which emphasizes analytical thought, insight into the methodologies of different disciplines and cross-disciplinary synthesis.

Kent Library

Kent Library is well positioned to support the needs of the 21st century learner. Kent Library's Information Commons combines state of the art technology with traditional library resources and services in one centralized, comfortable academic environment. Student needs in the areas of electronic research, media production, information access and collaborative and individual study space are met with the assistance of librarians.

Traditional library resources and services are folded into the new technologies to form a solid platform for assisting students' individual needs. The library's general stack collection, approximately 500,000 volumes, is supplemented through the statewide MOBIUS consortium and interlibrary loan services. In addition the library also provides more than 30,000 journals, 120,000 books and 12,000 videos online. Kent Library is also an Official Government Depository. The library's Special Collections and Archives preserves and makes accessible research material that document the historical, literary and cultural experience of Southeast Missouri State University and provides access to a world-class literary collection on William Faulkner.

Blending current technologies with traditional library services and resources, further combined with personalized assistance from trained staff and faculty, form the basis for this 21st century academic library.

Athletics

Southeast participates in NCAA Division I athletics as a member of the Ohio Valley Conference. Men's sports include baseball, basketball, cross country, football and indoor and outdoor track. Women's sports include basketball, cross country, gymnastics, soccer, softball, tennis, volleyball and indoor and outdoor track.

Redhawk student-athletes maintained a 3.15 cumulative GPA as a group in 2014-15, while also winning eight conference championships between the start of 2014 and May 2015. Athletics facilities have undergone more than $10 million of renovations since the start of 2014.

Missouri State University is a public, comprehensive metropolitan system with a statewide mission in public affairs, whose purpose is to develop educated persons. The university's identity is distinguished by its public affairs mission, which entails a campus-wide commitment to foster expertise and responsibility in ethical leadership, cultural competence and community engagement.

The academic experience is grounded in a general education curriculum that draws heavily from the liberal arts and sciences. This foundation provides the basis for mastery of disciplinary and professional studies. It also provides essential forums in which students develop the capacity to make well-informed, independent critical judgments about the cultures, values and institutions in society.

The task of developing educated persons obligates the university to expand the store of human understanding through research, scholarship and creative endeavor, and, drawing from that store of understanding, to provide service to the communities that support it. In all of its programs, the university uses the most effective methods of discovering and imparting knowledge and the appropriate use of technology in support of these activities.

The Missouri State University campuses are structured to address the special needs of the urban and rural populations they serve. Missouri State University–Springfield is a selective admissions, graduate-level teaching and research institution. Missouri State University–West Plains is a separately accredited open-admissions campus primarily serving seven counties in south central Missouri. Missouri State University–Mountain Grove serves Missouri's fruit industry through operation of the State Fruit Experiment Station. Missouri State Outreach provides anytime, anyplace learning opportunities through telecourses, Internet-based instruction, iTunes U and through its interactive video network.

The university also operates various other special facilities, such as the Darr Agricultural Center in southwest Springfield, the Journagan Ranch in Douglas County, the Jordan Valley Innovation Center in downtown Springfield, the Bull Shoals Field Station near Forsyth, Baker's Acres and Observatory near Marshfield, the Missouri State University Graduate Center in Joplin and a branch campus at Liaoning Normal University (LNU) in Dalian, China. In addition, Missouri State has the operations and program offerings of one entire academic department, its Department of Defense and Strategic Studies, located near Washington, D.C., in Fairfax, Va.

Public Affairs: Approved in 1995, Missouri State University's statewide mission in public affairs is maturing. With an emphasis on three specific components in the undergraduate curriculum that reflects the public affairs mission—ethical leadership, cultural competence and community engagement—the university will provide enhanced educational experiences to 21st century students.

Missouri State is the host campus for the Missouri Campus Compact, a statewide coalition of university and college presidents dedicated "to helping students develop the values and skills of civic participation through involvement in public service." Missouri State also hosts a Public Affairs Conference, which brings a variety of noteworthy speakers from around the country to the Springfield campus. During the conference, panels and keynote speakers present discussions that offer perspectives from business, entertainment, education, politics, religion, health and other subject areas.

History: Missouri State University was founded as the Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District, by legislative action on March 17, 1905. Missouri State first opened its doors in June 1906. After 108 years and four name changes, Missouri State is a comprehensive state university system offering a wide variety of programs and services to its students and the citizens of the state.

During the 1995 session of the Missouri General Assembly, Missouri State received a statewide mission in public affairs, making it the only Missouri university emphasizing the development of aware, committed and active participants in tomorrow's society.

In a campus ceremony on March 17, 2005, the 100th anniversary of Founders' Day, Gov. Matt Blunt signed Senate Bill 98, which included changing Southwest Missouri State University's name to Missouri State University, the fifth and final name for the university. The institution was founded as the Normal School in 1905, then changed to Southwest Missouri State Teachers College in 1919, Southwest Missouri State College in 1946 and Southwest Missouri State University in 1972. Each new name has reflected the changed nature of the institution.

Facilities: Missouri State University's main campus is located on 225 acres in the heart of Springfield. The 90-acre William H. Darr Agricultural Center exists in the southwest area of the city. Missouri State's main campus has 19 classroom buildings, an administrative building, a library, 12 residence halls, a multipurpose recreational facility, a sports complex, a health center, a welcome center and a campus-wide transit facility. The Juanita K. Hammons Hall for the Performing Arts hosts a variety of musical, dance and theatrical presentations.

The late Springfield-based hotelier and philanthropist John Q. Hammons gifted $30 million to Missouri State toward the construction of the JQH Arena—a world-class sports facility that features more than 11,000 seats, a grand entrance, 24 private suites, more than 100 loge seats, 55 "Jack Nicholson courtside seats," a Hall of Fame, team souvenir store, ticket office and a 4,500-square-foot club. The new arena is home to the Bears and Lady Bears basketball teams.

Enrollment: In the fall of 2014, Missouri State University's official head-count enrollment total was 24,489, with 22,385 students on the Springfield campus and 2,193 on the West Plains campus. Some 90 students are enrolled on both campuses; these students were only counted once in the system total.

Academic programs: Missouri State offers more than 190 undergraduate and 50 graduate degree options, including four doctoral programs. Missouri State also offers a cooperative doctorate (Ed.D.) through the University of Missouri–Columbia, as well as a cooperative Doctor of Pharmacy program with the University of Missouri–Kansas City. Many of these programs are the state's strongest and largest of their kind. The university is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, as well as by 23 professional associations, including the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE), National Association of Schools of Music, National Association of Schools for Public Affairs and Administration, the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the American Chemical Society, the Council on Social Work Education and the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The university's academic programs are organized within seven colleges: Arts and Letters, Business Administration, Education, Health and Human Services, Humanities and Public Affairs, Natural and Applied Sciences and the Graduate College.

International programs: Missouri State has established a branch campus at Liaoning Normal University (LNU) in Dalian, China. The LNU-MSU College of International Business has over 775 students, including over 100 international students from numerous countries including Africa, Korea, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Mongolia, the U.S. and more. LNU and Missouri State University also have agreed to collaborate on the basis of their plant science programs and established an Articulation Agreement for Dual Master's Degrees in Plant Science. The articulation terms will accommodate LNU students in obtaining master's degrees in Plant Science from both Missouri State University and LNU.

The university has a wide variety of international education programs available to students, including programs in England, Costa Rica, Chile, Brazil, India and China. Missouri State also is a member of the International Student Exchange Consortium, which provides for reciprocal exchanges to programs in more than 30 countries. In addition, Missouri State's Continuing Education and the Extended Campus offers a wide variety of programs, both credit and non-credit, for adult students who are returning to college. Numerous courses tailored to meet the needs of area employers are offered as well. Missouri State has the largest cooperative program in the state, with more than 1,200 students participating in internships in the public and private sectors.

Academic excellence: The average ACT score for Missouri State's incoming freshmen in the fall of 2014 was 24.1, significantly higher than the average for Missouri high school graduates. Further evidence of academic excellence at Missouri State has been the recognition that student teams have received in regional and national student competitions in a number of areas, including debate, advertising, construction, industrial management and media, journalism and film. The Honors College at Missouri State offers extraordinary opportunities for outstanding students.

Faculty and staff: Missouri State University employs 3,886 full-time and part-time faculty and staff, making it the fifth largest employer in Springfield. The student to faculty ratio is approximately 19:1.

Research: Missouri State University accounts for millions of dollars of grant-funded research each year. Faculty and student research conducted throughout the university system ranges in scope from the studies of grape genomics and meteor impacts to early childhood development and juvenile crime, and has the potential to positively affect local communities, Missouri, the nation and ultimately the world. In all, Missouri State University received more than $21.9 million from a total of 289 grants and contracts awarded to faculty and staff during 2013–2014. The principal focus of the university is applied research geared to serving the needs of diverse constituencies in the public and private sectors. Faculty members are encouraged to pursue their individual and scholarly activities.

The Roy Blunt Jordan Valley Innovation Center (JVIC) is made up of five separate buildings, covering around 75,000 square feet. What was once a dilapidated MFA mill in downtown Springfield is now the home of leading-edge research and state-of-the-art technology. The capabilities of the center include applied research in nanotechnology, bio-materials, advanced technologies, genomics/proteomics, bio-systems, software engineering and medical material device and instrument technologies. JVIC breaks from a traditional approach to provide a more interdisciplinary experience aimed at serving the technical, commercial and educational needs of industry. JVIC emphasizes the application of theory to practice, including hands-on instruction with advanced technology industrial instruments.

Libraries: The Missouri State University library system is composed of the Duane G. Meyer Library, the Music Library, the Horace and "Pete" Haseltine Library in the Greenwood Laboratory School and the Paul G. Evans Library of Fruit Science on the Mountain Grove campus. These four libraries have collections of more than three million items, including more than 866,000 accessioned volumes; current subscriptions to more than 3,300 periodicals, newspapers and other serials; and extensive back files of journals and newspapers, many on microfilm, microcard and microfiche. More than 20,000 journals are available online with full-text. Total microform holdings amount to more than one million items. More than 930,000 state, federal and United Nations (UN) documents are held as a result of Meyer Library being a designated depository library for each of those areas. Meyer Library is the only UN depository library in the state of Missouri. A large collection of audio CDs is fully cataloged and available in the Music Library. Special collections and archives house a number of special groups of materials: the William J. Jones collections of Rimbaud and Butor French Literature are internationally recognized and the Rimbaud portion comprises the largest collection of this type in the United States; the Ozarks Labor Union Archives document regional labor history; and the University Archives is a growing collection and will be further developed as a $130,000 grant for organizing and processing these materials is utilized. Another department in Meyer Library, the Curriculum Resource Center, features a children's literature collection, a textbook collection, curriculum guides and special learning materials.

Innovation and the use of new technologies are evident in the Missouri State University libraries. Most of the bibliographic data for SWAN, the libraries' online catalog, is created as materials are cataloged using the Online Computer Library Center, Inc. (OCLC), a database with more than 73 million bibliographic records. OCLC is also utilized for interlibrary loan and reference, with links to over 41,555 libraries in 112 countries. Electronic document delivery is commonly used to acquire interlibrary loan materials in a timely fashion. The statewide MOBIUS consortium, with a membership of 60 academic libraries, is simplifying access to regional holdings. The MOBIUS database of more than 19 million items utilizing the same interface can be used by faculty, students and staff to borrow items with a two-day delivery time from anywhere in the state.

A central feature of the library and of the campus is the Jane A. Meyer Carillon with its complement of 48 bronze bells.

Campus Technology: Missouri State University offers faculty, staff and students free use of its computing services and facilities for class assignments and research. The campus networks provide high-speed, reliable services to client computers and file server systems in academic, administrative and housing facilities at all Missouri State locations, including Springfield, West Plains, Mountain Grove, Lebanon and Branson. Network access in the residence halls allows students to utilize the online resources of Meyer

Library, various campus computing services and the Internet from their rooms. High-speed Internet, wireless and virtual private network services are all supported, while dial-up access to campus computing resources is provided for those needing free local access. Three centrally managed computer labs located in Glass Hall, Cheek Hall and Strong Hall, plus dozens of discipline-specific computer classrooms and labs, offer substantial access and support for campus computing resources.

Missouri State University–Mountain Grove Campus

The Mountain Grove campus is primarily known for research in agriculture and fruit science and sits on 192 acres in south-central Missouri. The 12-acre campus is located just north and east of the intersection of Highway 60 and State Highway 95 and is home to the State Fruit Experiment Station, the Center for Grapevine Biotechnology and Mountain Grove Cellars. The 180-acre field and research area is located on the west side of State Highway 95. Journagan Ranch is located just 10 miles from campus. The station, center, cellars and ranch are units of the William H. Darr School of Agriculture. The Missouri State Mountain Grove Extended Campus is located at Shannon Hall just south of the Hwy. 60/St. Hwy. 95 intersection and is administered though Missouri State–West Plains.

Facilities: The State Fruit Experiment Station is located on the 192-acre campus just north of Mountain Grove, 65 miles east of Springfield. On the 12 acres east of State Highway 95 are Shepard Hall, housing laboratories, offices and a sales area for fruit and wine; Faurot Hall, home to the Paul Evans Library of Fruit Science, classrooms, a plant science laboratory and offices; a fruit processing laboratory housing the Mountain Grove Cellars; a community building; and three greenhouses. The 180-acre area west of State Highway 95 includes a United States Weather Bureau substation, equipment storage buildings, a shop, several miscellaneous buildings, fruit and horticultural crop research and demonstration plants and hay fields and horse pastures.

The State Fruit Experiment Station is the oldest identifiable segment of Missouri State University. The State Fruit Experiment Station was established by a legislative act in 1899. The station was operated as a state agency under a board of trustees appointed by the governor until 1974 when the Omnibus State Reorganization Act transferred administrative responsibility for the State Fruit Experiment Station to the Board of Governors of Missouri State.

Research is conducted in pomology, enology, viticulture, plant pathology, entomology, molecular genetics and plant physiology. Fruit crops under investigation include apples, grapes, blueberries, peaches, strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, elderberries and other fruit species. Research results are disseminated to the scientific community via presentations at professional conferences and peer-reviewed publications and to fruit growers, processors and the public through outreach programs via a variety of events and media.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) quarantine facility for the introduction and virus testing of grapes from outside the United States is located at the station. The station's research and advisory programs have been instrumental in the revival of the Missouri grape and wine industry after Prohibition. Today, special emphasis is given to research on the American and hybrid grape varieties and their wines.

The Center for Grapevine Biotechnology explores the genetic resources of diverse grapevine species to secure the ecological and economic sustainability of the grape and wine industry and to improve human health. This work includes developing new, improved grape varieties by genome-enabled breeding, conducting molecular analysis of grapevine genes and viruses for the management of major diseases, providing clean and virus-tested grapevines to the industry, exploring and identifying health-promoting compounds in native grapevine species and creating a challenging academic environment to train students in plant biotechnology.

Mountain Grove Cellars is licensed for wine sales and includes a commercially licensed distillery. This facility supports research conducted on specific winemaking problems and offers educational opportunities for Missouri State agriculture students who are interested in enology. Public educational events for artisan distillers, home winemakers and consumers are offered annually. Mountain Grove Cellars produces wine and fruit brandy exclusively from fruit grown in the State Fruit Experiment Station research and demonstration vineyards and orchards.

Journagan Ranch is a working ranch complete with buildings, equipment and cattle. The ranch, given by Leo Journagan and his family, is located about 10 miles from the Mountain Grove campus proper and is the second-largest single gift in the university's history. The 3,300-plus acres stretch over approximately seven miles with barns, buildings, vehicles and machinery. Journagan Ranch has some crossbred cattle, but the main focus of the operation is purebred Polled Herefords, a variation of Hereford cattle without horns. Journagan Ranch has the 15th largest herd of Polled Herefords in the United States. Herefords are known for being docile and for their ability to thrive in any environment.

The ranch offers a potential site for research and teaching in beef genetics and management, agroforestry, soils, water quality and wildlife conservation. The ranch also offers opportunities for hiking and horseback riding. Students working at Journagan Ranch may be housed on the Mountain Grove campus while enrolled in Springfield classes through distance-education technology.

Extended Campus at Mountain Grove offers classes to area students earning an associate degree at Shannon Hall through Missouri State–West Plains. Shannon Hall includes several classrooms, a computer classroom, distance learning classroom and science lab.

Missouri State University–West Plains

West Plains 65775

Missouri State University–West Plains is one of three campuses within the Missouri State University System. The West Plains campus is a teaching and learning institution of higher education offering two-year Associate of Arts, Associate of Science and Associate of Applied Science degrees, certificates and other courses as needed by employers and citizens of the area served. The college provides a liberal arts transfer curriculum at the freshman and sophomore levels, selected occupational programs and a variety of continuing education courses.

A full college experience with quality instruction in a relaxed, personal atmosphere is the hallmark of Missouri State–West Plains. The campus promotes academic and personal success for students through small classes, personalized attention, educational support services and numerous opportunities to participate in extracurricular activities.

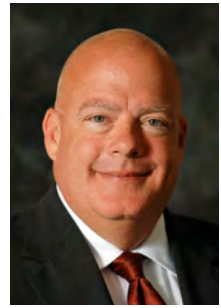
History and setting: Missouri State–West Plains was founded in 1963 as the West Plains Residence Center. In 1977, the Southwest Missouri State University Board of Regents and the General Assembly designated the name West Plains Campus of Southwest Missouri State University to replace Residence Center. The legislature enacted a permanent status bill for the campus in 1981 then passed House Bill 51 in 1991, giving the campus the authority to offer "one-year certificates, two-year associate degrees and credit and non-credit courses." The passage of Senate Bill 98 in 2005 changed the university system's name to Missouri State University.

Facilities: The campus consists of five classroom and administrative buildings—Kellett Hall, M.O. Looney Hall, Emory L. Melton Hall, Michael J. Lybyer Technology Center and Garfield Hall. In addition, the campus includes the Garnett Library, the 60-person Grizzly House residence hall, the Putnam Student Center, the V.H. Drago College Store and Cass Hall, a one-stop shop for student services. Maintenance and custodial operations are located in the Broadway Building, and the Richards House serves as the residence for the Missouri State–West Plains chancellor. Gohn Hall houses Missouri State University's Outreach program.

Enrollment: The fall 2014 enrollment was 2,193 students, with the majority of students coming from a seven-county area of the south-central Missouri Ozarks region and from adjacent areas in north Arkansas.

Academic Programs: The campus offers associate degrees designed for transfer into bachelor's degree programs and for immediate employment after two years of study. They include Associate of Arts degrees in general studies and teaching; Associate of Science degrees in agriculture, business and nursing; and Associate of Applied Science degrees in allied health, business, child and family development, computer graphics and programming, enology, entrepreneurship, general agriculture, law enforcement, respiratory therapy, technology and viticulture. Some bachelor's and master's degree programs also are available at the West Plains campus through Missouri State University's Outreach program.

Missouri State–West Plains also offers the Associate of Arts degree in general studies at its extended campus in Mountain Grove.



The college is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association. The nursing program is fully approved by the Missouri State Board of Nursing and is accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing. The respiratory therapy program holds provisional accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care.

DR. ALAN D. MARBLE
President, Missouri Southern State University

Founded in 1937 as Joplin Junior College, Missouri Southern State University (MSSU) was established by the General Assembly in 1965 as a two-year, upper-division state college to be operated in conjunction with the Junior College District of Jasper County. Missouri Southern operated under this arrangement through June 30, 1977, when the state assumed the responsibility of funding and operating the four-year program. Missouri Southern State College (MSSC) became Missouri Southern State University after Gov. Bob Holden signed Senate Bill 55 on July 12, 2003. The legislation also allowed MSSU to enter into cooperative agreements with other state universities to provide graduate programs.

MSSU is committed to the success of its students through a First-Year Experience program, an emphasis on strong academic advising and a campus committed to service-learning, engaging student organizations and intramural activities. MSSU also offers highly competitive NCAA Division II athletic programs in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association (MIAA). In June 1990, MSSU's board approved a change in the university mission to include an international emphasis in undergraduate education. This change is intended to help students compete in the global environment.

The following degrees are offered: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, Bachelor of Science in Education, Bachelor of General Studies and Associate of Science. The university offers bachelor's degrees in nearly 150 major areas in liberal arts, teacher education, business and technology. In addition to the four-year programs, the curriculum offers pre-medicine, pre-engineering and other pre-professional programs, as well as two-year associate degrees in dental hygiene, computer information science, law enforcement, radiological technology, drafting and design engineering technology, manufacturing engineering technology and respiratory therapy.

The university is also working to expand its graduate programs. Offerings currently include Master of Science in Education-Curriculum & Instruction, Master of Accountancy and Master of Arts-Teaching degrees.

The university is organized into four schools: Arts and Sciences, Education, Health Sciences and the Robert W. Plaster School of Business and Health Sciences. The university mission statement stresses a liberal arts-based core curriculum designed to provide every graduate with knowledge in the basic areas of learning. Under a revised and moderately selective admission policy, the university encourages high-school students to be better prepared for college study by following the core curriculum requirements outlined by the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The administration of the university is vested in an eight-member Board of Governors appointed by the governor with Senate consent. The 373-acre university campus is located in Joplin, a southwest Missouri city with a population of nearly 50,000 and a regional retail hub serving about 400,000. The MSSU campus presently consists of 30 major buildings, including the 65,000-square-foot Beimdiek Recreation Center and an 85,000-square-foot health sciences building, as well as a performing arts center, an artificial turf football field, a 3,200-seat athletic center with a 200-meter indoor track and a modern library with access to the latest online and electronic databases. In 2015, the university completed work on a six-building residence hall complex featuring 51 student apartments; an 11,000-square-foot FEMA shelter; a new baseball stadium; and a fieldhouse at the north end of the football stadium.

The university is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association, the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Association of American Colleges & Universities, Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology, Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs, Commission on Dental Accreditation, American Dental Association, Committee on Accreditation for Respiratory Care, Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology, Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services Bureau, Missouri State Board of Nursing, National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Science, National League of Nursing Accrediting Commission, National Environmental Health Science and Protection Accreditation Council and Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST).

Missouri Western State University offers students at all stages of life the opportunity to achieve excellence in the classroom and beyond as they prepare to be leaders in their communities. Providing a blend of traditional liberal arts and career-oriented degree programs, Missouri Western is strongly committed to the educational, economic, cultural and social development of the people it serves, setting the standard for excellence in student development and community leadership.

Founded as St. Joseph Junior College in 1915, Missouri Western transformed into a four-year institution in 1969, became a full member of the State of Missouri system in 1977, and earned university designation in 2005. The university designation legislation also made Missouri Western a statewide institution of applied learning. The university encourages students to engage in learning that occurs outside the classroom, applying the theory of the classroom to practical situations. Nearly 90 percent of Missouri Western graduates participate in an internship, undergraduate research, service-learning, study away or other applied learning experience. The legislation also authorized Missouri Western to offer graduate degrees, and the university has developed several master's degree programs emphasizing applied research and practical experiences. Two of the master's programs have been recognized as professional science master's degrees for allowing students to pursue advanced science training

Missouri Western offers more than 100 undergraduate majors, 14 master's degrees and five graduate certificates. The student to faculty ratio is approximately 17:1, and 87 percent of full-time faculty hold the highest degree in their field. The institution is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, a commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Program accreditations include the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International, Technology Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, American Bar Association, American Chemical Society, Commission on Accreditation for Health Informatics and Information Management Education, Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, Council on Social Work Education, National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Science, National Association of Schools of Music and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Missouri Western's 723-acre campus features a large nature study area, walking trails and nine ponds. In 2010, Missouri Western became the summer training camp home of the Kansas City Chiefs. In 2013, Missouri Western dedicated the 5,000-square-foot Walter Cronkite Memorial in honor of the legendary journalist who was born in St. Joseph. The university also operates a site in Kansas City's Northland.

Founded in 1871, the University of Central Missouri (UCM) has a long history of meeting the higher education needs of Missourians. A new chapter in the institution's development took place Sept. 20, 2006, with a name change to reflect a new vision.

The Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education approved the university's statewide mission in professional applied sciences and technology Oct. 10, 1996. This enhanced mission reflects an overall commitment to academic excellence and career preparation that includes the integration of the latest technologies throughout UCM's comprehensive liberal arts curriculum. This is having far-reaching impact on more than 13,000 students from nearly all 50 states and over 50 foreign countries who attend UCM and engage in 150 areas of study tailored to meet individual needs.

Beyond Missouri, UCM offers onsite and online learning opportunities to students in other parts of the United States and the world. UCM's international programs include exchange opportunities, internships and student teaching programs that are all among the most challenging and affordable anywhere. Degrees conferred by the university include the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Music Education, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in business administration, Bachelor of Science in education and Bachelor of Science in social work. At the graduate level, UCM offers excellent programs leading to Master of Arts, Master of Science, Master of Science in Education, Master of Business Administration and Education Specialist degrees. In addition, a cooperative doctoral program in educational leadership exists in conjunction with the University of Missouri (MU), and a cooperative doctoral program in technology management is available in conjunction with Indiana State University (ISU). MU and ISU serve as the degree-granting institutions.

Administratively, the university's academic affairs division is divided into four core academic colleges, the Honors College and the School of Graduate and Extended Studies. The academic colleges are:

• The Adrian and Margaret Harmon College of Business and Professional Studies, which offers a school of business administration with programs in accounting, marketing and legal studies, public relations, economics, finance, computer information systems and management; and the School of Professional Studies, which has programs in aviation, criminal justice, communication disorders and social work and military science and leadership.

• The College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, which provides a comprehensive liberal arts foundation in support of the entire university curriculum, while also preparing graduates in areas such as art and design; communication, sociology, history and anthropology; government, international studies and languages; music, theatre and dance; and many other fields.

• The College of Education, which prepares teachers for all grade levels, as well as professionals in career and technology education, counselor education, educational leadership and human development and educational foundations and literacy.

• The College of Health, Science and Technology, with the School of Health and Human Performance; School of Environmental, Physical and Applied Sciences; School of Technology; Department of Mathematics and Computer Science; and Department of Psychological Science.

All UCM coursework is fully accredited by the North Central Association's Higher Learning Commission. UCM also is a state leader in program-specific accreditations, which have been granted by national organizations. This includes business administration degrees, which are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

The main campus—with its instructional buildings, Elliott Student Union, 18 conveniently located residence halls and modern family housing—is the center of university life. However, the complete physical plant comprises more than 1,300 acres, including the Prussing Farm, the 300-acre Pertle Springs recreational and biological research area and Max B. Swisher Skyhaven Airport. Completed in 1999, the James C. Kirkpatrick Library is a leader in developing two-way interactive television, information technologies and Internet training facilities and providing access to electronic information resources to the state's citizens. New initiatives include the The Crossing-South at Holden, a new 325-bed housing-retail facility to be completed in 2015; recent renovation of the Morrow-Garrison buildings; construction of a new Student Recreation and Wellness Center; and a $36 million campus-wide energy efficiency project completed in 2011. In fall 2012, UCM also launched in cooperation with the Lee's Summit R-VII School District, Metropolitan Community College and a number of business and community partners, the Missouri Innovation Campus (MIC), located at the school district's Summit Technology Academy. The school district is planning to build a new facility, housing the MIC by 2017 that will also include space for UCM's off-campus courses.

UCM students are valued members of the university family, and their successes—both in the classroom and in life—are the highest priority. Through its strategic positioning initiative known as learning to a greater degree, UCM promises students an education that promotes a culture of service, opportunities for engaged learning, future-focused academics and a worldly perspective.

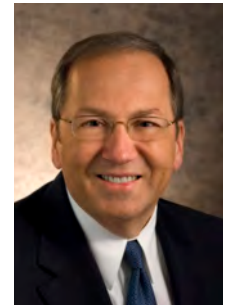
The Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration regulates the consumer service industries in Missouri by encouraging a fair and open market; establishing coherent and evolving policies that balance the interest of consumers, professionals and industry; and enforcing state laws and regulations governing business to protect consumers from unfair and inequitable treatment. The department is funded through fees and assessments from the industries and professionals regulated by the department rather than state general revenue.

Office of the Director



The director's office includes the department director, deputy director, general counsel, chief counsel, communications team, legislative coordinator and support team. The director's office also includes receivership activities. When a judge orders an insurance company into receivership, the director is responsible for either rehabilitating the company or liquidating it.

Division of Consumer Affairs

The Division of Consumer Affairs assists the general public in resolving complaints against insurance companies and agents and provides information to consumers regarding policies. Consumers can file complaints using the Insurance Consumer Hotline, (800) 726-7390, or visiting the department's website, www.insurance.mo.gov, which has a broad array of consumer and industry information available.

In 2014, the division responded to 4,263 complaints and 9,290 inquiries and opened 756 investigations, recovering $11.7 million for consumers. The division accepts complaints for all types of insurance, as well as motor vehicle extended service contracts, public adjusters, bail bond agents and healthcare discount plans. Besides handling complaints, the division provides consumer outreach and educational resources throughout the state at various community events, including those following storms.

The division also investigates unlicensed insurance activities and reviews license applications referred from the Insurance Licensing Section. Department investigations may result in license denials, revocations or suspensions, cease and desist orders, injunctions and referrals for criminal prosecution.

Division of Insurance Company Regulation

The Division of Insurance Company Regulation monitors the financial condition of insurance companies operating in Missouri.

The division works to identify financially troubled companies so that action may be taken to prevent insolvencies. The division conducts financial examinations of 244 domestic insurance companies at least every five years. The department director can call for an examination of a licensed insurer at any time. Between onsite examinations, the financial condition of insurers is monitored through ongoing financial analysis. Besides traditional insurers, the division also licenses and regulates captive insurance companies, which are formalized self-insurance programs that provide risk management benefits for the owner, which is also the insured. Captive insurers paid $2 million in taxes and fees in 2014. The division is also tasked with the regulation of hundreds of insurance-related entities such as third party administrators, managing general agents, reinsurance intermediaries and surplus line insurers. Policies placed with surplus lines insurers in the non-admitted market are taxed at a rate of five percent of premium. Surplus lines tax collections for 2014 totaled $28.7 million.

Division of Insurance Market Regulation

The Division of Insurance Market Regulation protects Missouri consumers by examining insurance company practices for compliance with state law. Most insurance policies and rates must be filed with the division so they can be reviewed for compliance with state law.

Policies and rates are filed with two sections of the division: Life and Healthcare Section and Property and Casualty Section (which includes auto, homeowners, workers' compensation and various types of malpractice insurance).

The division's Market Conduct Section examines insurance companies' past treatment of policyholders through their marketing, rates and claims handling. If violations of the law are detected, the director can order an insurer to pay restitution to consumers, either through re-processing of claims or re-evaluation of the premium charged for the policy, as well as penalties. In 2014, consumer recoveries totaled $12.7 million and fines totaled $1.4 million. The division also has a Statistics Section, which analyzes and publishes industry and market data as well as industry trends.

The Division of Finance regulates state-chartered banks, trust companies and savings and loan associations. The division is headed by the commissioner of finance, who is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The division has 26 administrative and clerical employees in the Jefferson City office and 88 field examiners in Kansas City, St. Louis, Jefferson City, Springfield and Sikeston.

The division is funded through assessments and fees paid by banks and licensees.

Banking in Missouri

Missouri ranks fifth in the nation in the number of state-chartered banks. As of June 30, 2015, the Division of Finance supervised 261 banks and trust companies with combined assets of $106.9 billion. The deposits in all Missouri state-chartered banks and trust companies are insured by the FDIC; savings and loan associations are also federally insured.

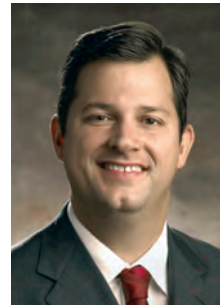
As of June 30, 2015, there were five savings and loan associations with total assets of $197 million.

Mortgage Licensing

The division has 434 licensed mortgage broker companies and 4,269 mortgage originators. The section investigates license applicants for character including criminal history, general fitness, experience and financial responsibility. A five-member Residential Mortgage Board approves regulations and hears appeals from the commissioner's licensing decisions.

Consumer Credit



The Consumer Credit Section supervises 2,871 institutions licensed for consumer lending, payday lending, automobile title lending,

The Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations was created by Article IX section 49 of the Missouri Constitution. The department is composed of the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission and five divisions: the Division of Employment Security adjudicates unemployment claims benefits to employees who become unemployed through no fault of their own; the Division of Workers' Compensation ensures that workers injured on the job receive the benefits they deserve and investigates allegations of workers' compensation fraud and noncompliance; the State Board of Mediation determines the appropriate bargaining unit for public employees and regulates utility labor relations; the Division of Labor Standards regulates wages and wage rates and promotes safe working environments; and the Missouri Human Rights Commission enforces and adjudicates Missouri's anti-discriminatory, fair housing, employment and public accommodation statutes.

The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission is composed of three commissioners. Each commissioner is appointed to a staggered six-year term by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. One member of the commission, a licensed Missouri attorney, represents the public. The other two members represent employers and employees, respectively. The governor designates one member as chair. The commission hears appeals from administrative decisions in workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, crime victims' compensation and tort victims' compensation cases. The commission also hears objections to prevailing wage disputes and challenges to determinations by public bodies to enter into project labor agreements. In addition, the commission is charged with the statutory authority to approve or disapprove all rules or regulations declared by the divisions within the department. The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission nominates, and the governor appoints, a director to be chief executive officer of the department with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Office of the Director

The director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations is responsible for the supervision of the divisions. The director's office staff provides administrative support, human resource services and financial management.

Office of the General Counsel

The Office of General Counsel provides legal advice regarding the operations of the department and labor-related matters to the director and to the executive staff of the department and its divisions. The largest portion of the work of the General Counsel's Office relates to cases concerning the payment of unemployment benefits and the assessment and collection of unemployment taxes. The General Counsel's Office also represents the department in a variety of other litigation in trial courts, in administrative tribunals and before arbitrators; provides advice on internal administrative and personnel matters; prepares and reviews contracts, leases and other legal documents; responds to requests under the open records law; provides training to departmental personnel; and assists in responding to comments and inquiries from private citizens and public officials.

The Division of Employment Security (DES) was established in 1946 to administer the Missouri Unemployment Compensation Law. The division collects tax contributions from employers and pays unemployment benefits to individuals who are determined eligible under the law. State unemployment contributions paid by Missouri employers into the Missouri Trust Fund are set aside for the sole purpose of providing for the payment of weekly unemployment benefits to qualified claimants. The division consists of six sections: benefits, unemployment insurance tax, unemployment insurance programs, appeals, quality control and unemployment insurance modernization.

Unemployment Insurance

The unemployment benefits paid to insured workers help maintain the economy of the state during periods of economic downturn by helping preserve the level of consumer purchasing power. Payments of benefits under the regular program are made from a trust fund, financed by the aforementioned employer tax contributions. No part of the contribution is deducted from worker wages. Eligible claimants can qualify for up to 20 weeks of unemployment compensation under the state's benefit program. The average weekly wage for FY 2015 was $842.93. The average weekly benefit amount in FY 2015 was $245.49, and the maximum benefit amount of $320.

Employer Contributions

The division's Contributions Section ensures employers are properly classifying their workers, reporting their workers' wages and paying the correct tax contributions on wages. Correct reporting helps ensure the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to insured workers during periods of unemployment. Employment security law includes an experience rating provision as an incentive for employers to maintain stable employment, review claims and reduce unemployment. The law allows employers that are eligible for rate calculations to submit voluntary payments for the purpose of reducing their contribution rates. Employers file quarterly contribution and wage reports with the division to report their workers' earnings. Reports may be filed online at www.ustar.labor.mo.gov.

Payment of Benefits

One of the main objectives of the division is the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to eligible claimants. Through four claims centers located in Jefferson City, St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield, unemployed Missouri workers file initial and weekly claims for unemployment compensation by telephone. The division also offers filing of unemployment claims online at www.moclaim.mo.gov. A person must have worked in employment covered under the Missouri Employment Security Law and earned enough qualifying wages in order to establish a claim for unemployment benefits. Detailed wage records are kept on every worker reported by employers on the quarterly contribution and wage report in order to calculate benefits.

Fraud Efforts

The division continues its efforts to combat fraud by identifying worker misclassification, an act where employers improperly classify their employees to avoid paying employment taxes. The division's worker misclassification taskforce focuses resources to target industries likely to violate worker classification laws. In 2015, 7,276 misclassified workers were identified, associated with more than $1.8 million in unpaid unemployment taxes.

Through numerous cross-match systems, including the federal and state new-hire databases, the division also identifies claimants committing unemployment fraud. During FY 2015, the DES recovered $19.1 million of improperly paid benfits and more than $5.2 million in fraud penalties.

The Missouri Division of Workers' Compensation administers the programs that provide for Missouri workers who are injured on the job or develop occupational diseases. The division focuses on making sure that those who can return to work do so as soon as possible, having received adequate treatment and benefits. For those who cannot return to work because of their injury or injuries, permanent disability benefits are allowed by Missouri law.

JOHN HICKEY
Director, Division of Workers' Compensatation

Missouri employers are required to either obtain workers' compensation insurance or obtain approval from the division to self-insure their workers' compensation liability, paying claims out-of-pocket as they arise. Self-insured employers must provide a bond or letter of credit to the division to secure their promise to compensate employees' for their work-related injuries.

Benefits available through the workers' compensation system include medical treatment, temporary disability benefits while in treatment and permanent disability benefits when treatment is complete. Injured workers can also qualify for benefits from the Second Injury Fund, which was created by the General Assembly during World War II to ease the workers' compensation burden on employers by compensating for employees' preexisting injuries.

Most workers' compensation cases are resolved without lengthy proceedings, as was the intent of the workers' compensation system approved by Missouri voters in 1926. For those cases not resolved voluntarily, the division's administrative law judges conduct hearings and make determinations on what, if any, benefits are owed the injured worker. If a worker or employer disagrees with the administrative law judge's ruling, an appeal may be made with the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission.

The division's Fraud and Noncompliance Unit conducts investigations of all allegations of fraud and noncompliance. Fraud occurs when employers, insurance carriers, physicians, attorneys or employees claim or deny benefits based on assertions they know to be false. Fraudulently making or denying a workers' compensation claim is a criminal offense. Additionally, employers that do not insure their workers' compensation liability as required by law are committing the criminal offense of noncompliance.

All insurance carriers writing workers' compensation insurance in Missouri must provide comprehensive safety engineering and management services to employers. The Workers's Safety Program certifies and audits these services, investigates complaints of inadequate loss control services, monitors the impact of those services on Missouri employers and offers additional safety assistance when needed. The Workers' Safety Program maintains a registry of certified safety consultants and engineers who can offer independent safety services to Missouri employers.

The State Board of Mediation is a quasi-judicial board created by the General Assembly in 1947 to assist in the resolution of labor disputes in the public utility industry. The Board's primary activity, however, changed in 1965 with the passage of the Public Sector Labor Law, sections 105.500 to 105.530 of the Missouri Revised Statutes. This law authorizes the board to determine appropriate bargaining units of public employees based on their community of interests and to conduct secret ballot elections to determine whether a majority of the employees in a bargaining unit agree to be represented by a petitioning labor organization.

The board consists of five members appointed by the governor. Two members are employers or selected from an association representing employers, two members hold membership in a bona fide trade or labor union and the fifth member is a neutral party who serves as full-time chairman and administrator of the agency.

If a public employer and a petitioning labor organization cannot agree on which employees should be included in an appropriate bargaining unit or on the manner of conducting the election, the board will hold a formal hearing at which the parties may present evidence and legal arguments in support of their positions on the disputed questions. After considering the evidence and legal arguments, the board issues a written decision resolving the disputes.

If a majority of the members of a bargaining unit vote for the labor organization in a board-conducted election, the board certifies it as the exclusive bargaining representative for all the unit members for the purposes of collective bargaining. The labor organization will then negotiate with the public employer of the unit members over salaries and other conditions of employment with the goal of reaching a written agreement governing these matters. The labor organization will also represent unit members with regard to individual employment issues that may arise, such as disciplinary charges.

The board's jurisdiction under the Public Sector Labor Law to determine appropriate bargaining units and to certify exclusive bargaining representatives extends to almost all public employees, including those employed by the state and its agencies, counties, cities, school districts, fire departments and other special districts. The board, however, does not have jurisdiction to resolve such matters for police officers, deputy sheriffs, Missouri Highway Patrol officers, Missouri National Guard members or teachers at schools, colleges and universities. These types of employees still have the right to organize and bargain collectively, but the board has no authority to play a role when they are engaged in such activities.

In FY 2015, the board received 33 petitions and conducted 17 representation elections, affecting 833 employees.

Division of Labor Standards

3315 W. Truman Blvd., PO Box 449

Telephone: (573) 751-3403 / FAX: (573) 751-3721
www.labor.mo.gov/dls
Email: laborstandards@labor.mo.gov

The Division of Labor Standards currently consists of three sections: Wage and Hour, On-Site Safety and Health Consultation Service, and Mine and Cave Safety.

Wage and Hour Section

The Wage and Hour Section determines and enforces the prevailing wage. Prevailing wage survey information for construction projects is solicited for all applicable construction projects on an ongoing basis. The survey information is used to determine the prevailing wage rates for workers employed on public works construction projects. Communication with contractors, labor unions, public bodies, employees and other interested parties occurs daily to assist in achieving voluntary compliance. Site inspections are performed to assure compliance with prevailing wage rates and to investigate complaints. The prevailing wage not only ensures that in tough economic times wages do not decline, but also supports worker health and pension benefits, increases sales tax revenue and corporate sales taxes, supports apprenticeship training, lowers occupational injuries, and increases the productivity of the construction workforce.

The Wage and Hour Section administers and enforces Missouri's child labor laws. The law ensures that no child younger than 16 years of age is employed in an occupation that is detrimental to the child's safety, health, morals, educational processes or general well-being. No child under the age of 14 may work in any occupation, unless specifically allowed. The exception is entertainment industry employment. The law restricts work hours for youth under 16. A child 14 or 15 years old may not be employed during the regular school term unless the public school superintendent or designee of the district where the youth lives has issued a work certificate. Youth under 16 may work in the entertainment industry if the division issues the youth a work permit.

The Wage and Hour Section is also responsible for the administration and enforcement of Missouri's minimum wage law. The minimum wage rate increased from $7.50 to $7.65 per hour on Jan. 1, 2015.

The Wage and Hour Section provides information for Missouri's labor laws, including allowable breaks, lunches, vacations, hiring, wage levels, dismissals and discipline, among other topics.

On-Site Safety and Health Section

The On-Site Safety and Health Section offers a free, confidential consultation service to employers to ensure they comply with federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations. This program reduces workplace injuries and illnesses. At the employer's request, a consultant visits the workplace and informs the employer of problems found and recommends solutions to eliminate hazards and provides safety and health training. In FY 2015, the On-Site Program helped employers avoid more than $10.8 million in OSHA fines by eliminating hazards within the workplace.

The Safety and Health Achievement Recognition Program (SHARP) is for small businesses that operate effective safety and health management programs. Participants in SHARP can receive up to a two-year exemption from certain OSHA inspections.

Mine and Cave Inspection Program

The Mine and Cave Inspection Program is mandated by Chapter 293, RSMo. Inspectors travel to the mine or cave site on a regular basis to inspect the property for safety and health hazards, including unsafe processes or work procedures that could cause accidents, injuries or fatalities. All safety and health conditions of the site are inspected, and if any hazards are found, the company is required to abate the problem in a prescribed period of time. Cost-effective recommendations on how to abate any safety or health problem are offered and consultations on any condition are available to the operator to bring them into compliance with state and federal laws.

Show caves must be equipped with necessary safety features, such as guard rails, bridges, ladders, entrances, platforms, walkways, safety barriers, rails, paths and electrical guards. The program also assists with coordinating cave rescue efforts. A listing of the caves inspected by the program can be found online at www.labor.mo.gov/DLS/WorkplaceSafety/minecave/cave_inspection.asp.

The Mine and Cave Safety and Health Section trains and retrains miners in the practice of implementing safe and healthy working habits in the mining workplace. This training is partially funded by a grant through the U.S. Department of Labor, Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA). Each miner must receive an initial safety and health training and annual retraining. Instructors conduct safety and health audits, prepare site-specific lesson plans corresponding to the training plan of the company, then present innovative training topics to the miners.

The mission of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights (MCHR) is to prevent and eliminate discrimination. The MCHR investigates complaints of discrimination in housing, employment and places of public accommodations based on race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex, disability, age (in employment only) and familial status (in housing only). The MCHR also provides training to inform people of their rights and responsibilities under the Missouri Human Rights Act.

The Missouri Commission on Human Rights was created by the 69th General Assembly in 1957 and became a permanent agency in 1959. In 1961 the Fair Employment Practices Act was passed, in 1965 the Public Accommodations Act was passed and in 1972 the Fair Housing Act was passed. In 1986, these three laws were consolidated under Chapter 213, RSMo, as the Missouri Human Rights Act.

The commission staff handles more than 1,000 cases annually. In addition to the enforcement mechanisms in the Missouri Human Rights Act, the statute also empowers the commission to certify local commissions, establish relationships with federal and local civil and human rights agencies, implement educational or research programs and develop ways to prevent discrimination. Commission members are nominated by the director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and appointed by the governor with advice and consent of the Senate. The governor appoints at least one member from each of Missouri's eight congressional districts, two members-at-large and one member as chairperson. The commissioners serve for six years without compensation. The commission meets quarterly, and commission meetings are open to the public.

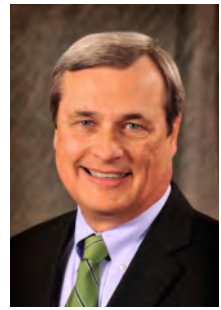
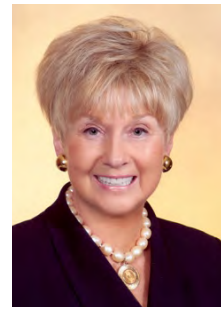
The Department of Mental Health (DMH) was officially established on July 1, 1974, as a cabinet-level state agency by the Omnibus State Government Reorganization Act; however, its functions date back to 1847. The department serves as the state's mental health authority, establishing philosophy, policy and standards of care.



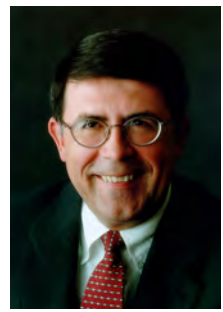
State law provides three principal missions for the department: the prevention of mental disorders, developmental disabilities, substance abuse and compulsive gambling; the treatment, habilitation and rehabilitation of Missourians who have those conditions; and the improvement of public understanding and attitudes about mental disorders, developmental disabilities, substance abuse and compulsive gambling.

The vision for the Missouri Department of Mental Health is that "Missourians receiving mental health services will have the opportunity to pursue their dreams and live their lives as valued members of their communities."



Missourians must know mental illness is treatable, persons with substance abuse problems can triumph over their addictions and persons with developmental disabilities can be productive citizens and good neighbors in their communities.

Mental Health Commission



The commission, composed of seven members, appoints the director of the Department of Mental Health with confirmation of the Senate. Commissioners are appointed to four-year terms by the governor, again with the confirmation of the Senate. The commissioners serve as policy advisors to the department director. The commission, by law, must include an advocate of community mental health centers, a physician who is an expert in the treatment of mental illness, a physician concerned with developmental disabilities, a member with business expertise, an advocate of substance abuse treatment, a citizen who represents the interests of consumers of psychiatric services and a citizen who represents the interests of consumers of developmental disabilities services.

Office of the Director

The seven-member Missouri Mental Health Commission serves as the principal policy advisory body to the department director. The director's duties include planning, supervising and evaluating the provision of services for Missourians with mental illness, developmental disabilities and addiction disorders. The department is composed of three divisions: the Division of Behavioral Health, the Division of Developmental Disabilities and the Division of Administration Services, as well as seven support offices.

DMH serves approximately 170,000 Missourians annually through state-operated facilities and contracts with private organizations and individuals. The eight state-operated psychiatric facilities include inpatient psychiatric care for adults and children, as well as sex offender rehabilitation and treatment services. In addition, five habilitation centers, one community support agency, five regional offices and six satellite offices serve individuals with developmental disabilities. Other services are purchased from a variety of privately operated programs statewide through approximately 1,500 contracts managed annually by the DMH.

Deputy Director

The Office of the Deputy Director provides the leadership and direction for a variety of department-wide and statewide functions that support program operations and services to DMH consumers. These include supervisory responsibility for the Office of Deaf Services, Office of General Counsel, Office of Consumer Safety and the DMH investigations units, well as other special projects at the director's discretion.

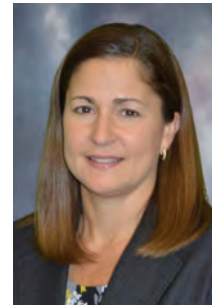
Chief Medical Directors' Office

The Chief Medical Directors' Office offers senior clinical leadership to the Department of Mental Health. It provides advice and counsel to the department director regarding a broad range of clinical, programmatic and strategic issues, as well as clinical policy. It also provides leadership and mentoring to the department's clinical staff statewide, by establishing and promoting professional, clinical and ethical values and standards to which all clinical staff are expected to adhere. The Chief Medical Directors' Office upholds quality of care, and is responsible for establishing and maintaining the department's standards of care on both clinical and programmatic levels.

Office of Public and Legislative Affairs (OPLA)

The Office of Public and Legislative Affairs provides information internally and externally regarding mental health programs and services and helps promote the people, programs and services of the department through publications and media. The office also provides support services, technical assistance and training to the department's divisions, offices and facilities. The OPLA works with legislators, state office holders and stakeholders regarding legislation related to the department, as well as serves as the liaison to the Mental Health Commission and provides oversight to the Office of Disaster Services.

General Counsel



The Office of the General Counsel is responsible for providing legal advice and assistance for the department, its facilities and division offices in a variety of areas, including: personnel and forensic litigation; rules and policy development; compliance with privacy, administration and coordination under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act; and ensuring the provision of administrative due process hearings before the department hearings administrator

Division of Administrative Services

The Division of Administrative Services provides administrative and financial services to help the department achieve effective results. The Division of Administrative Services includes the following units: budget and finance, which develops and monitors the annual budget, oversees the legislative fiscal note process, provides expenditure oversight and analyzes and compiles financial and other related reports; accounting, which oversees and monitors all funds, manages expenditures, administers grant funds and produces fiscal summaries, analyses and reports; purchasing and general services, which establishes and administers contracts with private agencies or individuals to provide services in the community and is also responsible for various general services functions in the central office; and Medicaid and reimbursements, which serves as the primary liaison with MO HealthNet on mental health issues and provides Medicaid guidance and support to all three program divisions and collects payments from private insurance, Medicaid and Medicare, and private pay for department services and coordinates revenue maximization activities.

Division of Behavioral Health

The Division of Behavioral Health (DBH), formerly the Divisions of Alcohol and Drug Abuse and Comprehensive Psychiatric Services, provides comprehensive mental health and substance use disorder prevention, treatment and recovery services in Missouri. The division is responsible for seven adult psychiatric facilities, two children's facilities and a statewide network of contracted community providers. Approximately 140,000 people receive behavioral health services each year from programs operated or contracted by the division.

LYNNE FULKS
Acting Director, Division of Administrative Services

RICHARD GOWDY, Ph.D.
Director, Division of Behavioral Health

RIKKI WRIGHT
Deputy Director, Division of Behavioral Health

The division oversees seven state-operated facilities for people with serious mental illnesses and children with severe emotional disturbances. All are fully accredited by The Joint Commission (TJC) and certified by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to provide Medicaid services. The facilities include Fulton State Hospital; St. Louis Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center; Metropolitan St. Louis Psychiatric Center; Hawthorn Children's Psychiatric Hospital, St. Louis; Center for Behavioral Medicine, Kansas City; Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center, St. Joseph; and Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center, Farmington. The sexually violent predator treatment program operates in secure facilities in both Farmington and Fulton.

Forensic services are provided for evaluation, treatment and community monitoring of individuals with mental illness and developmental disabilities who are involved in the criminal justice system and under the order and direction of circuit courts. The division supervises about 460 forensic clients on conditional release statewide and conducts an average of 500 pretrial evaluations each year.

Community-based treatment is provided through contracted, certified agencies that serve children, youth and adults. Administrative agents are designated by state law as entry points into the mental health system for people with serious mental illness. Services provided by division contractors include the Community Psychiatric Rehabilitation Program (CPRP) for adults with serious mental illness and youth with serious emotional disturbances, and the Comprehensive Substance Treatment and Rehabilitation (CSTAR) Program, which provides general adult treatment as well as specialized services for pregnant and postpartum women, women with children, adolescents and individuals who are addicted to heroin or prescription opiates. Other statewide programs include the Disease Management project, the Health Home initiative and the Substance Abuse Traffic Offender Program (SATOP). Outpatient treatment for compulsive gamblers and their families is provided by contracted agencies that employ specially trained counselors.

Specialized services for children and youth with severe emotional disturbances are provided in a variety of settings, including schools, state-operated facilities and community-based programs.

Recovery services support individuals in recovery from serious mental illness or severe substance use disorders. They include employment programs and affordable housing options, as well as Consumer Operated Service Programs (COSPs) and other evidence-based peer services.

Substance abuse prevention and mental health promotion are offered through community- and school-based providers that target individuals, families and communities. Emphasis is placed on evidence-based programs and practices. There is a network of community coalitions, a statewide training resource center, regional support centers, direct service programs for high-risk youth, college-based services and school-based prevention and intervention programs, as well as other statewide initiatives, including suicide prevention, crisis intervention team training for law enforcement, tobacco cessation and Mental Health First Aid.

Missouri Advisory Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse

The Missouri Advisory Council for Alcohol and Drug Abuse (ADA) serves as an advisory body to the Division of Behavioral Health (DBH) and the division director in the areas of substance abuse policy, prevention, treatment and recovery in the state of Missouri. The council was created and empowered through section 631.020 of the Missouri Revised Statutes.

The ADA council is composed of up to 25 members appointed by the director of DBH. Members have professional, research and/or personal interests in the division's purpose. At least one half of the members must be consumers and one member must represent veterans and military affairs. Additional representation has included individuals from state agencies such as corrections, vocational rehabilitation, health and senior services and education. The remainder of the council is made up of private and state-contracted providers, including the Missouri Substance Abuse Professional Credentialing Board, Missouri Recovery Network and other advocacy groups. Each member is appointed for an initial term of one, two or three years to allow for a rotation of one-third of the members each year. Further, each appointed member may be re-appointed to one additional three-year term. Each member serves until a successor has been appointed.

Missouri Advisory Council on Comprehensive Psychiatric Services

The Missouri Advisory Council on Comprehensive Psychiatric Services (CPS) was first established in 1977 by a governor's executive order. Similar councils exist in every state and U.S. territory because of the passage of federal law 99–660 in 1986, continuing through public law 101–639 and public law 102–321 in 1992. These federal laws require states and territories to perform mental health planning to receive federal Mental Health Block Grant funds. These laws further require that stakeholders, including mental health consumers, family members and parents of children with serious emotional disturbances, must be involved in these planning efforts through membership on the council. Members are appointed by the director of DBH.

The council is composed of 25 members who advise and make recommendations to improve the system of care in mental health. Through public education and advocacy efforts, consumers and family members have become an integral part of defining priorities for the division on issues surrounding housing, employment, recovery-oriented community services, crisis intervention and children's system of care. The council membership is required by federal law to have a majority of mental health consumers, including parents of children receiving services and family members. In addition, representation is required from the following state agencies: social services, medicaid, corrections, vocational rehabilitation, health and senior services, education, housing and mental health. The remainder of the council is made up of private and state-contracted providers, Missouri Protection and Advocacy and other advocacy groups.

Center for Behavioral Medicine (CBM), formerly Western Missouri Mental Health Center (WMMHC), operates 65 adult acute beds, 68 adult residential beds, five group homes and an apartment program in the community. The facility is located on Hospital Hill in the heart of Kansas City and provides comprehensive psychiatric care to patients from Kansas City and the seven surrounding counties. CBM serves as the University of Missouri–Kansas City's Department of Psychiatry, fulfilling academic and research needs. The Center serves the Greater Kansas City, Mo., area and surrounding counties with intensive and specialized behavioral health treatments and services for individuals who require in-patient care after a short-term, acute hospital stay at another inpatient setting. The center focuses its new services on bridging the gap between physical and behavioral medicine with an emphasis on wellness. Students, residents and post-doctoral fellows are trained at the center to deliver integrated physical and behavioral health care. The center provides a therapeutic approach to recovery that assists individuals to progress regardless of their limitations or symptoms. This approach incorporates evidence-based treatment models, including illness management and recovery (IM and R) and dialectical behavioral therapy (DBT).

Fulton State Hospital, authorized in 1847 and opened in 1851, is the oldest public mental health facility west of the Mississippi River. The 376-bed hospital provides inpatient adult psychiatric services, including treatment and psychosocial rehabilitation for forensic patients and other patients requiring long-term inpatient care. The term "forensic" is used to describe individuals who are charged with a crime and have been committed to the Department of Mental Health by a circuit court for either a pretrial or presentence evaluation, for restoration of competence to stand trial or as a result of an adjudication of Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI). Specifically, the hospital serves patients from the entire state who require hospitalization in maximum- and intermediate-security settings, individuals who have been committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators and forensic patients with developmental disabilities who require a minimum-security setting.

Fulton has Missouri's only maximum- and intermediate-security units. The 186-bed Biggs Forensic Center provides treatment for individuals who have committed major offenses or those whose behavior in other settings demonstrates a need for a maximum-security setting. Included is a program run in cooperation with the Department of Corrections (DOC) to provide acute mental health services for inmates from DOC and for jail detainees across the state whose charges or behavior require maximum security.

The 91-bed Guhleman Forensic Center offers an intermediate-security environment for former Biggs patients to progress toward increased liberty and responsibility. In addition, it provides a security setting for individuals whose charges or behaviors do not require maximum security, but are nonetheless in need of a higher level of security than is available in other inpatient settings.

A 75-bed Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services program serves individuals committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators. Another 24-bed program serves developmentally disabled patients on forensic commitments who can be safely treated within a minimum-security setting.

The hospital has a training affiliation with the University of Missouri's Department of Psychiatry. In addition, it provides training experience to students from various clinical disciplines, including nursing, social work and occupational therapy and an internship and fellowship program in psychology.

Hawthorn Children's Psychiatric Hospital provides inpatient and residential psychiatric treatment services for severely emotionally disturbed children and adolescents, ages 6 to 17. The hospital serves residents of Missouri.

Hawthorn has been a freestanding child psychiatric facility in St. Louis County since 1989. The 26-acre campus consists of a main building and five cottages. There are 28 inpatient and 16 residential treatment beds.

Youth admitted to Hawthorn are provided comprehensive mental health treatment services designed to address their psychiatric, psychological, social, educational, vocational and recreational needs. The treatment programs rely on evidence-based practices and deliver services in a trauma-informed milieu. As a service to the community, Hawthorn also provides mental health information and consultation regarding the treatment of children and adolescents. The hospital serves as a training facility for a wide range of mental health professionals. Hawthorn also participates fully with other community agencies in the planning and development of mental health services for the children in the community.

Metropolitan St. Louis Psychiatric Center (MPC) is a 50-bed facility that provides forensic evaluations and inpatient competency restoration services to residents of the 61 counties of the eastern half of Missouri. The Forensic Pretrial Program at MPC is composed of two units: the inpatient Competency Restoration Service and the Forensic Evaluation Service.

The purpose of the inpatient Competency Restoration Service is to restore competency for those individuals who have been committed by the courts to the Department of Mental Health as incompetent to stand trial. Criminal defendants are found incompetent to stand trial when a major mental illness, cognitive disorder or developmental disability causes the defendant to lack the capacity to understand the legal proceedings against him/her or to be unable to assist the attorney in his/her defense. The Competency Restoration Service provides state-of-the-art psychiatric treatment and psychosocial interventions to restore defendants to competency to proceed to trial. Interventions include: stabilization of mental disorders that result in the defendant being found incompetent to stand trial; in-depth education regarding court-related terminology and procedures; modification of faulty beliefs about the legal system and the individual's mental illness; and individualized interventions to assist the defendant in applying what is learned to that person's case. For those defendants who return to the community, thorough discharge planning takes into account the client's treatment needs and the public safety.

The Forensic Evaluation Service serves the courts of Missouri by providing comprehensive, court-ordered evaluations regarding various legal issues. The most common court-ordered evaluation addresses competency to stand trial. Questions of the mental state of a defendant at the time of an alleged crime are evaluated, including criminal responsibility (insanity), diminished capacity and battered spouse syndrome. Risk assessments and other evaluations are conducted on defendants whose probation has been revoked to assist the courts in determining the best sentencing options. Finally, persons detained under sexual predator laws are evaluated to determine if they meet the definition of a sexually violent predator. Most evaluations are done on an outpatient basis either at MPC or at a jail, while some are conducted on an inpatient basis to gather additional data when challenging diagnostic questions or malingering of mental illness are raised. The Forensic Evaluation Service conducts between 180 and 200 evaluations per year.

Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (NMPRC) provides inpatient psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation to adults who are considered to have a persistent mental illness and are in need of hospital-based treatment and rehabilitation.

The hospital opened as State Lunatic Asylum No. 2 in November 1874 on land east of St. Joseph. The capacity ranged from 250 beds to nearly 3,000 in the 1950s, and the name was changed to St. Joseph State Hospital. Over the years, downsizing occurred with the advent of better treatment options and emphasis on returning patients to the community.

In 1997, St. Joseph State Hospital was replaced with the current facility and renamed Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center. NMPRC currently provides 108 beds for adult psychiatric patients. Three wings have 20 beds each and are designated as minimum security. Six cottages with eight beds each are designated as open-campus security.

Within NMPRC there are three 20-bed, coed wings and six eight-bed cottages for a combined total of 108 beds. All three wings serve as the entry point for patients transferring from a jail setting and other DMH psychiatric hospitals for psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation. Included are individuals who are committed under Chapter 552, RSMo, for pretrial evaluation and restoration to competency to stand trial as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI), transfers from other psychiatric facilities and forensic patients returning from conditional release, either voluntarily or by revocation. Six eight-bed, coed cottages are designed to prepare patients for a community-living type environment in which individuals learn and practice those critical skills necessary to be successful in their community. Patients are expected to take responsibility for their own actions and recovery as they make more choices in their lives while living in a structured, secure and supportive setting.

St. Louis Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (formerly known as St. Louis State Hospital), was originally opened in 1869 and is currently a 180-bed, minimum-security hospital, providing long-term inpatient psychiatric treatment and recovery-based psychosocial rehabilitation services. The majority of the clients served have been committed to the Department of Mental Health by a criminal court under the mental health provisions of Chapter 552, RSMo, either upon their adjudication as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI) or a finding of Permanent Incompetence to Stand Trial (PIST). In addition, SLPRC serves a smaller cohort of adults with severe and persistent mental illness, whose admission status is voluntary by guardian, but who are extremely difficult to treat. Finally, the facility recently began operating an eight-bed unit for individuals who are deaf and have a serious mental illness, requiring long-term inpatient treatment.

Each of these populations typically presents substantial deficits in the management of the symptoms of mental illness, a predilection to high risk behaviors associated with a significant probability for psychiatric relapse and criminal offense and/or a general inability to comport themselves without substantial risk to their safety or that of the community. Co-morbid substance abuse and/or personality disorders are common complications, as is clear evidence of impairment in social role functioning and daily living skills. Many of the patients, particularly those not adjudicated NGRI, are likely to have required multiple inpatient admissions with a demonstrable inability to be successful in the community, even with enhanced community-based services and residential supports. All clients admitted require intensive inpatient services to develop an adequate relapse prevention plan and to achieve the psychiatric stability necessary for discharge from hospital-based care and for safe and successful reintegration into the community.

Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center began in 1903 as Farmington State Hospital. In 1984, the Missouri General Assembly approved the conversion of the hospital grounds into a medium-security prison, operated by the Department of Corrections. Subsequently in 1987, the state hospital was converted into a mental health center and moved into buildings adjacent to the prison. Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center consists of Adult Psychiatric Services and Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services.

The Adult Psychiatric Services division (APS) operates 170 longer-stay inpatient beds for persons demonstrating persistently dangerous behaviors and ongoing impairment in social functioning in daily living skills due to mental illness. Many of these persons are admitted under the criminal court statute as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI).

By cooperative agreement between the departments of corrections and mental health, the Corrections Treatment Center (CTC) operates on the grounds of Farmington Correctional Center. Within the CTC unit, the mental health center staffs a small, medium-security ward for inmates with psychiatric needs.

The Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Service, formerly known as Missouri Sexual Offender Treatment Center, provides treatment, care, security and custody for those persons adjudicated as sexually violent predators. With the passage of the Sexually Violent Predator Act, which was effective Jan. 1, 1999, the Missouri General Assembly mandated that individuals adjudicated by the court as sexually violent predators be committed indefinitely to the custody of the director of the Department of Mental Health for "control, care and treatment until such time that the person is safe to be at large." In order for such commitments to pass constitutional scrutiny, the department provides care and treatment consistent with existing professional standards and practice. The law also requires individuals committed for treatment as sexually violent predators be kept in a secure facility and housed separately from Department of Corrections' inmates and from persons served by the Department of Mental Health who have not been found to be sexually violent predators.

In addition to the treatment and custody of sexually violent predators, the department is required to provide staff to participate in the multidisciplinary team to assist the prosecutor's review committee in determining whether an individual may meet the definition of a sexually violent predator. Further, the department is required to evaluate each individual for whom the court finds probable cause to believe the person is a sexually violent predator. Finally, the department must annually provide the committing court an annual report regarding the committed person's mental condition.

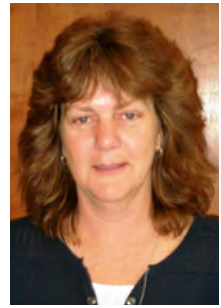
Division of Developmental Disabilities

The Division of Developmental Disabilities (DD), established in 1974, serves persons with developmental disabilities such as cerebral palsy, head injuries, autism, epilepsy and certain learning disabilities. Such conditions must have occurred before age 22 with the expectation that they will continue. To be eligible for services from the division, persons with these disabilities must have substantial functional limitations in two or more of the following six areas of major life activities: self-care, receptive and expressive language development and use, learning, self-direction, capacity for independent living or economic self-sufficiency and mobility.



The division's focus is on improving the lives of persons with developmental disabilities and their families through programs, support and services to enable persons with developmental disabilities to live independently and productively. In 1988, the division began participation in the Medicaid home- and community-based waiver program designed to help expand needed services throughout the state.

Specialized services are either provided directly or purchased through contracts by 17 entities operated by the division. The division's regional and satellite offices are the primary points of entry into and exit from the system. These offices determine eligibility, work with individuals and families and contract with SB40 boards (local county boards for the developmentally disabled) and private providers for the provision of a comprehensive array of services in the following areas: Albany, central Missouri, Hannibal, Joplin, Kansas City, Kirksville, Poplar Bluff, Rolla, Sikeston, Springfield and St. Louis. There are also six state-operated programs: Bellefontaine Habilitation Center, Higginsville Habilitation Center, Marshall Habilitation Center, Southeast Missouri Residential Services, St. Louis Developmental Disabilities Treatment Center and Southwest Community Services, which primarily provide residential care and habilitation services to persons who are medically and behaviorally challenged or court-committed. All habilitation centers are Title XIX-certified as Intermediate Care Facilities for the Mentally Retarded (ICF/MR).

Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council was created in 1971 under federal legislation. The council's federal mandate is to plan, advocate for and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with developmental disabilities that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity and integration into communities. The council also serves, under Missouri statute, as the Missouri Advisory Council on Developmental Disabilities, providing advice to the division and the division director. The council has 23 members, appointed by the governor.

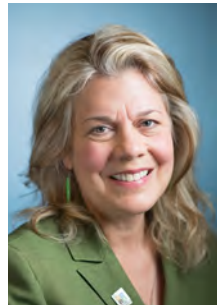
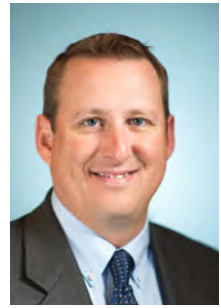
The mission of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources' is to protect our air, land and water; preserve our unique natural and historic places; and provide recreational and learning opportunities for everyone. The department was created under state reorganization on July 1, 1974.



Missouri's air, land and water resources play an important role in our quality of life and health and are essential to the environmental and economic vitality of our state. Staff works to ensure Missouri's citizens enjoy clean air to breathe, clean water for drinking and recreation and land that sustains a diversity of life. Staff also works to preserve the state's historic and natural heritage through state parks and state historic sites. The department continues to learn how to improve environmental protection by using new technologies and fostering better understanding.

The department accomplishes this work through the Division of Administrative Support, Division of Environmental Quality, Missouri Geological Survey and Missouri State Parks. A number of boards and commissions also support and facilitate the department's roles and responsibilities. In addition, the State Environmental Improvement and Energy Resources Authority and the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund are connected administratively to the department through the Office of the Director.



Stakeholder and public engagement plays a critical role in helping the department protect and improve Missouri's natural resources. By working together, the Department of Natural Resources ensures a healthy environment in which to live, work and enjoy the great outdoors today and for generations to come.

Office of the Director

The director of the Department of Natural Resources is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate. The director and the Office

The office includes communication, education, general counsel, legislative, Missouri and Mississippi rivers coordination and policy and planning.

The director serves as the trustee for natural resource damages in Missouri, state historic preservation officer, chair of the State Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation. The director also serves as a member of the Soil and Water Districts Commission, the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund Board of Trustees and the Unmarked Human Burial Consultation Committee. The department director represents Missouri on three interstate river organizations: the Missouri River Basin Commission, the Arkansas-White-Red Basins Interagency Committee and the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission.

The Environmental Improvement and Energy Resources Authority (EIERA) is a quasi-governmental environmental finance agency administratively assigned to the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. The authority was established by the Missouri General Assembly in 1972, and EIERA board members are appointed by the governor. EIERA is committed to provide solutions that help Missourians and the environment thrive through finance, research and technical assistance to preserve or foster the responsible management of our air, land, water and energy resources for the well-being of our citizens and Missouri's economy.

As the state's primary energy and environmental bond issuing authority, the EIERA promotes Missouri's environment and economy by providing a broad range of financial support and services. To date, the EIERA has assisted Missouri communities, utilities, schools, organizations and businesses by providing almost $6 billion in bond financing and more than $30 million in project financing that have supported infrastructure upgrades, energy efficiency, pollution prevention, technical assistance, research and environmental education.

Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund Board of Trustees

The Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund Board of Trustees administers the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund, which insures tank owners and operators for risks associated with leaks of petroleum products from their tanks or piping. It also provides funding to clean up certain properties where historic tank operations have contaminated the environment, restoring those properties to economic viability.

The 11-member board includes the commissioner of administration and the directors of the departments of agriculture and natural resources. The governor appoints and the Senate approves eight citizens who each serve a four-year term. The citizens represent tank owners, financial institutions, industrial and commercial users of petroleum, the insurance industry and the public.

Division of Administrative Support

The Division of Administrative Support provides the department with administrative and management support. Budget development, internal audit, accounting, human resources, procurement, grants management and general services are functions performed by the division. The division reviews proposed policies, regulations and legislation to determine fiscal or procedural impacts on the department. Procedures are developed to implement the approved policies, regulations and legislation.

The Budget Program is responsible for developing the department's annual operating and capital improvement budgets as well as the preparation of management and legislative reports.

The Internal Audit Program performs audits of departmental activities to evaluate internal controls and compliance with laws, regulations and policies, as well as efficiencies and effectiveness of meeting department goals and objectives.

The Accounting Program is responsible for purchasing, fixed assets, accounts payable and maintenance; grant, project and fund accounting; reporting and monitoring; grant and fund fiscal management; receipt processing; special projects; and analyses.

The Human Resources Program is responsible for administering the human resources function for the department. This program assists all divisions with position classification, implements the provisions of the state personnel law, interprets employee benefits, conducts personnel research, coordinates training, provides career counseling and maintains personnel records for all employees of the department.

The General Services Program is responsible for maintenance and operation of the agency's motor pool, maintenance and operation of a centralized mailroom and supply center, surplus of departmental property and coordination of telecommunications. The program acts as liaison with the Office of Administration and the Division of Facilities Management, Design and Construction.

Division of Environmental Quality

dnr.mo.gov/env

Protecting and enhancing the quality of Missouri's environment is the responsibility of the department's Division of Environmental Quality. The division assists Missourians with these goals through the traditional roles of permitting, inspections and proactive efforts to revitalize contaminated sites for redevelopment. Through its regional offices, the department provides compliance assistance, permitting, inspections and other environmental expertise closest to where Missourians live and work. This division is responsible for protecting and enhancing Missouri's water quality. The division certifies and tracks the required continuing education of all operators of public drinking water systems, wastewater systems and concentrated animal feeding operation waste management systems. The division works to ensure clean air, land and water by cleaning up pollution from the past, addressing pollution problems of today and identifying potential pollution issues of the future. The division administers six technical programs: air pollution control, environmental services, hazardous waste management, soil and water conservation, solid waste management and water protection.

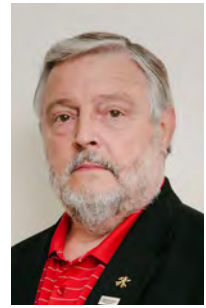
Air Pollution Control Program

The Air Pollution Control Program works to maintain the purity of Missouri's air to protect the health, general welfare and property of citizens. The program researches, develops and implements control strategies that help Missouri improve air quality and implement the federal Clean Air Act.

The program evaluates industries wanting to operate in Missouri, predicting their emissions and their impact on the state's air quality and requiring restrictions on emissions where necessary. The program issues construction and operating permits, selects locations for air monitoring equipment and analyzes data collected from these monitors. The program also surveys and inspects sources of air pollution. If a source consistently violates the state's air pollution control regulations, it is subject to enforcement action to return the facility to compliance.

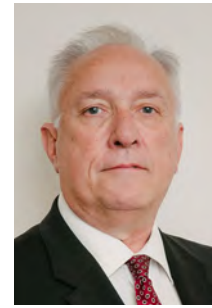
Under the state's federally required plan, the Air Pollution Control Program implements a vehicle emissions testing program in the St. Louis ozone nonattainment area. Ozone is a respiratory irritant that can cause health problems, especially for children, the elderly and people with heart and lung diseases. Through this program, all 1996 and newer gas-powered vehicles and 1997 and newer diesel-powered vehicles 8,500 pounds or less registered in the St. Louis ozone nonattainment area are tested to ensure emissions systems are working properly. This program is a key component of the ongoing effort to improve air quality in the St. Louis region.

This program is a key component of the ongoing effort to improve air quality in the St. Louis region.



The Air Pollution Control Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with local, state and federal air quality regulations. The program carries out the policies established by the Air Conservation Commission.

Air Conservation Commission



The Missouri Air Conservation Commission carries out the Missouri Air Conservation Law. The commission's activities are directed toward achieving and maintaining the National Ambient (outdoor) Air Quality Standards. When air quality in an area meets all standards, the area is considered to be in attainment. If air monitors detect too much of a pollutant, the area is labeled as nonattainment for that pollutant.

The commission adopts, amends and rescinds rules related to air quality and assigns duties to local air pollution control agencies. The commission, through a program involving four delegated local governments and citizens' input, develops strategies for bringing pollutants down to safe levels in nonattainment areas. The commission makes decisions on appeals from enforcement orders and permit conditions. When necessary, the commission also begins legal actions to ensure compliance with Missouri Air Conservation Law and rules.

Environmental Services Program

The Environmental Services Program provides analytical information and scientific data that supports the department. The program also provides direct assistance to local communities and emergency responders throughout Missouri.

The Environmental Emergency Response Section provides 24/7 support and response capability for hazardous substance releases, radiological incidents, homeland security events, and natural disasters. The section also supports law enforcement in managing hazardous wastes associated with drug labs. In FY 2014, nearly 2,200 incidents were reported via the statewide emergency response line (573) 634-2436.

The program houses the state's environmental laboratory. The laboratory is accredited by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to perform chemical analyses of public drinking water samples. This service is provided to all public drinking water systems statewide. The laboratory also analyzes air, soil and other water samples. In FY 2014, chemists conducted more than 64,800 tests on approximately 24,800 samples.

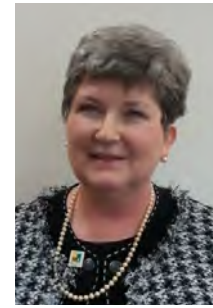
The program operates about 190 air-monitoring instruments at 51 locations statewide. These instruments monitor air pollutants known to affect people's health. This data may determine whether an area meets federal standards for ozone, carbon monoxide and other pollutants. The data also helps department staff identify air pollution trends, investigate citizen complaints, determine sources of air pollution and keep Missourians posted on current air quality.

The water quality monitoring section performs monitoring to assess the health of lakes, rivers and streams. This section collects water and sediment samples throughout the state of Missouri and performs biological monitoring, stream surveys, monitoring of fish tissues, and bacterial analyses of surface waters as well as other sampling events and special studies.

Hazardous Waste Program



The department's Hazardous Waste Program protects public health and the environment by protecting Missouri's water, soil and air from hazardous wastes and hazardous substances. In addition to enforcing state and federal laws to ensure proper management of hazardous wastes being generated today, the program also oversees the cleanup of problem sites resulting from poor waste management in the past.

The Hazardous Waste Program reviews permit applications and provides oversight on hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal facilities as well as shipments of radioactive waste transported through Missouri.

The department's Hazardous Waste Management Program facilitates long-term stewardship of sites where management of contaminated environmental media is necessary to protect human health and the environment. The program maintains an easy-to-use online source for site-specific information about long-term stewardship sites so developers, planners and others can learn about use restrictions tied to the land and ensure property is being used safely.

The program's compliance and enforcement staff assist the department's regional offices with inspections of hazardous waste generators and treatment, storage and disposal facilities.

The program oversees cleanup activities at federal facilities in Missouri, including those owned or operated by the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of Defense, other federal agencies and, in some cases, companies that have a contractual tie with one of the federal agencies.

The program's Superfund Section investigates and oversees cleanups of contaminated property where a release of a hazardous substance has occurred, including sites on the federal National Priorities List and those on the Missouri Registry of Confirmed Abandoned or Uncontrolled Hazardous Waste Disposal Sites. This section also manages the Natural Resources Damages Program, which evaluates injuries to natural resources, negotiates legal settlements and then uses recovered funds to conduct restoration of injured resources.

The program's voluntary cleanup initiative puts properties contaminated by hazardous waste back into productive use by allowing landowners to pay voluntarily for state oversight of cleanups. Landowners receive certification, reducing their environmental liability and increasing economic development in distressed areas.

The program's tanks section provides environmental oversight of leaking underground storage tanks and technical guidance for their closure.

The Hazardous Waste Program carries out the policies of the Missouri Hazardous Waste Management Commission.

Hazardous Waste Management Commission

The Hazardous Waste Management Commission encourages efforts to recycle, incinerate, properly dispose of or otherwise treat hazardous waste. The commission is responsible for categorizing hazardous waste by disposal method and determines fees to be paid by owners or operators of hazardous waste facilities that must obtain a permit. The commission establishes regulations for the generation, transportation, treatment, storage, cleanup and disposal of hazardous waste and hazardous substances, as well as for the operation and cleanup of petroleum underground storage tanks. The commission also hears appeals and rules on requests for variances.

All members represent the general interest of the public and have an interest in and knowledge of waste management and the effects of improper waste management on the health of the public and the environment.

Regional and Satellite Offices

The regional offices and satellite offices assist with local environmental matters. Regional offices in St. Louis, Kansas City, Springfield, Poplar Bluff and Macon provide the department closer contact with the public through field inspections of regulated facilities, complaint investigation, front-line troubleshooting and technical assistance, as well as local environmental emergency response.

Soil and Water Conservation Program

The Soil and Water Conservation Program administers the policies and general programs for agricultural lands developed by the Soil and Water Districts Commission. The primary responsibility of the program is to assist local soil and water conservation districts as they promote voluntary soil and water conservation to their constituents. The districts provide financial incentives and technical assistance working with state and federal conservation partners to agricultural landowners.

Other program activities include administering statewide cost-share assistance and providing educational programs on soil and water conservation. The program provides direct assistance to the 114 county soil and water conservation districts through grants and training to support district staff and other administrative expenses. The program also provides each district with a website at swcd.mo.gov as well as software and training to further assist constituents.

Missouri citizens have shown strong support for soil and water conservation and state parks by passing a one-tenth-of-one percent Parks, Soils and Water Sales Tax in 1984, 1988, 1996 and 2006 to fund these efforts. In 2006, the tax passed with more than 70 percent voting in favor of continuing the tax. Half of the sales tax is deposited in the Soil and Water Conservation Sales Tax Fund to support programs within the Department of Natural Resources used for saving soil and protecting the water resources of the state of Missouri.

The Solid Waste Management Program issues permits and permit modifications for solid waste disposal and processing facilities. Staff review proposed permits for facility design, construction, operations and proper monitoring controls. Program staff inspect permitted facilities quarterly and oversee the operations of these facilities. In addition, staff investigate reports of illegal dumping across Missouri and teach state regulations to landfill operators. Enforcement activities are conducted when necessary to ensure proper solid waste management.

The program oversees the cleanup of illegal tire dumpsites and the Tire Dump Roundup Program, which provides funding to nonprofit groups to clean up dumpsites with less than 500 scrap tires. The cleanups are funded by a 50-cent fee assessed on each new tire purchased in Missouri. Other focuses of the program include planning, financial and technical assistance and educational activities that inform the public of the relationship between individual consumption and solid waste management.

The Solid Waste Management Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal solid waste regulations.

Solid Waste Advisory Board

The Solid Waste Advisory Board advises the department about the effectiveness of its technical assistance and challenges experienced by the solid waste management districts in developing and implementing solid waste management plans. The board advises the department and develops improved methods of solid waste minimization, recycling and resource recovery.

The membership of this board consists of the chair of the executive board of each of Missouri's 20 recognized solid waste management districts; two public members; two representatives from the solid waste industry; and one representative from the recycling or composting industry appointed by the director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

Water Protection Program

The department's Water Protection Program administers clean water and drinking water responsibilities for Missouri. The program is delegated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to conduct duties for the federal Clean Water Act and Safe Drinking Water Act, and also carries out state responsibilities, such as operator certification and construction permitting. The Water Protection Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal water regulations.

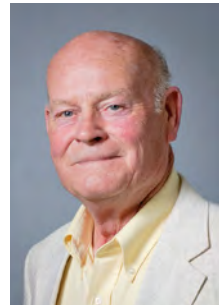
For clean water, the program regulates pollutants entering the state's waters by issuing permits for the construction and operation of wastewater and stormwater discharges. Permits set wastewater treatment levels necessary to protect water quality. These treatment levels are included in permits issued to municipal, industrial and other dischargers. The program evaluates discharge-monitoring and other data to determine whether facilities comply with applicable laws and whether permits are sufficient to protect water quality. The program, with the Division of Environmental Quality's regional offices, is responsible for the inspection and monitoring of water contaminant sources and investigates complaints from the public. If a source violates the Missouri Clean Water Law, the program works with the facility to correct the problem and may assess penalties if necessary.

Water quality standards protect beneficial uses of water such as swimming, maintaining fish and other aquatic life and providing drinking water for people, livestock and wildlife. The program, with the Clean Water Commission, develops water quality standards that provide clear expectations for Missouri water quality and conducts monitoring to determine if the standards are met. Waters that do not meet these standards are placed on the impaired waters (303(d)) list, which provides a focus for special attention to restore water quality in the lakes, streams and rivers. Once a waterway is added to the 303(d) list, the department develops and implements a study to correct the water impairments. Generally, this study takes the form of a total maximum daily load document. It describes the maximum amount of a pollutant that may enter a water body without violating water quality standards.

For drinking water, the program reviews plans and issues permits for the construction and operation of public drinking water systems and requires these systems to monitor for contaminants and take corrective action if any health-based standards are exceeded. The program performs monitoring of drinking water and conducts periodic inspections and provides compliance assistance on water supply problems to cities, water districts, subdivisions, mobile home parks and other facilities.

Financial assistance is provided through grants and low-interest loans to local governments to assist in the construction of wastewater, drinking water and storm water facilities. The program also provides financial and technical assistance for the control of nonpoint source pollution caused by agriculture, mining, transportation and other activities.

Clean Water Commission



The Clean Water Commission brings together and coordinates all aspects of water quality in an effort to ensure the state's progress toward protecting, preserving and improving water quality in Missouri. The commission implements the federal Clean Water Law through rules and policies, and hears appeals based on those permit decisions. When necessary, the commission will take enforcement action against those who violate the Missouri Clean Water Law and related regulations. The commission also establishes funding

Safe Drinking Water Commission

The purpose of the Safe Drinking Water Commission is to ensure all 2,800 public water systems in Missouri provide safe drinking water. The commission adopts rules to carry out the requirements of the Missouri Safe Drinking Water Law and Federal Safe Drinking Water Act. The commission establishes criteria and procedures for administering the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund, which makes federal and state loan funds available to communities to upgrade and improve their drinking water systems.

All members of the commission represent the general interest of the public or public water systems.

Missouri Geological Survey

dnr.mo.gov/geology

The Missouri Geological Survey provides technical assistance, education and guidance in the use and protection of Missouri's natural resources, interprets the state's geological setting, helps determine the availability of its energy and mineral resources, evaluates and interprets geological hazards and regulates well drillers. The division investigates and reports on the state's geological resources and defines hazardous areas, such as those subject to earthquake or catastrophic collapse. Staff members work to ensure clean air, land and water by working with the mining industry and Missouri communities to minimize the environmental and health impacts of mining activities in Missouri. The department, through the division's Water Resources Center, has statutory authority for water quantity issues such as statewide water use and availability, water resources monitoring and planning, drought assessment, flood and hydrology studies, wetland studies and dam and reservoir safety. The division addresses the development, conservation and utilization of the state's water resources.

The division maintains GeoSTRAT, a Web application that enables users to easily visualize and explore geospatial data using an interactive map. Data such as geology, water wells, sinkholes, historic mine locations, caves, springs, water traces, well logs, aquifers, groundwater information can be viewed to aid in site assessments.

The division cooperates with the U.S. Geological Survey on numerous projects, including the National Cooperative Geologic Mapping Program. The division also performs work under contract for other state agencies through grants and agreements.

The Missouri Geological Survey administers three technical programs: geological survey, land reclamation and water resources.

Division Director and State Geologist

The division director serves as the state geologist and is responsible for ensuring statutory obligations are met. The state geologist is the administrator of the State Oil and Gas Council; serves on the Well Installation Board, Missouri Mining Commission, Dam and Reservoir Safety County and Industrial Minerals Advisory Council; serves as ex officio member on the Board of Geologist

Registration; and is a Missouri representative to the Central United States Earthquake Consortium and the Association of American State Geologists.

Geological Survey Program

The Geological Survey Program uses geologic information and knowledge to assist Missouri citizens in the management of natural resources for a higher standard of living and healthy natural environment. The program gathers and publishes data that describes and interprets Missouri's vast geological resources, which includes geologic maps, reports of investigations and other print and online publications that can be important in making land-use decisions. This information is necessary for locating mineral deposits, managing groundwater resources, selecting waste disposal facilities and evaluating geologic hazards. The program receives thousands of requests for geological assistance each year.

Staff also conduct geologic field investigations that provide technical assistance to the public and government agencies. These services include determining the environmental hazards posed by waste disposal sites and spills of hazardous materials. Geological principles are applied to minimize the impact of chemical releases or spills.

The Geological Survey Program works to protect groundwater from contamination through regulation of the construction of wells, plugging of abandoned wells and licenses well drillers and pump installers conducting business in Missouri. In addition to assistance provided in siting waste disposal facilities, the program also implements the Oil and Gas Act and the Underground Injection Control Program of the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Industrial Minerals Advisory Council

The Industrial Minerals Advisory Council is composed of eight representatives of the industrial minerals industry who are appointed by the director of the department. The representatives include three from limestone producers and one each from industries involved in mining clay, sandstone, sand and gravel, barite and granite. Other members include the director (or designee) of the Department of Transportation and the director (or designee) of the Department of Natural Resources, who acts as chairperson of the council.

The primary duty of the council is to advise the department on the collection, processing, management and distribution of geologic and hydrologic information to assist the industrial mineral industry. Expenditures from the geologic resources fund, which was created to complete these activities, are reviewed by the council, and the council advises the department on appropriate fees to support the fund.

Land Reclamation Program

The Land Reclamation Program works with the mining industry and Missouri communities to minimize the environmental and health impacts of mining activities in Missouri.

The program carries out Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program to reclaim abandoned coal mine sites within Missouri that have safety hazards or environmental problems. The program also regulates mining and reclamation activities and issues permits. Reclamation bonds ensure sites are properly graded, replanted and maintained after mining ceases. After the mining company completes all required reclamation, the commission releases these financial assurances and relieves the responsible company of any further reclamation liabilities.

The program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal mining and land reclamation regulations.

Missouri Mining Commission

The Missouri Mining Commission governs Missouri's mining requirements as set forth in three state statutes. These statutes protect public health, safety and the environment from adverse effects of mining and ensure beneficial restoration of mined lands.

The Missouri Mining Commission is responsible for issuing mining permits and oversees Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program. The commission establishes rules and regulations for mining activities and oversees investigations and inspections necessary to ensure compliance. The commission conducts hearings and when necessary may revoke a permit, order a forfeiture of bonds or cease operations at a facility for failure to comply.

The eight-member commission includes four statutory and four public members. The statutory members include the state geologist, staff director, director of the Missouri Department of Conservation and staff director of the Clean Water Commission. The four public members must have an interest in and knowledge of conservation and land reclamation, and one must have training and experience in surface mining. Only one member of the commission may have a direct link with the mining industry. With Senate approval, the governor appoints four public members. All members serve a four-year term and continue until their successors are appointed.

State Oil and Gas Council

The State Oil and Gas Council promotes the economic development and production of Missouri's oil and gas resources, works to ensure that wastes generated by oil and gas wells are managed properly and protects groundwater aquifers that may be affected by oil and gas well drilling.

Well Installation Board

The Well Installation Board adopts and amends rules governing well construction and the well drilling industry to protect Missouri's groundwater resources. The board also oversees the examination and licensing of all well drillers and pump installers and takes actions against those who violate the Water Well Driller's Act and Well Construction Rules. The board sets fees by establishing rules that do not substantially exceed the cost and expense of administering the law. The board acts as an appeal board by sustaining, reversing or modifying enforcement orders issued by Missouri Geological Survey after an appeal has been made by an affected person.

All members of the board are conversant in well drilling, completion and plugging methods and techniques.

Vacancy, monitoring well installation permit representative.

Water Resources Center

The Water Resources Center addresses the development, conservation and utilization of the state's water resources. To assist communities, public entities and state and federal agencies, the center provides technical assistance through drought assessment, planning and water resource monitoring. Areas of expertise within the center include interstate waters, groundwater, surface water, dam and reservoir safety, wetland studies and water resource planning.

The interstate waters staff coordinates issues relating to major river basins that affect Missouri and provides technical support for negotiations and litigation actions to protect the state's rights to these waters. The groundwater section operates and maintains a groundwater-level observation well network for monitoring Missouri's aquifers. Collection and analysis of groundwater data provides knowledge of available water quantity, aquifer response to water use, groundwater recharge and aquifer characteristics. The surface water section provides technical support by performing water supply analyses, in-stream flow assessments and flood inundation studies. This section also administers the collection and analysis of statewide water use data in accordance with the Major Water User Law. The Dam and Reservoir Safety staff and the Dam and Reservoir Safety Council are responsible for ensuring all new and existing non-agricultural, non-federal dams 35 feet or more in height meet minimum safety standards as established by the Dam and Reservoir Safety Law. The center also provides technical support to the Missouri Drought Assessment Committee and leadership and coordination of regional water resources planning initiatives and wetland activities.

Missouri State Parks, a division of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, works to protect and interpret the state's most outstanding natural and cultural resources while providing recreational opportunities compatible with those resources. The Missouri State Park system was established in 1917 and includes 87 state parks and historic sites totaling more than 140,000 acres and the Roger Pryor Pioneer Backcountry.

The primary source of funding for the state park system is half of the dedicated constitutional tax of one-tenth-of-one-percent parks, soils and water sales tax. All additional funding comes from revenues generated in the state park system and some federal funds. The parks, soils and water tax was created through a constitutional amendment and earmarked specifically for the state park system and efforts to stop soil erosion. The tax was first approved by voters in 1984, and has since been reapproved by voters three times in 1988, 1996 and 2006. Two-thirds of voters approved the tax the last three times, showing how much Missouri voters support their state park system.

Approximately 18 million people visit the state park system annually to hike, camp, fish, discover the past and explore nature. The state's most outstanding landscapes are preserved for everyone's enjoyment–deep forests, glades, prairies and blue streams and lakes. State historic sites commemorate events or structures of statewide historical importance and honor people of state and national importance. The system includes homes of famous Missourians, Civil War battlefields and reminders of yesterday, such as gristmills and covered bridges.

Missouri State Park Advisory Board

The governor-appointed board was created in 1986 to advise the department on matters relating to state parks and historic sites.

Grant Management

Missouri State Parks is responsible for administering federal grant programs that provide financial assistance to individuals, groups and public entities for a variety of purposes.

The division administers funds from the Recreational Trails Program, which provides federal money for the development of trails. The Missouri Trails Advisory Board views and scores the grant applications and makes recommendations on grant awards.

The division also administers and monitors projects funded through the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund program, which provides federal funds for local outdoor recreation projects.

State Historic Preservation Office

Missouri was one of the first in the nation to establish the State Historic Preservation Office in 1968 following the Historic Preservation Act of 1966. The office helps facilitate the process of identifying properties significant to the citizens, state and nation, and planning for their preservation.

BILL BRYAN
Director
Missouri State Parks

The department coordinates surveys statewide to identify historic, architectural and archaeological resources. Significant properties identified in the surveys may be nominated to the National Register of Historic Places. Missouri has more than 2,300 listings on the National Register, representing more than 44,000 historic buildings, sites, structures and objects. The Missouri Cultural Resource Inventory is being built from information gathered from the survey and nomination process.

As part of its federally mandated responsibilities, the department reviews all federally funded or licensed projects in Missouri to ensure compliance with related federal legislation. The department also administers federal Historic Preservation Fund matching grants from the U.S. Department of the Interior's National Park Service. These funds are used to help identify, evaluate and protect Missouri's cultural resources. Through Missouri's Certified Local Government program, the department trains municipalities in local preservation techniques and awards federal matching grants to help accomplish local preservation goals.

Since 1976, federal tax incentives and related legislation have promoted interest in rehabilitating historic buildings. In 1998, that interest was augmented with the authorization of state tax credits, administered by the Missouri Department of Economic Development. The federal tax credits are available to private investors who rehabilitate historic buildings for uses that produce income, such as office buildings and apartments. The Department of Natural Resources reviews both federal and state tax credit applications for historic eligibility and conformity with preservation guidelines.

The State Historic Preservation Office also administers the Missouri Heritage Properties Program using funds from the Missouri's Historic Preservation Revolving Fund. The program provides assistance to help preserve endangered publicly owned historic buildings.

Missouri Advisory Council on Historic Preservation

This council reviews all Missouri nominations to the National Register of Historic Places and advises the state's historic preservation officer.

Unmarked Human Burial Consultation Committee

This committee was established under provisions of Missouri's Unmarked Human Burial Act, which governs the disposition of unmarked human burial remains uncovered during ground-disturbing activities.

Appointed by the governor, the seven-member committee, which includes an archaeologist, an anthropologist and representatives of minority and Native American groups, makes final decisions as to the respectful treatment and appropriate reburial of all recovered unmarked human remains.

Mission

Established in 1974, the Department of Public Safety (DPS) coordinates statewide law enforcement, criminal justice and public safety efforts to ensure a safe environment for Missourians. The department's mission is to "provide a safe and secure environment for all individuals through efficient and effective law enforcement, national defense, disaster preparedness, service to veterans and education." The department is organized into nine separate agencies: Office of the Director, Missouri Capitol Police, Division of Fire Safety, Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control, Missouri State Highway Patrol, Missouri National Guard (Office of the Adjutant General), State Emergency Management Agency, Missouri Veterans Commission and Missouri Gaming Commission.

Office of the Director

The director of public safety is appointed to this cabinet-level position by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The director is responsible for developing public safety programs, peace officer training and licensing and providing legislative guidance on criminal justice issues. Additionally, the director is responsible for overseeing distribution of state and federal resources and funds in contracts for narcotics control, Internet sex crime elimination, victims' assistance, crime prevention, interoperable communications, juvenile justice, substance abuse treatment and student loan repayment for prosecutors and public defenders. As the department's central management unit, the director's office coordinates departmental budget, personnel, legislative matters and related financial and administrative activities. The director's office is also responsible for the administration of specific programs conferred upon it by the legislature or governor. These programs are:

The Juvenile Justice Unit administers the federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act Formula Grant Program (Title II) and Juvenile Accountability Block Grant Program (JABG) from the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention for projects to improve juvenile justice in Missouri and provides staff support for the state Juvenile Justice Advisory Group (JJAG).

fice for Victims of Crime, which maintains the statewide automated crime victim notification system (MOVANS) and provides guidance to not-for-profit, local and state agencies on practices and policies that impact crime victims. VOCA, VAWA, SASP and SSVF provide grants that fund local victim service providers, law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and other public and private nonprofit agencies to assist crime victims in Missouri. The unit strives to ensure that people affected by crime are treated with fairness, dignity and respect, and to facilitate communication between victim organizations and the government.

Crime Victims' Compensation Program (CVC)

The Crime Victims' Compensation Program (CVC) financially assists victims of violent crime in paying for reasonable medical expenses, counseling expenses, funeral expenses, lost wages and loss of support. In the case of death, the program can help the victim's dependents with loss of support if the victim was gainfully employed. As a payer of last resort, the program considers out-of-pocket expenses only after all collateral sources have been exhausted. A maximum benefit of $25,000 may be awarded on eligible claims.

Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Program (SAFE)

The Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Program (SAFE) provides payments to cover the cost of gathering evidence during the forensic examination for victims of sexual crimes in Missouri. The medical provider is required to bill the SAFE Program for reasonable charges incurred during the forensic examination. The patient may not be billed for any forensic examination charges.

Child Physical Abuse Forensic Examinations (CPAFE)

Child Physical Abuse Forensic Examination (CPAFE) program provides payments to cover the cost of gathering evidence during the forensic examination for victims of child physical abuse in Missouri. The medical provider is required to bill the CPAFE program for reasonable charges incurred during the forensic examination. The patient may not be billed for any forensic examination charges.

Peace Officer Standards and Training Program (POST)

The Peace Officer Standards and Training Program (POST) is a regulatory program with responsibility for licensing peace officers, ensuring compliance with peace officer continuing education requirements, and conducting investigations for disciplining the licenses of peace officers as specified by Chapter 590, RSMo. The POST Program also licenses corporate security advisors, law enforcement basic training centers, basic training instructors, approves law enforcement training curricula and provides staff support for the POST Commission.

Office of Homeland Security

The overall responsibility for Missouri's homeland security program falls under the Department of Public Safety. The director of public safety is the governor's designated homeland security advisor. DPS agencies, including the National Guard, Highway Patrol, Division of Fire Safety, State Emergency Management Agency and Capitol Police all support and are considered key to keeping Missouri safe and secure.

The Missouri Office of Homeland Security (OHS) is the designated State Administrative Agency (SAA) and responsible for applying for and administering the Homeland Security suite of grants and the Emergency Management Performance Grant for the state. Responsibilities for homeland security-related training and exercises are a collaborative effort of OHS and SEMA. OHS works closely with other stakeholders to ensure a "one state, one strategy" program. The governor's Homeland Security Advisory Council (HSAC) and the Regional Homeland Security Oversight Committees (RHSOC) work with OHS to ensure seamless engagement and shared ownership of Missouri's homeland security program down to the local level.

Missouri Statewide Interoperability Network (MoSWIN)

In 2009, the Department of Public Safety, in conjunction with its public safety partners, began construction of Missouri's statewide interoperable radio network. The MoSWIN system, which uses the VHF High Band (150MHz) radio spectrum, became operational in 2012 and provides the infrastructure for interoperable communications throughout Missouri for local and state agencies, including the Missouri State Highway Patrol, which also utilize MoSWIN for intra-agency communications. There are two levels of communication for local jurisdictions. As of May 2015, 134 Level 1 agencies utilized MoSWIN for full-time, day-to-day communications, in addition to interoperable communications. As of May 2015, 862 Level 2 agencies utilized MoSWIN to achieve interoperability with local and state agencies but retained their internal radio communications system for day-to-day operations. MoSWIN system administration and operations headquarters is at the Missouri Interoperability Center (MIC) in Jefferson City. The MIC also provides training and technical assistance.

Advisory Committee for 9-1-1 Service Oversight

The Missouri General Assembly, through state statute (section 650.330, RSMo), established a committee on 9-1-1 service oversight, with the director of public safety designated to be the chair of the committee. Coordinated through the Office of Administration in the 1990s, these duties were transferred to the Office of Homeland Security in 2009. OHS serves as the state contact for 9-1-1 issues and is the state administrative agent for related grant administration purposes.

The Advisory Committee for 9-1-1 Service Oversight assists and advises the key policymakers in regard to the challenges, availability, implementation and enhancement of the emergency communication access number 9-1-1 common to all jurisdictions throughout the state. The following subcommittees have been identified to provide ongoing strategic planning to support Missouri's 9-1-1 program: legislative, professional standards, technical and educational/outreach.

The advisory committee members are:

Since 1983, Missouri Capitol Police has been the primary law enforcement agency for the 72-acre state office building campus known as the Capitol Complex. Located within that area are: the state Capitol Building, Jefferson Building, Transportation Building, Supreme Court, James C. Kirkpatrick State Information Center, Broadway Building, Truman Building, Governor's Mansion, Jefferson Landing historic site and associated parking facilities and grounds. Capitol Police also provide services to state agencies and facilities in other areas of Jefferson City. Capitol Police has statutory authority on all state-owned/leased property in Cole County. Capitol Police oversees a computerized, centrally monitored, fire/life safety/after-hours entry control system in the Capitol Complex buildings.

Field Operations

Missouri Capitol Police officers patrol the buildings and grounds in their jurisdiction 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Patrols are made on foot, by vehicle and on bicycle. Criminal investigations, medical emergencies, traffic accidents, security and fire alarms and security escorts are only a few of the many incidents and calls for service officers provide to over 15,000 state employees and over 200,000 annual visitors to the seat of government.

Special Services

Capitol Police officers regularly provide specialized safety training and personal safety instruction for Capitol and other state employees and conduct site security surveys at Jefferson City state facilities.

Executive Protection

Since 1978, officers have staffed the Missouri Governor's Mansion. A team of specially trained officers is assigned on a full-time basis to the Missouri Governor's Mansion, providing residential security for the state's first family 24 hours a day.

Communications Operations

In addition to radio and telephone communications with the public and other agencies, communications operators are responsible for management of a fire/life safety monitoring system, which includes fire, intrusion and duress alarms and after-hours building access.

The Missouri State Fire Marshal's Office was established by the 76th Missouri General Assembly in 1973. Effective September 1985, the office was renamed the Division of Fire Safety and was housed within the Missouri Department of Public Safety.

The division is charged with the oversight and enforcement of programs that maintain the safety and well-being of the general public. Responsibilities include: providing fire safety standards and inspections for all state-licensed facilities; investigating fires and explosions in the state upon request; regulating the use and sale of fireworks and licensing fireworks operators; training and certification of firefighters and emergency response personnel; inspecting and licensing nonexempt boilers and pressure vessels; inspecting and issuing operating permits for elevator-related equipment; inspecting and issuing operating permits for amusement rides; monitoring of fire emergencies and assisting local, area and regional fire authorities through the State Fire Mutual Aid System; overseeing the rules and regulations relating to the licensing of explosive blasters and the registration of explosive users; and overseeing the fire standard compliant cigarette program.

Fire Service Training/Certification

The Division of Fire Safety's Training and Certification Unit is responsible for the training and certification of over 25,000 firefighters in the state of Missouri. In addition, the unit's customers include representatives from fire service, law enforcement, private industry and other state agencies. The division offers 16 different courses and 22 levels of state certification. The Missouri Division of Fire Safety is accredited through the International Fire Service Accreditation Congress, National Board of Fire Service Professional Qualifications and the Peace Officer Standards and Training Commission.

State Fire Mutual Aid

The Division of Fire Safety coordinates activation and deployment of local resources when interregional mutual aid assistance is requested. When an incident occurs within any one of the nine mutual aid regions and all local resources become exhausted, the regional coordinator contacts the Division of Fire Safety's state mutual aid coordinator to request mutual aid assistance of specific resources. The state coordinator in turn contacts mutual aid coordinators within unaffected regions to locate and deploy the needed resources to the impacted region. With information gathered from the annual Fire Department Registration program and continued input and support from all fire service agencies, the system stands ready to mitigate the effects of small or large scale emergencies. The state mutual aid coordinator also administers the National Fire Incident Reporting System.

Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission

The Division of Fire Safety addresses the fire service training needs of our state through contracts in cooperation with community colleges, colleges, regional training facilities, fire and emergency services training entities and universities as appropriated. The Missouri Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission reviews and determines appropriate programs and activities for which funds may be expended and advises the division accordingly.

Fire Safety Inspection

Fire safety inspectors conduct inspections of facilities and locations licensed or certified by state agencies including the Department of Health and Senior Services, the Department of Mental Health, the Department of Social Services and senior citizens nutrition centers. These inspections, based upon nationally recognized codes and standards, are designed to eliminate fire safety hazards for occupants of childcare homes and centers, facilities and homes providing care for the mentally challenged, foster care providers and facilities housing at-risk youth.

State statute requires the Division of Fire Safety to oversee fire protection sprinkler systems, fire alarm systems, and smoke sections in residential care facilities and assisted living facilities.

Fire Investigation

The Fire Investigation Unit provides fire- and explosive-related investigative services to Missouri's fire service and law enforcement agencies. Under section 320.230, RSMo, the state fire marshal and the appointed investigators are responsible for investigating incidents involving the possibility of arson, explosion or related offenses as requested by the fire service, law enforcement or prosecuting attorneys within the state. Investigators are trained in several fields of expertise, including insurance fraud, explosive recognition, weapons of mass destruction and post-blast investigations.

Fire Investigators are Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST)-licensed law enforcement officers with the power of arrest for criminal offenses when investigating the cause, origin or circumstances of fires, explosions or similar occurrences involving the possibility of arson or related offenses. Investigators also have arrest powers when aiding and assisting the sheriff or the chief of police of any county or designated representative upon request.

Fireworks Enforcement

The Division of Fire Safety is charged with enforcing section 320.106, RSMo, involving the investigation, permission and inspection of the fireworks industry in Missouri. This statute requires prospective manufacturers, distributors, jobbers, wholesalers, seasonal retailers and persons requesting special fireworks displays to apply to the Division of Fire Safety for permits to do business in Missouri. Applicants must meet certain requirements, follow safety procedures and acquire a fireworks license.

The scope of this program was broadened by the 2004 legislature with the addition of testing and licensing of individuals who shoot fireworks for public displays. This includes proximate (indoor) fireworks shows.

The division's inspection and investigation staff conduct inspections of facilities selling, manufacturing or distributing fireworks.

Blasting Safety Act

The Blasting Safety Act was created in 2007 when the General Assembly enacted House Bill 298. This act established the Blasting Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the licensing of blasters and the registration of explosives users. The act also requires the division to investigate complaints involving blasting operations throughout the state.

The Blasting Safety Board continues to advise the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Boiler and Pressure Vessel Rules

The Missouri Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, per sections 650.200–650.295, RSMo, was passed in 1984 and became mandatory on Nov. 12, 1986. The purpose of the law is to ensure the safety of the general public and those who work in the vicinity of boilers and pressure vessels and to protect property.

The act requires periodic inspections of boilers and pressure vessels and the issuance of state operating certificates. Inspections are performed by certified inspectors in accordance with nationally recognized standards. Vessels found to have violations in relation to these standards are required to be repaired prior to the issuance of the state operating certificate. Accidents involving boilers or pressure vessels are investigated by the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Safety Unit.

The Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Rules advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

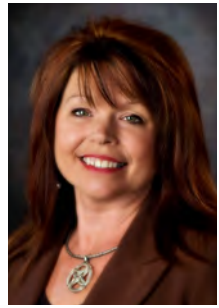
Elevator Safety Act

In 1994, the 86th General Assembly enacted House Bill 1035 creating the Elevator Safety Act. This act established an Elevator Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the construction, maintenance, testing and inspection of all elevators and similar devices, as well as the evaluation of variance requests.

The legislation requires annual safety inspections of every elevator and similar devices as specified in the statute. Upon an approved inspection, a state operating certificate is issued.

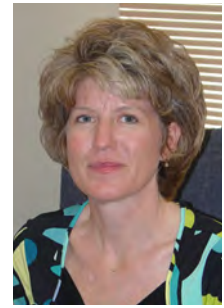
Amusement Ride Safety Act

In 1997, House Bill 276 was enacted relating to amusement ride safety. It requires annual safety inspections of all amusement rides and mandates each ride have a state operating permit before operating in the state. Additionally, the division staff has the authority to conduct spot inspections on any ride operating in the state.



If a serious injury or death occurs as the result of the operation of an amusement ride the Division of Fire Safety initiates an investigation into the cause of the accident.

The legislation also places certain restrictions on the riders of amusement rides. A violation of any restriction may result in criminal prosecution.



Staff of the elevator safety program perform the duties required to support the Amusement Ride Safety Act. This program is overseen by a nine-member Amusement Ride Safety Board, which advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Fire Standard Compliant Cigarette Act

This act, passed in 2009, requires the Division of Fire Safety to oversee a program regulating the the sale of reduced ignition propensity cigarettes. Cigarettes sold in Missouri after Dec. 31, 2010, must be fire-safe compliant (FSC).

Division responsibilities include verification of individual cigarette brand styles based upon nationally recognized testing standards to ensure compliance with state law. The division maintains a listing of cigarettes meeting the established performance standard, and this list is also provided to the state Attorney General's Office and Missouri Department of Revenue.

The division recertifies the cigarettes every three years, approves cigarette pack FSC labeling and manages the Cigarette Fire Safety and Fire Fighter Protection Act Fund used to support fire prevention and safety programs.

The Department of Liquor Control was established by the Liquor Control Act in 1934 and was restructured as a division within the Department of Public Safety in 1974. The Division of Liquor Control's name was changed to the Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control (ATC) in 2003. The division's responsibilities are to enforce the liquor control laws under Chapter 311, RSMo, the youth access to tobacco law under Chapter 407, RSMo, and the rules and regulations of the state supervisor of Alcohol and Tobacco Control. The agency's responsibilities are primarily threefold: revenue collection, liquor licensing and regulatory compliance. The liquor control laws and the state's system of alcoholic beverage regulations are designed to ensure the public health and safety as affected by intoxicating beverages. Alcohol and Tobacco Control supervises the state's revenue derived from the collection of excise taxes on alcoholic beverages and license fees. Additionally, state statute mandates the division protect the consumer from tainted alcoholic products and the liquor industry from infiltration and exploitation by the criminal element.

The Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control is headed by the state supervisor. The state supervisor has the authority under Chapter 311, RSMo, to promulgate regulations, issue liquor licenses and suspend, revoke or fine liquor licenses for liquor control law violations. The supervisor also has the authority under Chapter 407, RSMo, to issue citations prohibiting outlets from selling tobacco products for violations of the youth access to tobacco law.

Licensing and Revenue Collection Section

The main function of the licensing and revenue collection section is to ensure general compliance with liquor control laws requiring the collection of excise taxes on all alcoholic beverages brought into the state of Missouri. Approximately $35 million is collected annually from liquor, wine and beer taxes for deposit into the general revenue fund. This is achieved by regularly conducting audits of licensed manufacturers, wineries, breweries and wholesalers.

This section is responsible for overseeing compliance regarding primary American source of supply, product testing and brand registration, which provides assurances to Missouri citizens that products are safe for consumption, and all excise taxes due have been paid. The licensing section, with assistance from the regulatory compliance section, annually collects and processes almost $5 million in license fees and processes over 30,000 license applications. This section is also responsible for retention of the division's records.

Regulatory Compliance Section

Alcohol and Tobacco Control's regulatory compliance section consists of five districts. The regulatory compliance section is supervised by the chief of enforcement and staffed with POST-licensed special agents. Special agents are assigned to a district. Each district is responsible for licensing, responding to citizen and industry complaints, working with local law enforcement agencies and educating licensees on liquor control laws, tobacco laws and regulations.

Educational Programs

ATC takes a proactive stance by providing industry education, server training and law enforcement education programs. Seminars for thousands of retail servers across the state have been conducted to reduce underage drinking, over-serving alcohol to customers and the sale of tobacco products to minors. Informational pamphlets are also provided to assist liquor licensees and tobacco outlets in complying with liquor control laws and tobacco laws. Alcohol and Tobacco Control also has an educational program to train law enforcement on the liquor control laws.

Summary

ATC has streamlined the liquor renewal process, utilized grants to provide more services and modernized revenue collection. Greater information is provided to the public, liquor industry and tobacco merchants and local law enforcement to achieve an unprecedented level of efficiency and cost-effectiveness for Missourians.

Missouri State Highway Patrol

Since its inception in 1931, the Missouri State Highway Patrol has served and protected those living and visiting this great state. The Patrol has evolved into a full-service, professional law enforcement agency, yet its primary emphasis is traffic and water safety. The Patrol is responsible not only for law enforcement on our state's highways and waterways, but also motor vehicle and commercial vehicle inspection programs, driver license examinations, criminal investigations, crime laboratory analysis, related research and statistics, public education on safety issues, etc. The Patrol has been an accredited law enforcement agency since 1992.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol utilizes enforcement and education in its approach to traffic and boating safety. Sobriety checkpoints and saturations, hazardous moving violation projects, SAFETE commercial vehicle checks, and Click It or Ticket operations are some examples of enforcement projects aimed at making Missouri's roadways safer. In 2014, the two-week Click It or Ticket enforcement operations resulted in 1,283 citations and 1,557 warnings being issued. Marine enforcement troopers schedule sobriety checkpoints, saturations and equipment spot-checks on Missouri's lakes and rivers. During the last weekend in June, the Patrol participates in Operation Dry Water, a national campaign to detect and apprehend intoxicated watercraft operators. Marine enforcement troopers arrested eight people for boating while intoxicated and issued 72 boating violation summonses and 390 warnings on Missouri's waterways during Operation Dry Water 2014. In addition, troopers ensure safety during large scale marine events. News releases, public service announcements and safety programs educate the public about a variety of traffic and water safety topics throughout the year.

The Patrol's Major Crash Investigation Units provide a higher level of expertise and reporting in the field of traffic crash investigation. Teams are located in Higginsville, Jackson, Wentzville and Rogersville to serve the main population of the state. In 2014, approximately 125 Level IV reconstructions (fatalities involving commercial vehicles, school buses, with felony charges against a driver, etc.) were completed. Additionally, these teams answered 447 calls for service to assist Patrol members and other agencies with mapping of homicide scenes, crash data retrieval system downloads, photography of crash scenes, mapping and crash scene expertise.

The Patrol's four fully equipped Special Weapons and Tactics Teams (SWAT) are located in Troop A, Troop C, Troop D and Troop F. The teams comprise troopers assigned to regular road duty. In 2014, the SWAT teams responded to a total of 30 incidents. The activations included barricaded subjects, high-risk search and arrest warrants, manhunts and security details.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol is nationally known for the success of its criminal interdiction program. Because of its central location in the United States and its major interstates, Missouri has become a crossroad for the distribution of drugs. Operation Cash Crop, the methamphetamine hotline, and the trained canine units make the Patrol's criminal interdiction program a success. In 2014, the Patrol's interdiction program resulted in the seizure of over 1,715 pounds of marijuana, 104 pounds of cocaine, 81 pounds of methamphetamine, 14 ounces of heroin and six pounds of psilocybin mushrooms, in addition to quantities of other illegal drugs. In connection with the drug interdiction program, 140 criminal arrests were made, and $1,745,166 in currency and 32 weapons were seized. In 2014, methamphetamine laboratory incidents totaled 1,045.

In accordance with Missouri statutes, DNA collection includes all felons. The Crime Laboratory Division's Combined DNA Index System aided 932 investigations in 2014.

Missouri's Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) is maintained and operated at the Patrol's Criminal Justice Information Services Division. AFIS houses over 3 million tenprint cards and compares sets of fingerprints in a matter of minutes. AFIS has proven to be an exceptional identification tool for law enforcement agencies throughout the state in identifying and tracking criminals, identifying persons assuming another's identity, identifying persons who were at a crime scene and identifying deceased persons found without identification. Law enforcement agencies are able to submit tenprints electronically via livescan devices and check fingerprints on scene using a handheld FAST ID device.

Twenty-one divisions are organized under the assistant superintendent and six bureaus, all lending administrative support to the troops and fulfilling additional duties of the Patrol. Chapter 43 RSMo. established the Patrol's original force of 55 officers and a handful of civilians. Today, the Patrol's authorized strength is 1,295 uniformed members, 128 of whom are assigned to the Gaming Division, and 1,184 civilians in the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Field Operations Bureau

The state of Missouri is divided into nine troops with headquarters in Lee's Summit, Macon, Weldon Spring, Springfield, Poplar Bluff, Jefferson City, Willow Springs, St. Joseph and Rolla. The Field Operations Bureau supervises all field activities and has oversight of the Major Crash Investigation Units, SWAT teams, K-9 teams, Dive Team and motorcycle officers.

the state. The division is composed of eight laboratories: two full-service laboratories located in Jefferson City and Springfield, and satellite laboratories located in St. Joseph, Macon, Park Hills, Cape Girardeau, Willow Springs and Carthage. Services are provided to local law enforcement agencies at no cost. Initially, the American Society of Crime Laboratory Directors Laboratory Accreditation Board accredited the Crime Laboratory in 1984. It has been re-accredited every five years since. The accreditation community has since moved its focus toward international accrediting criteria. The Crime Laboratory Division achieved this international accreditation based on ISO 17025 standards through ASCLD/LAB in 2011. The Patrol crime laboratory is responsible for managing Missouri's Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) database.

The Division of Drug and Crime Control provides criminal investigators specializing in the investigation of narcotics, criminal intelligence, rural crimes, digital forensics, explosives disposal, field investigations, lottery enforcement, missing persons and motor vehicle theft. The division's criminal investigators assist various criminal justice agencies—federal, state and local—throughout the state.

Gaming Division members perform background investigations on gaming boat operators and upper-level management, and enforce Gaming Commission rules/regulations and state laws on Missouri riverboats. Each operating riverboat must have at least one Gaming Division officer on board during all operating hours. The division also regulates bingo in Missouri.

The Missouri Information Analysis Center was formed to collect, evaluate, analyze and disseminate information to local, state and federal agencies tasked with homeland security responsibilities.

Missouri State Highway Patrol

Executive Services Bureau

The Budget and Procurement Division prepares the budget, maintains records of all federal and state purchases and expenditures for the Patrol, maintains a perpetual inventory of all equipment and supplies, coordinates the leasing program and prepares the payroll. Division personnel administer federal grants and fulfill all associated reporting requirements.

The Governor's Security Division provides protection for the governor and the governor's family. The division may provide security to the lieutenant governor, upon request when acting as governor, as well as to visiting governors and other dignitaries.

Technical Services Bureau

The Patrol's Criminal Justice Information Services Division (CJISD) is the central repository of criminal history records for Missouri. Section 43.500, RSMo., mandated reporting criminal history actions to the central repository for all police officers, prosecutors, court clerks and corrections facilities in Missouri. The CJISD dis-seminates criminal history record information through the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES) for criminal justice agencies and disseminates criminal record information to the public. The central repository is the single point of contact for criminal history information exchanged between Missouri and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The CJISD also maintains the sex offender registry for Missouri, which can be accessed online at www.mshp.dps.mo.gov/CJ38/SearchRegistry.jsp or by calling the Missouri Sex Offender Registry hotline (888-SOR-MSHP). This division also manages the Uniform Crime Reporting program.

The Information & Communications Technology Division (ICTD) develops, builds, maintains and provides the services and infrastructure for communications and information systems to the Missouri State Highway Patrol and to criminal justice agencies throughout the state. Communications personnel communicate critical and often time-sensitive information to troopers on patrol on the state's roadways and waterways, as well as coordinate activities with other law enforcement jurisdictions. ICTD operates and maintains a sophisticated statewide voice and data communications network that provides access to these services on a 365-day/24-hour basis. The division is responsible for the Patrol's state highway emergency hotline (800) 525-5555 and wireless (*55) emergency hotline numbers and Missouri's portion of the America's Missing Broadcast Emergency Response (AMBER) Alert system broadcasts.

ICTD maintains the computer systems that house the state of Missouri's central data repositories for wanted/missing persons, stolen property, criminal records, traffic crash and arrest records, drug and alcohol offender records, and other related criminal justice information. ICTD supports connections to the National Crime Information Center, the National Law Enforcement Telecommunications System, the National Crime Information Bureau, the Missouri Department of Revenue and other regional justice systems. The division consists of highly trained information systems personnel, network engineers, communications technicians and technical field engineers who are located at the General Headquarters in Jefferson City and at troop locations around the state. Division personnel maintain a 24/7, 365-days-per-year call center to provide support to Patrol staff and criminal justice agencies throughout the state.

The Patrol Records Division serves as the data repository for statewide motor vehicle and boating crash reports, alcohol- and drug-related traffic offenses, dispositions on Patrol traffic and marine arrests and statewide assignment of unique numbers for inclusion on uniform citations. The division maintains Missouri's Fatality Analysis Reporting System (FARS) for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The fatality analysis reporting system performs in-depth research on causes of fatality traffic crashes and forwards this information to a computerized database in Washington, D.C. The Traffic Arrest Records Section maintains a computerized listing of driving-while-intoxicated offenses occurring in Missouri. The Patrol's Custodian of Records function is administered by PRD.

Support Services Bureau

The Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division operates 23 fixed weigh stations and 57 mobile commercial vehicle units. These are operated by commercial vehicle enforcement inspectors, commercial vehicle officers and commercial vehicle enforcement troopers, who provide uniform enforcement of the laws and regulations governing the operations of commercial motor vehicles. Commercial vehicle enforcement troopers assigned to each troop are responsible for enforcing commercial vehicle and special mobile equipment hazardous laws, inspecting radioactive shipments and have completed homeland security training.

The Driver Examination Division develops standards, policies, procedures and written tests for the driver examination program, including commercial driver licensing. Division representatives also aid in the preparation of the Missouri Driver's Guide.

The Fleet and Facilities Division directs the procurement, assignment, maintenance, repair and eventual sale of the Patrol's fleet of vehicles and vessels. It is responsible for policies controlling the expenses for fleet operation. The division supports building and grounds maintenance and housekeeping functions throughout the state, and works with the Office of Administration on statewide capital improvements and maintenance projects.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection Division collects fees and monitors the activities of mechanics and stations that have been licensed to inspect vehicles in the state. This division also manages the vehicle identification number (VIN)/salvage title inspection program, coordinates Patrol involvement in school bus inspections and administers an emission inspection program in the St. Louis area.

The Career Recruitment Division recruits civilian and uniformed employees. The division employees cultivate partnerships with diverse groups and organizations, building long-term relationships with young people in order to provide them with information regarding the wide range of career opportunities within the Patrol.

The Human Resources Division tests and selects civilian and uniformed employees; maintains records of civilian and uniformed employees; monitors agency personnel policies and actions to ensure compliance with federal and state laws and regulations; and coordinates the Patrol's retirement, evaluation and promotional systems. The division also administers the Patrol's insurance program.

Research and Development Division (RDD) responsibilities include management of organizational policy, strategic planning and the accreditation process. RDD is also responsible for management of organizational forms, staff inspections, external assessments and oversight for the statewide property control system. Monitoring legislation and coordinating fiscal note preparation on any initiatives that could have an impact on agency operations falls within the division's purview. RDD includes the Missouri Statistical Analysis Center, which provides research, technical and statistical analytical support to myriad authorities, policymakers and the citizens of Missouri.

The Training Division provides centralized training programs at the Law Enforcement Academy in Jefferson City, as well as prepares, conducts and coordinates continuing education, management training rule, in-service, and recertification courses in decentralized locations throughout the state. The Patrol's Law Enforcement Academy is an approved peace officer training center under Chapter 590, RSMo. As such, the Training Division is responsible for comprehensive recruit training for the position of trooper. The division provides certified basic and career enhancement courses to any law enforcement officer upon proper application and payment of appropriate fees.

The Missouri National Guard is your hometown guard, working to serve Missourians and the United States. The Missouri National Guard is a leader in emergency management and response for the state and routinely deploys forces worldwide to perform federal missions as a partner in the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force, including combat missions and operations other than war.

The Missouri National Guard claims a military lineage that dates back to units organized in the St. Louis area under French and Spanish colonial rule in the 18th century. Since then, guard units have performed state emergency duty hundreds of times along with their federal role. Missouri National Guard units and members saw active service in World Wars I and II, Korea, the Berlin Crisis, Vietnam, Operation Just Cause in Panama, Operation Desert Shield and Operation

Desert Storm, Somalia, Haiti, Joint Endeavor/Joint Guard in the Balkans, Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Iraqi Freedom, Operation New Dawn and Operation Odyssey Dawn.

People: Approximately 12,000 men and women serve in Army and Air National Guard armories based in approximately 65 communities across the state; they are trained in hundreds of specific skills, most with direct application to civilian work and professions.

Roles and Missions: Unique among all the nation's armed forces, the National Guard has a dual state and federal role under the U.S. Constitution.

The guard is Missouri's force in times of disaster and emergency. Missions have included response to flooding, blizzards, extreme heat, tornadoes and civil unrest.

State duty is performed under the orders of the governor, the guard's peacetime commander in chief. The governor appoints the adjutant general, who wears the two stars of a major general and oversees the Army and Air National Guard units assigned to the state by the federal government. He is advised by a state military council of senior leaders of the Army and Air National Guard, including commanders of each unit in the state.

The guard is also a federal operational reserve force, fully accessible to the president for short-notice duty in times of national emergency. Federal missions have kept Missouri Army and Air National Guard units very busy since the terrorist attacks on our nation on Sept. 11, 2001. The Missouri National Guard deployed the first Agri-Business Development Team to Nangarhar Province in 2007 and continued that pilot program for five successful years.

The Missouri National Guard also has a Homeland Response Force (HRF) that may be called to respond to both federal and state emergencies within FEMA Region VII. The team's mission is to act as the military response to a chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear or high-yield explosive event. In addition to adding a response asset, the team created several full-time jobs for guard members.

The Missouri National Guard works with community groups in drug demand reduction programs while also supporting local, state and federal agencies in drug supply reduction efforts. Other innovative readiness training projects let Guard units train by working on projects benefiting their communities.

35th Engineer Brigade: The 35th Engineer Brigade, based at Fort Leonard Wood, undertakes plans, integrates and directs the execution of engineer missions conducted by the 1140th Engineer Battalion in Cape Girardeau and the 203rd Engineer Battalion in Joplin with their respective subordinate units. When federalized, the brigade mobilizes with three to five mission tailored engineer battalions and augments engineer units organic to corps and division. The 35th Engineer Brigade provides technical and tactical guidance and command and control to its teams, companies and battalions.

MG STEPHEN DANNER
Adjutant General, Office of Adjutant General

110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade: The 110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade, based in Kansas City, is a mission-tailored force that conducts support area operations, maneuver support operations and support to consequence-management and stability operations in order to ensure the mobility, protection and freedom-of-action of the supported force.

70th Troop Command: The mission of the 70th Troop Command, based in Jefferson Barracks, is to provide command and control, training, guidance, assistance and administrative and logistical support to its subordinate commands. This command serves as the Federal Emergency Management Agency Region VII Homeland Response Force.

35th Combat Aviation Brigade: The 35th Combat Aviation Brigade deploys to an area of responsibility to provide command, control, staff planning and supervision of combat aviation brigade operations. The brigade's units fly a combination of AH-64A Apache attack helicopters, LUH-72 Lakota, observation helicopters and UH-60 Blackhawk utility helicopters, as well as a C-12 transport airplane. The brigade's units are capable of performing unit- and intermediate-level aviation maintenance.

1107th Aviation Group: The 1107th Aviation Group supports the Missouri National Guard by way of its mission to provide a fixed-base theater of operations dedicated to sustainment/depot capability maintenance of rotary-wing aircraft.

One of the largest Missouri Guard units, the 487-member group supports a headquarters division and subordinate companies A and B, as well as the 135th Army Band, all based in Springfield.

35th Infantry Division (Mo.): The 35th Infantry Division is assigned in two states, Missouri and Kansas. The 35th Infantry Division (Mo.) specifically provides command and control of all divisional soldiers from within the Missouri Army National Guard.

131st Bomb Wing: The 131st Bomb Wing continued the total force integration as a classic associate unit with the active duty Air Force 509th Bomb Wing at Whiteman Air Force Base. The 131st Bomb Wing's primary operational mission is to provide full-spectrum, expeditionary, B-2 global strike and combat support capabilities. Wing manpower is also dedicated to providing for the unit's overall combat readiness, base operating support functions for tenant and attached units and for performing combat and emergency duty in support of federal and state missions. Detachment 1, Cannon Range is the state's only aerial bombing and gunnery range, serving all services.

139th Airlift Wing: The 139th Airlift Wing, based in St. Joseph, remains globally engaged in continuing operations by providing the state and nation with immediately deployable, combat-ready C-130 H-model aircraft. The unit performs a variety of roles including airlift and airdrop in peace and wartime missions.

Mission Support: The Missouri National Guard has several important initiatives in place to help support the needs of our guard members and their families.

Missouri National Guard Adjutant General Major General Steve Danner has developed a robust, nationally recognized Resiliency Program, focusing effort on the six dimensions of strength: physical, spiritual, family, emotional, social and financial well-being of soldiers, airmen and their families.

Our Family Readiness Program provides support to the families left in Missouri when the citizen-soldiers and airmen mobilize away from home and help them remain ready at all times.

The National Guard's Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program helps soldiers, airmen and families prepare for a deployment and understand the benefits that are available during and after a deployment.

The Military Family Relief Fund is chaired by the lieutenant governor and provides financial assistance to families who have been affected by a mobilization.

The Missouri Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserves works closely with employers and reserve military members across the state, helping them understand their roles and responsibilities.

The Show Me Heroes Program, a program pioneered by Gov. Jay Nixon and Maj. Gen. Steve Danner, works to find jobs for Missouri National Guard members and other veterans.

The Missouri National Guard Military Funeral Honors Program coordinates approximately 25 funerals for veterans across the state every day. The program began in July 1999 and coordinates funeral honors for every Missouri veteran. Anyone interested in funeral honors for their family member should inform their funeral home director.

The Missouri National Guard also honors our living veterans with the Veterans Awards Program. The Missouri Legislature approved this program providing a medal and certificate to veterans of the Vietnam War, World War II and the Korean War. Veterans or their family members wishing more information can contact the program director at (573) 638-9838.

Federal: The National Guard Bureau, a joint agency of the U.S. Army and Air Force, provides peacetime federal oversight of National Guard units. While the governor commands the guard on a day-to-day basis, most costs are paid with federal funds. That includes the regular pay for soldiers and airmen, except when they are on a state emergency mission. The federal funding and a force of full-time, federally paid employees ensure the readiness of the guard for federal missions or state duty if called on by the governor. The federal government pays approximately 95 percent of the annual cost of the guard.

With its ability to perform federal duties or state duties as the need arises, the guard is the most capable and cost-effective of all the components of the nation's armed forces. While the National Guard units and members can perform federal duty in the same manner as members of the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps Reserves, only National Guard units have the constitutional responsibility to serve at home during emergencies.

The guard offers additional benefits. It provides Missouri communities with citizens whose military experiences pay off at home. Its men and women receive training in skills, work ethic, physical fitness and leadership that benefits their communities and civilian employers. They earn GI Bill and other educational benefits, including state-funded educational support and matching scholarships provided by many Missouri colleges and universities, unique to the National Guard.

Missouri Military Council

The Missouri Military Council (section 41.220, RSMo) acts in an advisory capacity to the commander in chief on all matters placed before it by the governor, the adjutant general, who also serves as council president, or any member of the council. The council submits recommendations to the governor, which shall become effective only upon his approval. The council meets quarterly in Jefferson City, and special meetings may be called by the governor or the president of the council at any time or place designated.

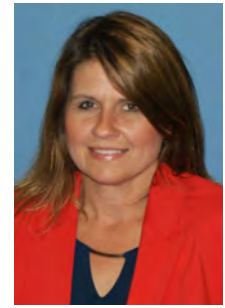
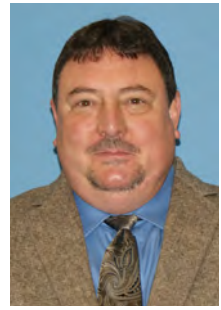
The State Emergency Management Agency's (SEMA) mission is to protect the lives and property of all Missourians when major disasters threaten anywhere in the state. Disasters include major ice storms and blizzards, floods, tornadoes, severe weather, earthquakes, hazardous material and nuclear power plant accidents, radiological and biological events and terrorism. SEMA's program is nationally accredited.



To meet this mission, SEMA coordinates and develops the State Emergency Operations Plan, which directs the actions of Missouri state departments and agencies to aid requesting local jurisdictions. SEMA oversees Missouri's disaster preparedness, floodplain management, hazard mitigation and disaster public assistance programs, and coordinates the state's response operations for all types of large scale emergencies. SEMA is organized into four divisions: Preparedness, Response, Recovery and Finance.

State Emergency Operations Center



SEMA and the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC) are located at the Missouri Army National Guard Ike Skelton Training Site, east of Jefferson City. SEOC enables state agencies to gather situational awareness and direct Missouri's disaster emergency response and recovery operations.

Coordination of Preparedness Activities

Preparedness is a joint responsibility of local, state and federal governments. SEMA coordinates preparedness activities and administers a number of federally funded programs. These programs include disaster planning, earthquake preparedness, radiological protection, public warning, training and education. SEMA offers free classes to local emergency management agencies, local officials, first responders, schools and volunteers.

State and Federal Disaster Assistance

When a disaster exceeds the ability of local communities to respond and/or recover, the governor may declare a state of emergency for the impacted area. This action allows state resources to augment the needs of local governments.

Based on the impact of the disaster and the results of joint damage assessments, the governor may request a federal disaster declaration in accordance with Public Law 93–288. If approved by the president, such a declaration can make a wide variety of federal assistance programs available to Missouri, local governments, individuals, families and businesses adversely affected by the disaster. SEOC coordinates emergency life safety response and recovery actions to the declared areas. SEMA personnel administer federal/state disaster grants to jurisdictions and provide oversight of federal assistance for individuals in declared counties. Disaster assistance includes the Individuals and Households Program (IHP), which helps victims with disaster-related needs. The Small Business Administration (SBA) offers low-interest loans. Federal Disaster Public Assistance helps reimburse local governments repair disaster damaged roads, bridges and critical infrastructure. Communities may be eligible for cost-effective mitigation projects, which help prevent similar damages in the future.

Federal Disaster Declarations for Missouri Since January 2011

- January 2011 severe winter storm and blizzard (direct federal assistance and public assistance)
- April, May and June 2011 severe storms and tornadoes (individual and public assistance)
- June 2011 severe storms and flooding (direct federal assistance, individual assistance and public assistance)
- SBA physical and economic declaration for June 2011 flooding.
- SBA physical and economic declaration for prolonged heat and drought in 2012.
- SBA physical and economic declaration for May 2013 flooding.
- May and June 2013 severe storms and tornadoes (public assistance)
- SBA physical and economic declaration for may and June 2013 severe storms
- Aug. 2013 severe storms and flooding (public assistance)
- SBA physical and economic declaration for Oct. 2013
- SBA economic declaration for Sept. 2014
- Oct. 2014 severe storms and flooding (public assistance)

Preparedness Division

The Preparedness Division works to create coordinated statewide response plans and training for local and state personnel so Missouri can effectively respond to emergencies and disasters. The division is composed of the planning and preparedness sections. It has responsibility for medical counter-measures, Training and Exercises, Emergency Human Services and Radiological Emergency Program (REP). Examples of division work products include preparation and updates of comprehensive disaster assistance plans, standard operating guides (SOGs) to execute responsibilities in state plans and emergency management seminars for local elected officials. Emergency Human Services includes the volunteer coordinator, who works with state agencies, faith-based and volunteer organizations to coordinate assistance during disasters. During recovery, the coordinator provides technical assistance to long-term recovery committees. The coordinator is the point of contact for the Governor's Faith-Based and Community Service Partnership for Disaster Recovery and Missouri Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters.

Response Division

The Response Division is responsible for disaster management operations. When Missouri is affected by an emergency or disaster, beyond the capabilities of local governments, the Response Division includes the readiness section, regional coordinators, and logistics and resource sections. Once a State of Emergency (SOE) has been declared by the governor, the Response Division coordinates disaster response with local governments, state agencies and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The Logistics and Resources Section coordinates the acquisition and delivery of critical emergency equipment. Along with services and supplies to disaster areas, and may include generators, pumps, technical assistance teams, food, water, ice and temporary facilities. The Logistics and Resources Section, along with the Missouri Public/Private Partnership (MOP3), also co-manages the Missouri Business Emergency Operation Center (BEOC). This helps facilitate both business community recovery and charitable disaster assistance from the business community. The regional coordinators are the state's liaisons to local jurisdictions for emergency management activities. The Response Division also develops and maintains the State of Missouri Emergency Operations Plan.

Recovery Division

The Recovery Division is responsible for requesting and distributing federal and state funds for all presidentially declared disasters. This division works to assist Missouri communities with recovery and to mitigate against disasters. It includes the Public Assistance, Mitigation and Floodplain sections. The Public Assistance Sections' responsibilities include: state damage assessments, assistance in revising state Administrative Plans for Public Assistance, along with the Individuals and Households Program. The Mitigation Section works with local communities to reduce the adverse impacts disasters have on Missourians and has the responsibility for the State Hazard Analysis. This section administers five federal mitigation grant programs and has helped over 1,000 Missouri communities write mitigation plans to qualify for these grants. Community mitigation projects include voluntary flood buyouts, building community tornado safe rooms, replacing bridges and low water crossings, bank stabilization and burying public electric utilities. The Floodplain Management Section, within the Recovery Division, is also the state coordinating agency responsible for Missouri's participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). All three sections under the Recovery Division are responsible for the training of state personnel in disaster recovery, mitigation and floodplain management.

Finance and Administrative Division

The Finance Division includes the Fiscal Administration and Emergency Management Performance Grant sections. The Fiscal Administration Section provides administrative services such as accounting, budgeting, grant administration, procurement, fleet management, human resources, payroll and general office services. It coordinates and administers federal, state and local grant requests. The Emergency Management Performance Grant Section (EMPG) administers federal assistance to SEMA and local government emergency management agencies in support of all-hazard emergency management capabilities. An all-hazard approach to emergency response, including the development of a comprehensive program of planning, training and exercises, means there can be an effective and consistent response to disasters and emergencies, regardless of the cause.

Missouri Emergency Response Commission (MERC)

The Missouri Emergency Response Commission implements the federal Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA) and related Missouri laws pertaining to hazardous chemicals storage. The commission supports Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPC), reviews hazardous chemical contingency plans, provides chemical emergency training, collects information on toxic and hazardous storage and makes this information available to the public. MERC administers the Hazardous Material Emergency Preparedness (HMEP) for hazardous material (HAZMAT) training to local public sector employees and the Chemical Emergency Preparedness Funds (CEPF) for planning and training for LEPCs.

This statue establishes a volunteer cadre for post-disaster building inspections to determine if damaged buildings are safe for occupation. The SAVE Coalition members are architects, engineers, building inspectors and construction industry professionals.

Missouri Seismic Safety Commission (MSSC)

SEMA provides administrative support to the Missouri Seismic Safety Commission (MSSC), which was established by section 44.227, RSMo, to initiate a comprehensive program to help Missouri prepare for and respond to a major earthquake. The commission prepares and updates a strategic plan for reducing earthquake hazards in the state. Members also help organize Earthquake Awareness Month (February) activities.

The Missouri Veterans Commission is vested with the responsibility of representing all Missouri veterans, ensuring their needs are met and defending the entitlements of those who have served their country with honor and distinction.

This is accomplished through programs and services funded by the state and federal government as well as private and corporate contributions.

Our Mission

In recognition of the sacrifices made by veterans in service to our country, the Missouri Veterans Commission will provide our veterans with timely benefits assistance, skilled nursing care and a final resting place with honor.

Our History

The State Federal Soldier's Home was established in 1896 by the Women's Relief Corps Soldiers' Home Association and was deeded to the state of Missouri in 1897. Its original purpose was to provide care to aging Missourians who had fought for the Union in the Civil War. In 1931, the state legislature, at the request of organized veterans groups, created the Office of State Service Officer for the purpose of counseling and assisting veterans of World War I (WWI) and earlier conflicts whose service-connected disabilities were becoming manifest and for whom numerous benefits were being made available through the newly established Veterans Administration.

LARRY KAY
Executive Director
Missouri Veterans Commission

BRYAN HUNT
Deputy Director
Missouri Veterans Commission

In 1974, the Omnibus Reorganization Act placed the Division of Veterans Affairs within the Department of Social Services. The State Federal Soldier's Home and Office of State Service Officer remained separate entities until the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974 combined the two, renaming the home and establishing the Division of Veterans Affairs within the Department of Social Services.

As defined in the act, the Division of Veterans Affairs, as provided in Chapter 42, RSMo, in 1978 was transferred from the Department of Social Services to the Department of Public Safety, Office of the Adjutant General, by a type I transfer.

Executive order 81-18 (February 1981) passed at the first regular session of the 81st General Assembly and put this law into effect in September of 1981.

On Aug. 28, 1989, the Division of Veterans Affairs was replaced by the establishment of the Missouri Veterans Commission as a type III transfer. Chapter 42, RSMo, governs the commission's operation as a state agency. The commission shall be composed of nine members. In addition, the chair of the Missouri military preparedness and enhancement commission or the chair's designee shall be an ex officio member of the commission.

The commissioners then appoint an executive director, who implements commission policies and is responsible for statewide management of veterans programs. The executive director reports regularly to the commission concerning all aspects of program operations through quarterly commission meetings.

Administrative offices are located in Jefferson City at 205 Jefferson St., 12th Floor. This location also houses the local Veteran Service Office. Services and benefits provided to veterans by the Missouri Commission are:

Veterans Services Program

Through the Veterans Service Program, the Missouri Veterans Commission provides counseling and assistance to veterans throughout the state in filing claims for benefits from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. Veterans service officers are located in almost every county of the state to make services available to veterans close to their homes.

Information concerning locations and phone numbers of veterans service officers may be found on the commission's website www.mvc.dps.mo.gov.

Veterans service officers are thoroughly trained and knowledgeable in all areas of veterans benefits, including compensation, pension, education, burial and widow's benefits. Information and counseling regarding medical eligibility, VA Home Loan Guaranty and other benefits, including those offered by the state, may also be obtained from the veterans service officers as well.

Veterans service officers are available to give presentations and instruction regarding the benefits for which veterans are eligible as a result of honorable military service in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Veterans Home Program

The Missouri Veterans Commission currently operates and maintains seven long-term skilled nursing care facilities with a total of 1,350 available beds.

Veterans in need of nursing home care may seek admission to a Missouri veterans home by filling an application with the home of their choice. Prospective residents may obtain application forms from any Missouri veterans home, from a Missouri veterans service officer or by contacting the Missouri Veterans Commission Headquarters at (573) 751-3779. Home applications may also be downloaded from the commission's web site, www.mvc.dps.mo.gov.

Eligibility

- Applicant must be an honorably discharged veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces;
- Applicant must have resided in the state of Missouri for at least 180 days during his/her lifetime;
- Applicant must have been determined to require nursing home care.

Funding/Costs

- State general revenue;
- Federal funding, through the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs Per Diem Grant Program;
- Charges to the veterans themselves, based on the individual's ability to pay.

The maximum amount that a veteran may be charged currently is $2,050 per month. Ability to pay is based upon the veteran's (and his or her spouse's) total income and assets.

Missouri veterans homes are inspected at least annually by the Department of Veterans Affairs for the continuance of per diem payments. Policies for health care administration are centrally managed by the commission's superintendent of homes, who routinely reviews management practice and clinical outcomes. Therapeutic modalities of physical, psychosocial and rehabilitative origin are provided in each facility.

St. James is the site of the first state veterans home. It was originally opened in 1896 by the Women's Relief Corps Soldiers' Home Association and was deeded to the state of Missouri in 1897. A new, 150-bed facility was dedicated and opened on the original campus in 1996, in conjunction with the 100-year anniversary of the home. St. James is proud of its continuous 100-year tradition of providing care for veterans.

In June 2004, a new, state-of-the-art, 200-bed facility opened on Hickory Street in Mt. Vernon. The Missouri veterans home at Mt. Vernon was established April 1, 1983, in a wing of the Missouri Rehabilitation Center. The home is operated by the Missouri Veterans Commission to provide quality rehabilitative nursing care to Missouri's disabled veterans.

As the state's third veterans home, the Mexico facility was opened in 1985 and serves the north central area of the state. The 150-bed home features a large, open mall containing dining rooms, lounges, a library, recreation and therapy areas, a general store and medical and administrative officers. An outdoor walking trail among the trees and flowers on the grounds provides much enjoyment and physical exercise for veterans at the Mexico home.

Serving veterans in southeastern Missouri, the 150-bed veterans home at Cape Girardeau was opened in 1990. It is designed to resemble a small village, with cluster design features consisting of three, 50-bed living units surrounding a central administration building. The home affords residents many amenities, including a lovely chapel adjacent to the lobby, made possible by a fundraising drive led by the American Legion and its auxiliaries.

This 200-bed facility was dedicated July 14, 2000, as the commission's seventh veterans home. The first resident was admitted Sept. 26, 2000. The design for the Cameron and Warrensburg facilities is identical. They are divided into five sections: sections A, B and C are each 50-bed, long-term skilled nursing care units; section D is a 50-bed dementia unit that contains its own dining room, activity area and enclosed courtyard; and section E houses the administrative offices and ancillary services such as the recreation area, barbershop and rehabilitation area.

State Veterans Cemetery Program

Signed into law in 1996, this program gives the Missouri Veterans Commission statutory responsibility to establish, operate and maintain cemeteries for veterans in Missouri.

The vision and goal of the State Veterans Cemetery System is to locate cemeteries strategically throughout the state, making it possible for veterans and their families to have access within a 75-mile radius of their homes. The mission is to provide interment for veterans and their eligible dependents in a dignified, efficient and compassionate manner.

The Missouri State Veterans Cemetery at Fort Leonard Wood is the result of a partnership between the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Missouri Veterans Commission. The groundbreaking ceremony was held on Nov. 7, 2008, and the cemetery was formally dedicated on Sept. 13, 2010. The cemetery property was donated by the U.S. Army Maneuver Support Center and Fort Leonard Wood and is situated on 229 beautiful acres. Currently the cemetery consists of 25 developed acres in phase 1 with space estimated to last 25 to 30 years.

Eligibility Criteria:

Eligibility criteria for burial in state veterans cemeteries will be the same as that for burial in national cemeteries, as stated in Missouri statute, signed into law in 1998: ". . .solely for the burial of veterans and eligible dependents as defined by the Department of Veterans Affairs. . ." Veterans interested in burial should contact the individual cemetery for a predetermination of eligibility.

Benefits

- burial space;
- grave liner;
- opening and closing of the grave;
- perpetual care;
- placement of cremation remains in either columbarium niche or inground burial;
- upright granite headstone.

Veterans Trust Fund

The Veterans Trust Fund was established in 1989 and is a means by which individuals and corporations may donate money to expand and improve services to veterans in Missouri. Appropriations from the fund are being used to improve training of service officers to expand capabilities in meeting the special needs of residents of state veterans homes and to promote public awareness of the program, benefits and services available to Missouri's veterans.

All contributions to the Veterans Trust Fund are tax deductible. Individuals and corporations can donate any amount over two dollars of their tax refund on their Missouri tax return, or by sending their contributions directly to the commission at any time. Monies from the fund are used to enhance, not replace, existing programs.

Ombudsman

The Missouri Veterans Commission ombudsman assists veterans, service members and their families with extraordinary needs that are not being met by other agencies or organizations. The ombudsman acts as a referral source to local, state and national resources available to address these needs.

Minority Veterans Initiative

The Minority Veterans Initiative was established to encourage minority veterans and dependents to visit local veterans service officers to ascertain benefits they might be legally entitled to through the Federal Department of Veterans Affairs. The program's goals include:

- increase benefit awareness among minority veterans;
- increase benefit awareness among widows of deceased veterans;
- increase Missouri Veterans Commission visibility among community agencies;
- collaboration with other veterans agencies to increase awareness of veterans programs;
- co-brand with businesses to promote veterans benefits awareness.

Women Veterans Initiative

The Missouri Veterans Commission is dedicated to finding all women veterans, past, present and future. They have appointed a women veterans coordinator, and her mission is to ensure that Missouri women veterans have equitable access to federal and state veteran services and to ensure women veterans are aware of their VA benefits, whom to contact and how to apply for these benefits.

The mission of the Women Veterans Initiative is to facilitate proactive leadership and services for women veterans, their dependents and survivors in Missouri.

Incarcerated Veterans Initiative

In February 2007, the Missouri Veterans Commission and the Department of Corrections signed a formalized agreement to provide direct services to Missouri incarcerated veterans. The Incarcerated Veterans Initiative works to facilitate the transition of veteran offenders to a productive life in the community. The program serves veteran offenders and their families as a principal advocate in ensuring they receive appropriate services and empower the offenders with hope and new direction.

The Missouri Gaming Commission was established in 1993 by the 87th General Assembly as specified by Chapter 313, RSMo. The commission assumed the responsibility for regulating riverboat and charitable gaming on July 1, 1994.

The commission is composed of five members, no more than three of whom may be members of the same political party. Commission members are appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of three years. Pursuant to statute, the overall membership of the commission reflects experience in law enforcement, civil and criminal investigation and financial principles.

The commission's role is to monitor gaming-related activities to ensure criminal elements do not infiltrate licensed gaming operations. In addition, the commission works to protect the public by ensuring games are conducted fairly, according to their rules and with full disclosure.

As a state regulatory agency, the commission and its staff hold themselves to the highest ethical and professional standards and strive to conduct all business in a manner that is in the public interest and maintains the public trust. Pursuant to statute, a strict code of ethics has been adopted prohibiting conflicts of interest and certain ex parte communications.

The key regulatory responsibilities of the commission are:

- to conduct thorough background investigations on all key persons involved in gaming operations, including substantial owners, management personnel, key operational employees and suppliers;
- to thoroughly investigate the finances of applicants and their key persons to determine if they have the financial resources and responsibility to meet their proposed obligations;
- to investigate the background of all occupational licensees, including dealers, slot attendants, food and beverage servers, security and surveillance personnel and all other employees who have access to the gaming area to ensure the personnel operating the casino are of sufficient character to maintain the integrity of Missouri gaming;
- to photograph and fingerprint each employee so as to maintain a complete and accurate database of gaming personnel;
- to assign appropriate staff to each gaming operation to be present at all times when gaming is conducted. Enforcement agents are charged with ensuring that gaming is conducted in accordance with the Missouri gaming statutes, the rules and regulations of the commission and the licensee's own internal controls;
- to ensure that the safety of the passengers is guarded, to conduct investigations of suspected wrongdoing and to receive complaints from customers;
- to review and audit the finances and compliance of the gaming operation through the combined use of commission staff, independent public accounting firms and internal casino audit staff that are retained by the licensee and approved by the commission;
- to monitor the financial integrity of gaming operators to ensure that Missouri's financial interests are protected;
- to ensure charitable, fraternal, religious, service, social and veteran organizations are eligible to hold licenses to conduct charity bingo games in the state. Regular bingo licenses, special bingo licenses, abbreviated pull-tab licenses, supplier licenses, manufacturer licenses and bingo hall provider licenses are all issued by the bingo division. Missouri Gaming Commission staff will assess qualifications of organizations applying for a charitable bingo gaming license, conduct required background investigations, audits, collect taxes and maintain all records related to charitable bingo.

Office of the Executive Director

The Office of the Executive Director is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the commission. The director supervises all staff activities, reports to the commission and is responsible for organizing and distributing all public documents and reports. The director oversees the Administration, Corporate Securities and Finance, Enforcement, Legal and Charitable Bingo sections of the Missouri Gaming Commission.

Pursuant to statute, the executive director has entered into a memorandum of understanding with the Missouri State Highway Patrol to perform background investigations and to provide enforcement personnel.

The Department of Revenue is one of the largest and most comprehensive of Missouri's state departments. It was established in 1945 and plays a key role in state government by efficiently collecting billions of dollars in state revenue each year. The department also collects local sales and use taxes, and distributes them back to local governments.

The department also enhances public safety by administering the state's motor vehicle and driver licensing laws, including the titling and registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of Missouri's drivers. The duties involved with the oversight of driver licensing include the suspension or revocation of licenses of drunk drivers and other drivers who have committed other motor vehicle transgressions.

Office of the Director

The Office of the Director, which includes the director and other key staff, is responsible for overall guidance and setting policy for the department. The office includes a legislative director, who manages the department's relationships with the legislature and other governmental branches, and a communications director, who works with the news media, coordinates public awareness of department activities and acts as the department's spokesperson. In addition, the office includes the Internal Audit function, reviewing performance of the department and the privately contracted license offices.

Taxation Division

The Taxation Division collects Missouri's taxes and administers the state's tax laws, annually processing more than 5 million tax returns, responding to hundreds of thousands of phone calls and working with Missouri businesses and citizens to ensure they are paying the taxes owed to the state and local entities.

The Business Tax Bureau processes and administers the state's business taxes. These include the corporate income tax, local and state sales and use taxes, the state motor fuel tax, excise taxes and employee withholding taxes.

The Personal Tax Bureau oversees processing and administration of the state's personal income tax, the Property Tax Credit and fiduciary tax. This bureau also administers business and individual tax non-compliance programs to identify taxes due from those not filing or under-reporting their tax obligations.

The Collections and Tax Assistance Bureau helps citizens who need assistance in filling out tax returns or have other questions. The bureau also actively pursues collection of unpaid taxes.

Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division

The Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division provides a variety of services to owners of cars, trucks, motorcycles, trailers and boats. It also helps keep Missouri roads safer by maintaining records of serious violations of Missouri's traffic laws. In FY 2014, the division issued more than 238,000 new driver licenses and renewed more than 607,000 licenses. In calendar year 2014, it issued more than 1.94 million motor vehicle, trailer and boat titles, and oversaw the issuance and renewal of about 4.06 million vehicle registrations.

The Driver License Bureau helps citizens obtain or renew their driver licenses. It also processes records relating to traffic violation point assessments and uninsured motorists. The bureau also tracks administrative alcohol violations and those who fail to appear in court for a variety of traffic-related offenses.

The License Offices Bureau manages the operations of the 178 contract offices throughout the state. The offices provide many of the most common driver license and motor vehicle services for Missourians. The management of the offices is no longer awarded on a patronage basis, and is now bid out to independent contractors.

The Motor Vehicle Bureau provides services for motor vehicle owners, such as issuing or renewing license plates or obtaining owner titles. The bureau also works with new and used automobile dealers, and also helps salvage dealers and leasing companies acquire registration certificates.

Legal Services Division

The Legal Services Division ensures the department's compliance with state and federal law and internal policies.

The General Counsel's Office advises the director and Department divisions on all legal matters. It helps keep Missouri drivers safer by defending the state's drunk driving laws in administrative hearings and court proceedings. It also provides training concerning DWI laws to law enforcement officers, judges and other court personnel. The office represents the state in legal cases that involve taxation, bankruptcies and motor vehicle fraud.

The Criminal Tax Investigation Bureau investigates and develops information leading to local prosecution of individuals and businesses suspected of violating state statutes related to sales, withholding and income taxes.

JACKIE BEMBOOM
Director, Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division

WOOD MILLER

The Compliance and Investigation Bureau investigates illegal motor vehicle titling and registration, odometer fraud and tax fraud involving motor fuel sales tax and the state cigarette tax. The bureau also ensures the compliance of motor vehicle dealers, salvage businesses and marine dealers with statutes and licensure regulations.

Administration Division

The Administration Division provides professional, innovative and efficient personnel, financial and general services support that allows the department's divisions to carry out their core responsibilities, including safeguarding assets, disseminate information and apply efficient personnel practices. This division also manages employee wellness events and initiatives.

The Financial and General Services Bureau provides fiscal services to the department and other governmental agencies in the area of finance, accounting, depositing and cashiering of state and non-state revenues and investing and collateralizing non-state revenue collections. This bureau also provides support in the areas of procurement, child support contract oversight, mail processing, archiving, stores, vehicle pool maintenance, delivery services and facility leasing.

The Personnel Services Bureau is in charge of personnel and payroll issues, training, compliance with state and federal employment laws, and the department's affirmative action and diversity programs. The Communications and Training section within this bureau works with all of the department's divisions to update the department's Internet and Intranet websites, train department personnel to be more efficient and update department forms and publications to be more customer-friendly and effective.

On Nov. 6, 1984, Missouri voters authorized the Missouri General Assembly to establish a Missouri state lottery.

The State Lottery Commission supervises the lottery by issuing rules and appointing a director. The commission is also guided by laws, approved by the General Assembly, that deal with the lottery. These laws cover topics such as distribution of lottery funds, conflicts of interest, who may play the lottery, criminal penalties and taxation of lottery winnings. The director runs the day-to-day business of the lottery, including hiring employees, issuing licenses and negotiating contracts with vendors. The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints the five-member commission. No more than three members may be of the same political party. Commissioners receive no salary and serve three-year terms.

The attorney general provides legal services for the lottery, and the state auditor reviews operations by conducting audits.

The authority and responsibilities of the State Tax Commission are further defined and articulated in the landmark Supreme Court decision of State ex. rel. Cassilly v. Riney, which provided the genesis for the statewide equalization of assessments. The State Tax Commission was created to perform five basic functions. These functions are:

1. Equalize assessments;
2. Conduct de novo judicial hearings regarding valuation and classification appeals from local boards of equalization in individual assessment cases;

3. Formulate and implement statewide assessment policies and procedures to comply with statutory and constitutional mandates;
4. Supervise local assessing officials and local assessment programs to ensure compliance with statewide policy requirements; and
5. Assess the distributable property of railroads and public utilities.

The Missouri Department of Social Services (DSS) was constitutionally established in 1974 because "the health and general welfare of the people are matters of primary public concern." The department is charged with administering programs to promote, safeguard and protect the general welfare of children; to maintain and strengthen family life; and to aid people in need as they strive to achieve their highest level of independence.

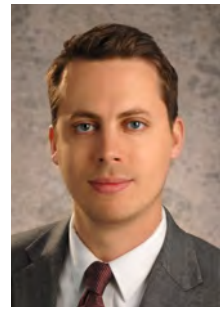
The department is organized into four program divisions: Children's Division, Family Support Division, MO HealthNet Division and the Division of Youth Services. The Division of Finance and Administrative Services and the Division of Legal Services provide department-wide administrative and support services.

The department cooperates and partners with many private organizations, businesses and individuals to extend the outreach of human services to Missouri citizens.

Office of the Director

The director of the Department of Social Services is responsible for the overall administration of programs within the department except as otherwise provided by law. The director determines priorities for program implementation and has final approval for uses of state and federal funds appropriated to the department.

Missouri's State Technical Assistant Team (STAT) provides comprehensive, integrated services to the entire child protection community. From data collection and interpretation of the causes of child fatalities to all types of child related criminal investigations, STAT provides training, support and expertise to professionals responsible for the protection of children.



The Human Resource Center (HRC) guides the overall human resources management for the department's 7,000+ employees. The center is responsible for ensuring compliance with merit system rules and coordinating personnel activities in areas such as labor relations, union negotiations, recruitment, selection, classification, compensation, discipline, performance evaluation, personnel records maintenance, civil rights, investigations and compliance, employee grievance procedure and training.

Administration Divisions

The Division of Finance and Administrative Services provides budgeting, financial and support services to all divisions within the department. Responsibilities include accounts payable, payroll, purchasing, receipts, audits, grants management, budget, research and data management, mail processing, telecommunications, inventory and warehouse management, homeland security and safety.

The Division of Legal Services (DLS) provides comprehensive legal support to all programs and support divisions in DSS. The division represents the department, its divisions and the state. Responsibilities include representing DSS before administrative tribunals; circuit court and appellate courts on child abuse and neglect; licensure and revocation of foster homes, guardianships and permanency planning; establishing, enforcing and modifying child support orders; hearings for public assistance applicants/recipients related to denial or termination of benefits; and investigating fraud and abuse by public assistance recipients, along with establishing claims and tracking collections.

Child welfare services are provided under federal and state laws to help children and families function at their maximum potential, both personally and socially.

The division has a legal mandate to provide services in three primary areas: child abuse and neglect investigations and family assessments, treatment and placement services to children and families and provision of child care.

Organization

The Children's Division (CD) is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division maintains a presence in each county and the city of St. Louis and supports each of the 45 judicial circuits in the state.

Child Abuse and Neglect Investigations and Assessments

The division is responsible for receiving reports of alleged child abuse or neglect. Once a report is received, the division responds to assure safety of the child(ren). The goals of child abuse or neglect investigations and assessments are to assess the level of risk to the child(ren), protect the child(ren) from harm, determine if abuse or neglect occurred as reported and provide services to the family.

Under the provisions of the Child Abuse and Neglect Law (sections 210.110 and 210.167, RSMo): a "child" is any person under 18 years of age; "abuse" includes both actual and threatened physical injury, sexual or emotional abuse inflicted on a child other than by accidental means by those responsible for his or her care, custody and control, except that discipline, including spanking, administered in a reasonable manner, shall not be construed to be abuse; "neglect" is failure to provide, by those responsible for the care, custody and control of the child, the proper or necessary support and education as required by law, or medical, surgical or any other care necessary for the child's well-being; and "persons responsible for the care, custody and control of the child" include, but are not limited to, the parents or guardians of the child, other members of the child's household or those people exercising supervision over a child for any part of a 24-hour day.

All reports of suspected child abuse and neglect are made to a centralized hotline unit of the division, which is required to provide toll-free statewide telephone service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for reporting purposes (1-800-392-3738).

Family-Centered Services

The overriding goal of family-centered services is to prevent child abuse or neglect, and the removal of the child from the home, by stabilizing the family and improving family functioning.

Treatment services, referred to as "family-centered services," are provided in preventive and protective capacities. Protective family-centered services are case management services provided to families when a finding of child abuse and neglect has been determined by a preponderance of evidence at the conclusion of an investigation. Preventive family-centered services are offered when an investigation of abuse or neglect is unsubstantiated or when a family assessment detects concerns that might be mitigated by services to help prevent abuse or neglect. Preventive services are contingent on the family's willingness to accept services. Families may also self-refer for services. Services may be provided by CD staff and/or purchased on behalf of the family.

Federal law mandates that the division provide services to children and families of children in alternative care. These services are geared toward permanency for the child(ren), either by reunification with his or her biological parent(s) or permanency through adoption or guardianship. The goals of these services are to prevent further child abuse or neglect, mitigate family factors that could lead to further child abuse or neglect, reunite children with their families when possible and obtain permanent homes for children who cannot safely return home through adoption or guardianship.

To achieve these goals, the division employs staff to provide services to eligible children and families. These services are provided through direct services and contracted services.

Direct Services

Children's Division staff provides direct services to families in treatment and families whose children are in alternative care settings. Children's Division staff works with families in assessing service needs and case planning. Actual services may be provided by CD staff, through contractors or both.

Alternative care services (family-centered, out-of-home services) are provided to children who are determined by the juvenile court to need care in a setting other than their biological family homes. These children are cared for in substitute family care or non-familial group care. Any one of three types of licensed settings provides alternative care: foster family homes, group facilities and residential treatment facilities. Transitional living services and independent living may also be utilized for older youth who might not return home and for whom adoption or guardianship is not deemed appropriate.

Child safety and permanency for children is the overriding goal of all services and integrates the principles of permanency planning — reuniting the child with the biological family when possible and, when necessary, finding other permanent family relationships for children.

Families who wish to adopt children unable to reunite with their families may, in some instances, receive an adoption subsidy payment. This is a statewide program developed to provide financial benefits, in the form of a subsidy, to encourage potential adoptive parents to adopt and to finance the cost of adopting "special needs" children.

Contracted Services

Contracted services are available to individuals and families who are receiving family-centered services, or in efforts to recruit and maintain resources for permanency. These services are usually provided as a result of a child abuse/neglect report with a "preponderance of evidence" finding, but may also be authorized for children in alternative care, children in adoptive placements, and family members receiving preventive treatment services or foster and adoptive services. Services are provided through contracts with both public and private community agencies and play a major role in extending services throughout the state.

Licensing Program

The division inspects and licenses foster care facilities, residential care facilities and child-placing agencies. In addition, the licensing staff monitors licensed facilities to ensure the facilities maintain requisite standards, conducts public education programs and consults with facility personnel in the development and implementation of services to the children being served, as well as residential program development.

Early Childhood and Prevention Services

The Early Childhood and Prevention Services section administers early childhood/child care and child abuse prevention programs and services. These programs provide child care subsidies to low-income families and quality improvement and professional development activities for child care programs and their staff. Staff also administer a portion of the state Early Childhood Development Education and Care Fund, which provides grants to community-based organizations and individuals for early childhood and child abuse/neglect prevention services.

The Family Support Division (FSD) is responsible for the administration of these programs and services: Food Stamps, Temporary Assistance, Child Support, Medical Assistance, Rehabilitation Services for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Low-Income Home Energy Assistance, Supplemental Nursing Care and Community Services Block Grant.

Organization

The Family Support Division is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division has at least one location in each county and in the City of St. Louis to provide customers with access to the Income Maintenance Programs. The division maintains offices across the state for the administration of the Child Support Program. Administration of the Rehabilitation Services for the Blind is managed by seven offices throughout Missouri.

JULIE GIBSON
Director
Family Support Division

Income Maintenance Programs

The determination of an individual's financial need is basic to the granting of Temporary Assistance, Food Stamps, child care, blind pension, Supplemental Aid to the Blind, medical assistance and nursing care benefits. The division has a legal requirement to consider all facts and circumstances in determining eligibility for public assistance, including the applicant's earning capacity, income and resources from whatever source received. The amount of benefits, when added to all other income, resources, support, and maintenance, shall provide such person with reasonable subsistence. If the applicant is not found to be in need, assistance is denied.

Temporary Assistance

Temporary Assistance (TA) makes cash grants on behalf of needy children who are living in homes maintained by parents or close relatives. This program provides temporary financial assistance while the adult transitions to self-sufficiency.

MO HealthNet

The Family Support Division determines participant eligibility for MO HealthNet services. MO HealthNet refers to the statewide medical assistance programs for elderly, disabled and blind individuals; low-income families; pregnant women; and children who meet certain eligibility requirements. In order to qualify for the MO HealthNet program, individuals must be a resident of the state of Missouri, a U.S. national citizen, permanent resident or legal alien in need of health care/insurance assistance. Family income is compared to the applicable percentage of the federal poverty guidelines. The applicable income limit for children is dependent on the age of the child(ren). The goals of the MO HealthNet program are to promote good health, prevent illness and premature death, correct or limit disability, treat illness and provide rehabilitation to persons with disabilities. Eligible persons receive a MO HealthNet identification card. There is no cash assistance with this program, although the program does pay for Medicare premiums for eligible individuals.

Supplemental Aid to the Blind and Blind Pension

The division administers two separate programs for the blind: Supplemental Aid to the Blind (SAB) and the Blind Pension Program. Under the SAB program, the amount of the monthly grant is $718 minus any Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment received. Under the Blind Pension Program, a flat monthly payment of $718 per person is made. The programs differ slightly in eligibility requirements. Funds are provided from a Missouri constitutionally established blind pension fund with no matching federal funds.

Supplemental Nursing Care

The Supplemental Nursing Care Program in Missouri provides cash assistance and medical services coverage to eligible aged, blind or disabled individuals who reside in non-Medicaid, licensed skilled nursing, intermediate care, assisted living or residential care facilities. Individuals who reside in licensed, skilled nursing facilities or intermediate care facilities may receive monthly cash benefits of up to a maximum of $390. If they live in a licensed assisted living facility, they may be eligible for monthly cash benefits of up to $292, or if in a licensed residential care facility, they may receive monthly cash benefits of up to $156.

Food Stamp and Food Distribution Programs

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), known as the Food Stamp Program in Missouri, is designed to help low-income families increase their purchasing power for buying nutritious food for their families. Depending upon the adjusted income and the number of persons in the household, a family receives a monthly benefit amount. The division is responsible for determining the eligibility of Food Stamp applicants according to guidelines established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The division also administers a number of food distribution programs providing USDA-donated foods to Charitable Institutions, Summer Food Service Programs for Children, The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP) and Disaster Relief Organizations.

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) provides assistance to low-income individuals to help pay for heating and cooling. Eligibility for assistance is based on household income and the number of persons residing in the household. Benefit amounts vary based on income, family size and type of fuel utilized. Missouri provides two programs with the LIHEAP grant: Energy Assistance/Regular Heating (EA) and Energy Crisis Intervention Program (ECIP).

Community Services Block Grant Program

The Community Services Block Grant Program (CSBG) makes funds available to support efforts that reduce poverty, revitalize low-income communities and empower low-income families and individuals to become fully self-sufficient. Most CSBG programs are operated locally by community action agencies that provide direct services to individuals and families whose income falls within the federal poverty guidelines, as well as mobilize communities to identify and address the causes and conditions of poverty in their geographic area.

Emergency Solutions Grant Program

The Emergency Solutions Grant Program is designed to provide funding for emergency homeless shelters and street outreach to the homeless. It also provides homelessness prevention and rapid re-housing services to homeless individuals, their families and those at risk of becoming homeless. The overall goal of the ESG program is to move participants to, and help them retain, permanent housing.

Blind and Visually Impaired Services Program

The Rehabilitation Services for the Blind administers six service programs to blind and visually impaired persons: vocational rehabilitation, prevention of blindness, independent living rehabilitation to adults, Older Blind Services (OBS), children services and the Blind Enterprise Program (BEP).

Vocational rehabilitation services are supported by both federal and state funds. Services include diagnosis and evaluation, counseling and guidance, physical and mental restoration, college and other types of vocational training, job placement, and services after employment when needed. Vocational rehabilitation services are to enable a person with visual disabilities to obtain or retain suitable employment.

Prevention of blindness services are funded with state funds and Blindness Education, Screening and Treatment (BEST) funds. Services are for the purpose of early detection of eye disease that may lead to blindness and, when indicated, providing treatment to eligible persons. Services include diagnostic examinations, surgery, hospitalization, glasses, prostheses and medications that are not available through other sources. These services are conditional upon the financial need of the individual. Free vision screening clinics are conducted in conjunction with schools of ophthalmology in Missouri. Free glaucoma screening clinics are conducted throughout the state.

Independent living rehabilitation services—including services for adults, children and the OBS program for seniors over age 55— are supported by both federal and state funds. Services are for the purposes of enabling that person to function independently in the home and community and/or to succeed in appropriate educational settings. Services include diagnosis and evaluation; adjustment to blindness services; alternative techniques in the areas of daily living activities; counseling and families supportive services; physical restoration; homemaking; communication; and orientation to, and travel within, the home and community.

The federal/state Randolph-Sheppard Blind Enterprise Program provides employment opportunities for legally blind persons who have participated in special training and are licensed by the division to manage a vending facility located in federal, state and private industry. Vending facilities range from full food service cafeterias to banks of vending machines.

The Children's Services Program focuses on blind and visually impaired children and their families, providing assistance with education and advocacy. Services include early identification and intervention, fostering a positive sense of self, regardless of vision loss, facilitating access to community services specific to the individual needs of the child, and helping families find information about blindness and its impact on their child's education and future.

Child Support Program

Missouri's Child Support Program operates pursuant to Title IV-D of the federal Social Security Act and Chapter 454, RSMo.

Child Support Program responsibilities include location of parents, paternity establishment, establishing child and medical support orders, enforcing support orders, reviewing support orders for modification and distributing child support collections.

The Family Support Division collects child support on behalf of families receiving public assistance. In addition, individuals not receiving public assistance benefits may apply for child support services.

Currently, the federal government funds the program at the rate of 66 percent. In addition to federal funds, the state is entitled to retain approximately 34 percent of the collections it receives for families that receive temporary assistance.

The program partners with county prosecuting attorneys through cooperative agreements to assist with child support activities. Additionally, the program partners with the state attorney general through a cooperative agreement to assist with child support enforcement and modification activities.

Pursuant to section 454.530, RSMo, the FSD, together with the Missouri Department of Revenue, operates the state disbursement unit known as the Family Support Payment Center (FSPC), which receives and disburses support on behalf of families. FSD collected $683.8 million in State Fiscal Year 2014.

The MO HealthNet (Missouri Medicaid) program provides medical services to eligible participants within defined program benefits in a similar way insurance companies provide coverage for their policy holders.

Organization

The MO HealthNet Division (MHD) is administered by a director appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division maintains administrative offices in Jefferson City, and contracts with health care providers and managed care organizations for the provision of health care.

JOSEPH PARKS, M.D.
Director
MO HealthNet Division

MO HealthNet Program

The services provided include those required by the federal government, such as hospital and physician services. Also included are optional services, such as pharmaceutical and personal care services authorized by the Missouri General Assembly and identified in section 208.152, RSMo.

The MO HealthNet Division administers a mandatory Medicaid managed care program for eligible participants in the eastern, central and western areas of the state. Children, pregnant women, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) recipients and children in state custody receive their medical care through managed care organizations, allowing the state to ensure access to health care and control costs at the same time. The MO HealthNet program is jointly funded by state and federal funds.

The MO HealthNet Pharmacy Program oversees outpatient prescription drug reimbursement. The pharmacy benefit includes reimbursement for all drug products of manufacturers who have entered into a rebate agreement with the Federal Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and are dispensed by qualified providers, with few therapeutic category exclusions. In addition, MHD is responsible for program development, benefit design and clinical policy decision-making with activities oriented towards wellness and continuum of care.

The MO HealthNet program includes specialized services for specific populations within the state by receiving waiver authority from the federal government. Home and community-based waivers for the elderly, certain developmentally disabled participants, as well as patients with AIDS, were obtained and allow the MO HealthNet program to pay for home care not otherwise covered as an alternative to more expensive institutional care. These services are restricted to those participants who would otherwise require, and whose home care is no more expensive than, institutionalization.

The Omnibus Reorganization Act of 1974 created the Division of Youth Services (DYS) and placed it within the Department of Social Services.

Youth judged to be delinquent and in need of rehabilitation and education are committed to the division by the state's juvenile (circuit) courts until approved for return to the community under supervision or discharged.

The division provides an array of services including residential care, nonresidential and community-based services, and after-care supervision. Chapter 219, RSMo, outlines the division's responsibility to also include prevention of delinquency, incentive subsidy to juvenile courts, consultative and information services and technical assistance to local communities.

Organization

The division is administered by the director, who is appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. The division operates structured residential programs providing youth rehabilitation, treatment, and education services through a continuum of secure and moderate care centers and community-based group homes. Nonresidential programs include case management, day treatment, family therapy and youth employment. Five regional administrators are responsible for the programs in their geographical areas. Central office personnel, together with the regional administrators, aid the director in planning, monitoring, and ongoing quality improvement of all agency services.

Goals and Objectives

The vision of Missouri DYS is that every young person served will become a productive citizen and lead a fulfilling life. The mission is to enable youth to fulfill their needs in a responsible manner within the context of and with respect for the needs of the family and community. This balanced approach relies on community partnerships for the development and enhancement of services for the prevention of delinquency.

PHYLLIS BECKER
Director
Division of Youth Services

Methods of Treatment

Each division facility creates a structured environment designed to contribute to positive changes in the student's behavior and attitudes through the provision of group and individualized treatment services, recreation, academic and vocational training. The ultimate goal is to return each youth to his or her home community as a productive, responsible member of society. The division operates as a fully accredited school program, providing high school credits and High School Equivalency Test (HiSET) coursework.

Case Management

A case management system has been developed to provide assessment, treatment planning, coordination of services, monitoring and evaluation of the services for youths and their families. A needs and risk assessment helps the case manager determine the most appropriate services for each youth. The assessment takes into account all pertinent factors involving the youth's delinquent history while identifying the general treatment needs.

Community-Based Services

Focusing on more individualized services and delivering programs at the community level, the division has expanded its program design to include more community-based options. Nonresidential services are provided to low-risk youth as a diversion to residential care and as a supplement to after-care.

Intensive Case Monitoring

This service is provided by employees who monitor a youth's behavior and activities. Community mentors also provide support and counseling to the youth when needed. Great effort is made to ensure the matching of similar personalities and interests of youth and the mentor.

Day Treatment

This service provides a structured alternative educational program that includes traditional academic courses, GED classes, career planning, job placement and community service supported by individual, group and family therapy.

Family Therapy

Family specialists provide counseling to DYS youth and their families. In addition, the family therapy unit accepts referrals from juvenile courts, child welfare agencies, mental health agencies, schools and other sources. DYS family specialists also provide training to other state agency staff and court personnel.

Group Home Programs

Group homes provide the least restrictive residential environment. Staff provide 24-hour supervision in a home-like setting with a capacity for 10 youths. Youth follow a daily schedule with time allowed for interaction with the community (school, jobs and community projects) as well as treatment services within the facility (group, individual and family counseling).

Moderate Care Residential Facilities

Residential facilities provide a structured environment for DYS youth. The residential programs target youth who cannot function well in the community and require a more structured setting. Many of these youth have participated in repeat property offenses and require continuous structure to mature.

The program divides youth into groups of 10 with 24-hour staff supervision. A rigorous school program is provided on-site by full-time teachers offering basic education, GED programming and various remedial/special education activities.

Secure Care Residential Facilities

For those youth who have a history of offenses and require a more structured setting, the division offers programs in secured facilities. Five highly structured, secure-care programs provide on-site educational classes, vocational training and recreational activities. These programs target youth with longer offense records that might include crimes against people. The offenders tend to be older and might include youth who have been unsuccessful in community-based programs. Scheduled outings into the community serve the purpose of involving the youth in community support projects.

An individual education plan, including both youth goals and staff strategies, is developed for each youth. Parents are encouraged to attend these planning meetings.

Dual Jurisdiction

The division also serves youth in secure care programs in Montgomery City, St. Louis and St. Joseph, sentenced under the dual jurisdiction provisions in section 211.073, RSMo. This alternative sentencing provision allows certified youth to receive an adult and juvenile sentence with a suspended execution of the adult sentence. Treatment and educational services are provided to youth whose length of stay is significantly longer than that of other DYS students.

Aftercare

When youth are ready to return to their communities, the division provides services to help them make a smooth transition. Virtually all youth under DYS care enter the aftercare program upon their return to the community. An assigned case manager ensures support services are provided to help each youth enter and re-adjust to community living including referral, supervision and counseling. The primary goal of aftercare is to support youth in becoming law-abiding and productive citizens.

Division of Youth Services Advisory Board

Established in 1974, the DYS Advisory Board is charged with the responsibility to advise the director, the legislature and the general public on all matters pertaining to the operation of the division. The 15-member board consists of citizens from across the state who are dedicated to the prevention of delinquency and the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

The Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT), under the guidance of the Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission, is committed to providing the public with a safe and modern transportation system. MoDOT is responsible for maintaining 33,895 miles of highways and 10,376 bridges throughout the state. In addition to designing, building and maintaining roads and bridges, MoDOT works to improve airports, river ports, railroads, public transit systems and pedestrian and bicycle travel. The agency also administers motor carrier and highway safety programs.

State Highways and Transportation Commission

The Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission is a six-member bipartisan board that guides the Missouri Department of Transportation and is responsible for planning, maintaining and improving the state's transportation systems.

Commission members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Missouri Senate. No more than three commission members may be of the same political party. State law requires six-year terms, with two members replaced every two years.

The commission appoints the Missouri Department of Transportation's director and secretary to the commission.

Director's Office

MoDOT's daily operations are under the direction and supervision of the director, who is appointed by the commission. The MoDOT director is assisted by a chief engineer and an assistant chief engineer, who are in charge of MoDOT's road and bridge design, construction and maintenance activities statewide and a chief financial officer, who is responsible for the financial and administrative operations. The directors of the Chief Counsel's Office, Audits and Investigations, Governmental Relations and Communications also report directly to the department director.

Chief Counsel's Office

The chief counsel is appointed by the MoDOT director with the consent of the Highways and Transportation Commission to handle legal responsibilities for the department and the commission.

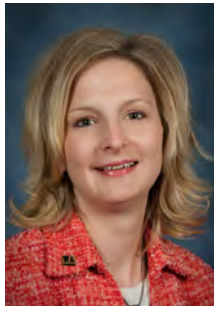
Audits and Investigations

The Audits and Investigations Division performs audits of department operations, external contracts, grant agreements and motor carrier fuel tax returns, and apportioned registrations. The division also investigates fraud, waste and abuse; handles employee grievances and Equal Employment Opportunity complaints; and analyzes competitive bidding practices.

Governmental Relations

The role of Governmental Relations is to work with federal, state and local officials, the public and department staff to advocate the department's objectives by advancing legislative initiatives designed to develop sound public policies relating to all modes of transportation.

Communications



The Communications Division provides information about the commission and the department's projects, programs and services to the public, its partners and MoDOT employees.

District Offices

To facilitate providing the state highways and transportation program, the department divides the state into seven geographical districts: northwest, northeast, Kansas City, central, St. Louis, southwest and southeast. A district engineer administers the department's work within each district.

Northwest District — headquarters, St. Joseph. The district consists of Andrew, Atchison, Buchanan, Caldwell, Carroll, Chariton, Clinton, Daviess, DeKalb, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Holt, Linn, Livingston, Mercer, Nodaway, Putnam, Sullivan and Worth counties. The counties cover a land area of about 10,769 square miles and have a total population of about 280,638 and a total of 5,281 miles of state highways.

Northeast District — headquarters, Hannibal. The district consists of Adair, Audrain, Clark, Knox, Lewis, Lincoln, Macon, Marion, Monroe, Montgomery, Pike, Ralls, Randolph, Schuyler, Scotland, Shelby and Warren counties. The counties cover a land area of about 9,246 square miles, and have a total population of about 292,863 and a total of 4,526 miles of state highways.

Kansas City District — headquarters, Lee's Summit. The district consists of Cass, Clay, Jackson, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis, Platte, Ray and Saline counties. The counties cover a land area of about 5,650 square miles, and have a total population of about 1,259,938 and a total of 3,042 miles of state highways.

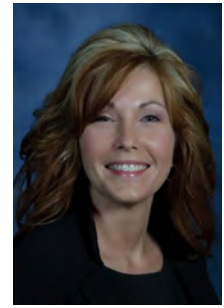
Central District — headquarters, Jefferson City. The district consists of Boone, Callaway, Camden, Cole, Cooper, Crawford, Dent, Gasconade, Howard, Laclede, Maries, Miller, Moniteau, Morgan, Osage, Phelps, Pulaski and Washington counties. The counties cover a land area of about 11,234 square miles, and have a total population of about 652,456 and a total of 5,242 miles of state highways.

St. Louis District — headquarters, Chesterfield. The district consists of the city of St. Louis and Franklin, Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis counties. The district covers a land area of more than 2,700 square miles and has a total population of approximately 2,000,000 and a total of 1,677 miles of state highways.

Southwest District — headquarters, Springfield. The district consists of Barry, Barton, Bates, Benton, Cedar, Christian, Dade, Dallas, Greene, Henry, Hickory, Jasper, Lawrence, McDonald, Newton, Polk, St. Clair, Stone, Taney, Vernon and Webster counties. The counties cover a land area of about 13,274 square miles and have a total population of about 926,656 and a total of 6,533 miles of state highways.

Southeast District — headquarters, Sikeston. The district consists of Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Carter, Douglas, Dunklin, Howell, Iron, Madison, Mississippi, New Madrid, Oregon, Ozark, Pemiscot, Perry, Reynolds, Ripley, Scott, Shannon, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Stoddard, Texas, Wayne and Wright counties. The counties cover a land area of about 16,730 square miles and have a total population of about 577,418 and a total of 7,404 miles of state highways.

Bridge



The Bridge Division produces structural designs and detailed plans for state highway bridges, including cost estimates and site-specific job provisions. The division also oversees the inspection of all state, city and county bridges as well as provides weight limits for all bridges.

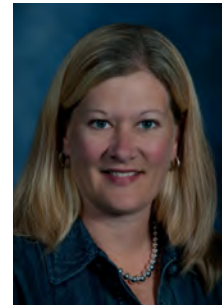
Design

Design prepares roadway plans and advertises projects for bids. Included in plan preparation are determination of state and/or federal funding for projects; ground surveys and aerial photography; public involvement meetings; consideration of social, environmental and economic factors; detailed plan design and the development of specifications; and cost estimates for highway projects prior to advertising for bids.



The division also acquires realty rights for constructing and improving state highways and related facilities. It also disposes of real estate no longer needed for Missouri's transportation system and regulates outdoor advertising and salvage yards.

Construction and Materials

Construction and Materials administers contracts and performs material testing to ensure projects are of high quality, completed on time and within budget. Pavement selection and geotechnical information are provided for the design of roads and bridges. The division also performs research on products and processes to implement innovations for Missouri's transportation system.

Transportation Planning

Transportation Planning is responsible for long-range planning, data administration, road and bridge systems analysis, and planning and programming. The division also develops and tracks the five-year Statewide Transportation Improvement Program, the department's highway and bridge construction program. The division also works to improve MoDOT's efficiency through performance management and to implement the processes, plans and programs to streamline the agency's operations.

EILEEN RACKERS
State Traffic and Highway Safety Engineer

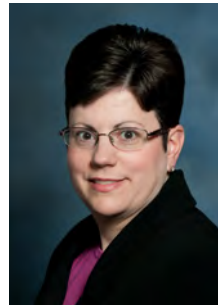
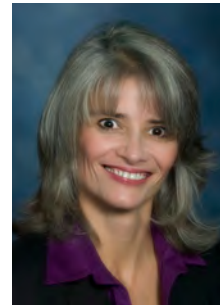
External Civil Rights



The External Civil Rights Division is responsible for directing the department's external affirmative action, equal opportunity and nondiscrimination programs, which includes the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise Program (DBE), On-the-Job Training Program (OJT), Equal Employment Opportunity, Title VI, Americans with Disability Act (ADA) compliance and all other nondiscrimination or affirmative action programs related to federal-aid contracting activities. The division facilitates all DBE and OJT Supportive Services programs statewide, which includes business assistance centers and pre-apprenticeship training programs in Kansas City, Columbia and St. Louis.

Traffic and Highway Safety



The Traffic and Highway Safety Division is responsible for working with safety partners to implement education, enforcement, engineering, emergency medical services strategies and public policies that are proven effective in preventing deaths and injuries from motor vehicle crashes. The division also provides statewide coordination of traffic incident management activities, work zone management, traveler information programs and policy to support signing, striping, traffic signal operations, lighting and roadway access programs throughout the state. These programs provide for the safe and efficient movement of people and goods on the state highway system.

Maintenance

Maintaining state highways and bridges is the primary function of the Maintenance Division. Responsibilities include preservation, upkeep, operation and restoration of roadways, bridges, signs, traffic control equipment and all appropriate facilities so they remain safe and usable.

Multimodal Operations

The Multimodal Operations Division is responsible for administering a number of state and federal programs that fund and support aviation, railroads, transit, waterways and freight development.

Aviation

The aviation section administers federal and state grant programs that help local governments in planning, maintaining and developing existing airports and establishing new facilities.

Railroads

The railroad section is responsible for freight rail regulation, passenger rail support, light rail safety regulation, highway-rail crossing safety, rail/highway construction issues, inspection of railroad employee facilities and railroad safety inspection and outreach.

Transit

The transit section assists in the financial and technical support of the state's public transit and specialized paratransit systems. This function is carried out through the administration of state and federal programs relating to general public transportation and specific programs for nonprofit agencies serving the mobility needs of senior citizens and people with disabilities.

Waterways

The waterways section helps port authorities develop commerce and foster local economic development. The section also promotes the use of Missouri's navigable rivers, assists in capital and administrative funding, acts as an information clearinghouse, provides technical assistance and represents port interests within industry and government.

Motor Carrier Services

Motor Carrier Services administers registration, fuel tax, permit and safety programs for Missouri's motor carrier companies. It collects millions of dollars in revenue to fund transportation statewide, while helping carriers remain economically successful.

Financial Services Division

The Financial Services Division is responsible for the department's budgeting, accounting, financial reporting and financial policy development. The division produces the department's annual comprehensive financial report, which includes the audited financial statements required by statutes. The Financial Services Division is also responsible for managing the department's state and federal funding and facilitating the efficient and accountable use of fiscal resources.

Human Resources

The Human Resources Division develops and administers the department's statewide personnel program. The division conducts recruiting for civil engineering positions and manages statewide efforts related to employment; work-life support; classification, pay and employee training; development; and assessment. Human Resources also develops personnel policy, maintains personnel records for employees and provides support for all personnel activities within the central office location.

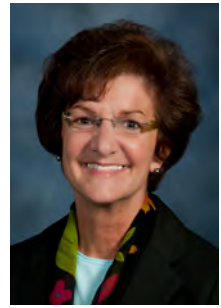
Information Systems

The Information Systems Division provides information technology products, services and support to the department and coordinates its information technology activities. The division develops a comprehensive information technology improvement plan based on department needs and technology research and evaluations.

Equal Opportunity and Diversity

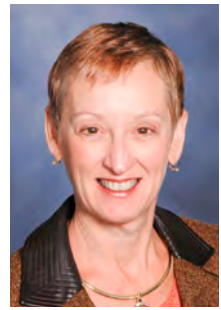


The Equal Opportunity and Diversity Division administers the department's workforce diversity program. This includes outreach, cultural education, cooperative education, mentoring and exit interviews. Additionally, the division coordinates the affirmative action program to comply with federal regulations and state statutes.

General Services

The General Services Division provides support in the management of fleet and facilities and the procurement of goods and services.

Risk and Benefits Management



The Risk and Benefits Management Division oversees MoDOT's medical and life insurance plan and administers the department's insurance operations in the areas of workers' compensation, general liability and fleet vehicle liability. The division also provides collection services for property damage, works to provide a safe and healthful work environment for all MoDOT employees and administers the department's pre-employment/post-offer physical program, and the drug and alcohol-testing program.

Missouri Voting and Elections

Who registers to vote in Missouri?

Citizens living in Missouri must register in order to vote. Any U.S. citizen 17 years and 6 months of age or older, if a Missouri resident, may register to vote in any election held on or after his or her 18th birthday, except:

A person who is adjudged incapacitated;

A person who is confined under sentence of imprisonment;

A person who is on probation or parole after conviction of a felony until finally discharged; or

A person who has been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor connected with the right of suffrage. (Section 115.133, RSMo.)

How do Missourians register?

Qualified citizens may register in person at the office of their local election authority, by mail, at the driver's license fee office or at participating state agencies. Registration in person is accomplished by filling out registration forms with information on identity, residence and qualifications which are signed and sworn to, then witnessed by the election authority or a designee. (Section 115.155, RSMo.)

Registration by mail, at the driver's license fee office or at the participating state agencies requires submission of an application stating qualifications. A verification or rejection of registration is sent by the election authority within seven working days. (Sections 115.155 and 115.159, RSMo.)

When do Missourians register?

An unregistered citizen may register to vote whenever local election officials' places of business are open, by requesting an application by mail from the election authority, when renewing a Missouri driver's license or when receiving services from a participating state agency. Special registration sites and dates may be utilized prior to major elections.

The deadline for registration is the fourth Wednesday prior to an election. New Missouri residents may register immediately. (Section 115.135, RSMo.)

When do Missourians vote?

In addition to certain special and emergency dates, there are six official election dates in Missouri:

The statutes require all public elections be held on the general election day, the primary election day, the general municipal election day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, or on another day expressly provided by city or county charter, and in nonprimary years on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August. (Section 115.123.1, RSMo.)

The general election day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in even-numbered years. The primary election day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August in even-numbered years. (Sections 115.121 (1 & 2), RSMo.)

Elections for cities, towns, villages, school boards and special district officers are held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April each year, known as "general municipal election day." (Section 115.121.3, RSMo.)

A statewide presidential preference primary shall be held on the second Tuesday after the first Monday in March of each presidential election year. (Section 115.755 RSMo.)

Who conducts registration and elections?

Voter registration and the conduct of elections are the responsibilities of boards of election commissioners in the counties of Clay, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis; in the cities of Kansas City and St. Louis; and of the election authority in St. Charles County. The county clerk serves as the election authority in all other counties of the state.

Special voting provisions

Disabled voters and persons prevented from voting at the polls because of absence or illness may vote absentee. Persons with permanent disabilities may apply for permanent absentee ballot status by applying with the local election authority. (Section 115.284, RSMo.) Curbside voting is permitted in Missouri, or voters may be transferred to more accessible precincts. Local election officials should be contacted about absentee federal service balloting or ''new resident'' ballots for residents who arrive after the registration deadline.

When voting, Missourians must show an approved form of identification. (Section 115.427 RSMo.)

Elections and political parties

Missourians do not register under party affiliation. Hence, at primary elections, voters may choose which ''established party'' they vote within. Party nominees—and independent candidates—are then listed on the general election ballot.

There are presently four ''established political parties'' statewide—the Democratic, Republican, Libertarian and Constitution parties. Persons may seek the nomination of these parties for any elective office from the county level and above. In order to become ''established,'' a party must have received more than 2 percent of the votes cast statewide for at least one of its candidates. New parties are formed by petition and may exist on the county, district or state level. They must meet the same standard as any other party to remain "established.''

At the time of primary elections, voters select county committee members of established parties in Missouri. Those committee people, thus elected, have certain duties and responsibilities. They serve, as appropriate, as members of legislative, senatorial, judicial and congressional district committees. County, district or state committee members may be called on to fill candidate vacancies on party ballots or to select nominees for special elections from time to time. The state committees are selected, indirectly, by local committee persons. The state committees become especially important when delegates to presidential nominating (national) conventions are being selected.

Registered voters in Missouri, 2006–2014

*This is the number of registered voters from the Missouri Centralized Voter Registration list as of the November 4, 2014, General Election. This number is subject to change as the local election authorities continue to conduct their ongoing list maintenance activities.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 2

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(First Regular Session) SCS HJR No. 16

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended so that it will be permissible to allow relevant evidence of prior criminal acts to be admissible in prosecutions for crimes of a sexual nature involving a victim under eighteen years of age?

If more resources are needed to defend increased prosecutions additional costs to governmental entities could be at least $1.4 million annually, otherwise the fiscal impact is expected to be limited.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 3

Proposed by Initiative Petition

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to:

- require teachers to be evaluated by a standards based performance evaluation system for which each local school district must receive state approval to continue receiving state and local funding;
- require teachers to be dismissed, retained, demoted, promoted and paid primarily using quantifiable student performance data as part of the evaluation system;
- require teachers to enter into contracts of three years or fewer with public school districts; and
- prohibit teachers from organizing or collectively bargaining regarding the design and implementation of the teacher evaluation system?

Decisions by school districts regarding provisions allowed or required by this proposal and their implementation will influence the potential costs or savings impacting each district. Significant potential costs may be incurred by the state and/or the districts if new/additional evaluation instruments must be developed to satisfy the proposal's performance evaluation requirements.

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session) SS SCS HCS HJR No. 90

OFFICIAL BALLOT TITLE:

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to permit voting in person or by mail for a period of six business days prior to and including the Wednesday before the election day in general elections, but only if the legislature and the governor appropriate and disburse funds to pay for the increased costs of such voting?

State governmental entities estimated startup costs of about $2 million and costs to reimburse local election authorities of at least $100,000 per election. Local election authorities estimated higher reimbursable costs per election. Those costs will depend on the compensation, staffing, and, planning decisions of election authorities with the total costs being unknown.

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session) HJR No. 72

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to require the governor to pay the public debt, to prohibit the governor from relying on revenue from legislation not yet passed when proposing a budget, and to provide a legislative check on the governor's decisions to restrict funding for education and other state services?

State governmental entities expect no direct costs or savings. Local governmental entities expect an unknown fiscal impact.

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(First Regular Session)
CCS No. 2 SS HCS HJR Nos. 11 & 7

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to ensure that the right of Missouri citizens to engage in agricultural production and ranching practices shall not be infringed?

The potential costs or savings to governmental entities are unknown, but likely limited unless the resolution leads to increased litigation costs and/or the loss of federal funding.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 5

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session)
SCS SJR No. 36

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to include a declaration that the right to keep and bear arms is a unalienable right and that the state government is obligated to uphold that right?

State and local governmental entities should have no direct costs or savings from this proposal. However, the proposal's passage will likely lead to increased litigation and criminal justice related costs. The total potential costs are unknown, but could be significant.

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session)
SS HJR No. 68

Should the Missouri Constitution be changed to enact a temporary sales tax of three-quarters of one percent to be used solely to fund state and local highways, roads, bridges and transportation projects for ten years, with priority given to repairing unsafe roads and bridges?

This change is expected to produce $480 million annually to the state's Transportation Safety and Job Creation Fund and $54 million for local governments. Increases in the gas tax will be prohibited. This revenue shall only be used for transportation purposes and cannot be diverted for other uses.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 8

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session)
HJR No. 48

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to create a "Veterans Lottery Ticket" and to use the revenue from the sale of these tickets for projects and services related to veterans?

The annual cost or savings to state and local governmental entities is unknown, but likely minimal. If sales of a veterans lottery ticket game decrease existing lottery ticket sales, the profits of which fund education, there could be a small annual shift in funding from education to veterans' programs.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 9

Proposed by the 97th General Assembly
(Second Regular Session)
SCS SJR No. 27

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended so that the people shall be secure in their electronic communications and data from unreasonable searches and seizures as they are now likewise secure in their persons, homes, papers and effects?

State and local governmental entities expect no significant costs or savings.
